Mere Filing of New Schedules Will Not Raise Statutory Rate, Says Decision.

COMMISSION RULING UPHELD

CURB ON OTHER PLEAS SEEN

Transit Commissioners View Victory as Foreshadowing Outcome of Interborough Case.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 8.—Permission to increase their fare from 5 to 7 cents was refused to street railway lines in New York City today by the terms of a decision of the Court of Appeals, which affirmed two orders of the Appellate Division, First Department, dismissing a writ of certiorari and affirming a decision of the Transit Commissioners in denying an application for an increased fare schedule.

The decision, handed down by a unanimous court, upheld the contention of the Transit Commission that carriers could not legally increase fares originally fixed by statute by merely filing new rate schedules under Section 29 of the Public Service Commission law, but must make formal application under Section 49.

Public utilities experts and counsel consider the ruling one of great importance not only in New York City, where it will tend to block a flood of higher fare schedules by surface car lines, but also throughout the United States, because many States have embodied the provisions of the New York law in their public utility regulation statutes.

The decision is also regarded as highly important because of its possible bearing on the pending litigation in which the Interborough Rapid Transit Company seeks a seven-cent fare for its combined subway and elevated system. The company filed new schedules with the Transit Commission two years ago under Section 29, the same provision under which the surface car lines acted. The Transit Commission believes that the Court of Appeals ruling applies to the Interborough case, and will be applied when it reaches the Appellate Division.

Judge Irving Lehman wrote the court's opinion in the cases of the Dry Dock, East Broadway & Battery Railroad Company and the Third Avenue Railway Company, while the court wrote a per curiam opinion in the case of the New York & Queens County Railway. The per curiam opinion is based on the opinion written by Judge Lehman.

Judge Lehman's Opinion.

Judge Lehman wrote as follows:

The Dry Dock, East Broadway & Battery Railroad Company, commonly known as the Dry Dock Company, is a street railroad corporation which owns and operates lines of railroads on the streets of the city of New York. Franchises for these lines were granted by the Legislature by special statutes (Chapter 512 of the laws of 1860; Chapters 866, 868 and 883 of the laws of 1866). The Legislature has enacted that "the railroad company shall receive not to exceed the sum of 5 cents" for the carriage of a passenger on its lines.

In 1913 the street railroad company obtained a franchise from the city of New York to construct single-track extension of its railroad. Like the original franchise granted by the Legislature, the franchise from the city was subject to the restriction that the rate of fare for any passenger should not exceed 5 cents.

Prior to June 22, 1928, a local and joint passenger tariff was on file with the Transit Commission, stating the rate of fare on the lines operated by the Dry Dock Company to be 5 cents, with free transfers between the lines of the Dry Dock Company and the Third Avenue Railroad Company. On that date the street railroad companies filed a new tariff schedule to become effective on July 24, 1928, changing the rate of fare from 5 cents to 7 cents for the passengers on the lines operated by the Third Avenue Railroad Company. The extension line for which the Dry Dock Company received a franchise in 1913 is no longer in operation and is not included in the tariff schedule filed by the railroad companies.

Section 29 of the Public Service Commission law provides that "unless the commission otherwise orders, no change shall be made in any rate, fare or charge or joint rate, fare or charges which shall have been filed and published by a common carrier * * * except after

UPSET FOR M'DONALD IS FEARED TONIGHT

LIBERALS MAY NOT FOLLOW

Premier Is Confident He Can Avoid Defeat, but Troubles Loom on Other Issues.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, is expected to vote with the Conservatives in the House of Commons tomorrow night against the MacDonald Government in an important division on the finance bill. In the opinion of Tom Kennedy, chief Labor whip, defeat on the new Liberal income tax clause would mean the downfall of the government, but much depends on whether the Liberals will go the whole way in this crisis of their own making.

The move the Liberals will make is to exempt companies from income tax on that part of their profits devoted to re-equipment of factories and replenishment of plant machinery.

How it has come about that Mr. Lloyd George should undertake an attack on the government at this particular moment has every one guessing, including many of his own followers, who feel they have been stampeded into a hastily prepared attempt to overthrow the government. In the circumstances the Liberals are not likely to enter the division as a united party, and Prime Minister MacDonald is fairly confident he can sidestep trouble without much difficulty. The major question is whether there is a breach between Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. MacDonald.

The Liberals have made it plain that the new clause has been introduced in order to assist in a revival of industry and to reduce unemployment, but members of all parties are pointing out that Mr. Lloyd George had gone into a two-party conference with Mr. MacDonald on these special subjects and that there had been no open admission that the conference yet had broken down.

It is significant that a number of Labor members who attended the Labor party meeting on unemployment today left with the impression that Mr. MacDonald had declared that Mr. Lloyd George had not submitted any schemes which had not already been examined and rejected. This interpretation was officially denied later, but there is no doubt that the Labor party, as a whole, gained the impression that nothing of any special value could be expected to emerge from the discussion between the government and Liberal leaders. They felt this might be one of the reasons why Mr. Lloyd George proposed to return to the rôle of critic rather than supporter of the government.

The Daily Herald, official organ of the MacDonald party, will complain tomorrow on Mr. Lloyd George's "many moods—unaccountable as those of a prima donna," and will

WALKER APPOINTS 16 TO MAKE AN INQUIRY INTO WALSH BOARD

BALDWIN IS NOT SATISFIED

But Loses Motion Before Aldermen for an Investigation by Municipal Assembly.

CRAIN ACTS ON WALSH LOAN

While the Board of Aldermen was shouting down a Republican demand for a Municipal Assembly investigation of the Board of Standards and Appeals Mayor Walker announced yesterday the appointment of a committee of sixteen representatives of civic, professional and trade organizations to inquire into the workings of the board.

Letters inviting the prospective committee members to serve were sent out by the Mayor's office and no declinations are expected, as the names of all had previously been submitted by the organizations to the Mayor along with other possible selections. The organizations, all of which have a vital interest in the procedure and decisions of the Board of Standards and Appeals, each suggested three or four names, from which the Mayor made his choice.

The committee will hold its first meeting to organize on July 17 at 3 P. M. in City Hall. It will elect its own chairman, determine its procedure and listen to an address by the Mayor.

While given full authority to overhaul the activities of the board and to recommend a complete reorganization if necessary, the committee will not be concerned with criminal phases of the present inquiries. As Mayor Walker described the purpose of the committee, it will be "to study and invite criticism and suggestions for improving the structure and scope of the Board of Standards and Appeals."

It will not interfere with grand jury investigations, he said. He added the suggestion that much of the criticism of the board might have arisen from its procedure and rules, a condition which could be remedied by changes in the law. For aid in drafting such remedial legislation Robert C. Cummings, former State bill drafting commissioner, will be at the disposal of the committee.

The committee members and the organizations they represent follow:

STEPHEN F. VOORHEES, the Merchants' Association.
D. EVERETT WADE, American Institute of Architects.
RILEY GORDON, New York Society of Architects.
C. B. SPENCER, New York Society of Civil Engineers.
ROBERT D. KOHN, New York Building Congress.
FRED HULSE of Eidlitz & Hulse, the Bar Association.
IRVING J. WALSH, Real Estate Board of Brokers.
J. L. HERNON, Building Owners and Managers Association.
JOSEPH A. MULLANEY, Central Trades Labor Union.
JOHN LEDDY, Building Trades Employers' Association.
STEWART BROWNE, United Real Estate Owners' Association.
BASSETT JONES, Elevator Designers and Engineers.
FRANK BRUTSCHY, Master Plumbers' Association.
E. P. BOONE, Fire Insurance Exchange.

Tale of a Southern Hoax on Roosevelt Caused the Recall of Owen Wister's Book

The answer to the literary riddle of why Owen Wister's new book, "Theodore Roosevelt, the Story of a Friendship, 1880-1919," was withdrawn from circulation last month was discovered yesterday. Also yesterday the MacMillan Company, which published it, announced that the book would go on sale tomorrow in a revised form.

It was, after all, no weighty revelation of State secrets, no criticism of contemporary statesmen that led to the book's withdrawal, as was hinted when the publishers hastily recalled copies issued in advance of its scheduled publication date. Instead, the trouble which led to the withdrawal lay in a story in the book about the rival hostesses of a Southern city a quarter of a century or so ago. It was a pretty story told against a background of wistaria vines, garden parties and pompadours.

By a ruse, or what was alleged to be a ruse, one of the matrons succeeded in inducing the former President to enter her home while he was visiting the city. Outwitted by what they considered an unfair stratagem the other ladies were furious. Mr Roosevelt, according to the story, upon hearing several months later that he had been imposed upon by his gracious hostess, was not pleased. However, the rest of the world was undisturbed—if the matter ever came to its attention at all.

Anyway, Mr. Wister related the story in his book. He also cited what he had heard about other instances of the lady's resourcefulness in celebrity hunting and entertaining. The result was an intimation that the new book would probably produce a libel suit.

"Yet, the book had been printed, bound and distributed. In another day or two it would be for sale. Mr. Wister was abroad. The publishers consulted their attorneys. There was nothing to do but delay circulation until Mr. Wister could be consulted. Finally, this was done. The objectionable portions have been taken out.

In announcing yesterday that the book finally was ready for distribution, officials of the MacMillan Company maintained their policy of silence regarding the real nature of the "circumstances beyond their control," which led to the delay in publication. Nor would they reveal how much of the passages to which the lady objected had been deleted. Perhaps one amusing passage has been left.

When Mr. Wister told Mr. Roosevelt some months later how and why his Southern hostess had succeeded, the President's face, he says, "flushed darker than I had ever seen it. Then he shut his teeth with that familiar snap of his, as he said:

" 'That is exactly how it happened.'

City's Population 6,955,084 in Final Census; Gain Is 1,335,036, or 23%, in Ten Years

With the completion of the count in the First Assembly District in the Bronx yesterday, New York's census was finished and a final tabulation of reports from the various census supervisors gave the city a total population of 6,955,084, an increase of 1,335,036 since 1920.

Though reports have been received from all census supervisors in all the five boroughs of the city, a checking of the figures locally or in Washington may lead to a revision of the total, it was said. However, it is not expected that the figures will be changed materially. An estimate of the city's population made to Dr. Walter Laidlaw, executive secretary of the cities census committee, on June 30 before the final figure for the missing Bronx district was announced, placed the total for the five boroughs at about 6,960,000.

The figures announced yesterday for the First Assembly District gave that area a population of 101,679, thus bringing the Bronx total to 1,266,732, an increase in the last ten years of 534,716. Despite the general increase of the Bronx, the First District itself dropped 8,636 since 1920.

This decrease was attributed by Ernest W. Bradbury, supervisor for the Twenty-fifth Census District, to the increase of factories and railroad rights of way in the First Assembly District. Other districts in the Bronx have been building up in a residential way, he said.

Mr. Bradbury, in announcing figures for the First District, revised the total previously made public for the Second Assembly District, changing them from 222,466 to 222,664. Another correction lowered the total for the Fourth Assembly District in Queens from 298,375 to 295,520.

Borough.	1920.	1930.	Incr.	Per Cent.
Manhattan	2,284,103	1,856,588	*427,515	*18

*Decrease.

EWALD OFF BENCH; FACES TAX INQUIRY

FILES AN 'AMENDED' RETURN

Tuttle to Hunt 1928 and 1929 Forms—Corrigan to Lodge Charges if Warranted.

Magistrate George F. Ewald yesterday joined the ranks of those who in the past year have stepped down from the bench because of investigation of their extra-judicial activities. Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan announced in the morning, after a conference at which Magistrate Ewald was not present, that the magistrate had requested to be relieved of his duties until "the situation in the Federal courts is cleared up."

The "situation"—the indictment of Magistrate Ewald and five others on charges of using the mails to defraud, in connection with the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc.—brought Magistrate Ewald before Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson in Federal Court a little later in the day. He pleaded not guilty, bail was fixed at $2,000, and at the request of United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, the case was set for trial on Aug. 4.

"Amended" Tax Return Filed.

Mr. Tuttle announced last night that at some time during the day, presumably after a conference with former Judge Alfred Talley, Mr. Ewald's advisory counsel, an "amended" income tax return for 1929 had been filed on behalf of Magistrate Ewald. Mr. Tuttle said that as far as he knew no income tax returns had been filed by the magistrate for either 1928 or 1929, and he therefore set his staff to work to ascertain if the return really were an amended one or the first one filed.

Magistrate Ewald would pay no tax on his $12,000 salary as a magistrate, and it was presumed the income was, in part at least, the $12,000 he is charged in the indictments with having received as commission from the sale of Cotter Butte Mines stock. Although Magistrate Ewald has stepped off the bench his salary as a magistrate will continue, Chief Magistrate Corrigan said yesterday.

In response to questions last night, Mr. Tuttle said that the filing of an income tax return by Magistrate Ewald at this late date would not nullify the penalties prescribed by statute for income tax evasion, if no original return had been filed.

Mr. Tuttle announced during the day that he had subpoenaed the records from the magistrate's court pertaining to cases listed in an alleged docket belonging to the magistrate. This docket showed requests from political leaders for leniency in the disposition of cases which are supposed to have come before Magistrate Ewald on the Traffic Court bench.

Has Papers in Badger Case.

The first batch of papers subpoenaed, which Mr. Tuttle had in his hand as he talked to newspaper men last night, referred to the case of William Badger, who was a witness before the grand jury that indicted Magistrate Ewald and his co-defendants. The indictment alleged that Badger had been acquitted on a third speeding offense by Magistrate Ewald after Abe April, a friend of Badger, bought from the magistrate $1,000 of Cotter Butte stock. The magistrate's commission on this was $250, the indictment charged.

The records Mr. Tuttle had were complete for the first arrest, for speeding, on May 6, 1928. There was a summons, a warrant when Badger failed to appear, and the original complaint. Badger appeared before Magistrate Dreyer and paid a $25 fine. For the second offense there was nothing but the original complaint, and the disposition of the case. The summons was missing. In this case Badger appeared before

OTTINGER ASSAILS ROOSEVELT AS 'LAX'

Opens All-Summer Republican Drive by Charging Governor With Inaction on Graft.

CITY LEADERS BACK INQUIRY

Steinbrink and Others in Party See Executive Weakened by Move for Special Session.

The charge that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt had protected Democratic graft in New York City by failing to direct a State investigation was made last night by former Attorney General Ottinger in a radio speech broadcast from Station WMCA.

Mr. Ottinger, who as the Republican candidate for Governor was defeated by Governor Roosevelt two years ago, asserted that the latter, while posing as non-partisan and a reformer, had been busily engaged in attempts to discover Republican malfeasance, but had avoided the exposure of Democratic wrongdoing. Mr. Ottinger also characterized the Governor as a complete failure as an Executive.

The speech by Mr. Ottinger was hailed by leaders of the Republican State organization as the opening of an aggressive campaign which they propose to make during the Summer against the Governor, who will be a candidate for re-election. Although the speech was not endorsed officially by the Republican State Committee, it was learned that it had been read and approved by State Chairman William J. Maier and other party leaders. Mr. Ottinger was introduced by Irwin Kurtz, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the New York County Republican Committee, who said the speech was made at the request of the State committee.

Ottinger Seen as Candidate.

In some quarters the speech, with the accusations against the Governor being made in the first person, was construed as indicating that Mr. Ottinger might aspire to another Gubernatorial nomination. This impression was heightened by the concluding paragraph, in which Mr. Ottinger said that he made no indictment against Tammany, many members of which, he added, were ready to revolt against conditions in the administration of a so-called reformer who, in the past, had been intolerantly anti-Tammany.

In his specific accusations against the Governor, Mr. Ottinger listed his failure to act in the murder of Arnold Rothstein, either to find the murderer or to disclose the connection between Rothstein and politicians and gambling and drug rings. He also assailed the Governor's failure to act in the murder of William d'Olier, a witness in the Queens sewer inquiry; his failure to investigate the selling of bad meat to New York City, his failure to institute an investigation of city pier leases and his failure to take action on complaints of conditions in the magistrates' courts and the Board of Standards and Appeals.

Reviewing the State administration, Mr. Ottinger attacked Governor Roosevelt for doing nothing to relieve overcrowding in prisons, which, he held was the primary cause of riots. He also assailed him for the scandal in the State Banking Department, resulting in the conviction of Frank H. Warder, then superintendent; for the alleged failure of the State's building program and bungling in the construction of bridges across the Hudson River at Poughkeepsie and across South Bay near Whitehall.

Mr. Ottinger also charged that Governor Roosevelt was trying to make a political issue of water power and "to get to Washington by way of the Niagara River."

"What is needed today in these parlous times is conscientious, fearless leadership rather than the cringing politician who would subject himself to every catchpenny phrase

REGRETS RECENT TROUBLES

CEREMONY FULL OF COLOR

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—King George used the opening of London's new India House today as the occasion to appeal for a new and wider sympathy between the peoples of Great Britain and India.

His speech abounded in friendly references to India's "assured place among the great peoples of the earth," to her position as part of the British commonwealth of sister nations and to the deep anxiety with which he and all the friends of India are watching the present turbulent situation.

Yet the occasion was so official and so ceremonious on the King's visit to the new building that something more was expected of the royal address. There had even been rumors that he would make a frank appeal for conciliation such as he made in Belfast at the height of the Irish troubles in 1921, when the words "forgive and forget" had a profound influence in hastening the Irish treaty.

Today, however, he referred only in general terms to "this critical period of India's history," and expressed the hope that "every race and creed would be united in one desire to bring peace and contentment to my Indian people."

Nothing had been omitted to make today's ceremony imposing and the setting at least was there for a historic gesture. The King and Queen, with W. Wedgwood Benn, Secretary of State for India, had driven in open carriages through the dense crowds from Buckingham Palace to the new India House, which stands on Aldwych, just off the Strand. Indian princes and princesses in colored robes and jeweled turbans awaited the King's arrival, and inside the great library there was the flash of the uniforms of generals, admirals and government officials.

A golden key was presented to the King by Sir Herbert Baker, architect of the new $1,600,000 building which will house the offices of the High Commissioner for India and his staff. As the King and Queen walked into the library four Indian officers sprang to attention at each side of the dais, two wearing black and gold turbans and light red uniforms lined with gold, the others in black with black fezzes. They were the King's Indian orderlies and they emphasized the fact that he was appearing not only as a King but as Emperor of India and the sovereign of 300,000,000 Oriental subjects.

Text of King's Address.

The King's address follows:

A quarter century has passed since the Queen and I paid our first memorable visit to India. In that time India has never lost her hold upon my affections and sympathy. There have been many changes and some dark days but I rejoice to think that through

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Two quorum calls in the Senate today revealed only one more than the necessary forty-nine members present to transact business, and naval treaty advocates showed some concern.

Two members will leave tomorrow, Senators Barkley of Kentucky and Connally of Texas, both Democrats. They are going as American delegates to the Interparliamentary Union conference in London.

Before leaving, Senator Barkley spoke briefly today in behalf of the treaty, urging its ratification in the interest of peace. He feared rejection of the treaty would invite a "disastrous naval race," he said.

OPPOSITION FIRST TO ACT

VOTES ARE SET FOR TODAY

Borah and Others Back Demand for Documents to Bring Issue to a Quick Decision.

STIMSON ACTIVE ON FLOOR

He Confers With Leaders as Virginian Urges Ratification of Naval Accord as Peace Step.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The McKellar resolution requesting the President to transmit to the Senate all documents bearing on the London naval conference was the subject of a heated debate in the Senate this afternoon and the talk was still going top speed when at 5 o'clock the Senate adjourned until noon tomorrow.

Previously, for more than two hours, Senator Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia, held the floor while he delivered a carefully prepared speech in which he urged ratification of the treaty. When the Virginian concluded, the opposition insisted that the McKellar resolution have the right of way. Then the fight was on.

Secretary of State Stimson was on the Senate floor or in the Republican cloakroom, often in conference with administration leaders of the Senate, during most of the afternoon. Cabinet members have the privilege of the floor of both branches of Congress, and while, now and then, some take advantage of the privilege, none in the galleries this afternoon could recall a visit by a Cabinet member so prolonged as was that of Mr. Stimson.

The Secretary was continually on the go, and when he was not talking with one or more Senators on the floor he was the centre of little groups behind the closed doors of the cloakroom. Senators Reed, Watson and Walcott were the Republicans with whom he did most of his talking. On at least one occasion Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, and with Senator Reed a member of the delegation at London, was called in. Senator Robinson is looked on as one of the strongest treaty proponents.

Opposition on the Alert.

The fact that the head of the American delegation to the London conference was on the floor and in contact with the administration leaders did not deter the opposition from calling up, at the first opportune moment, the resolution offered by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, calling for the secret papers which the Secretary, by direction of the President, had refused to send to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

It was quickly apparent that the resolution had the support of some Senators who favor ratification, among them Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. Mr. Borah said he saw no objection to its passage, adding that, in his opinion, the Senate was entitled to the documents.

Some pro-treaty Senators are backing the resolution to get it out of the way quickly for the real debate on the pact.

The first move for the treaty came from the Democratic side when Senator Robinson of Arkansas offered an amendment to the resolution to the effect that the Senate desired the papers only in the event that their submission was not incompatible with the public interest.

Senator McKeller promptly refused to accept the amendment and proceeded in a long speech to explain why.

Mr. McKellar's stand means possibly two roll-calls tomorrow, the first on the Robinson amendment and, in the event it is defeated, the second on the resolution as drafted by the Senator from Tennessee. Many friends of the treaty were frankly skeptical this afternoon of their ability to defeat the resolution.

Plans of the treaty forces to speed up action were indicated just before adjournment, when Senator Borah announced that tomorrow he would move that, beginning Thursday, the Senate meet at 11 A. M. instead of noon. With the McKellar resolution pending and the Borah motion coming, tomorrow promises to be a barren day so far as discussion of the treaty itself is concerned.

When the Senate convened Senator Swanson was immediately recog-

20 SENATORS JOIN TO OUST HUSTON

HE MAY CONSULT HOOVER

White House Denies Acting Chairmanship Has Been Offered to Kingsley of Vermont.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A move among Republican Senators to force Claudius H. Huston to retire as chairman of the Republican National Committee was thought tonight to be of such force as to cause a show-down when party chiefs meet here Thursday, ostensibly to plan the coming Senatorial and Congressional campaign.

Possibly twenty Senators, led chiefly by the so-called Young Guard, guardians of the Hoover policies in the Senate, called upon Senator Watson, party leader in the upper house, today in protest against Mr. Huston continuing as chairman.

They are said to have asked Mr. Watson to lay this protest before the conference Thursday as coming from the Republican membership of the Senate or to present it to President Hoover at the White House.

Watson May Consult Hoover.

Senator Watson may convey the opinion of his colleagues to the President tomorrow, in advance of Thursday's meeting, it was believed in some quarters. At any rate, Senator Watson is known to believe that the majority sentiment among Republican Senators is behind the ouster move, and this has added to the weight of opinion that something is to happen at Thursday's parley.

The activity among the Senators was obviously brought about by the report which followed Mr. Huston's visit to the White House Sunday night that he had no intention of relinquishing the party helm. The chairman's attitude was taken as one of defiance and, incidentally, received with some surprise.

Many prominent Republicans, among them several of the Senatorial group, had hoped that the rather embarrassing situation would be straightened out if and when Mr.

Theatre Parking Ban Lifted for Summer; Mulrooney Weighs New Rules for Trucking

Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced yesterday that the ban on parking in the Times Square district between 7:30 and 9 P. M. would be lifted until Sept. 1, as his observers had found that traffic in the theatrical district was not noticeably congested by the elimination of the ban for a week's trial, which has just ended.

Commissioner Mulrooney explained that since many theatres are closed through the Summer months, traffic is greatly reduced in the zone bordered by Sixth and Eighth Avenues, Forty-second and Fiftieth Streets, but that it will be necessary to resume the restrictions in the Fall.

A delegation which included representatives of the General Postoffice, the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Fifth Avenue Association and several hotels in the Pennsylvania traffic zone called upon Commissioner Mulrooney yesterday to request him to continue the regulations for that zone installed by Commissioner Whalen. Commissioner Mulrooney, who had been asked last week by a committee of property owners from the district to modify the regulations, said that the matter was still under advisement. He hinted, however, that no change would be made.

Representatives of about 150 owners of fleets of automobile trucks conferred yesterday with Commissioner Mulrooney at headquarters in response to his invitation to discuss ways of reducing congestion caused by the backing of trucks against curbs, particularly in the downtown section, to permit loading or unloading.

Commissioner Mulrooney suggested that the installation of side doors in the trucks to permit them to load and unload while parked parallel to the curbs would greatly reduce the congestion. In addition to causing traffic delays, he said, the present practice leads to the honking of many automobile horns and thus increases the unnecessary noise in the city.

Spokesmen for the truck owners objected to the expense involved in altering their trucks. They also declared that it was already difficult for drivers to find enough space along a curb to permit them to back in, and that if the drivers had to find enough space for parking parallel many more delays would be caused. It was also pointed out that long articles such as planking could be unloaded only from the rear.

After the conference Commissioner Mulrooney said that the matter would be taken under advisement, with the probability that new police regulations covering truck operation would be promulgated. With the commissioner at the conference were First Deputy Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt, Chief Inspector John O'Brien and Deputy Chief Inspector William A. Coleman.

Ratification of Treaty Urged by Senator Swanson nized to make the opening plea for ratification. He read from a manuscript of more than 15,000 words. He asked at the start that he be not interrupted, promising to answer any questions when he finished reading the speech. The result was that he escaped the usual "heckling" which crowded galleries had expected would enliven the hours he held the floor.

Senator Swanson said that the best interests of the country demanded ratification of the pact. It might have been a better treaty, he admitted, but it did not follow for that reason that this was not a good treaty. He called the agreement promotive of peace, conducive of good-will among nations and the beginning, he hoped, of "a more complete treaty for the limitation of naval armament."

When Vice President Curtis announced that the McKellar resolution was the business before the Senate, Senator Borah took the floor to voice his sympathy with the resolution.

"I desire to say," he said, "that so far as passing a resolution calling for the papers is concerned, I have no objection to it myself, and I do not believe that there is any objection, generally speaking, to such a resolution.

"I think the Senate is entitled to call for these papers, and I can see no reason why we should not ask for them; but the objection which has been raised to this resolution consists of the fact of leaving out the words, 'if not incompatible with the public interest.'

"I have looked up the precedents with reference to resolutions calling for information touching treaties. There is no difference in the form of the resolution so far as I can learn. The resolution which we passed calling for the papers in 1922 in connection with the naval conference treaty of that year was addressed to the President in that language."

Usual Address to President.

"Is that the general form used in the passage of resolutions?" asked Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

"I have not been able to find any exception to the rule," said Senator Borah. "I have found where the heads of departments were addressed it has been left out; but where the President was addressed I have found no exception to the rule.

"As I say, I think we ought to have the papers; that is to say, we ought to ask for them. It is doubtless within the power of the President to refuse them, but we ought to ask for them. I think this resolution should have the form that we usually adopt, but I do not mean to intimate that if it does not have that form I would oppose it."

Senator Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, wanted to know whether the papers, if transmitted, were to be discussed in open or in executive session. In the event that a public discussion was anticipated, he would vote against the resolution, he said.

"So far as I am concerned," said Senator Robinson of Arkansas, "I should be glad to have everything escaped in here and considered by the Senate. There is not an act that I performed, there is not a negotiation that I carried on, that might not just as well be made public as kept secret, and I am not at all opposed to asking the President to send the documents that have been reserved down to the Senate.

"It is my suggestion, however, that we might conform to the ordinary form employed in such cases; but if Senators want to make an exception in this case and make a demand on the President without regard to the rule relating to compatibility with the public interest, I am not going to object to it."

Johnson Argues for Resolution.

Senator Johnson, leader in the fight against the pact, gained the floor at this juncture and proceeded to make the principal argument in favor of the passage of the resolution.

"It was my intention," Senator Johnson said, "to offer a few feeble remarks concerning the message of the President that was sent down here yesterday; but I deem of so much greater importance this resolution that I wish to devote myself to it, and to do it in such fashion that we may have upon the records of the Senate of the United States a precedent for all time hereafter.

"I do not care whether there be inserted in the resolution one form of words or another. It is a matter of some indifference to me whether the papers, if sent down here, shall be considered in closed executive session, or open executive session. The point is far beyond either the mere phraseology of the resolution or how subsequently the documents may be treated.

"If the resolution be adopted in its present form, it is easy enough for the Chief Executive of the nation to say to the Senate that he believes it incompatible with the public interest to send down the particular papers, and all that will be accomplished by the insertion of such an amendment in the resolution he can accomplish by the same conventional or set words.

Says Issue Is Important.

"The question is broader and it is bigger, and in this particular aspect it presents something that is far beyond the mere matter with which we may have dealt in ordinary requests of the departments or in ordinary requests of the President of the United States in respect to documents.

"Here is a treaty perhaps not very greatly opposed upon the floor of the Senate, but thank God, it is opposed by some men who believe that it is inimical to the best interests of the United States and who are willing, in the face of any kind of a press drubbing or any kind of partisan lashing, to stand here upon this floor and make their fight as they believe it ought to be made in behalf of their country."

The Senate, in the exercise of its duties as one of the treaty-making branches of the government, Mr. Johnson continued, was entitled to "every scrap, every single particle of information" that related to a treaty.

He recalled when, at the appearance of Admiral Hilary P. Jones before the Committee on Foreign Relations, Senator Robinson of Arkansas made public an official memorandum of the Navy General Board to the Secretary of the Navy, in the course of which the board referred to and, in some instances, quoted from official documents transmitted to this government by Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain.

If the committee, and therefore the Senate, was entitled to parts of the treaty documents it was entitled to all, Senator Johnson insisted.

Would Observe Needed Secrecy.

"This is not a question of confidence," he went on. "This is not a question of observing secrecy. Every man upon this floor has sufficient discretion, I take it, to observe what he should of the conventions when it comes to the disclosure of any matter that may be submitted to the United States Senate, and if it be absolutely essential under any circumstances to go into secret executive session because of the character of the information that may be conveyed, doubtless the Senate would desire that to be done and doubtless a motion to that effect could be carried.

"It is not a question of observing inviolate what may be given to us or to one or another as the case may be. When men come into this body representing their sovereign States, it cannot be written that one man may be trusted forsooth, as yesterday was said of the Senator from Pennsylvania, with all the documents relating to a treaty, but that another Senator could only be trusted to look at those documents in his custody and refrain from talking to any of his colleagues in regard to those documents.

"That makes of one sort of man in the United States Senate one kind of character and makes of all the rest of the men in the United States Senate another and a different kind of character.

"I yield to every man upon the floor the respect and regard to which I think his high position entitles him. I say though that we are all here of one quality. No one man has the right, no matter how superior he may be, no one man has the right to arrogate to himself the custody of that which is important in the making of a treaty and deny to all his fellows, unless accepted as a boon and privilege from him.

"I declined yesterday to accept that boon and privilege. I shall decline it continuously during the debate upon this particular subject."

Has Tilt With Glenn.

Answering a question by Senator Glenn, Republican, of Illinois, Senator Johnson said that if President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald discussed battleships and cruisers "on the Rapidan," the Senate was entitled to know about it.

"There are some of us who do not do exactly as we are told," Mr. Johnson asserted at one point in his tilt with Senator Glenn.

Senator Johnson next read from dispatches relating to the London conference, printed in newspapers in England, the United States and Japan. He gave considerable time to the Japanese press, which, he said, often received government subsidies. One of these Japanese papers intimated that a "gentleman's agreement" was made with the American delegation by which the United States would not build the last three of its allotted 8-inch cruisers prior to 1933, but would lay one down in 1933, another in 1934 and the eighteenth in 1935.

Senator Reed interrupted to assert that there was not a word of truth in the story. Senator Johnson replied that he took the word of the American delegate, but he added that a great many in Japan believe the story.

Senator Reed also denied the truth of some articles which, he said, were published in the United States. The cruisers provided for in the treaty were to be built under the provisions of the treaty and exactly as provided in the treaty, Mr. Reed said.

Dispute Arises on Cruisers.

A lively interchange as to American cruiser strength, in which Senators Reed and Hale had the leading parts, followed. Mr. Reed said the United States had two 8-inch-gun cruisers of 10,000 tons each and Mr. Hale corrected to say that we had five and would have had fifteen by 1934, whether the London conference was held or not.

Near the close of the debate the alleged "gentleman's agreement" cropped up again, and Senator Walsh of Montana suggested that it might be a wise thing to ask the Secretary of State about it. Senator Johnson replied that his understanding was that Mr. Stimson had already denied the story with "positiveness and directness."

"We ask in this resolution," concluded Senator Johnson, "for all the papers which may pertain and may be relevant to the treaty. We have some locked up down in the Foreign Relations Committee, which, because they are given to us secretly, we are not permitted to use. We are in a situation into which this body never ought to permit itself to get and in which it cannot continue without a loss, it seems to me, of its dignity and of its self-respect.

"I honestly think that the resolution ought to be passed, and it ought to be passed instanter. Let the President respond as he sees fit, and when he responds, if it be necessary, the Senate may act then as it may deem proper in the premises."

For a few minutes it seemed that a vote on the resolution was to be had. Then Senator Robinson submitted his amendment to add the words, "if not incompatible with the public interest," and the debate gained a new lease of life.

Senator McKellar, in his plea for the passage of the resolution, quoted from the President's message as to "misrepresentation and misinformation" about the treaty.

"Is it any wonder that there is misrepresentation and misinformation when the President refused all the documents?" he charged.

Senator Swanson's Speech.

Senator Swanson's speech was intended as a detailed outline of the position of those favoring ratification.

Mr. Swanson prefaced his remarks by recalling that it was Woodrow Wilson who, because of the nation's expanding commerce and after "thoughtful consideration of world affairs," had reached the conclusion that the best interests of the United States required that the American Navy should be the equal of any afloat.

Under President Wilson the United States, he asserted, was headed for first position among naval powers and it was the evidence of this fact which caused Great Britain to induce President Harding to call the Washington Conference and endeavor to reach an agreement for the limitation of naval armaments and to settle matters left unsettled by the World War.

The Senator referred to the cruiser provisions of the Washington treaty which he said Great Britain and Japan availed themselves of while the United States lagged behind and descended from a first to a second class naval power, due mainly to the great disparity in cruiser strength.

"This great disparity in cruiser strength, which had existed for some years, reached such proportions as to menace our safety and commerce," continued Senator Swanson. "Thus the United States, although it was the supreme naval power in 1922, has become, through negotiation and inaction, as is conceded by all, a second-rate naval power or, as is believed by many, a third-rate naval power.

"In order to remedy this situation and correct the mistakes made since 1922, President Coolidge called the Geneva conference. That conference failed ignominiously. I shall not discuss, nor would it be wise to discuss, the causes of that failure.

"Following the failure of the Geneva conference the United States realized it was futile to endeavor to obtain an agreement for limitation of naval armament not covered by the Washington conference unless it showed a determination to build a real navy adequate for its needs. President Coolidge recommended to Congress a program to authorize the construction of cruisers and other ships needed, but desired no appropriation for this purpose. President-elect Hoover concurred in President Coolidge's authorization without appropriation. All thoughtful persons at once realized that the policy of President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover was not for a real navy but for a 'blue-print navy' that would be ineffective either for negotiation or defense.

Presidential Views Ignored.

"Congress and the American people had become tired of 'blue prints' and wanted a real navy, and concluded that it was an opportune time to inform Great Britain and Japan that we were determined to have a navy equal to any and adequate for our commercial and political protection. Ignoring the recommendations of President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover, Congress passed a bill authorizing the construction of fifteen eight-inch-gun cruisers and directed they should be constructed in three years, five each year.

"This authorization bill passed Congress by an overwhelming majority and was followed by an appropriation bill directing that the cruisers conform to the Washington treaty and that ten of the cruisers be built in two years. By this legislation the firm determination of the United States for a real navy was overwhelmingly established. It was argued by those who favored the fifteen-cruiser bill and immediate construction that it would be the only efficient method by which an agreement for the limitation of naval armament could be obtained. It was argued that Great Britain would then ask for a conference. Subsequent events proved that the course advocated by friends of the fifteen-cruiser bill was right, and their predictions have been fulfilled.

"Immediately after the passage of this cruiser bill the Government of Great Britain requested a conference in order that an agreement might be reached between the five great naval powers for limitation of all naval armament. If credit is due for the London conference and London treaty, it is due to those who supported the fifteen-cruiser bill, which provided for real cruisers and not 'blue prints,' since this action created the desire of others for a conference with the United States. If the policy of mere 'blue prints' had been followed I do not believe that Great Britain would have asked for a conference."

Advocates Naval Equality.

Taking up the London naval treaty, the Senator said the question to be answered was which course, ratification or rejection, best met the interests of the United States. The wise policy, in his opinion, was for a navy equal to that of any other nation and proportional strength with other nations.

"To venture upon the pathway of naval supremacy," he went on, "will mean limitless expense, years of severe and bitter competition. It will create fear, irritation and suspicion against us among all nations and result in a combination against us which will be neither advantageous to us or the peace of the world, and the final outcome of which no one can foretell. * * * To all nations who have bid for and obtained naval supremacy the shadows of their doom have arisen slowly but surely from the pitiless sea."

At considerable length Senator Swanson discussed the ratios of the Washington Conference and those provided for in the London Naval Treaty. The fact that Great Britain has three and the United States no battle cruisers does not, Senator Swanson argued, give, as some assert, an advantage to Great Britain. The speed of a fleet, he pointed out, is that of the slowest ship. If battle cruisers are units of the battle line their great speed ceases to be an asset in the hour of conflict, for they must remain with the fleet if its strength is to be maintained, while if they withdraw and seek safety in retreat the fighting strength of the fleet is reduced in proportion.

The Cost of Parity.

"Let us compare the expense and the time of obtaining parity under the London Treaty and the Washington Treaty," said Senator Swanson.

"If Great Britain, the United States and Japan should exercise their privilege of replacement under the Washington Treaty, and the United States undertook the construction of nineteen ships, Great Britain ten ships and Japan five ships by 1936, and continued thereafter to lay down the ships scheduled in the treaty, they could obtain the ratios agreed to in the Washington Treaty, it is estimated, by 1942. If the privilege should be so exercised and the United States should commence the construction of these capital ships, it would mean an expenditure of $400,000,000 for the United States, $400,000,000 for Great Britain should they do likewise, and $200,000,000 for Japan upon the completion of these ten ships.

"The London Treaty provides that no capital ships shall be constructed prior to the 31st of December, 1936. This provision saves Great Britain and the United States each $400,000,000 in capital ship construction and Japan $200,000,000. This treaty gives parity immediately between the United States and Great Britain and a ratio of ten to six with Japan instead of delaying it for several years after 1936, and in addition saves each nation this vast expenditure of money. This is the most admirable and commendable part of the treaty and equally beneficial to all three of the nations concerned.

"But there are some who contend that it would be better for us to reject this treaty and use our right of replacement under the Washington treaty and build the ten battleships permitted and not modernize our remaining ships as intended under this treaty. It is claimed that this would be cheaper and better. Let us examine this proposition:

"We have already modernized ten of our battleships at an aggregate cost of $47,110,000. There are eight more to be modernized at an estimated cost of $70,000,000. The aggregate cost of modernization of our capital ships will be about $117,000,000. As we scrap three ships under the treaty, we will lose the $9,100,000 that the modernization of them cost us. As we will retain under the treaty the other seven of these modernized ships, we will save the $38,000,000 we have expended in them and all further expense we will incur on our battle fleet under this treaty will be $70,000,000. Replacement of the ten battleships would cost $330,000,000 more than this amount, and in addition we would lose the $38,000,000 expended in the ships modernized, making a financial difference of $368,000,000 in the plan of this treaty over the replacement program of the Washington Treaty.

"But it is contended we would have a much better capital-ship fleet. This is true, but if Great Britain replaced ten ships with ten new ones and Japan five ships with five new ones, the navies of these two nations would be equally better, the same ratios of strength would be preserved between the navies, neither nation would be the gainer by the replacement program, but each would be the loser in greatly increased expenditures."

Defends Cruiser Provisions.

Senator Swanson defended the cruiser provisions of the treaty. He could not read in the treaty the dangers some profess to see in it in so far as those provisions relate to the United States Navy. The provisions governing destroyer categories are sound, he contended, and the same, he added, is true of submarines. He could vision no Japanese rupture, but if hostilities between this country and Japan should ever arise the United States could "darken the seas quickly with destroyers as she did in the last war." The small increase in destroyer tonnage given Japan at London can under no circumstances, he declared, be a menace to this country.

"It seems to me," continued Senator Swanson, "that the provisions of the treaty on capital ships, upon cruisers, upon destroyers, upon submarines and smaller auxiliaries are of such character as to justify the United States in ratifying the treaty. The amount of tonnage involved in the controversy is so small when compared with the very large fleets in which it is included that they are not of such vital importance as to justify the rejection of this treaty. There was a provision in the treaty regarding replacements which left a very vital matter in doubt. The treaty as drawn left in doubt whether in replacing 6-inch-gun cruisers they could not be replaced with 8-inch-gun cruisers.

"If Great Britain and Japan in the replacement privileges given them under this treaty could have replaced 6-inch-gun cruisers with 8-inch-gun cruisers, the result would have been very prejudicial to the United States. It would have given these nations a great superiority in 8-inch-gun cruisers which would have been a menace to the American Navy. All the American delegates to the conference stated that it was clearly understood that 6-inch-gun cruisers must be replaced with 6-inch-gun cruisers, and it was so understood by all the delegates of the nations at the conference.

"I suggested that this was a vital matter and that with the doubt involved in the language of the treaty it should be made clear by an exchange of notes between the nations involved. This was done, and both Japan and Great Britain have made it clear that the treaty must be interpreted so that 6-inch-gun cruisers must be replaced by 6-inch-gun cruisers. This ambiguity was clearly and distinctly settled by these notes, which, to my mind, was a more satisfactory way to cover it than it would have been by a reservation or an amendment to the treaty. This eliminated the most vital matter to be cleared up in the treaty."

Regrets "Escalator" Clause.

Senator Swanson regretted it had been necessary to write an "escalator" clause into the London treaty. It might have been better, he said, to have delayed the negotiations, if by so doing France and Italy could have been brought into line and the necessity of such a provision eliminated. Discussing this much talked of clause, Senator Swanson continued:

"I felt that when the treaty was signed by the United States, Great Britain and Japan the pressure upon France and Italy to reach an agreement would be greatly lessened, and there would be a long delay before we would have a treaty of naval limitation by the five great naval powers. A fair treaty by the five great naval powers limiting naval armament would be one of the world's greatest achievements and be most promotive of peace and good-will. The American delegates to the conference, who were far better acquainted with the situation than any of us, thought it wise to conclude the treaty for the limitation of naval armaments between the United States, Great Britain and Japan without waiting longer for an accord with France and Italy.

"I am not prepared to challenge the wisdom of this decision. The question presented to us is, Shall this treaty be rejected on account of the insertion of this provision? Let us thoroughly examine Article 21 and see what its practical effect will be in order to aid us in reaching a just decision.

"It means that if either the United States, Great Britain or Japan reaches a conclusion that any nation other than these three commence new construction of cruisers, destroyers or submarines which materially affect their national security, that nation upon notice to the other two can make the increases required to meet the condition thus created. Then the other two nations are permitted to build vessels of the same category that the nation giving the notice decides to build. The right to do this accrues to each nation, and the limitation contained in the article applies to all three nations alike.

"It should be noted that a nation must state before this privilege can be exercised that its national security requires the construction of the new vessels, and must also specify particularly the proposed increases and the reasons therefor. National honor requires that this right can only be exercised upon the conditions specified in the article. I do not believe this privilege will ever be abused or rarely if ever exercised. I believe a nation would be very loath to state that it needed new craft in order to meet the menace of another nation.

"To specify that a nation is building a fleet against some specific nation would be so unfriendly and so unusual that I do not believe that it will ever be done. It certainly would not occur unless there was a very serious situation. The giving of this notice and the construction of the new war vessels would probably produce a rupture between the two nations involved, and would engender great ill will and suspicion. I do not believe that there will be any new construction of vessels under this article during the existence of the pending treaty.

"Thus, while it is deplored that this article was included in the treaty, and while it must be conceded that it prevents a complete limitation of armaments between the three nations involved, yet to my mind it is not of sufficient serious import to justify the rejection of the treaty. Its only effect to my mind is that it makes less complete the limitation of armament agreed upon by the three nations involved."

Long Life for Treaty Predicted.

Senator Swanson expressed the opinion that the London treaty will continue in force indefinitely. The treaty, he added, gives to the United States absolute naval supremacy in the Western Hemisphere, and "the United States is absolutely protected from any apprehension whatsoever from the fleets of any other nation and her safety is assured beyond peradventure." Under the treaty the navy becomes sufficiently strong, he insisted, to enforce the Monroe Doctrine everywhere in the Western world, and that when the construction provided for in the treaty is completed the United States for the first time in its history will have a balanced fleet.

"From a military and selfish standpoint," concluded Senator Swanson, "the United States cannot afford to reject this treaty. From a higher and nobler purpose the treaty should have our approval. It is promotive of peace, conducive of good-will among the nations involved, and I hope marks the beginning of a more complete treaty for the limitation of naval armaments.

"For the United States to reject this treaty would be for her to abandon her moral leadership in the world, and declaring at the same time that she is an imperialistic nation seeking conquest and expansion. It would create in the rest of the world an apprehension that we had sinister purposes to serve when we rejected the treaty, and would create a mistrust among all the nations of the world, and would result finally in political combinations against us to our detriment and menace. This situation would injure our foreign commerce and retard our material development.

"Whether controlled by selfish, material interests or the broader and nobler purpose of promoting world peace and betterment, the best interests of the United States demand the ratification of this treaty."

Walsh Assails Temple Statement.

After the close of the session Senator Walsh of Montana, a prominent Democratic supporter of the treaty, charged that a statement on the pact recently issued by the Republican National Committee was an effort to make the treaty a political issue in the campaign and to bring it before the country as a major accomplishment of the Hoover Administration.

Such a claim, said Senator Walsh, would do more to defeat the treaty than all the activities of the small group of Senators now battling to defeat or postpone ratification. Senator Walsh made his statement through the Democratic National Committee.

"A statement issued a few days ago by the Republican National Committee and sponsored by Representative Temple," said Senator Walsh, "did not receive the attention its importance deserved. It indicated that the party, in whose success he evinces such deep interest, is to claim, in the Fall campaign, the negotiation and ratification of the naval treaty as the major achievement of the administration.

"Confronted with the dismal failure of all hopes for prosperous times, so freely predicted to induce the election of President Hoover, it is obvious from the statement referred to that the treaty is to be utilized to effect the election of Republican Congressmen and to defeat their Democratic opponents.

"From this statement it is reasonably to be inferred by the worldly-minded that President Hoover's insistence upon keeping Senators here to act on the treaty, notwithstanding the devastating heat of Washington in the dog-days, is not so much concern for the peace of the world as it is to furnish campaign material for the Congressional elections.

"It is not to be believed that the inference as to the President's plans, which might conceivably be drawn from the Temple statement, is justifiable; but if the President is really desirous of the ratification of the treaty, which can be accomplished only with substantial help from the Democratic side of the Senate Chamber, he ought to hasten to remove the unfortunate impression that some of his indiscreet friends are causing."

BEATTY SEES DANGERS IN DESTROYER LIMIT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—The charge that Earl Beatty during his denunciation of the London naval treaty in the House of Lords last week brought out no new facts is disputed by the former leader of the British fleet in a letter which The London Times will publish tomorrow.

Lord Beatty says that the fact that Britain was limited in the number, size and armaments of the flotilla leaders and destroyers it could build while every other power except the United States and Japan was not so restricted was a factor which had not been fully recognized.

"The true importance of it," he says, "can be gauged by the fact that if we take France as an example she will have in 1933 twenty-four flotilla leaders of from 2,200 to 2,500 tons displacement, armed with 5.5 guns, whereas Britain will have but sixteen of 1,500 tons, armed with 4.7 guns. France will have an equal number of destroyers to Britain, with power to increase her numbers in both classes of vessels, which power is denied to Britain.

"If we take into consideration that destroyers are an antidote to submarines and are the type of vessel which can best be a counter to submarine attack, and also that France will possess double the number of submarines possessed by Britain, then every one considering the question will recognize that Britain will be handicapped by the treaty to a dangerous extent."

Lord Beatty protests he was not to blame for the fact that when the present government came into office it found only fifty-four cruisers with four others building, although his party fixed the empire's safety limit at seventy.

FIRE ISLAND PARKWAY ABANDONED BY STATE

The Long Island State Park Commission adopted a resolution yesterday definitely abandoning the Fire Island extension of Ocean Parkway and the attendant boat channel project. At the same time the resolution called for consideration of the construction of a second causeway east of the present Jones Beach causeway to provide for an even flow of traffic along Jones Beach and back to the mainland, where the proposed causeway would connect with the State parkway system.

The first paragraph of the resolution read as follows:

"That because of lack of cooperation on the part of property owners and because conditions have arisen which make it impossible for the State to secure additional parks, rights of way and restrictions against unsightly adjacent developments sufficient to justify the State in the large expense incident to these improvements, the Fire Island extension of the Ocean Parkway and boat channel is hereby abandoned as part of the Long Island State Park and Parkway System."

The resolution then arranged for the return of agreements to owners, discontinuance of the action to determine bay bottom ownership in the vicinity, discontinuance of engineering plans, including those for a bridge over Fire Island Inlet, and similar matters.

Robert Moses, president of the commission, was authorized in the resolution to confer with officials of towns relative to the best location for the proposed new causeway at Jones Beach.

"Old Ironsides" on Voyage For First Time in 33 Years

By The Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 8.—The historic frigate Constitution, conqueror of British warships and the Barbary pirates 125 years ago, today made its first voyage in thirty-three years as it was towed from the navy yard across the harbor to drydock to further the task of its second restoration.

The trip took place almost 100 years to the day after the order to junk her, which brought forth Oliver Wendell Holmes's poem with the famous line "Ay, Tear Her Tattered Ensign Down."

A mizzen and a fore mast were to be ceremoniously installed before the great crane lifted the 104-foot main mast into place. Governor Allen deposited a silver dollar under the main mast. A penny of 1814 vintage was laid under the foremast.

Huston saw the President. To the seeming defiance they got, instead of fulfillment of their hopes, is attributed the fresh start the Senators have made to obtain Mr. Huston's resignation.

Kingsley Report a Surprise.

Political Washington was both surprised and puzzled tonight over reports from Rutland, Vt., crediting Earl S. Kinsley, Republican National Committeeman from that State, with having declared during the day that President Hoover had invited him to become chairman of the Republican National Committee.

At the White House the statement was authorized that President Hoover has had no communication with Mr. Kinsley, or with any one else, on the subject of the National Chairmanship, that he had neither talked nor written to Mr. Kinsley on the subject.

It was added by close friends of the President that there must be some mistake in the statement attributed to Mr. Kinsley, who is understood to have left Rutland, his home city, today for New York City.

What politicians in Washington professed tonight to fail to be able to understand was how the President could have invited Mr. Kinsley to become National Chairman in face of the fact that Claudius H. Huston, the present National Chairman, whose tenure of office has been a matter of such controversy and conflicting statements recently, is apparently still clinging tenaciously to that position and insisting that he has no intention of retiring or resigning despite widely circulated reports that the President, as well as some members of the National Committee, were anxious for him to step aside.

Leaves the Capital Puzzled.

Tonight's denial by close friends of the President that the President had ever talked with Mr. Kinsley on the subject of the national chairmanship, or ever asked him to take that position orally or in writing, left political Washington even more puzzled over the meaning of the Rutland report.

Recently Mr. Kinsley was a week-end guest of the President at the latter's camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, but the statement authorized tonight that the President had not talked or communicated with Mr. Kinsley on the subject of the national chairmanship was broad enough to include a denial that the matter was discussed when the Vermonter visited the President's fishing camp.

Mr. Kinsley was stationed in Washington during the national Republican campaign of 1928 as an assistant to Dr. Hubert Work, the predecessor of Mr. Huston, as chairman of the national committee, and is known then to have won the high regard of Mr. Hoover. Mr. Kinsley was a Presidential elector in 1916. He has been general agent of the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont since 1914. He is a Congregationalist, a Mason and an Elk.

Mr. Huston during the day quit the scene of agitation over the question whether he will remain or resign, and went to New York City.

Kinsley Says He Had Offer.

Special to The New York Times.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 8.—Earle S. Kinsley of this city, Republican National Committeeman from Vermont for the last sixteen years, said when interviewed at his home here today that he had been approached by President Hoover to take charge of Republican headquarters in Washington with a view to permanent appointment. He has refused so far, however, because of business reasons, he stated. He also dislikes to live in Washington during the Summer.

Mr. Kinsley is a close friend of President and Dr. Hubert Work. He has frequently been mentioned as a suitable man for acting chairman of the Republican party.

"I am very appreciative of the honor of being considered as chairman of the Republican National Committee," Mr. Kinsley stated today. "Of course I will do what is necessary to keep the organization together in an off year. I would hesitate to give up my pleasant Summer home in Vermont, and do not think that I should be asked to do so unless I find conditions in Washington such as to make it necessary."

Mr. Kinsley will attend the meeting of the committee on Thursday.

Earle S. Kinsley, Republican National Committeeman from Vermont, had not arrived at the Hotel Roosevelt late last night. It was said at the hotel that he had a reservation there for today and was expected this morning.

SLAYER STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Girl's Killer Who Shot Himself Has Slim Chance to Recover.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., July 8.—Roderic Meakle, Ridgewood violinist, 28 years old and married, who shot and killed Miss Jennie Brauer in an automobile near Echo Lake on Saturday and then shot himself in the head, was still unconscious at St. Joseph's Hospital here tonight, with only a slim chance of recovery.

Meanwhile Prosecutor J. Vincent Barnitt continued his investigation to be ready to try the banker's son for murder if he recovers. He announced that he had obtained possession of two love letters written to the murdered girl by Meakle several months ago. While he would not reveal the nature of their contents, he said that he regarded them as of importance to the State's case.

Funeral services for Miss Brauer will be held at Riverdale, N. J., tomorrow morning.

TOKYO STRIKES SNAG ON DEFENSE PLANS

Privy Councilors Say They Will Not Approve Navy Pact Until Officers Pass Measures.

TAKARABE TO BE MEDIATOR

Government Must Now Summon Marshals' Board or Supreme Military Council.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, July 8.—At the Cabinet meeting this morning, Admiral Takarabe, Minister of the Navy, expressed the opinion that he would be able to mediate the differences between the naval officers concerning the new defense plans which constitute an obstacle in the way of the ratification of the London naval treaty.

By a clever manoeuvre, Admiral Kanji Kato, who was recently removed as Chief of the Naval General Staff in order to smooth the way for the treaty and who was appointed to what was intended to be an honorary position on the Supreme Military Council, has placed himself again in a strategic position, in which he threatens to cause as much trouble for the government as before his removal.

The situation arises from the fact that a number of the members of the Privy Council have given the government to understand they will not approve the treaty until the new defense plans have been approved by the higher army and navy officers. The government, which had hoped to dispense with military advice, will now be obliged to summon either the Board of Marshals and fleet Admirals, which includes only one naval officer, Admiral Togo, who is in sympathy with Admiral Kato and who is opposed to the new defense plan, or the Supreme Military Council, of which Admiral Kato is now a member.

The defense plan of Admiral Taniguchi, the new Chief of the Naval General Staff, which is the pivotal point in the new controversy, represents about 70 per cent of the strength advocated in the plan formerly drawn up by Admiral Kato when he was Chief of the Naval Staff. The new plan calls for an approximate total expenditure of 315,000,000 yen (about $156,870,000) for air expansion over the six years' duration of the London naval treaty, a sum representing 50 per cent of the total savings which would accrue to Japan from the London treaty. Admiral Kato's plan called for an expenditure of 450,000,000 yen (about $224,100,000), a sum equivalent to 75 per cent of the savings.

Strenuous efforts have been made by Admiral Takarabe within the past few days to bring about a compromise between the naval officers regarding the new defense plan, but, so far, they have completely failed. The only solution that seems open to the government if no compromise is reached is to submit the treaty to the Privy Council without the approval of the higher military and naval authorities, which is not required by the Constitution, and to take a chance on the Privy Council's ratifying the treaty, which is strongly backed by public opinion and the press.

The government is determined the treaty shall reach the Privy Council this month and expects the Privy Councilors to remain in town during the Summer to ratify the pact. The government is not delaying to see what the American Senate will do, but is anxious to push matters as fast as possible in face of the naval opposition here.

SEES RECONSTRUCTION GOAL OF EDUCATION

John A. Lester of Hill School Addresses Friends Meeting Opening at Cape May.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 8.—The Friends General Conference began its formal sessions here today with an address by John A. Lester of the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., on the subject, "For What Are We Educating?" Fifteen hundred delegates from New Jersey, Delaware, New York, Maryland, Virginia, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Georgia and several Middle Western States, as well as Canada and Mexico, had arrived before the day's discussions ended.

Introduced as both an English and an American Friend, Mr. Lester declared education to be a continuing process of reconstruction.

"We are educating for change, for skill, for adjustment and for conduct," he said. "We educate for change because a student will emerge from school into a world where stability is no longer normal, but where change is normal. We must educate for adjustment, for we must know the child we teach just as much as the subject we teach. We must educate for skill, and by that I mean some serviceable skill. We must see to it that the schools' skill actually function in life's work."

Following Mr. Lester's address, group meetings to discuss the theme were led by Joseph H. Willits, Frederick J. Libby, George A. Walton, Will W. Alexander and Bliss Forbush. Joseph B. Matthews, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, spoke tonight on "Knowing the World We Live In."

ARREST LOITERER ON RASKOB ESTATE

WILMINGTON, Del., July 8 (AP).—Arrested while loitering about the Claymont estate of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, a man said by the police to be L. Clifford Alden of Hibbing, Minn., was taken today to the State Hospital for the Insane at Farnhurst and held for observation.

The prisoner made two attempts to escape before he was locked in a cell at the police station here. In his possession police said they found several hundred cards bearing the names of wealthy men, including Mr. Raskob, Pierre S. du Pont and Alfred P. Sloan. Detailed information concerning the men, their affiliations, their addresses and their families was noted on the cards.

The man also carried a photograph of himself, taken in Hibbing. He carried no weapons, and said he wanted to see Mr. Raskob "on personal business."

GOV. YOUNG REFUSES PARDON FOR MOONEY

OFFERS WAY FOR HEARINGS

DOUBTS McDONALD'S SHIFT

Mooney in Prison Says Fight to Establish Innocence in 1916 Bombing Will Continue.

LOS ANGELES, July 8 (AP).—Thomas J. Mooney, militant labor leader, serving a life sentence with Warren K. Billings for the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco, July 22, 1916, today failed to win a pardon from Governor C. C. Young.

The Governor's action in denying the pardon ended another chapter in Mooney's thirteen-year battle for freedom. Similar defeats were suffered before when two of Governor Young's predecessors refused to pardon Mooney.

Governor Young followed recommendations of the State Supreme Court, which on Friday refused to recommend a pardon for Billings and of the Advisory Pardon Board, which last night took similar action on Mooney's plea.

"Until some further light is shed upon the case, which I do not now possess," the Governor said, "I manifestly must accept the conclusions of the Supreme Court and the Advisory Pardon Board."

The Governor said he considered the cases parallel and both men either were innocent or guilty of the outrage that caused ten deaths and injured forty persons.

Some hope was offered Mooney by Governor Young in the suggestion that the Supreme Court grant a hearing if proof were offered that perjured testimony was responsible for the convictions.

Would Consider Further Hearings.

"I would respectfully suggest to the members of the Supreme Court," the Governor said, "should John McDonald or any other material witness who has repudiated his former testimony, appear before them for the purpose of proving such repudiations as trustworthy and that their former testimony was perjured, it may be only just and right to consider the propriety of giving hearing to such witnesses in the case of Billings, just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney."

Agitation for Executive clemency for Mooney reached a climax in 1921 after John McDonald, principal State's witness, made an affidavit in New York saying his testimony had been false. Mooney refused a parole on the ground that it would constitute an admission of guilt. He maintained he had been convicted because of his labor activities.

When Governor Young took the case under consideration he decided not to act on Mooney's application without deliberating on Billings's plight also. Because Billings previously had been convicted of a felony, it was necessary to have the Supreme Court pass on his pardon application before Executive action could be taken.

McDonald, an eye-witness of the explosion, described to the grand jury at Billings's trial in September, 1916, and at Mooney's early in 1917, the placing of the suitcase in which was the time bomb. He identified Billings as the man who carried the infernal machine and Mooney as his companion.

In February, 1921, however, McDonald, who had moved to Maryland, made the affidavit in which he said San Francisco police assisted him in identifying the defendants by taking him to the jails where they were held pending trial and pointing them out. His affidavit described the scene of the bombing, and differed only in that he said he could not have identified Billings and Mooney had he not been shown them in jail.

The pardon board denounced the affidavit as unworthy of belief, and said it believed McDonald made the statement because he was disgruntled at failure to collect a reward he had been promised by certain officers.

Discusses McDonald Affidavit.

"Until the truth of the repudiating affidavits can be definitely established, no one can question the decision of the Supreme Court or the reasoning of the Advisory Pardon Board, for there are certainly some portions of McDonald's affidavits which appear patently untrustworthy," Governor Young said.

"For instance, in his affidavit McDonald says that no positive identification of either Mooney or Billings was made by him; that Lieutenant Goff took him to the door of Mooney's cell and said, 'This is your man, this is Mooney,' and that he subsequently took him to Billings's cell and asked a turnkey to open the door and said, 'Come out here, Billings.'

"Upon careful investigation I am convinced that nothing of this kind occurred, nor can any one believe that Billings and Mooney and their attorneys knew of such a spurious identification without calling attention to the matter in either of the trials."

The Governor said that, although two predecessors had refused to pardon Mooney, he had, nevertheless, given the application for pardon thorough consideration. Saying the decision would be disappointing to many, he added:

"But in a matter like this I must be guided by conscientious regard for my oath of office rather than a willingness to respond to popular appeal.

"If he was innocent of this particular crime, to keep him in prison would be an ineffaceable blot upon the good name of the State. On the other hand, if he was not innocent he was guilty of one of the most uncalled for and atrocious crimes ever committed, the wanton murder of unsuspecting men, women and children gathered upon public streets to witness a patriotic demonstration of San Francisco citizens."

Mooney to Continue Efforts.

Mooney, when informed at San Quentin prison of the Governor's action, launched into an attack against Governor Young which ended only when Warden James D. Holohan stopped him with the statement he would not have prisoners issuing "political proclamations."

"If we do not get justice in this administration, we will get it in the next," Mooney said.

Earlier in the day, Mooney said of the Pardon Board's decision:

"The coming fight will eventually bring freedom. Both Warren Billings and myself are absolutely innocent of this crime and the decision of the Governor and the Supreme Court does not make us guilty.

"Now our friends can proceed to the task of bringing about our final and ultimate vindication. The Mooney-Billings case will immediately assume an international aspect and it will not down until both of us are free men.

"Again I repeat, fate has once more smiled upon me kindly. I feel highly honored in the greater service to which I have been called for the establishment of the principles involved in our case."

Church, Fearing Profanity, Wins Fight on Small Golf Links

Oh the ground that operation of a miniature golf links on a site opposite his church would "bring profanity to the very portals of the church," Archdeacon J. A. McCleary, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church successfully opposed the granting of an application yesterday before the Commission in Jersey City.

In reply Clarence McGovern, counsel for the National Pipe Products Company, which made the application, argued that golf is quiet and "does not involve profanity."

Archdeacon McCleary, accompanied by a delegation of parishioners, insisted it does, and after a brief consultation the City Commission, including Mayor Frank Hague, who presided, voted to deny the application. The commission also denied three other applications for the construction of miniature links.

TO FIGHT FOR MOONEY HERE

Socialists Will Open Week's Program in Brooklyn Next Tuesday.

Clarence Senior, national executive secretary of the Socialist party, announced yesterday that the first of a series of Mooney Freedom Rallies would be held next Tuesday evening at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. The meeting will start a week of agitation to win freedom for Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, now in San Quentin prison, California.

The meeting next Tuesday will be addressed by Norman Thomas, Dudley Field Malone, Heywood Broun, B. C. Vladeck and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise. Two demonstrations, organized by the party, will be held following the Academy of Music meeting. On July 16 there will be a meeting at Prospect and Longwood Avenues, Brooklyn, and on July 17 at Union Square.

FINDS FEW NEW BOOKS ENTER SECOND EDITION

Publishers' Institute Analysis Puts Average Profit at 6¾ Cents a Volume.

Forty-five per cent of the new books published each year never go beyond the original edition, and second and subsequent editions often amount to as few as 500 copies, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Book Publishers' Research Institute, 730 Fifth Avenue, "recently organized by a group of publishers to gather and disseminate authoritative information on the book publishing industry." The executive committee of the institute, according to the announcement, includes Donald C. Brace, Henry Hoyns and Alfred A. Knopf.

In an analysis of book prices, the announcement says:

"Assuming that the average number of 3,720 copies of a novel are printed and disposed of, an assumption by no means warranted, the price of $2.50 on an original edition absorbs the initial expenses of publication, which are made up as follows: 14 cents for paper and printing, 17 cents for binding and wrapper, 21 cents for plates, 17 cents for advertising costs and 39 cents for sales promotion, overhead and other expenses. After allowing the customary discount to jobbers and retailers and the average royalty of 32 cents to the author, there is left a publisher's profit of only 6¾ cents.

"It is noted that the above analysis of the various items entering into the cost of a novel are based on the assumption that (1) every copy of this average original edition of 3,720 copies is sold, and (2) every copy is sold through the usual wholesale and retail channels of the United States, excluding from consideration sales to foreign countries or otherwise at less than the usual wholesale price."

RYDER IS LIVING IN LUXURY FREE

CONTINUES TO AID INQUIRY

Lawyers for Creditors Now Hope to Get $1,000,000 From Bailey—Harvey Faces $2,500 Action.

Bankruptcy lawyers engaged in tracing the stock market operations of Harold Russell Ryder were astonished to learn yesterday that he was living at the Ambassador Hotel and riding downtown to confer with them in a Rolls-Royce.

Inquiry revealed, however, that he does not have to pay a cent for these comforts. They represent the expressed confidence of the hotel and the automobile agency that the 35-year-old trader will once more be able to resume the career of money making, and spending at the rate of $1,100 a night, which came to an end three weeks ago with the crash of Woody & Co.

Mr. Ryder at present is admittedly without funds. His only occupation, which has been the subject of public attention for the past two weeks, is to explain to Federal bankruptcy receivers how he expended $2,000,000 belonging to his partners and their customers in the wrecked brokerage firm of Woody & Co. His next engagement will be in General Sessions Court, where he faces a grand larceny indictment. His own $300,000 apartment at 720 Park Avenue, his automobiles, his wardrobe and his bank account of $97 have been impounded.

Gets Hotel Suite Free.

Nevertheless, the Ambassador Hotel has given him the use of one of its three-room suites on the fourteenth floor, overlooking Park Avenue, and serves his meals there, while the Rolls-Royce agency has put a car at his disposal, with a liveried chauffeur, and provides the gasoline.

When the bankruptcy lawyers asked Mr. Ryder yesterday how he could afford it, he replied that even at a cheap hotel he would be required to pay, and that a subway ride downtown would cost him a nickel, whereas he does not have to pay a cent for the Rolls-Royce.

At the office of the Rolls-Royce Agency the situation was explained by Ralph G. Martin, manager: "He was one of our best customers; and when a customer is in difficulties we try to help him out." Similarly at the Ambassador Hotel it was explained that the management was grateful for Mr. Ryder's patronage in the past and took pleasure in indicating an expectation that he would be able to pay sometime in the future. The management said he had been invited to stay and eat at the Ambassador indefinitely.

Meanwhile Mr. Ryder put in his second day yesterday in the office of Samuel H. Kaufman and Milton P. Kupfer, counsel for the Irving Trust Company, temporary receiver in bankruptcy for Woody & Co. With the two bankruptcy attorneys and two of his own counsel, Saul Gordon and John E. Leddy, grouped around him, Mr. Ryder continued to explain his transactions.

The spirit of cooperation reached such a stage yesterday that Mr. Kaufman asked Federal Bankruptcy Commissioner Henry K. Davis to adjourn any further public examination until Friday because the disentangling of the affairs of Woody & Co. could be pursued "to the greater advantage of all concerned" in private. Mr. Kaufman said that Mr. Ryder was "telling everything and being very helpful in going over the accounts."

Woody Creditors' Hopes Rise.

Under the circumstances the hope was expressed by counsel for various groups of the 200 customers of Woody & Co. that it would be possible to recover the major part of the $2,000,000 which Mr. Ryder has already admitted he took in order to satisfy a $2,000,000 claim of Frank Bailey, 65-year-old banker and director of twenty-one important corporations, with whom Mr. Ryder was associated in $10,000,000 of trading operations before the formation of Woody & Co. last November.

Mr. Bailey already has admitted before Federal Bankruptcy Referee Davis that he received the $2,000,000 and offered later to the bankruptcy lawyers to return such part of it as might be shown to be unwarrantably paid to him. With Mr. Ryder's assistance the bankruptcy lawyers said they hope to come to a speedy determination of such a figure. It is expected to be more than $1,000,000.

If a settlement is not made in the meantime, the public bankruptcy inquiry will be resumed at 2 P. M. Friday. Although Mr. Ryder and Mr. Bailey are both scheduled for examination, the bankruptcy lawyers propose to proceed with Mr. Bailey's examination first, with Mr. Ryder now sitting at their elbows.

The first active step toward the recovery of minor amounts expended by Mr. Ryder during the period when he was technically bankrupt, was taken yesterday by Eugene L. Garey, representing the three customers of Woody & Co., whose petitions amounting to $88,000 brought about the receivership. Mr. Garey made a formal recommendation to Mr. Kaufman, as attorney for the receivers, to request the return of $2,500 contributed by Mr. Ryder to further the governorship aspirations of George U. Harvey, Borough President of Queens. Mr. Kaufman said he would take up the matter and start such action as might be proper.

refer to an "India intrigue." The Herald protests that the Simon report has not been shelved, but learns that Mr. Lloyd George is joining Sir Austen Chamberlain in the House of Commons attack on the government's India policy as a whole.

Meanwhile the government is in deep water on other important issues. Unemployment, naval construction and the coal mines bill are all in critical stages and his own followers are causing Mr. MacDonald almost as much trouble as the forces arrayed against him.

The unemployment returns tonight show a total of 1,890,600 which is 75,258 more than last week and 748,218 more than a year ago. When the Labor party came into power in June last year, the figure was 1,100,125.

1 KILLED, 11 INJURED IN AQUEDUCT CAVE-IN

SHIFTING EARTH BLAMED

One man was killed and eleven were injured last night just before 12 o'clock by the collapse of shoring in the roof of a water tunnel 564 feet underground at Coster Street, near the East River, in the Hunts Point district of the Bronx. The men were reinforcing the tunnel-roof shoring when the supports gave way and the earth caved in.

The tunnel, about nineteen feet in diameter, is part of the addition to the Catskill water system and is to carry water to Brooklyn when the boring under the river is complete. The cave-in was caused, according to engineers for the McGovern Company, by the loose, waterlogged earth shifting and putting additional load on the shoring.

Doctors Await Victims.

The victims were carried two blocks through the tunnel to the shaft at Coster Street and were taken to the pavement level in the elevators. Doctors, who had been summoned when news of the collapse was flashed to the top, were waiting to treat the casualties.

The dead and injured were:

The Dead.

The Injured.

BOKER, HENRY, 27, of 2,549 Eighth Avenue, contusions and lacerations, treated and sent home.

DOHERTY, JOSEPH, 20, of 464 East 147th Street, the Bronx, fractured spine, St. John's Hospital, Yonkers.

FINN, HENRY, 42, of 449 East 136th Street, lacerations of the head, treated and sent home.

Working on Faulty Roof.

Charles Mathieu, the engineer in charge in the tunnel, detected a bulge in the tunnel ceiling about 11:0 P. M. He ordered the muckers, drillers and helpers out of that part of the viaduct and called in the repair crew with Kelly as foreman. The men were making swift work of the job when, at midnight, the engineer caught the ominous rattle of pebbles and heard the shoring creak.

As he shouted a warning the mass of soggy earth and wet stone broke through, about fifteen cubic feet of it, burying most of the crew. Mathieu, who was not caught, directed the rescue work and within ten or fifteen minutes all the victims were freed and on their way to the mouth of the shaft at Coster Street, two blocks away.

DIES AFTER 2-DAY FIGHT.

Woman, Found Alive After 62 Hours in Gas-Filled Room, Succumbs.

A two-day struggle to save the life of Mrs. Maude Anderson, 43 years old, a writer, who was brought to St. Vincent's Hospital on Sunday afternoon after she had lain unconscious for sixty-two hours in a gas-filled apartment, ended last night with her death.

Mrs. Anderson had tried to commit suicide by gas in a sub-leased apartment at 17 West Twelfth Street on Thursday night. Gas company employes summoned by neighbors, finding the gas fumes in the apartment house halls, shut off the house gas main. On Sunday neighbors and the police broke into Mrs. Anderson's apartment and found her unconscious. She was partly revived and sent to St. Vincent's Hospital, where hope was held for her recovery. It was learned by the police that she came here from Cincinnati and was estranged from her husband. An effort is now being made to trace her relatives.

BACHARACH TO BE MAYOR.

Majority of Atlantic City Commission Agree to His Election.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—The election of Harry Bacharach as the next Mayor of Atlantic City was definitely assured tonight when three of the four members of the city commission agreed to end the deadlock and throw their support to Bacharach to succeed the late Mayor Ruffu. Acting Mayor Joseph A. Paxson, in a brief statement, said: "Directors Cuthbert and Headley and myself had a conference this evening and decided to make Harry Bacharach the next Mayor."

He refused to say where the meeting was held or when the candidate of their choice will be formally elected and inducted into office.

Enoch L. Johnson, Republican leader of Atlantic County, predicted the selection of Mr. Bacharach last Sunday.

INSULIN COMBATS ALCOHOL.

London Doctor Uses Diabetes Remedy for Delirium Tremens.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—The London Society for the Study of Inebriety today heard from Dr. W. K. Wills, its medical superintendent, of a new use of insulin, the substance developed for diabetes treatments by Dr. F. G. Banting of Toronto and his collaborators.

Insulin, said Dr. Wills, is highly valuable in the treatment of delirium tremens, being used as in the treatment of diabetes. He found delirium tremens declining in England, owing largely to the high cost of spirits and the consequent lower consumption by the public.

Headlight Glass Fragment Leads To Arrest in Fatal Hit-Run Case

Special to The New York Times.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., July 8.—A glass fragment of a broken automobile headlight, found in Central Avenue here last Sunday night near the spot where Jacob Newman of Island Heights was killed by a hit-and-run driver, caused the arrest today of William Clark, a hotel employe, also of Island Heights, on a charge of manslaughter.

Newman was walking with several companions when the automobile struck him and dragged his body more than fifty feet. The driver of the car did not stop. His companions were unable to see the license number of the car, but State Troopers who found the fragment of glass began a check-up of all garages in the vicinity. They found a broken headlight on Clark's car into which they said the fragment seemed to fit, and arrested him.

He will be arraigned tomorrow before Judge Arthur Gorman Gallagher in the Court of Common Pleas.

RUSH PENSION FORMS TO FIELD STATIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Advance copies of applications for benefits under the new World War pension act were rushed to all field stations of the Veterans' Bureau today.

General Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, said that printed copies will be furnished as soon as possible, but that since benefits under the act will be effective from the date of application, the bureau has taken this method to enable the veterans to furnish the necessary information at the earliest possible moment.

It was impossible to have these forms ready before the passage of the bill, General Hines explained, as the act was subject to various changes and amendments, almost up to the moment of its passage, but the Veterans' Bureau had prepared tentatively a skeleton application which was immediately completed upon the passage of the bill.

Mimeographed copies of this form will be used until regular copies can be printed and distributed. Instructions to all field stations went by telegraph and radio, and the advance copies of the applications were rushed to the field by both regular mail and air mail.

"The uncompensated men in hospitals will be taken care of at once," General Hines stated. "Men ill enough to be in veterans' hospitals because of non-service disabilities, not heretofore compensated, certainly merit immediate attention, and we will examine them at once to determine the degree of disability, so that they can be rated.

"We will take care of every case that applies just as promptly as we can do so, but will endeavor especially to expedite the cases of those more seriously disabled."

General Hines stated that the bureau now has over 30,700 men in hospitals, and approximately 43 per cent of these are non-service-connected cases.

"The bill provides," he said, "that any of these men whose financial circumstances were such that they were not required to pay an income tax for the calendar year 1929 and are now suffering from a permanent disability of 25 per cent or more in degree will be eligible to receive payments. We have estimated that in all over 100,000 veterans will probably receive benefits within the next year."

TO NAME SARATOGA BOARD.

Gov. Roosevelt Is Considering Personnel of New Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 8.—Appointment of the personnel of the Saratoga Springs Commission to take the place of the Saratoga Springs Department is being considered by Governor Roosevelt, it was learned here today, and an announcement bearing on the matter is expected within a few days.

The appointment of the commission, which will have to be confirmed by the Senate, will be in accordance with the act of the Legislature last April, whereby the control of Saratoga Springs was taken out of the hands of the State Conservation Department and vested for seven years in the hands of the new commission to be comprised of seven members. The State will retain complete control of Saratoga Springs under the new arrangement.

In view of the delay in the appointment of the commission, the springs have officially been without an administrative agency. However, John G. Jones, who, under the old régime, was superintendent of the Saratoga Springs Department of the Conservation Department, has been carrying on in the same position which he has held for fourteen years.

The baths, parks and "drink hall" are all open and have been doing business regularly. Mr. Jones will remain the active head, pending appointment of the new commission.

GIRL, 3, HELD AS STOWAWAY

Raimente Dorce, 3-year-old girl of Port-au-Prince, Haiti, appeared in New York yesterday as the youngest stowaway in Ellis Island records and was held for deportation to Haiti on the Royal Netherlands steamer Commenwyne, which docked in Brooklyn. The child was found in the cabin of her aunt, Miss Hilda Schutt of West New York, N. J., who told authorities that the girl hid in her cabin when relatives brought her aboard at Port-au-Prince.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Julia Dorce, met them at the pier and greeted her daughter and Miss Schutt, her sister. She had not seen her sister in eighteen years, she said. When immigration authorities on the Commenwyne questioned Miss Schutt, she said relatives had brought her on board at sailing time and she found the little girl hiding after the ship had departed.

Officers of the ship found the girl two days later. Miss Schutt denied she was trying to smuggle the girl, explaining that fondness for her had been responsible for the child's prank.

WOMAN EXAMINED IN LINGLE MURDER

Mysterious Visitor at Chicago Police Headquarters Met at Train by Detectives.

ROSENHEIM CASE REVIVED

Grand Jury Will Investigate Killing of Informer—Alderman Charges Church Racketeering.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—A mysterious woman, fashionably gowned and disguised by dark-colored glasses, was led into Investigator Patrick Roche's office today for questioning concerning the murder of Alfred Lingle, newspaper reporter.

The woman, it was learned, had been met at the Union Station by detectives attached to the State's Attorney's office. It was said she came from Minneapolis.

When asked her name, she gave it as "Virginia Dare," and would give no address.

Roche was not in the office when the woman was brought in, and she was questioned for about twenty minutes by Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who appeared to be greatly excited by her disclosures.

After a session in his office she was taken hurriedly to the detective bureau, ostensibly to look over pictures in the Rogues' Gallery and to be questioned further by Acting Chief of Detectives John Norton.

Louis Clementi, who has been sought for several days for questioning in the murder of the reporter, surrendered this afternoon at the detective bureau. Clementi, a companion of Patsi Tardi, who was arrested yesterday and is still held, is reported to be on the payroll of a West Side syndicate. He was wanted for questioning, as was Tardi, following reports that the syndicate had caused Lingle's murder.

Rosenheim Case Revived.

The new information that Julius Rosenheim, murdered by gangsters five months ago, was a paid informer of The Chicago Daily News, brings that killing out of the list of forgotten crimes and it is to be investigated by the grand jury.

This action developed today as an aftermath to the revelations made by Leland H. Reese, reporter for The Daily News, in a signed article published in his paper on Monday. Mr. Reese said that Rosenheim had supplied him with information upon which Reese based exposures of gang activities.

The facts surrounding the killing of Rosenheim were being reassembled today by police officials and investigators for State's Attorney Swanson.

Rosenheim, who was 55 years old, a shabby, unkempt and stooped little man who had spent most of his life as an informant, was shot to death on the morning of Feb. 15, a half block from his home, as he was walking along the sidewalk.

Frank W. Taylor Jr., editor of The St. Louis Star, whose reporter, Harry Brundige, has written articles concerning the Lingle murder, today wired State's Attorney Swanson that Brundige would appear before a grand jury and substantiate his charges of corruption in Chicago newspaperdom, but objected to a preliminary examination in Swanson's office. Mr. Taylor said:

"Frankly, we are actuated in reaching this decision by the former consideration of public confidence in the outcome of the investigation now under way. Should this investigation result in a whitewash for the living and leave the dead [the late Mr. Lingle] to bear all the odium of racketeering among the newspaper profession, then we feel sure that you will agree with us that such action should come from a regularly constituted grand jury. If handled in the informal manner you suggest, many people might interpret such an outcome as leaving the whole stigma on Lingle as the result of pressure brought by the powerful Chicago newspapers to prevent the news of other Lingles in their ranks from coming out."

Charges Church Racketeering.

Charges that racketeering may be found in churches and professional uplift and reform movements were made before the Chicago Church Federation crime investigation committee by Alderman Arthur F. Albert this afternoon. Albert was the first witness to be called before the special committee of the federation, which has been in process of organization since the killing of Lingle.

When asked if he would specifically mention any reformers or reform organizations, Albert stated that there was occasion to name only the Better Government Association as an example. He declared that he urged the church leaders to be sure that their own agencies were clear of rackets before hunting down racketeers in other directions. The Better Government Association is led by the Rev. E. J. Davis, former superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League.

Foster Gets Time for Alibi.

LOS ANGELES, July 8 (AP).—Frankie Foster, gunman and racketeer, wanted in Chicago in connection with the slaying of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, today received until July 15 to prove he was not in the Illinois city on June 9, the date of the murder, before he will be returned under extradition orders now in the hands of the authorities.

Superior Judge Wilson continued until next Tuesday a hearing on a habeas corpus writ filed in behalf of Foster, when it was announced additional time would be required to obtain evidence on the prisoner's whereabouts June 9.

REDS FREED ON BONDS.

Trial of Communists Postponed in Atlanta Till Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 8.—The last three of the six Communists, held here on charges of inciting to insurrection or distributing insurrectionary literature, capital offenses under a Georgia law passed a few years after the Civil War were released today on bond and their trials will not be held until the Fall.

Those who received their freedom today were M. H. Powers, Joe Carr and Mary Dalton. Those previously released were Ann Burlack, and two Negroes, Henry Storey and Gilmer Brady.

The facts that the State has readily agreed to postponement of the trials, that public opinion is increasing against proceedings carrying the death penalty, and that the State agreed to substantial reductions of bonds until a figure was reached the defendants could meet are believed here to indicate that, when the hearings are held, the death penalty will not be invoked.

Commission Declares Roads There Entitled to Higher Rates Because of Financial Condition

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A sweeping readjustment of the class rate structure in official classification territory, resulting in both increases and reductions, was prescribed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a decision written by Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman.

In another decision, written by Chairman Frank McManamy, an increase in the general level of class rates in Western trunk-line territory was prescribed. As a result of this decision revenues of carriers operating in that territory are expected to be increased by about $12,000,000 annually.

"Western trunk-line respondents," the commission said, "are found entitled to the increased revenues expected to be yielded by the increased class rates herein found justified because of their financial condition and because this class-rate traffic can reasonably bear such rates."

While no formal order was entered by the commission in either case, the new schedules are expected to be made effective by Nov. 1. "There is no good reason, in our opinion, why they should not become effective on or before that date," the commission said.

Basic Distance Scale Made

A basic distance scale of rates was prescribed for use in official classification territory, which embraces Eastern territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio.

The progression and level of the scale are briefly indicated in the following first-class rates:

150 miles	... 66 cents	700 miles	...135 cents
240 miles	... 79 cents	800 miles	...145 cents
300 miles	... 87 cents

	New York.	Boston.	Phila.	Balt.	Norf.
St. Louis	167	175	160	153	160
Detroit	123	130	123	120	139
Cincinnati	..136	148	127	116	127

Between points in Zone C in Michigan, Zone B in New England, certain branch lines of the New York Central and Delaware & Hudson in Northern New York and certain branch lines in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky and other points in the territory, a level higher than the basic scale is prescribed. To and from certain lines of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Virginian a still higher basis is prescribed. Within Zone A in New England a scale 5 per cent higher than the basic scale will apply and within Zone B New England, a scale 10 per cent higher than that for Zone A.

Based on Shortest Routes.

Rates under the distance scales are required to be based on the shortest routes over which carload traffic can be moved without transfer of lading. With slight modifications the report approves the grouping and basis of rates proposed by the carriers for New York City, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The report provides for grouping Jersey City and certain other places in its vicinity with New York City under rates to and from New England.

The report prescribes rail-lake rates between Lake Michigan ports and Eastern territory at 90 per cent of the corresponding all-rail rates subject to a maximum difference of 16 cents on first-class.

The decision in the Eastern class rate case holds that fresh domestic fruits and vegetables and hay moving on class rates in official territory are affected by depression and should be excepted from any increases in rates in this proceeding, and that rates on dairy products, including oleomargarine, should remain unchanged pending disposition of formal complaints involving those commodities.

New York Rates Reconstructed.

The decision also holds that maximum class rates to and from New York City and its environs should be constructed as follows:

"(a). Long-haul rates to and from points in trunk-line territory.

"Class rates to and from points referred to in paragraphs 1 to 9 below should be based on distances ten miles over the distance to any of the rail termini in New Jersey or New York City, namely, Weehawken, N. J., via New York, Ontario & Western Railway, Erie Railroad or West Shore Railroad; Jersey City, N. J., via New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad, Erie Railroad, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley Railroad or Pennsylvania Railroad; Hoboken, N. J., via Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; Spuyten Duyvil, N. Y., via New York Central Railroad.

"1. All regular station deliveries on the New York Central, Yonkers, Pepperhan and Mount Vernon, and stations south thereof, including Port Morris, via routes in connection with the New York Central.

"2. Points on and east of the lines in New Jersey, beginning at Perth Amboy (including South Amboy), thence following the Perth Amboy branch of the Pennsylvania to Rahway; thence via air line to Cranford Junction; thence via the Central of New Jersey to Aldene; thence via Rahway Valley Railroad to Newark Heights; thence via air lines to Milburn (Delaware, Lackawanna and Western), northward to Essex Fells and to Pompton Junction; thence following New York, Susquehanna and Western to Hackensack; thence via an imaginary line east through West Englewood, N. J., on the West Shore, and on the Erie to Fort Lee, N. J., on the Hudson River.

"3. Floatage or lighterage deliveries or stations of all trunk lines in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn or Long Island City.

"4. Points within free-lighterage limits of New York Harbor.

"5. Stations on Long Island Railroad within the city limits of New York City.

"6. Stations on Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway.

"8. Stations on Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad.

"9 Stations on New York Dock Railway

Short-Haul Rates Defined.

"(b). Short-haul rates to and from points in trunk-line territory:

"To and from points in short-haul territory, defined as including all stations on trunk lines west of the line defined in B (1), and east of the following points: Treichlen, Pa., on the Central of New Jersey; Mount Pocono, Pa., on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; Port Jervis, N. Y., on the Erie; Delps, Pa., on the Lehigh & New England; Treichler, Pa., on the Lehigh Valley; Greendale, N. Y., on the New York Central; Summitville, N. Y., on the New York, Ontario & Western; Tannersville, Pa., on the New York, Susquehanna & Western; Philadelphia, Pa., on the Pennsylvania and the Reading, and Saugerties, N. Y., on the West Shore, class rates should be made as outlined below.

"1. Rail deliveries:

"(a) To and from all stations in New Jersey in trunk lines and on the Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad east of Newark Bay and the Hackensack River, following the line of the Erie from the Hackensack River to Weehawken, N. J., thence via the West Shore and New York, Susquehanna & Western to Undercliff, N. J., class rates shall be based on distance ten miles over the distance to any of the following rail termini in New Jersey:

"Weehawken, N. J., via New York, Ontario & Western, Erie or West Shore; Jersey City, N. J., via New York, Susquehanna & Western, Erie, Central of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley or Pennsylvania; Hoboken, N. J., via Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; except that where carload freight is loaded or unloaded at the carriers' expense the New York rate shall apply.

"Between the aforesaid stations in New Jersey and short-haul points on the New York Central class rates shall be based on distance between such short-haul points and Spuyten Duyvil, N. Y., plus ten miles plus an arbitrary of five cents per 100 pounds on each class.

Lighterage Charge Required.

"2. Lighterage or floatage deliveries or stations:

"Class rates to and from ——

"(a) Floatage or lighterage deliveries or stations of all trunk lines, except the New York Central, in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn or Long Island City:

"(c) Bush Terminal Railroad stations;

"(d) New York Dock Railway stations:

"Should be based on arbitraries of 5 cents per 100 pounds over the rate on each class to or from any of the following rail termini in New Jersey or New York City; Weehawken, N. J., via New York, Ontario & Western, Erie or West Shore; Jersey City, N. J., via New York, Susquehanna & Western, Erie, Central of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley, or Pennsylvania; Hoboken, N. J., via the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western. Class rates for 110 miles shall be observed as maxima.

"3. Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway stations:

"Class rates between points on railroads west of the Hudson River and points on the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway should be made on actual distance to and from St. George plus ten miles, except that where the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway loads or unloads carload freight, the New York harbor rates should apply as minima.

"4. Rates within the New York City group:

"(a) Between points in New Jersey north of the Kill van Kull, east of Newark Bay and the Hackensack River and south of Edgewater-Undercliff, and New York lighterage, floatage, and Brooklyn waterfront stations class rates should be based on the distance scale for ten miles, plus 5 cents per 100 pounds on each class.

"(b) Between points in New Jersey referred to in: (4) (a) and points on the Long Island Railroad within the city limits of New York City, class rates should be based on the distance scale for twenty miles plus 5 cents per hundred pounds on each class.

"C. Rates to and from points in New England.

"1. Where short-line distance is via the New York Central the basic governing rates to and from points in trunk-line territory should be applied.

Addition for Lighterage.

"2. Where short-line distance is via New York, New Haven & Hartford to and from—

"(a) New York City pier stations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, stations on the Long Island Railroad within the city limits of New York City, Brooklyn contract terminals, lighterage deliveries within the lighterage limits of New York Harbor and points in New Jersey north of the Kill van Kull, east of Newark Bay and the Hackensack River and south of Edgewater-Undercliff, rates should be based on forty miles added to the distance to the all-rail terminal of the New York, New Haven & Hartford at Harlem River, N. Y.

"(b) Points on Staten Island and in New Jersey (except those referred to in C-2 (a) on and east of a line beginning at Perth Amboy (including South Amboy); thence following the Perth Amboy branch of the Pennsylvania to Rahway; thence via air line to Cranford Junction; thence via the Central of New Jersey to Aldene; thence via the Rahway Valley to Newark Heights; thence via air line to Milburn (Delaware, Lackawanna & Western), northward to Essex Fells and Pompton Junction; thence following the New York, Susquehanna & Western to Hackensack; thence via an imaginary line east through West Englewood, N. J., on the West Shore and Englewood, N. J., on the Erie, to Fort Lee, N. J., rates should be based on fifty miles added to the distance to the all-rail terminal of the New York, New Haven & Hartford at Harlem River, N. Y

"D. Rates to and from points on Long Island outside New York City.

"1. To and from points on the Long Island Railroad outside the city limits of New York City class rates should be constructed by adding the following amounts to the first class rates and from Group A (embracing all points within the city limits of New York City served by the Long Island), rates on other classes to be determined by use of the uniform class percentages: (A) Group B, 7 cents; (B) Group C, 11 cents; (C) Group D, 21 cents."

Port District Equality Is Seen.

The Interstate Commerce Commission in its readjustment of Eastern class rates spoke out definitely for equality throughout the Port District, in the opinion of John F. Galvin, chairman of the Port of New York Authority.

Mr. Galvin pointed out that the commission had corrected prejudicial rates against New Jersey and certain parts of Long Island on shipments to and from New England, and had refused to treat the Port of New York differently from Philadelphia and Baltimore on shipments from the West.

"We urged the commission," Mr. Galvin said, "to make a single-rate group of long-haul traffic to and from New England points similar in extent to that recommended by the Examiner for traffic to and from trunk line and Central Freight Association territory.

"Under the commission's decision the territory between the Hudson River and the Hackensack River, and likewise points on the Long Island Railroad in the Port District, are placed on the same New England basis as Manhattan.

Taxi Driver Speeds to Pier, Catches Ship to Return $22,000

Last Saturday Selvridge drove Miss Caroline Hall from the Hotel McAlpin to the home of her cousin, Lyman D. Hall, at 22 East Thirty-sixth Street, and from there to the Panama Pacific Line pier. Miss Hall was starting on a world cruise. In the excitement of seeing her twenty-two pieces of baggage being placed aboard Miss Hall forgot her pocketbook, containing $2,000 and jewelry valued at $20,000

Selvridge found it and proceeded back to the Hotel McAlpin with it. He turned it over to Chief House Detective Austin Dennison, who had already been informed of the loss by Mr. Hall. Sailing time was in nine minutes. Selvridge made it, with a minute to spare.

Yesterday Mr. Hall paid $250 as a reward.

BOARD NAMED TO AID POLICE AIR CONTROL

Chamberlin, Byrd and Others Will Advise Commissioner on Regulations.

TO CURB CRIMINAL ESCAPES

Mulrooney Says Planes Are Used to Fix Alibis—Would List All Arrivals and Departures.

Advocating stricter regulation of local aeronautical and airport activities, Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced the appointment of an air advisory board yesterday, which will assist him in the further development of the aviation squad of the Police Department and make recommendations for the institution of several amendments to the air rules and regulations set up by his predecessor, Grover A. Whalen.

"The airplane is a great instrument for the criminal to create an alibi," the commission said. "In crimes committed in this city, a quick flight of an hour and a half to Saratoga might establish an alibi. I know of three cases, two coming in and one going out of the city, where criminals used planes and presumably their intention was such."

Clarence D. Chamberlin, aviation adviser to the Mayor's committee and other city departments, was appointed chairman of the new board. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was also appointed a member. The others on the new committee are Colonel John H. Howard, commandant of Mitchel Field, L. I.; Lieutenant R. F. Whitehead, commandant of the local branch of the Naval Reserve Air Service at Valley Stream; Edward Rickenbacker, former war ace, now vice president of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation at Teterboro Airport, and Major John Dwight Sullivan of Aviatos' Post 743, American Legion.

With Admiral Byrd as the only absentee, the board held its first meeting yesterday morning. Recommendations were made and discussed regarding new rules governing flying instructors at local airports and the keeping of police records of arriving or departing planes and passengers. No positive action was taken, however, the questions remaining open until the next meeting, the exact date of which was not announced.

Present at the first meeting in addition to the members of the new board was the commissioner, S. A. Willitts, local representative of the Department of Commerce; Inspector George Harwood of the Department of Commerce; Rodman Wanamaker 2d, aviation aide to the commissioner; Arthur N. Chamberlain, aviation secretary of the Police Department, and Acting Captain Arthur W. Wallander, head of the uniformed Police Air Squad.

Commissioner Mulrooney pointed out that several student fliers have been killed in training planes in which the exact status of the instructors was not a matter of record beyond their ordinary licenses as transport pilots. As there is no distinction in the Federal rules on this subject, the Police Commissioner recommended that instructors be required to hold specially granted permits as such after passing an examination into their pedagogical command of flying. With regard to the airport records the police head said:

"We also believe that airports should be regulated the same as are automobile garages, because they are growing so rapidly. The time will come when they will have regular passengers as railroad and steamship companies have, and we believe that the passengers should be registered as on steamships.

Regarding some of the other special innovations in the Police Department which were instituted by Mr. Whalen, Commissioner Mulrooney said that none would be changed. "Spring 3100" would go on in its periodical publication, the air force would continue along the lines first planned, and if anything, would be further developed if such advice were forthcoming from the new advisory board as practical for enforcing air law over the city, he added.

Magistrate Farrell on May 28, 1928, and received a suspended sentence.

For the third arrest, also for speeding, only the complaint was on file, with summons again missing. It showed that Badger had pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Ewald, and after an interval of four days, from Nov. 5 to 9, he was tried and acquitted by Magistrate Ewald. Sometime between these two dates the sale of stock to April, who accompanied Badger to Traffic Court, is alleged to have taken place.

Corrigan May Make Charges.

Photostatic copies of the "docket," and of requests for leniency and actual summons were completed last night by Mr. Tuttle's staff, and will go this morning to Magistrate Corrigan, District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain and to the Bar Association. Magistrate Corrigan said yesterday, after his conference with Mr. Ewald's attorney, Judge Talley, that if the evidence submitted by Mr. Tuttle warranted it, he would make formal charges to the Appellate Division.

The Appellate Division can remove a magistrate only after charges have been filed, and a request made by the chief magistrate that the Appellate Division act on those charges, Mr. Corrigan explained. He said that while his appointment for yesterday morning had been with Mr. Ewald, the fact that the indicted magistrate sent his lawyer instead probably spared both of them considerable embarrassment.

The defendants in the Cotter Butte case appeared before Federal Judge Patterson at 11:30 in the morning. Magistrate Ewald, his brother, Dr. Louis Anton Ewald, who was vice president of the corporation; Frank E. Metterlechner, secretary, and Francis H. Schirp, one of the promoters, were represented in court by Abraham Grenthal, a former Assemblyman. Harry C. Cotter, the president of the company, was represented by Raphael Koenig, son of the New York County Republican leader. Frank H. Bins, mine manager, had no lawyer in court other than Grenthal, but was said later in the day to have engaged a third lawyer.

All pleaded not guilty and bail in each case was set at $2,000, except for Bins, whose bond was fixed at $1,500, with Mr. Tuttle's consent. All were released in custody of counsel pending the posting of bonds. Magistrate Ewald, wearing a dark business suit, seemed self-possessed but serious, while his brother, Dr. Ewald, eyed those about him curiously while cases ahead of the Cotter Butte case were called.

Confer With Counsel.

Magistrate Ewald and Mr Schirp spent an hour with Mr. Talley in the afternoon at his offices at 51 Chambers Street. They had no comment to make when they emerged, except to deny vigorously that their counsel was in any way associated with counsel for Cotter.

Mr. Talley declared that the case had not progressed to the point where any statement could be made, even as to whether he or Mr. Grenthal would act as trial counsel. Meanwhile, Mr. Grenthal will handle the detail work, he said.

A woman who described herself as Mrs. Betty Schwartz Ewald called at the Federal Building yesterday afternoon. She told Assistant United States Attorneys Alvin McK. Sylvester and Thomas J. Curran that she was Magistrate Ewald's former wife, and that the two had been divorced in 1923. She had nothing of value to contribute to the government's case against the magistrate and was sent to the office of District Attorney Crain. There she was advised to return at 10 A. M. today and tell her story to the complaint bureau.

Four members of the city and county judiciary have retired from the bench under fire in the past year. General Sessions Judge Francis X. Mancuso resigned after he had been indicted for connection with the City Trust Company, Magistrate Albert Vitale was removed by the Appellate Division, after several investigations of his judicial and political conduct, and County Judge W. Bernard Vause of Brooklyn resigned after having been indicted in connection with the Columbia Finance Corporation.

The only case nearly paralleling the Ewald case in the last few years, was that of Federal Judge Grover M. Moscowitz of Brooklyn, who asked to be relieved of his duties pending the outcome of a Congressional investigation. He was cleared of misconduct but censured by a Congressional committee a short time after he had resumed his seat on the bench.

BROKERS' MANAGER HELD IN $7,000 THEFT

Former Camden Aide of New York Firm Is Arrested by Pennsylvania Traffic Officer.

Special to The New York Times.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 8.—Arrested here late today on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, Stuart M. Greene, former general manager of the Camden office of the J. C. Lipsey Company, Inc., investment brokers of 170 Broadway, New York, was held in jail to await the arrival of New York detectives who want to ask him about the disappearance two months ago of $7,000 of his firm's money.

William Michener, traffic officer, arrested Greene after he had bumped repeatedly into a car ahead of him, and finding the brokers' name card in the prisoner's pocket, George Bausewine, police chief, telephoned to Mr. Lipsey.

"Hold him," was the broker's request. "He disappeared eight weeks ago with $7,000 and we have been looking everywhere for him."

Greene is also wanted on charges of defrauding several hotels, among them the Commodore and New Yorker in New York. He is a former Detroit attorney.

T. T. Tommaney Promoted.

Thomas T. Tommaney, confidential investigator for Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee for the last five years, was promoted yesterday to the chief clerkship in the office of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley at a salary of $6,000. Mr. Tommaney succeeds John A. Bell, who resigned to become chief clerk in District Attorney Crain's office. He is a former newspaper man and a World War veteran.

BEER PLANT SEIZED BY DRY AGENTS HERE

McCampbell's Men Find 340 Barrels and Make 8 Arrests in East 11th Street.

Large Profits Made by Transfer from Kegs—Alleged Hard-Cider Shops in the Bronx Raided.

Agents of Andrew McCampbell, new Prohibition Administrator of this district, continuing their campaign against early morning distributors of beer, acted on a tip yesterday that resulted in a raid on an alleged bottling plant at 820 East Eleventh Street, where New Jersey beer, they said, had its bootleg value enhanced by from $35 to $45 a barrel.

The beer seized in this raid, according to Martin O. Hanson, Mr. McCampbell's assistant, sold for $15 a barrel, but the mere process of bottling enabled distributers to get $[illegible] or $60, he said, for the same quantity. The agents seized 340 barrels of this beverage, confiscated the elaborate equipment of the plant, and arrested eight men.

"Beer bottling," Mr. Hanson said, "is a profitable racket in New York. We intend to trail beer delivery trucks to their source and in this manner hit at the supply."

The agents, acting on a tip were on the lookout at 6 A. M. in front of an alleged speakeasy at 304 East Twenty-seventh Street. A large truck rolled up to the curb and stopped while one of its three passengers got out and unlocked the cellar door at that address. The other men prepared to roll in the beer. The agents seized the truck on which they found thirty kegs of beer and arrested Peter Kilroy, 307 East Twenty-seventh Street; William Connolly, 233 East Eighty-second Street, and Henry Kelly, 327 East Twenty-seventh Street.

The agents, re-enforced by other raiders, then visited the Eleventh Street address, a brick building, where they found three more loaded trucks, the bottling plant, and beer in bottles and kegs valued at more than $25,000. At the plant they arrested Max Alubstein, 441 East Sixteenth Street; Harry Green, 194 Henry Street; Isador Schwartz, 182 East Ninety-second Street, Brooklyn; Charles Brommer, 405 East Eighth Street, and Charles Cohen, 863 Forest Avenue, the Bronx.

Later in the day the agents seized another truck which they said was loaded with fifteen cases of Scotch, gin, rye, Benedictine and other cordials. The truck was found in a garage at 440 West Nineteenth Street, where the agents arrested Murray Harrow, 1,739 Union Avenue, the Bronx. The agents said they discovered thirty more cases in a store room in the rear of the garage, valued at $5,000.

After raiding two alleged hard cider shops in the Bronx, Mr. Hanson said that the stuff seized was as bad as bootleg whisky. It was his theory that it was "spiked up" sweet cider. At a "cider stube" at 978 Brook Avenue agents said they seized two fifty-gallon barrels of "hard cider," 390 bottles of home-brew, 200 quarts of whisky and arrested Emma Arbeit, alleged owner.

Late Monday night agents seized a freight car full of beer in the Erie Railroad yards at Goshen, N. Y. The beer, held in 250 barrels marked "wool softener," had been consigned, they said, to the American Woolen Mills, Bethlehem, Pa., from the Mayer Brothers Supply Company, Lakeview, N. J. Five other persons were arrested in four small raids late Monday.

Drinks Given for Market Tips Are Held Illegal in Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn., July 8 (AP).—It is illegal to give liquor to salesmen in exchange for tips on the market, Judge Nathan A. Schatz ruled in the Hartford Police Court today when he fined Frank Diamond a total of $150 on two counts, charging that he kept liquor with "intent to sell or exchange," and with having the reputation of "selling or exchanging liquor."

The court held that while no cash changed hands, Diamond, nevertheless, gained measurable benefits when he "passed the bottle."

RUM-RUNNING PLANS PUZZLING TO FRANCE

UNABLE TO TAKE ANY ACTION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 8.—The French Foreign Ministry confesses itself somewhat puzzled by reports from America that negotiations are under way regarding use of the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon for the purpose of supplying American citizens with French wines contrary to the law of the United States.

That a considerable supply of French wines is exported from these islands is admitted, and it is even believed possible that some quantity of them may be surreptitiously introduced into America. In the same way there are Americans who constantly attempt to bring into France more cigarettes than are permitted by law, being in ignorance of the fact that American cigarettes can be freely obtained here.

But when the Quai d'Orsay officials were asked today what the French Government intended to do about preventing the smuggling of liquor from St. Pierre and Miquelon, the reply was: "Just what can we do about it? It is not the French Government which is doing anything illegal."

At the American Embassy it was admitted that three separate requests had been made to the Quai d'Orsay for information about the amount of liquor these little islands consume. To the first request the polite answer was sent that there were no statistics available. The other two similar requests have remained without reply.

As a gesture of friendship to the United States the French Government could, of course, try to limit the amount of exports from the islands, but if the United States, with a large prohibition fleet, cannot prevent liquor being landed on the coast, how, it is asked, is France, at some thousands of miles distant, to prevent the good people of St. Pierre and Miquelon making of their islands a kind of depot for the supply perhaps of Greenland and Canada?

No American Protest Made.

PARIS, July 8 (AP).—The French Ministry of Colonies is keeping an eye on shipments of liquor to and from the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, but no official action of any kind has as yet been taken, according to official quarters.

The American Government at no time has protested at alleged shipments of liquor from these French islands to the United States. The Paris authorities are merely watching the situation, with a view to taking steps in case French law should be violated.

DRY ENFORCEMENT CENTRING IN EAST

JOINT REGULATIONS ISSUED

Old Dry Bureau's Rules Are Changed but Little—Prisoners Increase 1,700 in 3 Months.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Efforts of the prohibition administration to dam the flow of illicit alcohol for bootleg and "bathtub" gin are centring increasingly in the metropolitan sections of the East, where the major pressure of the new enforcement agencies is likely to be put on in the near future.

This was hinted today when it was disclosed that both the new Director of Prohibition, Amos W. W. Woodcock, and the commissioner in charge of alcohol permits, Dr. James M. Doran, had learned that the chief sources of the illicit fluid have shifted eastward.

Dr. Doran said that discoveries of alcohol plants west of Chicago have decreased in number, while to the east there have been evidences of increased supply in some quarters.

Diversion of industrial alcohol for gin and whisky manufacture has been cut down to less than 5 per cent of the total supply for that purpose, in the opinion of Dr. Doran, but the problem comes from the other source, the big illegal distilling plants making alcohol out of corn sugar.

Big Plants Are Coming East.

These big plants are being congregated in the metropolitan areas of the East, according to the findings of those charged with administering the prohibition and alcohol permit laws.

The first joint regulations issued by the Alcohol Bureau in the Treasury and the Prohibition Bureau in the Department of Justice were sent out to field administrators today. They incorporated the old regulations of the former Prohibition Bureau in the Treasury Department, with the exception of a few minor changes, and will serve as the joint rules until Sept. 1, when a revised set will be put in force.

With the publication today of Mr. Woodcock's call for a council of his twelve administrators, it was learned that Dr. Doran is contemplating a similar conference in the early Fall with the twelve new alcohol administrators created under the transfer act.

Under the orders given out today the industrial alcohol applications are to be handled by the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, the Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol and the Supervisor and Assistant Supervisor of Permits, instead of by prohibition officials.

Prison Population Grows by 1,700.

While the administrative officers were planning today for tightening up enforcement, it was learned at the Department of Justice that the Federal prison population had been increased by more than 1,700 since April 1.

The number of Federal prisoners was 27,401, as compared with 25,626 on April 1. At the latter date it was estimated that more than half of this number were prohibition prisoners.

Of the number today 13,551 were in Federal penitentiaries, institutions or camps, an estimated 13,500 were in county jails throughout the country, and an estimated 350 were in State prisons. The figures further emphasized crowding in prisons with 4,010 in Atlanta, where the capacity is estimated at about 1,600; 3,562 at Fort Leavenworth, 1,680 at Leavenworth Annex, 1,061 at McNeil Island, 1,491 at Chillicothe, 473 at Alderson Institute, 316 at Camp Bragg, 44 at Camp Dix, 66 at Fort Lee, 88 at Fort George C. Meade, 105 at Fort Riley, 161 at New York, 467 at the National Training School for Boys and 27 at Alderson Road Camp.

Approximately 100 sites are reported to have been offered to Attorney General Mitchell for the new Federal penitentiary for the Northeastern section of the country, recently authorized by Congress. Inspectors have been sent out to study the proffered locations, most of which are said to be near the New York-Pennsylvania border.

REPEAL PETITIONS FILED.

But North Dakota Act May Prevent Vote on Dry Laws.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 8 (AP).—Petitions bearing more than 20,000 signatures, sufficient to initiate a measure for the repeal of the State's prohibition laws, were on file with Secretary of State Robert Byrne today, but legal technicalities intervened, making it doubtful whether the proposal would be placed on the November election ballot.

J. A. Danielson of Minot, a representative of the group sponsoring the repeal movement, submitted the signatures to the Secretary of State, but not all the petitions were accompanied by affidavits as provided by law. Under the statute, every sheet bearing a group of signatures must carry an affidavit stating that the collector of the names witnessed the signatures. About 7,000 of the signatures in the petitions presented by Mr. Danielson did not have these affidavits.

Mr. Byrne stated that he would consult with Attorney General James Morris for a construction of the law before taking action on the petitions.

ASSAILS DRY ENFORCEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8 (AP).—Dr. James Franklin Smith, foreman of the retiring Federal grand jury, in a statement today attacked prohibition enforcement in San Francisco, which he said was 7 to 1 wet.

He called enforcement "stupid" and "laughable," and its processes "a species of chicanery." Undercover agents were called "chronic alcoholics."

"The lack of imagination on the part of the enforcement officers," the statement said, "prevents them from following the petty offender to the source. As a consequence a heap of minor cases are repeatedly presented for indictment and the record of enforcement is thereby gloriously swelled."

The grand jury recently was taken to task by Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan on the complaint of United States Attorney George J. Hatfield that the jury was balking at some of his presentment and refusing to indict.

TO REOPEN BRANCATI CASE.

Crain Aide Will Resume Inquiry Today on Physician's Disappearance.

Assistant District Attorney Daly, head of the Bureau of Investigation and Complaint of District Attorney Crain's office, will begin a new investigation today into the mysterious disappearance, in December, 1928, of Dr. Charles Brancati, a physician, from his home in the Throgs Neck section of the Bronx, leaving his large estate in a tangled condition.

Papers in the case were received yesterday by Acting District Attorney James E. McDonald from Acting District Attorney Israel J. P. Adlerman of the Bronx, and they will be made the basis of the investigation.

The Bronx grand jury recently declared the case was one for investigation by Mr. Crain's office. It was understood that information indicated the physician last was seen in Harlem before his disappearance. Mr. Crain's predecessor, District Attorney Banton, conducted an investigation of Dr. Brancati's disappearance in 1929, but announced at its close that nothing had been uncovered indicating that a crime had been committed.

The case again was taken up by the District Attorney's office in the Bronx, but, after a lengthy grand jury investigation, was sent back to the District Attorney of this county.

SAW ABDUCTION OF GIRL.

Richmond Pastor Says Man in Car Drove Miss McClenny Away.

RICHMOND, Va., July 8 (AP).—The Rev. Philip Nathans of Albemarle Avenue, Richmond, today told J. Ward Erb, local manager for a private detective agency, that he saw Miss Mary Frances McClenny, missing since July 1, forced into an automobile on that day and driven rapidly away.

The Rev. Mr. Nathans said he was sitting on his porch and saw Miss McClenny's auto crowded to the curb by another automobile. A man leaped from the car and forced Miss McClenny into his own machine, which was driven by another man.

No word has been received of Miss McClenny, the 20-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. McClenny of Hampton Gardens, since she left home Tuesday evening, July 1, to visit a friend.

AUBURN MUTINEERS LOSE FIGHT FOR LIFE

NEW TRIAL FOR BARBATO

He Said Third Degree Forced Confession—Zackowitz Also Wins Another Chance.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—The conviction of Claude Udwin, Jesse Thomas and William Force, Auburn convicts found guilty of the murder of Henry Sullivan, an inmate, on Dec. 11, during the prison riots, was affirmed in the Court of Appeals today and the prisoners, who now are in Sing Sing, will be taken to the death house in a few days.

Sullivan was one of the ringleaders of the riot. Three other prisoners, Frank Beagan, Albert Cassidy and Leo Lewis were acquitted of the killing.

The court granted a new trial to Joseph Barbato, convicted of the killing of Julia Masso Quintiero, who was found strangled to death in her apartment in the Bronx on Sept. 15.

Barbato contended that the confession he had made was obtained after the police had given him the "third degree." He confessed, he asserted, only to escape the punishment inflicted upon him. Judge Cuthbert W. Pound wrote the court's opinion. The police denied that they had mistreated the prisoner, but the evidence was that his body was covered with bruises and that his eyes were blackened.

Arata Decision Is Delayed.

Decision in the case of Peter Arata, convicted of the murder of James Tsemadis in New York in July, 1928, was withheld until the Fall session of the court. Arata was sentenced to be executed during the week of March 10.

With Arata was Dominick Rossi, James Woodbury and another man indicted as John Doe. Rossi pleaded guilty to manslaughter and received a twenty-year sentence, and Woodbury received a similar term.

Arata and the others had planned to hold up a restaurant in Long Island City, but abandoning the idea, returned to New York and went to a restaurant at 810 Sixth Avenue, which they held up.

The conviction of Hyman Hirsch, convicted in January of killing Dr. Jacob Cross, a New York City dentist, in 1927, was sustained. Hirsch, with Samuel Glotze, entered the dentist's office with the intention of robbing him. The dentist put up a fight and was shot down. Glotze escaped and is still at large. Another indictment found against Solomon Goetz was dismissed. Alfred E. Smith Jr. was Goetz's attorney.

The Court of Appeals granted to Anthony Mortellite, an Auburn prison inmate convicted of the murder of Principal Keeper Edward B. Beckwith in March, until Oct. 5 to make his appeal.

New Trial for Zackowitz.

A new trial was ordered for Joseph Zackowitz, convicted of the killing of Frank Coppola in Brooklyn Nov. 10. A previous trial had resulted in a mistrial owing to the illness of a juror.

Coppola and two companions were repairing an automobile in Devoe Street, Brooklyn. One of the men got under the car and Coppola said he would "be right with" him. Mrs. Zackowitz was passing at the time and told her husband that she had been insulted. Zackowitz returned to the spot and ordered the men to move on. When they refused, an argument arose and Coppola was fatally shot.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—The Court of Appeals, having affirmed the conviction of four men awaiting electrocution at Sing Sing prison, tonight fixed the dates for their executions.

The week of Aug. 18 was fixed as the time for execution of Hyman Hirsch.

Harold Marcley, sentenced to Sing Sing prison for life as a fourth offender, was found eligible by the Court of Appeals for resentence as only a second offender.

Receiving a life sentence in Nassau County after being convicted of grand larceny, first degree, for the theft of an automobile, Marcley sought a court order for his return to Nassau County to be resentenced, on the ground that two suspended sentences against him did not count as convictions, and that he was wrongfully sentenced as a fourth offender.

Marcley's claim was upheld by the Appellate Division.

BRADY ESTATE WINS ON TAX.

Court Also Upholds Prevailing Pay for State Labor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 8.—The State, contending that $7,500,000 of the $25,000,000 estate of James Cox Brady was subject to an inheritance tax, lost its case today under a ruling of the Court of Appeals.

A few years before his death Mr. Brady formed the Brady Securities and Realty Corporation and gave shares to his wife and children. Counsel for the estate maintained that these shares were not an integral part of the estate.

When the case was started in the Surrogate's Court at Albany, Surrogate Gilbert V. Schenck ruled that the stock was taxable, but the Appellate Division, Third Department, overruled the decision, saying it was not. An appeal was taken to the highest court, which affirmed the Appellate Division's ruling.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—In a decision handed down today the Court of Appeals ruled, in effect, that the State must pay any difference between the prevailing wages paid in a locality and that paid to laborers employed by the State in the same locality.

The decision was in the case of Othello M. Case, a carpenter of Lafayette, who was employed in canal construction from 1918 to 1928 at $6 a day. A law passed last year by the Legislature provided that laborers and mechanics in the employ of the State on its canals since April 1, 1923, might file claims for difference in wages received by them and paid by other employes in the same district. The Court of Claims also received jurisdiction to render judgment for such differences.

Case, bringing action under the new law, got an award of $5,120.68. Attorney General Hamilton Ward, contesting the suit in the Court of Claims, declared the law violated sections of the State Constitution prohibiting the giving of credit or money of the State to any individual.

The judgment of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court ordering the Morrill Realty Corporation of New York City to accept a deed from the Rayon Holding Corporation for real estate on Madison Avenue and East Thirty-seventh Street was affirmed by the Court of Appeals today.

The Morrill Corporation, according to the records of the lower court, contended that when the Rayon Holding Corporation agreed to sell for $5,590,000 it was stipulated that the use of the land could be restricted only by the zoning provision adopted by the City Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The Morrill Corporation alleged that later it found the property could not be used for business purposes. The Morrill Corporation brought suit to recover $50,000 paid as a binder and $5,000 to cover the cost of a title search. The Rayon Holding Corporation replied with a counter suit to force acceptance of the deed.

PROTESTS SPEED TRIAL OF BROKER

H. C. Proctor Held for General Sessions on Charge of Driving Auto While Intoxicated.

CASE PENDING 14 MONTHS

He Also Is Accused of Manslaughter and Fleeing From Accident in Which Woman Died.

Protests over the fourteen-month delay in bringing Howard C. Proctor, a bond broker, of 126 Grove Street to trial on three charges, including one of manslaughter, in connection with a collision between his car and another resulted yesterday in Proctor being held in $1,500 bail by Magistrate Renaud in the Traffic Court on charges of drunken driving and fleeing from the scene of the accident. He was held for the grand jury on the first charge and was ordered to trial in Special Sessions on the second. He furnished the bail.

The broker was alleged to have driven his car into that of Freda Blass of 344 Fort Washington Avenue, at Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street, on May 22, 1929. Miss Sadie Mitchell, 48 years old, of 647 West 174th Street, a passenger in the Blass car, was fatally injured. Two others in the car escaped with minor hurts. Proctor also was alleged to have sped his car to Union Square before he was overtaken and arrested.

A homicide charge was added to the other two on his arraignment in the magistrate's court the next day, but it was not until Nov. 26 that notice of the death of the woman reached the grand jury and an indictment charging second degree manslaughter was returned.

Proctor pleaded not guilty to this charge two days later when arraigned before General Sessions Judge Bertini. Since then the trial on the manslaughter charge has been adjourned three times. Meantime the hearing Proctor was to receive in the Traffic Court on the drunken driving charge and the allegation that he fled after the accident had been adjourned many times.

On every occasion, relatives and friends of the dead woman declared in the Traffic Court yesterday, witnesses to the accident had been assembled to testify, only to be sent away. Several of these witnesses insisted on an immediate hearing when the two cases came up again yesterday before Magistrate Renaud.

It was explained in the court that the disposition of the two lesser offenses was deferred pending the outcome of the charge in connection with the death of Miss Mitchell. When the attention of Acting District Attorney James E. McDonald was called yesterday to the long delay in the trials he said that the only case which had come to the attention of the District Attorney's office was that dealing with the manslaughter indictment.

He said it was the practice of the District Attorney's office to give preference in General Sessions trials to indictments returned against persons who were unable to furnish bail and had been held prisoners in the Tombs. When a reasonable number of such cases are disposed of, he continued, some of the indictments against persons at liberty on bail then were called for trial. He added that the problem was one that for many years had confronted the District Attorney's office.

CHIANG OPENS DRIVE TO RETAKE TSINANFU

700 KIANGSI BANDITS SLAIN

SHANGHAI, July 8 (AP).—While increasing banditry ravaged its Southern provinces, the Nationalist Government battled today to turn back invading rebel armies from the North.

A new Nationalist offensive was reported in Shantung Province to repel Northerners, who recently captured Tsinan and swept southward and eastward in a great arc reaching from Yenchow to Weihsien. Hostilities began today near Weihsien, government troops striving to recapture Tsinan and drive the rebels across the Yellow River.

Reinforced by troops from Eastern Honan, Nationalists were reported endeavoring to turn the left wing of the huge Northern battle line across Honan and Shantung Provinces after failing to dent rebel defenses in the centre at Kaifeng, Honan.

Apparently despairing of carrying Kaifeng by assault, as Nationalists expected him to do a few days ago, President Chiang Kai-shek said he was planning to wear down the asserted poorly supplied rebel armies and defeat them in a month. His Finance Minister, T. V. Soong, however, thought six months would be required.

Although attacked fiercely by rebels in Honan and Shantung, the government was forced to give heed to increasing banditry ravaging its Southern provinces.

Seven hundred brigands were killed in Northwestern Kiangsi, but other hordes ravaged Hupeh, Hunan, Chekiang and Fukien Provinces.

Fostered by famine, lawlessness has spread over Chekiang, accompanied by suffering and rice riots, while in adjacent Kukien bandits and rebels forced provincial authorities to appeal for aid to the imperiled central government.

Objects to Diplomatic Unity.

That China should no longer tolerate relations with the foreign diplomatic corps as a unit through the spokesmanship of the senior Minister was urged yesterday by C. T. Wang, the Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a speech at the weekly memorial service in Nanking, the Kuomin News Agency reports.

Dr. Wang declared that the Nationalist Government would not countenance such an abnormality there. In matters affecting the relations between China and the powers the diplomatic representatives have been accustomed to agreeing among themselves upon a course of action and to delegating the senior Minister to speak on their behalf.

Dr. Wang asserted that the diplomatic corps as such is nothing more than a social unit and that the diplomatic representatives accredited to China are entitled to the same treatment as is accorded to the Chinese diplomats in foreign capitals.

CUTS DAY OFF MAIL FLIGHT.

Canal-Miami Plane Makes Up Time Lost in Schedule.

MIAMI, Fla., July 8 (AP).—A full day was cut from the two-day flying schedule between Cristobal, Canal Zone, and Miami yesterday by the Pan-American Airways when a plane landed at the international airport here at 7:07 P. M. The plane left Cristobal at 8 A. M. for the 1,055-mile dawn-to-dusk flight.

The time was cut in order that mail destined for the North should not be delayed. The plane was unable to leave Cristobal for the northward flight Sunday and made the trip in one day to catch up on its schedule.

Basil Rowe, pilot of the twin-motored amphibian used, stopped at Puerto Cabezas and in Havana for refueling.

The northbound mail plane, scheduled to leave Miami at 6 P. M., was held over until 7:30 to take aboard the mail carried by Rowe.

The plane of the Eastern Air Transport, which carries the South American air mails from Miami to New York, arrived at the Newark Airport yesterday at 1:18 P. M., Eastern Standard Time. By its arrival with a load of 167 pounds of mail from Cristobal, Canal Zone, for New York it established a new record of 31 hours and 48 minutes for air mail time between the two ends of the line.

25-Mile Range Loud-Speaker Startles Residents of Berlin

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 8.—Residents of western sections of Berlin were startled late this afternoon by sounds of a giant orchestra playing selections which were audible in a circle twenty-five miles in diameter.

It developed that the strains, which were said to be equal in volume to an orchestra of 2,000 pieces, was coming from a mammoth new loud-speaker placed on the roof of the Siemens Experimental Laboratory in Siemenstadt. The loud-speaker, which requires a current of 120 amperes and weighs more than 100 pounds, has a salumin diaphragm a sixteenth of an inch thick, with a vibration of half an inch on either side of the centre. The vibration is strong enough to produce air waves which can be felt 150 feet away.

It is planned to attach the monster loud-speaker to a balloon anchored 3,000 feet aloft and broadcast from it a concert audible to the whole city.

LOSES FIGHT IN CHAMBER

But Premier's Defeat There Is Not of Consequence, Since He Did Not Make It One of Confidence.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 8.—In both the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate today the Left forces gathered together and summoned Premier André Tardieu's Government to pursue the narrow path of strict constitutionalism in all its dealings. In the Chamber a measure which was supported by the government, though it was not of its creation, was defeated. As a question of confidence had not been invoked this victory of the Left need have no consequence, but in the Senate, where M. Tardieu himself made the issue one of confidence, the government escaped defeat and a forced resignation by only five votes.

The Senate attack, led by Senator Jean Philip, was on the age-old question of anti-clericalism and freedom of instruction in the schools. The prefect of one department had forbidden the local school administrators and inspectors to attend a meeting at which a well-known Paris political writer and critic of the government was making an attack on the government because of its alleged slackness toward the sacred gospel of the secular State.

Senator Philip and others sought to put the government to the test whether or not it was truthfully and vigorously supporting the secular laws. M. Tardieu maintained that it was, but that the conduct of the prefect was perfectly correct in the circumstances. The two issues were joined in a motion of non-confidence and it was on the second clause that the government narrowly escaped defeat.

In the Chamber it was the long-discussed petroleum convention which gave the Left forces an opportunity to get together, with some recruits from the Centre. The issue was over whether a decree which was handed over to the French Petroleum Company in 1924 for 40,000 shares which France had received in the Turkish Petroleum Company should be ratified by Parliament.

The government's bill was for ratification and participation of the State in the company's activities as agreed in a convention of 1929. Minister of Commerce Flandin spoke for the government, urging that this participation secured the interests of the country at large.

All those, however, who were fearful of any monopoly such as seems to them to have been given to the French Petroleum Company joined forces with those who hold the Socialist view that the State should control the whole supply and opposed discussion of the second question until the first had been settled. The government project thus was defeated by 12 votes. It was announced that a new bill providing for ratification of the 1924 agreement would be submitted before the end of the session.

KING GEORGE PLEADS FOR PEACE IN INDIA

them all she has steadily advanced to her assured place among the great peoples of the earth. Of that advancement India House is in some degree a symbol.

At this critical period of India's history, when the thoughts of all who love that country are centred on constructive effort and on laying well and truly the foundation of the India of the future, I regard it as a happy augury that we are able to open a building which marks the end of one period of advancement and the beginning of a new.

But India House stands for more than that. As I look round me I see emblems of the religions, the Provinces and the States of India. This building which contains them surely testifies to the unity of India in herself. The position of India House among those of the sister nations, here in the centre of my capital, further symbolizes the unity of the greater commonwealth of which she is a part. For a deeper realization of that twofold unity I most earnestly pray.

During recent months I have watched with anxious heart the troublous passage of events. Trusting in divine guidance, I hopefully await the day that shall restore the gift of true understanding and thus unite every race and creed in one desire to bring peace and contentment to my Indian people.

On the successful issue of your plans I congratulate you, Sir Atul Chandra, and all those who have been associated with you. Foremost among these was Sir Herbert Baker, who has impressed his genius upon so many continents as the architect of more than one of the great buildings in the imperial capital at Delhi. It is most appropriate that he should also be the designer of this India House in London.

I now have much pleasure in declaring India House open and I trust it may not only serve the imperial progress of that country, but, by spreading sound knowledge, may it foster between the peoples of India and Britain that "wider sympathy" for which I pleaded many years ago and plead again today.

More specific discussion of the present situation, particularly of the Simon report and its relationship to the coming round-table conference, is expected tomorrow, when the government will make its long-awaited statement after consultation with the other parties.

King's Address Broadcast Here.

King George's address at India House was broadcast throughout the world.

The address was heard here yesterday over WJZ and WOR, beginning at 7:08 A. M., New York Daylight Time. King George spoke for only six minutes in response to Sir Atul Chandra Chatterjee, High Commissioner of India, whose words were not broadcast. A network of stations linked with the New York broadcasters carried the words of the British monarch throughout the United States.

Yesterday was the second occasion on which an American radio network broadcast the voice of King George. The King's début, in so far as American radio listeners is concerned, occurred on Jan. 21, 1930, when he opened the London Naval Arms Conference. Both short and long wave radio stations of the British Broadcasting Company were operated simultaneously yesterday to give the Indian House exercises the widest possible circulation. The short waves sent out by station 5SW at Chelmsford, near London, were intercepted at Riverhead, L. I., and carried by land wire to the WJZ headquarters here for broadcasting.

Radio engineers said conditions were exceptionally advantageous, with the result that there was practically no interference.

SEE REUNION STEP AT ANGLICAN PARLEY

SEX PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Dr. Knowles of Washington Stresses at Congregationalist Meeting Importance of Dry Law.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—There was a striking manifestation at the Lambeth conference today of the growing movement for intercommunion between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Anglican Church. A delegation headed by Patriarch Meletios of Alexandria was welcomed warmly by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, and by the Anglican Bishops who had been holding their second day's sessions at Lambeth Palace. The visitors included delegations from the churches of Constantinople, Cyprus, Greece, Bulgaria, Armenia and Poland and from the patriarchates of Rumania, Serbia, Antioch and Jerusalem.

"I offer heartfelt fraternal greetings," said the Archbishop of Canterbury, "on behalf of the Archbishops and Bishops of the Anglican communion assembled in conference. All of us must find great satisfaction in this signal step in the long growing rapprochement between the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Anglican communion. It is my earnest hope that the visit of the delegation and the conferences which will follow on the relations of the two churches will mark a still further step forward in the visible relationship."

The Patriarch of Alexandria was warmer and more outspoken than the Archbishop of Canterbury on the subject of uniting the churches of the East and West. Speaking in the name of the whole Eastern Orthodox Church he declared the delegation had come for the development of a fuller understanding and the promotion of a reunion between the two churches. He recalled incidents in the history of the association of the churches from the seventeenth century onward and expressed a feeling of "the naturalness of this formal contact."

The Archbishop of Canterbury then gave his blessing to the Bishops assembled in the Lambeth Palace library, and the patriarch added his benediction.

The conference today got down to the most controversial of the present-day subjects facing it, the problems of marriage and sex, of race, education, peace and war. Bishop Herman Page of Michigan was among the speakers in the discussion of marriage and sex, which occupied the morning session. In the afternoon debate the speakers included Bishop John C. Ward of Erie, Pa., and Bishop H. L. Burleson of South Dakota. The text of the speeches and the reslutions to be adopted will not be published until the conference is over.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOURNEMOUTH, July 8.—Prohibition in the United States was discussed before the International Congregationalist Conference today by Dr. William Knowles of Washington, who said it was more important in the minds of the American people than international relations.

"If there is any serious modification of the principle of prohibition the consequences will reach far beyind the borders of our own land," he said. "Of the effect of prohibition on youth, evidence is to be found on both sides and I defy the most skillful student of social phenomena to arrive at a final conclusion."

BORDER TRIBESMEN AGAIN MENACE INDIA

From a Special Correspondent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, July 8.—On the eve of the Viceroy's important speech to the Legislative Assembly, which all India is awaiting, fresh trouble is boiling up among the Mahsud tribesmen on the northwest frontier.

A force estimated to number 3,000, mainly composed of young men, assembled in the Razmak district, announcing their intention of attacking the Sorgha post, garrisoned by about 500 Waziristan scouts. It was reported the raiders already had succeeded in destroying a bridge, but thus far there has been no news of actual hostilities.

This fresh symptom of frontier unrest is disquieting to official quarters, although there are ample forces in Waziristan to cope with it.

It is believed the leading spirits in this agitation are the same who launched an attack on Datta Khel post in May. It is understood the elders of the tribes have been exerting all their powers to restrain their youngers, but the Afridis' raid on Peshawar, June 6, has fired the young men of the Mahsud country to emulate the example.

PESHAWAR, July 8 (AP).—Waziri tribesmen attacked two British posts and burned one yesterday, and late last night the Sararogha post was fired upon by a band of Mahsud raiders. In reply British airplanes have made a demonstration over three tribal villages.

CALCUTTA, July 8 (AP).—Mahatma Gandhi's campaign against industrialism with its machines and factories has been favorably received in the independent kingdom of Nepal, bordering on North India, where thousands of women are reported to have gone back to the old-fashioned spinning wheel.

Nepal, with a population of about 6,000,000, figures in the fame of David Ochterlony, born in Boston, Mass., the son of an American loyalist, who came out to the East in 1777, entered the Indian Army and was knighted for his conduct of the Gurkha War, and became known as Nepal's conqueror.

The Nepal Government has recently been considering ways and means of encouraging its people to patronize home industry. The Department of State Industries has begun a system of cotton seed distribution among the farmers, and the economic significance of the homespun movement is being explained to the people everywhere.

BODENHAMER IN WEST POINT

Commander Reviews Corps at Legion Day Celebration.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., July 8.—American Legion Day at the Military Academy here was celebrated today by Major O. L. Bodenhamer, National Commander, and approximately 200 legionnaires and their families from near-by towns. Escorted by Major Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent, Major Bodenhamer inspected the cadet camp and reviewed the corps.

After the review, which was under the command of Lieut. Col. Robert C. Richardson Jr., Major Bodenhamer said:

"Citizens visiting West Point cannot fail to have their faith in this nation strengthened. The historic site with its glorious traditions has a definite rôle in our national life, and to witness a parade of the corps of cadets is an inspiration."

Major Bodenhamer made the trip on William Todd's yacht Salemo. Accompaning him were Major William F. Deegan, Tenement House Commissioner; Colonel Richard C. Patterson, Commissioner of Correction; Dr. Schroeder, Sanitation Commissioner; William H. Raad, William Deegan Jr., Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, Major Joseph Dalton, Major Standiford Jarmon and Captain W. H. Wells.

VILLAGE IS REPORTED SWALLOWED BY QUAKE

Hills in India Declared Cleft by Tremor—Lava Flow Widens at Vesuvius.

DHUBRI, Assam, India, July 8 (AP).—An unconfirmed report reached here today that the Sahki hills had been cleft asunder by an earthquake and a village in Kanchigaon completely swallowed.

The earthquake which caused the tragedy was among the first of 112 shocks registered in the last few days.

The local hospital, treasury building and match factory have been damaged seriously.

NAPLES, Italy, July 8 (AP).—Boiling lava tonight continued to flow in the crater of Mount Vesuvius, which yesterday broke into eruptive activity, but issued from a single mouth instead of from three mouths, as yesterday.

This mouth, however, had widened to a diameter of thirty-eight feet and in a channel of thirty-five feet wide the lava flowed out at a rate of about one foot a second.

In twenty-four hours the zone covered by the flow has doubled. But the explosive activity of the eruptive cone continues to be moderate, and Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvian Observatory, still believes it will eventually die down without causing serious damage.

SEE FEW WITH ITALY ON PAN-EUROPE IDEA

French Expect Rome to Be in a Minority on Disarming and Inviting Russia and Turkey.

SHIFT ON FORMER DOUBTED

Mussolini Is Held to Be Demanding That Union Swallow a Camel Before Destroying Gnats.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 8.—Italy's reply to Aristide Briand's memorandum on the advisabilityof a European federal union will be one of twenty-six replies which the French Foreign Minister in his rôle as promoter of the idea will have to examine and on which, as was agreed last September, he will report to the meeting of the delegates of these twenty-six nations and France at Geneva in September.

The Italian reply will perhaps be found to be one of the most interesting because of the scope of its suggestions, but in some of these suggestions, it is expected, it will have to be classified as within a very small minority. There are only three and possibly four countries, for instance, which are likely to support Premier Mussolini's suggestion that Russia and Turkey be admitted either to the first meeting or to the federation. More than twenty of the total of twenty-seven are expected to be definitely opposed, and it is only in that sense that M. Briand will be able to make his report. What happens afterward will be for the assembled delegates to decide.

On the whole, Signor Mussolini's note is regarded as a considerable improvement on his speeches. It has struck the French as curious, however, that the man who recently talked of machine guns, airplanes and other instruments of destruction in one of his public speeches should so soon afterward be preaching disarmament as the first necessity for concord. Such a sudden change of heart is treated here as bearing signs of being an effort to please all schools at once and of demanding that the proposed European federal union swallow a camel before it attempts the destruction of gnats.

There again, however, Signor Mussolini's suggestion is likely to be one of those which will be supported by a minority. Among that minority, it is assumed, will be most of the defeated nations in the World War. The Fascist leader, the French say, has espoused the favorite theme of his country's former enemies and as a recruit to their camp will undoubtedly be welcomed.

The September meeting will not be only one of former victors and vanquished. It will contain neutrals, and Premier Mussolin's own suggestion that in this federation each country should be on a footing of absolute equality is likely to have unanimous support. Many of these neutrals, however, have already in the Geneva disarmament discussions gone on record that even a small measure of limitation is not a thing that can be done overnight and they are not likely to agree with Il Duce that because it cannot be done the federal union idea should be abandoned.

Perhaps at the Geneva meeting the French theory of security first and disarmament afterward may be the subject of a considerable attack. Its logic has never appealed to the hardier adventurers in the ways of peace. At least it will provide excellent matter for debate.

That it will prevent the development of a federal union is not, however, believed here. Even Signor Mussolini's reply has not gone so far as to reject completely M. Briand's proposal. Il Duce's tone, it is noted with satisfaction, is far less intransigeant than it was in a recent interview, and his apparent efforts to impose so many conditions that realization of the idea will be made difficult are not regarded here as necessarily likely to be successful in a meeting of twenty-seven nations.

SPAIN TO VOTE ON DEC. 1.

Government Appeals for Popular Support Meanwhile.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 8.—After a meeting of the Council of Ministers it was learned tonight that the government expects to have the voting census enumeration completed by Nov. 15, and therefore definitely has fixed the date for the Parliamentary elections as Dec. 1. Thus the Cortes may be convened before Jan. 1.

In a long official note the Berenguer Government appealed tonight for aid from the press and public opinion and promised definitely that Parliament would be convened before the end of the year.

The note is generally taken as a reply to newspapers and individuals who in recent weeks have stated the government was in danger. It says the Berenguer Government was first constituted of non-political elements and has only the national interest at stake. This may be intended to answer persisting rumors that on the King's return on July 18 several changes would be made in the government.

The National Monarchist party, composed of General Primo de Rivera's old supporters, has named a complete list of candidates for Parliament in all cities. Santiago Alba, disappointed at the results of bickering with Spanish politicians, says he will not return to Spain at present.

The question of stabilizing the peseta will be the first to be taken up by the newly elected Parliament in January.

The commission named by the government to regulate the sale of foreign currency through the Bank of Spain will not permit any overbuying of currency here.

RULES HAT ISN'T CLOTHING.

Controller General Rejects Federal Employe's Cleaning Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—Is a hat part of a man's clothing or isn't it? Comptroller General McCarl says it is not, so far as the government is concerned.

The regulator of Federal expenditures gave the verdict in disallowing a $1.50 expense account for cleaning a hat belonging to a government employe traveling on business. The government allows its traveling representatives $1.25 a week for cleaning and pressing clothes, but the comptroller says that does not mean hats.

The cleaning allowance, McCarl believes, covers such routine pants pressing as might be done at home without cost. Hat cleaning, on the other hand, is a less frequent undertaking which would be paid for anyhow.

REICH TO AID BRIAND IF PACTS BE REVISED

Will Consider Pan-Europe Plan on Condition of Changes in the Peace Treaties.

BERLIN, July 8 (AP).—Revision of the treaties by which Germany was bound after the war and a formula of equality for all nations were made known today as stipulations the German Foreign Office would make for consideration of France's proposal of a "United States of Europe."

The German reply to the memorandum of Foreign Minister Briand was the subject of a debate today in the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag, at the close of which it was said in semi-official circles that a majority favored an affirmative answer with reservations. Whether stipulations other than those reported had been raised as Germany's cooperation proviso was not revealed.

The reply was not made public and its contents will be made known only when it is handed to the French Foreign Office next week. It was understood, however, in political circles that the note stresses the points of the equal status of nations and equal security for all and urges, furthermore, that the cooperation of all European and adjoining nations, not at present parties to the proposed Pan-European union, should be assured from the start.

This was said to refer to the United States, the South American republics, Great Britain, Russia and Turkey.

Metropolitan dailies claiming to be able to give a reliable forecast of the reply state that M. Briand's proposition is regarded as coming within the purview of the League of Nations. All proposals of this nature, it is believed in Germany, should be submitted to the League in order that duplication of work might be avoided.

The points of agreement which Germany regards as most important, these papers state, comprise common economic and tariff questions as well as agricultural problems.

Problems involving the rights of foreigners, international passports and admission to citizenship are regarded by the German authorities as matters of absolutely European nature, the papers report. On the other hand, telegraph and telephone problems are world questions which go far beyond Pan-European limits, and it is therefore regarded as desirable that the cooperation of nations outside of Europe be obtained in solving them.

FEAR FOR FLIERS IN BOLIVIA.

Friends of Two Swiss Aviators Have Had No Word for Six Weeks.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 8.—Anxiety is felt in Berne concerning the fate of two Swiss military aviators, Lieutenants Haberlin and Vaccano, who were engaged by the Bolivian Government several months ago before the revolution. Six weeks ago the Swiss officers were reported to be fighting with General Galdino in a mixed air squadron in which several American aviators were serving under assumed names.

All the aviators were reported to have suffered greatly from the cold because they were forced to fly at high altitudes over mountainous country before bombing raids.

LINKS COL. LAWRENCE TO KURDISH REVOLT

Turkish Paper Says He Visited Area by Special Invitation—Sees New State Planned.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ISTANBUL, July 8.—The newspaper Vakit associates the name of Colonel T. E. Lawrence with the Kurdish insurrection, saying he lately visited Revanduz by special invitation. The paper says, "All these efforts tend toward the creation of a mixed Kurdish-Armenian State in our Eastern provinces."

The trial of the Kurdish leader Sela-ed-Dine, scheduled to be resumed today, is expected to be postponed until other alleged conspirators are brought before the same tribunal. Inflammatory literature seized at Mouche is supposed to have been printed by his organization at Aleppo and taken from there concealed in umbrellas.

The Persian city of Makou, headquarters of the Duelali tribe, is said to be the main centre of the Kurdish movement. It is understood here that since the advent of bolshevism, the Persian Government has retired its forces from the region, permitting to the tribes unlimited freedom of action. The father of the Duelali chief once enjoyed a high position under the Turkish Sultan.

Ararat dispatches report the bandits have suffered serious losses and have been forced to abandon some of their prisoners.

Colonel T. E. Lawrence, author of "Revolt in the Desert," has been the subject of many rumors concerning affairs in the Near East, and he failed to escape publicity when he served in the desert as 'Aircraftsman Shaw.' His name was mentioned in connection with the troubles in Afghanistan early last year.

Reports that he had visited Revanduz caused uneasiness in Turkey at the end of April, and the newspapers spoke of plans for an uprising.

SAY LIPTON VICTORY WOULD PLEASE US

SIR THOMAS STILL HOPEFUL

Believes Shamrock V Has a Good Chance—He Buys a Boat as Crew's Living Quarters.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—The Prince of Wales and Ambassador Dawes both paid tribute to the sportsmanship of Sir Thomas Lipton at a luncheon given for him by the Honorable Company of Master Mariners on the eve of his departure for America with the Shamrock V.

"I believe a win for Sir Thomas will be as popular in America as here," said the Prince, "for it will mean that at the age of 80 he brings back the cup that was won when he was one year old." While the Shamrock V has shown remarkably fine racing qualities, the Prince thought the owner's pluck called most for their admiration.

Ambassador Dawes said Britain had shown she possessed the fastest airplane in the world and the fastest motorcar. "If she produces the fastest yacht, America's disappointment will be assuaged by her appreciation of the fine sportsmanship of the veteran who is making his fifth attempt," he declared.

Sir Thomas caused much amusement by his reminiscences of the attempts he has made to bring back what he described as "that elusive old mug." He thought this time he had a fairly reasonable chance of success, the Shamrock V being a very fast boat.

Britain Says Farewell.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Britain today officially said farewell to Sir Thomas Lipton, the noted Irish yachtsman, on the eve of his fifth attempt to bring back the America's Cup. The Prince of Wales personally conveyed a message of godspeed to Sir Thomas at a complimentary luncheon at Fishmongers' Hall, which overlooks the 1,000-year-old Billingsgate fish market at London Bridge.

Sir Thomas is going to sail shortly with his Shamrock V for New York and Newport.

Sir Thomas, wearing his famous blue bow tie with white polka dots, rose to respond. He started out bravely to deliver his prepared speech from memory, but soon faltered, adjusted his spectacles and read the rest of it from manuscript. His 80 years, it seemed, were beginning to rest heavily on his broad shoulders.

His speech was a tribute to the Americans for their fair play and square dealing in many past races. Turning to the prospects of his Shamrock V, he evinced an enthusiasm which seemed to say, "I am not too old as yet. I am going to show them this time."

"Americans always won fairly and squarely," Sir Thomas reiterated. "If ever they made a mistake, I assure you it was in my favor."

United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who sat on the other side of the Prince of Wales, joined heartily in the general laughter when the Irish sportsman told funny anecdotes of his early American quests.

The American Ambassador and the Irish sportsman both drank a toast in water.

Just before he departed from the dining room the Prince of Wales turned again to Sir Thomas, saying, "I wish you the very best of luck, Sir Thomas."

It was stated authoritatively that the Prince had "given up the idea of witnessing the America's Cup races."

Buys Boat as "Home" for Crew.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 8 (AP).—The Miss Looff, built twenty years ago as an excursion boat and floating dance hall for the late Charles Looff of Crescent Park, has been purchased by Sir Thomas Lipton as a home for the crew of his Shamrock V during the September races for the America's Cup off Brenton's Reef. The boat is being refitted with staterooms, bathrooms and a galley, and will be ready Aug. 1.

Hungarian Hangman Saves Life Of Man in Attempt at Suicide

BUDAPEST, July 8.—Paul Balasz, Hungarian official hangman, successfully intervened today to save the life of a man who entered the Markogasse police station for the strange purpose of laying a complaint against himself. He told the police judge he had been guilty of slandering the Austro-Hungarian provision firm of Julius Meinz by falsely accusing it of a tax swindle and that his conscience now urged him to prosecute himself.

When informed by an official that it was impossible to accept such a complaint he drew a knife from his pocket and tried to stab himself at the moment the hangman entered the room. The hangman wrested the knife from him.

QUEEN MARY PICTURED AS 'REGULAR SMOKER'

Chroniclers Says Cigarettes and Lighters Are Supplied to Her Always After Dinner.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—The fierce light which beats about the throne has revealed Queen Mary as a "regular cigarette smoker," according to several British newspapers.

The Evening Standard says:

"The news is not at all startling. Long before smoking had ceased to be thought freakish or fast for the average English woman, royal ladies having cosmopolitan ways smoked, as did their French and Russian cousins.

"Queen Alexandra smokes, so do her daughters, though naturally they would not be seen smoking on formal public occasions, and it will be remembered that cigarette cases which appeared among Princess Mary's wedding presents were not sent by complete strangers."

It is stated that many ladies invited to royal banquets for the first time refrained from taking a cigarette after dinner for fear of displeasing Queen Mary. But they had been agreeably surprised afterward when her Majesty pressed them to have a cigarette with her.

London chroniclers aver that the Queen has a beautiful smoking set with lighters placed by her chair after she retires from the dining room with women guests.

MOVE AGAINST OTTO GROWS IN HUNGARY

PEASANTS OPPOSE COUP

Bishop Sees Restoration Plan Aimed to Strengthen Rights of the Bethlen Group.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, July 8.—The latest developments in Hungary indicate the Hapsburg restoration—which well-informed circles a few weeks ago confidently predicted for October, when the Archduke Otto comes of age—must be indefinitely deferred. Obstacles to Otto's following the example of King Carol of Rumania include not only the Little Entente's threat of military action but determined resistance in Hungary itself.

Opposition to the Hapsburg restoration in Hungary comes from two sources in the peasants, and more particularly the Protestant peasants, under the leadership of Bishop Desiderius Balthazar, and the "free electors," who defeated the last attempt of former Emperor Charles to return.

General Julius Gombos, one of Charles's captors in 1921 and now Minister of War, in a newspaper interview yesterday said he was unalterably opposed to Otto's enthronement.

"I stand fast by what I did in 1921," the Minister said, "and I am now and forever against the continuation of the legitimist principle."

He added he was for a free popular choice of a King for Hungary, but thought the time was not ripe for such a selection.

"Inherited monarchies are now as antiquated as Parliaments," he said. "The best of our citizens should stand at the head of the nation. The fear of a dictatorship is a theme of false democracy. If we made Otto King of Hungary that would only be a beginning. How long would it be before the Austrian legitimists would also undertake a 'putsch' and call Otto back to Vienna? Neither Germany nor Italy, not to speak of the Little Entente, would favor such a development. Another objection against Otto is that he is only 18 years of age. He has had no experience and would be ruled by a court camarilla. In Hungary we need no camarilla but a strong hand."

Bishop Balthazar's criticism of the Hapsburg restoration is that it is a scheme to strengthen Premier Bethlen and his landowner friends in the possession of their privileges.

It is the strength of the Opposition within the country that led Premier Bethlen to speak against any attempt at a Hapsburg restoration, in his speech to his constituents on Sunday. From the definite note of warning discernible in his remarks some observers say it might be inferred he had knowledge that some such a plan was afoot.

A statement that the Archduke Otto promised to permit his former rival for the Hungarian throne, the Archduke Albrecht, to marry the divorced lady of his choice in return for Albrecht's surrender of his pretensions to the throne and a declaration of loyalty, was made in yesterday's Esti Kurir.

The paper says the lady in question, Irene de Rudnay, divorced wife of Ludwig de Rudnay, who was formerly Hungarian Chargé d'Affaires at Sofia, is now living on her mother's estates in Yugoslavia, awaiting Albrecht's return from the South American trip on which he was sent by order of a family council held two months ago.

Albrecht's mother, the Archduchess Isabella, refused to permit the marriage, the newspaper adds. As a Hapsburg may not marry without the permission of the head of the family, on pain of forfeiting his title to the family estates, Albrecht asked the former Empress Zita to consent to his marriage. But the former Empress refused unless the Vatican would agree to annul Irene de Rudnay's first union. Otto, however, promised to give his consent as soon as he came of age, the newspaper says.

RESIGNED TREASURER DEMANDS TO BE TRIED

Theodore Tells Australian House Charges Are 'Damnably False' and Evidence Tainted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CANBERRA, Australia, July 8.—Ernest G. Theodore, former Treasurer of the Commonwealth, demanded before a crowded House of Representatives today that the government of Queensland frame a criminal indictment against him so he could reply to charges of fraud in connection with the Mungana Mines transactions.

"I demand a fair trial," the former Minister exclaimed, "and I am willing to undergo the humiliation that this form of clearing my name necessitates. I have given half my lifetime to the public service. I have high ideals, and I have kept my hands clean."

Mr. Theodore insisted his resignation from the Cabinet was in no way an admission that the Queensland commission's charges were justified.

"A fell injustice has been done and a fair opportunity must be given to clear my character," he said. "All the charges are damnably false and were founded on evidence which was tainted and false."

Prime Minister Scullin announced Mr. Theodore's resignation without comment on the Mungana report. Instead he paid tribute to Mr. Theodore's work at the Treasury. There were cries of "Hear! Hear!" from the government party and from ex-Premier W. M. Hughes when Mr. Theodore arose to speak.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SYDNEY, July 8.—Ex-Premier McCormack of Queensland, who has been suffering from a nervous breakdown, told the press today the Mungana report "reeked of political malice" and that his association with the Mungana Mines had been known in Queensland for the past thirteen years. He added, "I am particularly sorry for Mr. Theodore, who appears to have been singled out to be pulled down."

SIX DIE AS WAFDISTS CLASH WITH TROOPS

FIGHTING STILL CONTINUES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8.—Despite the government's strong precautions, which included the sending of 1,500 specially picked troops and police to Mansourah, former Premier Nahas Pasha's visit to that town this afternoon caused bloodshed. The fighting is still continuing after ten hours.

The former Premier had been informed that only guests invited to a luncheon in his honor would be permitted through the military cordons. His car, however, on the drive from the station was boarded as usual by ardent supporters, numbering about thirty. Speeding up, it broke through the first cordon, but at the second it was held up by bayonets of the troops, which inflicted two casualties among those hanging on. In the fracas a prominent Wafdist, Sinnott Hanna Bey, was bayoneted in the arm.

After this mêlée crowds attacked the troops and police with stones, bricks and bottles filled with sand, killing three and wounding thirty-four, one dangerously. The total civilian casualties were three killed and twelve wounded.

The crowd tried to lynch one policeman by hanging him from an upper window with a telephone wire. Fortunately, it broke and the policeman fell to the ground comparatively uninjured. Another policeman was savagely attacked in a doorway, but was rescued in the nick of time.

The troops behaved with great restraint, but toward nightfall showed signs of becoming ungovernable owing to the hostility of the mobs, whereupon the Governor of the province gave orders to the mounted police to charge in order to relieve the pressure of the troops.

A tense atmosphere reigns in Cairo, where Nahas Pasha is returning tonight, and observers feel a strong revolutionary movement is under way. That the riot was prearranged by the Wafdists is held to be proved by the fact that information was lodged last evening before the Parquet [board of judges] that bags and bottles were being filled with sand in preparation.

COURT FINDS FOR TROTSKY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DRESDEN, July 8.—The publishing firm of Reissner lost its appeal here today against the findings of the lower courts in favor of Leon Trotsky in the suit brought against the exiled Communist leader for failure to fulfill the terms of a contract which he made with the firm for the publication of two of his books.

The court, in declaring the suit unproved, cited the point made by M. Trotsky's lawyers on behalf of their absent client, that the contract was worthless since the publisher had failed to notify the author of important last-minute changes made in the contract before the latter's representatives signed it.

The court added it considered M. Trotsky had suffered real injustice in not being informed by the Reissner firm that it was bringing out a book by M. Kerensky, an enemy of M. Trotsky, whom the latter had personally ordered to be arrested.

M. Trotsky had contracted with the Reissner firm for two books, but he refused to send his manuscripts from Istanbul when he learned the firm was also handling the book of M. Kerensky, in which the latter had much to say against M. Trotsky.

SAY NEW YORK BRIDE DIED BY ACCIDENT

PARENTS WILL SAIL FRIDAY

Authorities Want to Ask Mrs. Arents About Medicines in Cabinet She Gave Daughter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, July 8.—According to a police statement issued tonight the death of Mrs. Dorothy Arents de Konkoly-Thege yesterday was accidental, a result of taking poison in mistake for medicine. With her husband, Julius de Konkoly-Thege, she dined Saturday at the American Legation. On leaving she complained of indigestion, and her husband proposed that they stop their automobile and get some medicine at a druggist's.

"Never mind; I have got some medicine at home," was Mrs. Konkoly-Thege's reply.

When they arrived at the Ritz Hotel, where they had been staying, the husband stopped to talk with the head porter while Mrs. de Korkoly-Thege went to her room. A few minutes later she telephoned for him to come upstairs as she felt very ill. He ran upstairs and found his wife lying on her bed in convulsions. He caught her up in his arms, carried her to their automobile and drove at top speed to a sanitarium. There doctors used a stomach pump, but death followed twenty-four hours later.

The police inquiry today showed that when Mrs. Konkoly-Thege left New York her mother gave her a traveling medicine chest containing bottles full of pills and solutions. Asked by her husband how she came to take poison, she answered, "I never saw any poison. I only wanted something for my indigestion."

How such a deadly poison came to be in the medicine chest is a matter which the police will ask Mrs. de Konk-Thege's parents to clear up when they arrive from New York.

The police so far have not ordered an autopsy, but at the parents' request the funeral is being delayed until their arrival. There would be time for an autopsy if necessary.

The young couple moved in the best social circles and had been the guests, among others, of the Premier, Count Stephen Bethlen de Bethlen. Mr. de Konkoly-Thege is ill in bed as a result of the tragedy. His mother told your correspondent: "My son is so ill the doctors have prohibited his communicating even with the police. There can be no question of suicide, as my son and Dorothy spent the happiest honeymoon."

Dudley Wood, a cousin of Mrs. de Konkoly-Thege, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. George Arents Jr. at 6 East Seventy-seventh Street, said yesterday the family had been advised that Mrs. Konkoly-Thege died of ptomaine poisoning.

The husband of the dead woman cabled Mr. Arents on Sunday that his bride was ill and had been taken to a hospital on Saturday. On Monday he telephoned Mr. Arents the news of her death, Mr. Wood said, and later in the day Mr. Arents telephoned to him.

Funeral plans have not been made. Mr. and Mrs. Arents will sail on Friday for Europe.

CHICAGOAN ROBBED OF $100,000 JEWELS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 8.—Jewels valued at $100,000 were stolen this morning from Mrs. Cora B. Hyman of Chicago at the Imperial Hotel in Carlsbad.

The principal item stolen was a pearl necklace valued at $92,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Mrs. Cora Hyman, who makes her home with a sister in Glen Coe, a North Shore suburb, is traveling with Miss Clara Hyman and Mrs. Charles Stonehill of Glen Cove, her sister-in-law and sister.

The Stonehill mansion, on Sheridan Road in Glen Cove, is one of the show places of the North Shore. Extensive Italian gardens surround a house said to have been erected at a cost of $1,000,000. It is a copy of the Petit Trianon, in the gardens of Versailles, near Paris.

Inside is a collection of antiques gathered from many corners of the world, the result of twenty-five years' quest.

A few years ago liquor thieves broke in during the absence of the family and carted away liquors and champagnes estimated at from $2,000 to $3,000.

AIR MAIL LINES TO EXPAND.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Additional air mail lines will soon be in operation in South America, under advertisements shortly to be issued by Postmaster General Brown for a line to give service from Paramaribo to Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro.

When the service is awarded the United States Postoffice Department will have air mail lines practically surrounding South America from a point east of Santiago, Chile, to Buenos Aires. Service will also be in operation in all the Central American countries, Mexico, Cuba, Jamaica, Porto Rico and the islands in the Caribbean Sea.

"The growth of the service to South America has been most rapid," W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General, declared, "and the calls that are made upon it are most unusual. Just recently a smallpox epidemic hit Costa Rica. President Quiros Aguilar used this most modern means of transportation to bring smallpox vaccine to points in his country, from Indianapolis, in five days.

"The United States is in the forefront of air mail development in Central and South America. From now on this service will be improved."

Zeppelin on 3-Day Cruise For View of the Midnight Sun

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, July 8.—The Graf Zeppelin departed just before midnight tonight for a three-day cruise to North Cape, under charter of the Swiss Automobile Club, twenty members of which are availing themselves of the opportunity to make a quick visit to see the midnight sun. Dr. Eckener is commanding.

The Graf Zeppelin will take a direct course to the northwest point of Norway, then over Hammerfest and around North Cape. There is a possibility the cruise will be extended to include Spitsbergen if conditions appear favorable. No halts are planned.

Weather reports at present indicate the ship will have strong headwinds to fight while northward bound. The ship is due back Friday evening or Saturday morning.

COURT BACKS COSTE IN CHANGING RADIO

FLIER PUTS SAFETY FIRST

Says Old Instruments Caused Difficulties—Question Mark Now Awaits Good Weather.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 8.—Captain Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte, in the midst of their preparations for their transatlantic flight from Paris to New York, were haled into court today because they had decided to change the wireless equipment of their plane.

The court appointed experts to make an investigation, but it is not likely the incident will interfere with the transatlantic attempt, since an injunction preventing their departure was denied.

The case against the aviators was preferred by the makers of the original wireless installation which was used last year and also during the test flights when they learned Captain Coste had removed the equipment from the plane. It was asserted the aviator was under contract to use their equipment.

Captain Coste, accompanied by Maurice Bellonte, appeared in court to answer the charges. He was represented by Maître Lecoq de Kerland, who is himself a well-known war aviator. Citing the declaration made by Major Charles Kingsford-Smith that without radio the Southern Cross could not have landed safely at Harbor Grace, M. de Kerland maintained the flier had the right to select the wireless apparatus and instruments which he believed to be the most reliable.

Captain Coste said the wireless equipment of his plant, the Question Mark, had never been entirely satisfactory and he had experienced difficulties with it, both on the transatlantic attempt made last year and in the numerous trials made in recent weeks. He admitted he had ordered it to be removed when the mechanics began the installation of the new engine last week, and added he had selected another wireless outfit which he was confident would prove a great improvement. He regretted he could not fulfill the contract with the manufacturers, but asserted such a question, which entailed the security of the plane, should not be considered binding, like an ordinary business agreement.

The court denied an injunction to prevent the Question Mark's departure, and it is believed the airmen will leave when the weather conditions are favorable, leaving the lawsuit to be settled as best it can be.

Captain Coste still has not fixed the date for the flight. The plane is now in readiness, but the aviator is waiting. Asked if he would fly with the full moon now nearing, Captain Coste replied he considered the full moon of minor importance. "I will fly when I think the conditions are favorable," he repeated.

REALTORS AT TORONTO ASK TAXATION REFORM

Progress in Elimination of Overlapping Levies Viewed by Directors.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, July 8.—Preliminary to the opening of the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards here tomorrow addresses were delivered today before the States Council section of the association. One address was by George E. Lilley of Phoenix, Ariz., and the other by William H. Daum of Los Angeles.

Problems which must be faced by the eleven public land States if President Hoover's proposal is carried out to turn back public lands to the States were outlined by Mr. Lilley.

Mr. Lilley said, in reply to the question "Should all lands except national forests, national parks and Indian reservations be turned over to the States?" that 55 per cent of the States favored State ownership and 45 per cent were content to have the public land administered by the Federal Government. Eighty per cent of the replies favored giving the States full control of all classes of land, but 20 per cent replied that the government should control the coal, mineral and oil lands.

Mr. Daum said the California Association is laying plans to enroll property owners in its membership lists.

In an efofrt to prevent the overlapping of State and Federal taxation, directors of the National Association held a lengthy discussion. Leonard P. Reaume, president, read the report dealing with the matter, in which he stated that progress was being made to eliminate some of the overlapping of taxes.

A drop of about 1,500 from the registration anticipated, was reported, with only 2,500 members ready for the sessions, as compared with the usual figure in recent years of 4,000. Te falling off was attributed to the recent depression.

CIVILIAN AIR PARLEY STARTS AT GENEVA

WORLD COOPERATION URGED

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 8.—The absolute need of international cooperation for the development of commercial aviation was urged in statements by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Dr. Hugo Eckener and General Italo Balbo, Italian Air Minister, read to the air experts of thirteen countries by the chairman, Louis de Brouckere of Belgium, at the opening of the League of Nations' first conference on civilian air transit here this morning. Colonel Lindbergh's statement, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES today, being by far the "meatiest" of the three, made the deepest impression.

The afternoon session was devoted to preparing the agenda and hearing résumés of the monographs the League secretariat has had several experts prepare on the economic, financial, legal, administrative and military aspects of the question of international air transit, summaries of which THE NEW YORK TIMES has already published.

The American member of the committee, John Ide, Paris representative of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, was unable at the last moment to attend and was replaced by the Vice Consul at Geneva, James Riddelberger.

Public Is Barred.

To the general astonishment, the committee of experts did not admit the public to today's sessions. Even some League officials are unable to understand what need there is for such privacy on civilian aviation or how air experts, who complain of the deficits of commercial air lines, expect to get the public airminded or behind the movement for cooperation when they meet in secrecy. Criticism was such that hope is growing that the committee will change its mind and hold public sessions.

Dr. Eckener's statement read:

"As a result of the success of the world flights recently undertaken, we think it can be regarded as proved that air navigation is destined to render valuable services in the sphere of passenger traffic and mail-carrying, especially when great distances have to be covered. The enthusiasm with which airships have been greeted everywhere in foreign countries, both when flying and landing, emphatically demonstrates that air traffic is likely to bring peoples nearer together by affording them an opportunity of appreciating foreign achievements and understanding the value of these achievements for civilized humanity.

"If, however, world-wide air traffic is to be organized, suitable agreements must be concluded between individual States, taking into consideration their legitimate requirements. But this will only be possible if air traffic develops in an atmosphere of good-will and not one of mistrust.

"One cannot therefore but greet with great satisfaction all efforts which may insure the closest possible cooperation between different countries in the sphere of civil aviation. Such efforts will powerfully assist the development of international air navigation. Only when the nations work together in trustful cooperation will humanity be able to share the benefits which may be anticipated from the new improvements continually being achieved in the technical field."

Balbo Stresses Safety.

The need for greater safety was stressed in the statement by General Balbo, which read:

"Air traffic has made enormous strides during the past five years. A network of air lines connecting all the large centres has now been marked out in the skies of Europe and forms an ideal link among all the nations regardless of frontiers.

"In my opinion, the secret of the development and consolidation of civil aviation lies, above all, in increasing safety. In Italy recently we concentrated on adding to the guarantees of safety, improving personnel and material and establishing more frequent service on some of the principal lines rather than increasing the number of lines. We shall adhere to this method, which so far has yielded excellent results.

"It is a well-known fact that civil aviation is subsidized in every European country. Several years of work on various technical improvements as well as a careful recruiting of personnel and judicious propaganda which calls for action rather than words will be necessary before it becomes a paying proposition.

"For the development of commercial aviation on international lines, I consider that all nations should adopt the principle of effective cooperation in air navigation with a view to simplifying the existing regulations by which it is still hampered. It is on this principle that international legislation in the sphere of air navigation should be based.

"Only on these conditions can civil aviation in Europe progress as rapidly as we desire."

By The Associated Press.

SYDNEY, Australia, July 8.—Totally blind in his right eye for thirty-three years, Stephen McCormack, manager of the Griffith Fruit Company, has had his eyesight restored by an accidental finger poke in the eye.

Thirty-three years later McCormack was exercising with a medicine ball when a companion accidentally poked a finger in his blind eye. He was seized with excruciating pains in the head, and suddenly his eyesight returned.

Southern Cross Goes to Santa Maria

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8 (AP).—The Southern Cross, around-the-world airplane, left San Francisco today for Santa Maria, Cal., where Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who flew it from Oakland to Australia, then England, New York and back to Oakland, will offer it to Captain G. Allen Hancock, backer of the original Oakland-Sydney flight. "If Captain Hancock wants the plane, it is his," Commander Kingsford-Smith said.

CONAN DOYLE BURIAL TO BE ON HIS ESTATE

SPIRITISTS PLAN MEETING

London Groups Hope to Receive "Messages"—Demand for First Editions Grows Keener.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle will be buried on Friday in the garden of his home at Crowborough, Sussex, a few yards from the outdoors study where the creator of Sherlock Holmes spent many days devising the plots of his stories.

Lady Doyle and the family, in choosing the site of the tomb, made plain that they wished the funeral to take place within the grounds of the estate. There will be no Church ritual and the brief burial ceremony will be entirely conducted at the side of the grave.

However brief and informal the ceremony may be, one member of the family said it would be open to "any sympathizers who may enter the grounds and attend the funeral."

A memorial service for the dead author and spiritist leader will be held in Albert Hall, London, on Sunday by two London spiritist societies. Many believers hope that at this meeting the spirit of Sir Arthur will communicate with them. Several prominent spiritists will speak.

Some of the rumors about plans made by Sir Arthur to communicate with his family or friends received a dash of cold water today from the family itself. The report that he had left his fingerprints for use in checking his identity if he attempted to get in touch with them from beyond the grave was denied by one member of the family.

"He was much interested in Margery, the American medium, and her experiments in that direction," this person stated, "but he has left no fingerprints for his own idetnfication."

The death of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, has resulted in an increased interest on the part of book collectors in first editions of some of his stories, it was learned yesterday. There has not been wide demand among collectors for his works, although some of his volumes bring relatively high prices. Copies in the pristine condition which collectors covet are hard to find, since the volumes achieved immediate popularity, and, consequently, are generally found now in worn condition.

Sir Arthur's earlier volumes are more in demand among collectors than his later work. A first issue of the first edition of the "Sign of Four" is quoted around $250, the price varying according to condition. First editions of his "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" and "Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes" sell as a set at about $225 to $250, a set in fine condition being worth as much as $300. First editions of "The Hound of the Baskervilles" and "The Return of Sherlock Holmes" are priced at from $25 to $30 each.

VETERANS' BUREAUS UNITED BY HOOVER

He Signs Order Consolidating All Government Agencies Affecting Ex-Soldiers.

GEN. HINES PUT IN CHARGE

Personnel Changes Will Be Gradual and Gen. Wood Will Remain as Head of Home.

ECONOMIES ARE EXPECTED

Budget of $800,000,000 Makes New Organization One of Most Important, President Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Announcing that he regarded it as one of the most important steps since he assumed office, President Hoover today signed an executive order consolidating all the agencies of the government affecting war veterans, and at the same time named Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, now director of the Veterans' Bureau, to be "administrator of veterans' affairs."

The executive order carries out authority from Congress to coordinate the Veterans' Bureau, the Pensions Bureau and the Soldiers' Home under one head. The changes in personnel of the Pension Bureau and the Soldiers' Home will be brought out by degrees, and Brig. Gen. George H. Wood will remain as head of the home, while the Pensions and Veterans' Bureaus will be administered by acting directors.

Stating that the consolidation would make for greater economies and efficiencies, the President added that the combined budget for the veterans' work would reach $800,000,000 for the present fiscal year.

Bureaus to Be Reorganized.

"One of the most important steps taken in reorganization of the Federal Government was the legislation carrying out my recommendation for the consolidation of all veterans' agencies—that is, the Veterans' Bureau, an independent establishment; the Pensions Bureau, from the Department of the Interior and the Soldiers' Home from the War Department," the President said at his press conference today.

"The bill places large authority in the hands of the President for the consolidation and reorganization of these bureaus under the title of the 'veterans' administration,' with the appointment of a new head to be called 'administrator of veterans' affairs.'

"I have prepared the necessary executive order in compliance with the authority under the act.

"It is proposed to continue the Veterans' Bureau for the present, also the Soldiers' Home and the Pensions Bureau, as separate divisions under the veterans' administration, but to transfer certain functions from one to the other, so as to bring about economies and avoid overlaps.

"The transfer of functions will take place gradually and without disturbance to the administration.

"General Wood will be continued as head of the Soldiers' Home. The board of managers will probably be constituted into an advisory board. The Pensions Bureau will be administered by an acting commissioner of pensions for the present; the Veterans' Bureau by an acting director.

General Hines to Aid.

"I propose to appoint General Hines as 'administrator of veterans' affairs.' General Hines has been offered a very important commercial position, but has agreed to remain on temporarily to give me the advantage of his wide experience in reorganization of the new set-up.

"As I have said, we will be able to make important economies in administration of hospitalization and domiciliary questions and in the better handling of fiscal relations with veterans throughout the entire organization.

"The consolidated budget of these services for the present fiscal year amounts to approximately $800,000,000, so that the new establishment becomes one of the most important functions in the government."

BROGAN OPPOSES FOLEY.

Seeks Re-election to State Committee From Westchester.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 8.—Dissension within the Democratic ranks in Westchester County came to the surface today in an announcement that Thomas A. Brogan of Yonkers would seek re-election this year as State committeeman. The announcement followed reports that Harry T. Foley, whose resignation as county leader has not yet been accepted, would oppose the re-election to the State committee of Mr. Brogan and William J. McGeory of Yonkers.

Mr. Brogan had said last Fall after his re-election to the State committee that he would not run for the post again. His change of mind was seen as the result of dissension which arose at the time the appointment of a successor to Supreme Court Justice Frank L. Young was under consideration. Then some Yonkers Democrats in opposition to Mr. Foley had a candidate of their own for the post against John B. Coyle, the choice of Mr. Foley and the majority of the Westchester organization. At the county committee meeting of June 23 Mr. Foley's advice to local Democrats to look into their own organizations was interpreted as an indication that Mr. Foley would fight this "disloyalty."

DIVORCE WAS NOT GRANTED.

Associated Press Corrects Error in Report of P. R. Hershey Suit.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 8 (AP).—In a dispatch carried by The Associated Press yesterday it was erroneously stated that a divorce had been granted to Paul R. Hershey of Hershey, who had alleged that his wife, Mrs. Edna M. Hershey, had misrepresented her age prior to their wedding.

This was contrary to fact, the master in the proceedings having recommended that no divorce be granted because the evidence presented was insufficient to support the allegations of the husband.

Counsel for Mr. Hershey has filed exceptions to the rule of the master, and the case will be argued in Dauphin County Court on Oct. 1.

BARTLETT RADIOS ARCTIC MESSAGE

Explorer's Dispatch Shows the Schooner Morrissey Was Off Jan Mayen Island on July 6.

GOING TO SCORSBY SOUND

Live Animals as Well as Data on Ancient Eskimo Are Objects of Expedition.

By CAPT. ROBERT A. BARTLETT.

Copyright. All rights reserved.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON BOARD THE SCHOONER MORRISSEY, at Sea, July 6.—We are near Jan Mayen Island. Lat. 70 degrees N., Long. 10 degrees W. Radio conditions improving, but can only work Europe now. Hope for better luck later. All well.

This brief message, giving the position of the Bartlett East Greenland expedition, which left New York June 5, took a roundabout way to reach THE NEW YORK TIMES. It was sent from a point in the Arctic Ocean about 220 miles north-northeast of Iceland, the Morrissey's last stopping place. The ship put out of Reykjavik June 3.

After Ed Manley, the Morrissey's wireless operator, had tapped off the message it was picked up somewhere by a ship at sea. The identity of this vessel and its location were not given by its operator, who retransmitted the dispatch in a general broadcast, giving only his call letters, XW-I-M.

E. E. Preston, an amateur operator in West Haven, Conn., picked it out of the air late Monday night and relayed it to THE TIMES. He said there might have been more to the message, but the signals from the unidentified ship became weaker and eventually faded into complete silence.

With better radio conditions in prospect, the Morrissey should be able soon to get in touch with THE TIMES station. Its powerful 500-watt transmitter, operating on a low-wave length, has a normal range of more than 2,000 miles, and when conditions are perfect the range is limitless.

Jan Mayen Island, the little volcanic area that stands, a lonely sentinel, in the "blind corner" of the so-called cradle of storms in the vast sea of ice, is inhabited by only a few men who send weather reports to Norway.

Captain Bartlett may stop there a day or two to take some soundings off its rocky shore before he steers westward for Scoresby Sound, the goal of his expedition.

After the schooner negotiates the risky passage into the sound, Captain Bartlett, Harry Whitney and Junius Byrd will begin to assemble data and relics of the ancient Eskimo tribes on the desolate northeast coast of Greenland for various American museums. Animals for the Philadelphia Zoo will be trapped and brought back alive in cages.

Captain Bartlett hopes to have all his material by the end of September. Then, if conditions are right and if no sudden sweep of ice from the polar sea hems the Morrissey in, the expedition will start homeward.

With weather conditions favoring them, Captain Bartlett and his crew of ten may be back in New York by October. They intend to maintain contact with THE TIMES by wireless, and will flash reports of any important finds by the digging parties.

AMBUSH PALESTINE POLICE.

Marauders Kill One of Two Atacked Near Acre.

HAIFA, Palestine, July 8 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Two mounted members of the Palestine police force were ambushed today on the highway between Safed and Acre by unknown assailants. One of them, named Abdul Koubash, was killed.

The police, who are investigating this latest of a series of attacks by marauding bandits, believe it to be part of a regular campaign of depredations.

LODI TAXPAYERS ASK MAYOR'S RESIGNATION

Midnight Meeting Breaks Up in Disorder as He Refuses—Counsel Released.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 8.—Former Assemblyman William de Lorenzo of Hackensack and Jack Rinzler of Passaic, who have been representing the officials of Lodi Township as counsel in the sewer contract investigation, were notified today that their services were no longer desired. Action to that effect was taken at midnight Monday at a stormy session of the Township Committee, at which taxpayers demanded the resignation of Mayor N. V. C. Monnett and Committeeman John Planz.

The crowd of nearly 300 had heard Mayor Monnett refuse three times the request of Samuel Feld, counsel for the league, that he resign. Similar demands of individual taxpayers also were ignored by the Mayor.

Mayor Monnett, in releasing the two lawyers, said the expense of retaining them was too great for the taxpayers.

Mr. Feld asked that the committee get back the $11,800 alleged damages paid the contractors, which was given to Senator Ralph W. Chandless as a fee in connection with a State loan of $200,000, but Mr. de Lorenzo answered that it had not been proved yet that the fee to the Senator was illegal.

The meeting broke up in disorder at midnight and an indignation parade with a fireworks display followed.

Senator Chandless has been ordered to appear at the resumption of the inquiry before Harold Price on July 16 to tell what he did with the fee he got from the contractors. He has been ordered to produce his canceled checks.

IRONTEX* SILK HOSE 69c

For just a moment at this point it looks as if this man may not get his ham and eggs or game and truffles, as the case may be.

Waiters are touchy about these details, and if he has a hole in his sock, at least he should not flaunt it. But as usual we never know about these things until we catch someone staring at it.

Macy's all-silk Irontex hose might have saved some of this embarrassment. They are woven so elastically of high grade silk, and with such a heavy mercerized cotton heel guard that holes are few and far between. Variety of plain colors. 9½-12.

MINERS WOULD END SPECIAL CONTRACTS

SENIORITY RIGHTS ASKED

Abolition of the individual contract system was discussed yesterday at the joint meeting of anthracite operators and miners, gathered at the Anthracite Institute, 90 West Street, to negotiate a new wage scale to replace the one expiring Sept. 1.

In the Pittston region, where the contract system is in force, favored miners get control of large sections of mines from operators at fixed prices. These miners, it appeared during the discussion, engage others to do their work. The men who dig the coal and load it are paid, not by the company, but by the contract miners.

The miners' representatives maintained yesterday that the system was archaic, that it worked hardship on the men working for the contract miners and that it unduly favored the latter, some of whom have as many as thirty or forty men working for them.

System Has Caused Trouble.

This system has sometimes been called the padrone method of employment and has been a source of trouble in the Pittston region for many years. Four murders about a year ago were said to have been traced to dissatisfaction arising from the contract method of mining.

Another demand discussed calls for the discontinuance of the alleged practice of replacing employes paid on an hourly basis by monthly men or bosses during idle periods. The miners' representatives said that when a shutdown is ordered, pump men, foremen and others used to maintain the collieries are replaced by men paid on a monthly basis. The union desire is to have the maintenance work continued by the men engaged for that purpose.

The demand for the elimination of charges for compressed air for operating jackhammers and the practice of having the men pay for safety appliances were also discussed. The union contention is that compressed air used to run the jackhammers is part of the necessary expense of the company and should not be saddled on the men. The miners also proposed that firing batteries should be furnished by the companies as well as helmets and other articles used in the mines. Along these lines no concession was made by the operators.

Seniority Clause Demanded.

For the first time the miners demanded that a provision of the new contract cover seniority of employment. It was said that in some mines newcomers were favored during lay-offs, older men being dismissed first. A clause in the contract was asked providing that the newer men should be laid off first.

There was further discussion of the demand for equal division of work, but no progress was made. At the end of the session the following statement was issued:

"Thomas Kennedy presented and explained the demand of the mine workers for seniority, reading many of the resolutions on this subject presented to the Hazelton (Pa.) tri-State convention. A general discussion followed.

"The demand for abolition of individual contracts was discussed next, following which there was a discussion of the demand that hourly men be not replaced by monthly men on idle days.

"The question of furnishing employes with safety appliances and free air for operating machines also was debated."

The conference will be resumed today.

$20,000 Verdict for Boy Stands For Injury by Tree in Storm

ALBANY, July 8 (AP).—A judgment of $20,000 against the city of Lockport awarded to a 12-year-old boy who lost his leg when a gale blew the branch of a tree on him was affirmed today by the Court of Appeals.

Joseph Tagg was injured while walking along a tree-lined thoroughfare during the storm of Oct. 12, 1927. The falling branch crushed his leg so severely that amputation was found necessary.

The appeals court also sustained the lower courts in granting a judgment of $2,500 to the boy's father, Floyd Tagg. Counsel for the city maintained the accident was "an act of God," for which the municipality was not responsible.

CIVIC GROUPS TO FIGHT UPLAND PARK ADDITION

Queens Meeting Votes to Bring Court Action to Halt $79,000 Expenditure.

Members of civic organizations in Jamaica voted at a mass meeting last night in the Dutch Reformed Church Community House, 77 Mayfield Road, to start court proceedings, in which they will ask the city's help, against the proposed expenditure of $79,000 for additional land for Upland Park, adjoining the proposed approach to the Jamaica High School.

This decision was reached by the civic organizations after their attorney, Henry C. Frey, had told them that he had drawn up papers setting forth their objections, and that these papers would be filed with Supreme Court Justice Faber on July 10. Mr. Frey said his investigation had shown that no property owner in the assessment area had petitioned for the acquisition of the additional park land and that its acquisition would therefore be illegal. The proposed park addition is a three-cornered plot bounded by Eighty-fifth Avenue, Chapin Parkway and Upland Parkway.

The meeting also voted to write to Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph G. Matthews requesting him to file a protest against the $79,000 awards which were made by Justice Faber.

Horace Cleveland, past president of the Queens County Grand Jurors' Association, said that his organization will hold a meeting today and will consider the matter.

A protest also has been made against the awarding of $292,000 on property condemned to provide an approach for the Jamaica High School.

DIVORCES ROBERT BELL.

Josephine Hutchinson of Civic Theatre Gets Decree in Reno.

RENO, Nev., July 8 (AP).—Mrs. Josephine Hutchinson Bell, an actress with the Eva Le Gallienne company in New York, has obtained a divorce from Robert Bell, said to be a grandson of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone.

Josephine Hutchinson, a member of the permanent company of the Civic Repertory Theatre, joined the Fourteenth Street group in its first season, 1926-1927, and has played leading rôles in Miss Le Gallienne's productions. She had previously been a member of the Ram's Head Players of Washington.

Among the plays in which she has been seen here are "Cradle Song," "The Cherry Orchard," "Peter Pan," "Hedda Gabler," "The First Stone" and "Inheritors." In the new productions this season by the Civic Repertory Theatre Miss Hutchinson played important parts in "The Sea Gull," "Mlle. Bourrat" and "The Living Corpse."

In February, 1928, Miss Hutchinson and Mr. Bell, who was then a director of the Anderson-Milton School of the Theatre, denied rumors of a separation.

PHELPS REJECTS BID TO BECOME NOMINEE

Former Assemblyman Replies That Friends Think He Has Earned Promotion.

HAILS WET TREND OF PARTY

Says State Republicans Are No Longer Anti-Saloon "Messengers" and Have Chance to Win.

Phelps Phelps announced yesterday that he had refused to be drafted as the Republican candidate for Assemblyman from the Tenth Manhattan District, a post he held for five years. Mr. Phelps, who was denied organization support for nomination for Representative two years ago, was sought as an Assembly candidate to strengthen the local Republican ticket and aid the campaigns for re-election of Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, Representative in Congress, and State Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter.

"Under no circumstances would I accept, and I have made that fact plain to the leaders," Mr. Phelps said. "When I first ran for the Assembly I defeated a Democratic incumbent and my successor is also a Democrat. Hence it is apparent that I must have many friends in the district, and to them I am and always will be grateful.

"These same friends, who have no axes to grind, are the ones who are now telling me that I should not run this year; that the sacrifices I have made in the past and the work I did in Albany and in the district entitles me to promotion, and they declare that if I am to be a candidate for office it should be for a higher position.

"At the same time I can appreciate the position of the leaders. They naturally want to win back the district, and believe that my being on the ticket would strengthen Mrs. Pratt and Senator Hofstadter. As to these two candidates I can say now, as I have said on numerous occasions, that they are entitled to their renominations, and I believe they will be re-elected.

"As a pioneer among the wet Republican legislators [for I introduced and had passed the wet referendum in the session of 1926], I am glad to see that the Republican party is coming generally to accept my viewpoint, and the chances of a wet plank in the State convention platform and candidates who will stand upon it honestly are growing brighter every day.

"The plight of the Republican party in this State can be placed entirely upon the fact that it has heretofore ignored public sentiment to act as the messenger boys for the Anti-Saloon League. But those days are passing, and in consequence the possibilities of victory at the coming election are steadily growing brighter."

SANCTIONS 'MOP' LEASES.

I. C. C. Grants Qualified Right to Operate 20 Subsidiaries.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—A qualified permission was extended to the Missouri Pacific Railroad today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to take over under lease and operate as a part of its own structure the properties of some twenty subsidiary lines, which it now controls, but which have more or less separate organizations.

Before the central road can complete its plan for the extensive unification proposal, however, it must, by the terms of the decision, arrange to acquire ownership on a reasonable basis of a number of unnamed short lines, now independent, which connect with its system at various points in the Southwest.

Commissioner Eastman and Chairman McManamy dissented from the decision.

TWO MORE ARRESTED IN ARSON RACKET

Buffalo and Niagara Police Hold 14 Persons and Plan 30 Other Arrests.

BUFFALO, July 8 (AP).—Harry Bennett, alleged "touch-off" man for Western New York's million-dollar-a-year arson racket, was, to quote the police, "still talking tonight" and police continued to arrest persons he named.

With two arrests today, fourteen persons have been arrested since Saturday night in connection with the racket, which has been under police investigation for several months. The latest arrests were Adolf Kelemen, head of the Liberty Holding Company, a Buffalo real estate company, and his brother, Benjamin, owner of the Lakelands Hotel, on Point Breeze, near Albion. No charges had been placed against them, but they will be detained for further questioning.

Bennett was arrested late Saturday night by Detective Sergeant Simon J. Callinan of Buffalo, who sprung a trap which he had been preparing for two weeks. According to Callinan, Bennett was caught just after he had started a fire in a furniture store owned by Max Silbergeld at Niagara Falls.

Silbergeld and Reuben Sukernek, 38, a Niagara Falls druggist, were arraigned in police court in that city today on charges of arson and attempted arson and remanded for further hearing on Friday. Sukernek's bail was fixed at $25,000 and Silbergeld's at $5,000.

TWO YOUTHS DROWN.

High School Student Dies in East River, Long Branch Boy in Ocean.

William Galdi, 17 years old, of 356 Crimmins Avenue, the Bronx, a Stuyvesant High School student, almost carried a would-be rescuer, Fred Mari, 17, of 161 East Thirty-first Street, down with him during a frantic struggle while swimming yesterday in the East River off 149th Street. Galdi and Mari were swimming from a float, anchored 100 feet off shore, when Galdi was seized with cramps and called for help. Galdi clutched Mari so tightly that the pair went down twice. Mari managed to break Galdi's hold and was making another attempt to rescue his companion when Galdi disappeared. Two police emergency crews grappled for the body.

While bathing in the surf at Long Branch, N. J., Joseph McCarthy, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCarthy of 293 Brighton Avenue, Long Branch, N. J., was drowned yesterday afternoon in the ocean near his home after being seized with cramps. Frank Milburn, 15, of 252 East End, Long Branch, attempted to rescue him but failed when his strength became exhausted. The Takanassee Coast Guard Station sent a crew to search for the body.

GLIDER FALLS INTO OCEAN.

New York Men Fail to Fly Atlantic in Tow of Liner—Will Try Again.

The attempt of Robert Lewis and Hugh Keavney, New York pilots, to fly the Atlantic in their Peel glider boat in tow of the Cosulich liner Saturnia, ended in failure after eight hours in the air, it was revealed in a message made public yesterday morning by the Cosulich Trieste Line. A faulty shock cord forced the fliers into the ocean, from which they and their glider were picked up, presumably by a lifeboat, and taken on board the Saturnia. The message infers that further attempts to fly from west to east have been abandoned at this time, although an attempt will be made on the return journey.

The message, signed by Captain Roberto Stuparich, commander of the Saturnia, read:

"Monday morning glider successfully launched, but after eight hours, due to faulty shock cord, was forced down. Fliers picked up and taken on board, as well as glider. Fliers will try again on the return trip of Saturnia."

The position of the Saturnia, which sailed last Thursday at 5:20 P. M., was today about 1,600 miles east-southeast of Ambrose lightship.

JAILS DISTRIBUTERS OF RED CIRCULARS

Magistrate Gives Man 10 Days and Woman Three, Holding Material Was Libelous.

ATTACK ON POLICE ALLEGED

One Prisoner Said to Have Called Them 'Murderers' in Handing Out Invitation to Demonstration.

Two distributers of Communist circulars were committed to the workhouse, one for ten and the other for three days, by Magistrate Richard F. McKinry in Morrisania Court, the Bronx, yesterday. Magistrate McKinry asserted he was being severe because the circulars were "clearly criminally libelous" of the Police Department and public officials.

The two are Benjamin Davidoff, 48 years old, of 1,813 Charlotte Street and Mrs. Clara Mishkin, 40, of 1,270 East 172d Street, both the Bronx. Patrolman Justry of the Simpson Street Station was the complainant. The charge was littering the streets.

Patrolman Justry testified that he had seen the two distributing the circulars last Thursday evening on Southern Boulevard. As he approached, he said, Mrs. Mishkin threw her circulars away, but Davidoff, unaware of his presence, continued to cry out: "Down with the police! They are murderers."

The circulars were invitations to attend the demonstration at the funeral last Friday of Gouzalo Gonzales who was shot by a policeman at a similar Communist demonstration a few days before. In glaring type, the circular proclaimed, "Fight Murderous Police Terror." Below it declared:

"The guilt for this latest police outrage (the killing of Gonzales) falls squarely upon the Tammany City Administration, Mayor Walker and chief thug Mulrooney, who place a premium on the murder of the workers."

Jacques Beutenkant, as counsel for the two, told the magistrate that they were not responsible for the beliefs of the Communist party and merely had been engaged to distribute circulars.

Magistrate McKinry waved this argument aside and pointed to the testimony of Patrolman Justry regarding Davidoff's spoken condemnation of the police.

"These are more than ordinary circulars," he said. "They are plainly and criminally libelous and, coupled with the utterances of the man, cannot be considered otherwise. If this is a harsh sentence, it is no more than they deserve."

Mrs. Mishkin had the choice of paying a $10 fine or serving three days, and elected to go to the workhouse.

EXPOSES BOOTLEGGERS, EDITOR'S BARN BURNED

Articles Telling of Refusal to Rent Building Followed by Its Destruction.

Special to The New York Times.

PARK RIDGE, N. J., July 8.—When J. C. Storms, who with his brother owns and publishes three weekly newspapers in the Passaic Valley, was approached about ten days ago by a group of men who wanted to rent a barn on his farm in Glen Road, Storms learned that they planned to use the barn as a distillery and turned down the offer, although they guaranteed him three times more rental for the barn alone than he was asking for the entire farm.

On Saturday last an editorial appeared in each of the Storms newspapers. It was headed "Quick Riches in Renting Barns," and declared that the only requisites were "plenty of water and an elastic conscience." Then it went on to expose methods that bootleggers were using in that section of New Jersey.

This morning Storms was without his barn. It burned down last night. Many persons believed that it was set afire by bootleggers in retaliation for the editorials. Firemen who were called to fight the blaze had difficulty in finding an adequate water supply. But they managed to prevent the flames from spreading to the farmhouse near the barn.

DEDICATES A CAMP FOR CITY CHILDREN

Special to The New York Times.

BABYLON, L. I., July 8.—Nearly 3,000,000 children in the United States lack home influences and guardianship, said General Ballington Booth, president of the Volunteers of America, in an address this afternoon at the dedication of a Fresh Air Camp on property adjacent to Belmont Park and Belmont Lake, near here. The camp, which is to be operated this Summer for the benefit of poor children of New York City, is supported by the Volunteers of America, which conducts fifteen such camps in the United States.

"Such camps as these," said General Booth, "are beneficial to the physical conditions of children. Too many live in a cramped environment. Some have come to us who had never seen the wonders of nature; others have come who have suffered from malnutrition and unhealthful surroundings.

"The betterment of the city child forms a problem that is continually before our organization. In some, the benevolent endeavor crystallizes around a day nursery in congested districts where scores of little ones are watched over while overworked mothers are earning a living. In others it is a camp near a lake or river or seaside where children remain for a time amid Summer surroundings."

The camp covers about one and one-half acres. The property was donated by Cadman Frederick of Babylon.

POLICE ARE HOSTS TO 1,961 ON OUTING

MULROONEY PRAISES IDEA

Commissioner Says Picnics Are Best Crime-Prevention Device—Another Trip Tomorrow.

The first of the Police Department's outings for children was held yesterday. The steamer Onteora left the East River pier at the foot of Twenty-first Street at 10 A. M. with 1,961 aboard, most of them children and mothers. The news had spread rapidly through the east side, where the first quota of passengers had been recruited, and they began to gather at 6:45 A. M. When the Onteora left the pier there were more aboard than the number of tickets that had been issued by the patrolmen on their beats.

But nobody was sent home. The forty-three policemen aboard, headed by Lieutenants Patrick Fitzgibbon and Abraham Brody and Patrolman Joseph P. Moran, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, guaranteed to underwrite any deficit in the funds contributed by the members of the department and set aside for the first of the excursions.

Before the boat had sailed fifty feet two little curly-haired girls got "lost." But the police were ready for all emergencies. Two policewomen, Mrs. Rose W. Taylor and Miss Irene Comeau, had shipped for the cruise as nurses. Mrs. Taylor has had a large experience in the Missing Persons Bureau. She took the girls in hand, walked half the ship's length with them, and turned them back to their mother. Similar dispatch marked the handling of the trip's one stomach ache, and the few other little casualties that developed.

Police Become Children's Friends.

An orchestra from the Police Department Band furnished music and a double quartet from the Police Glee Club emulated the minstrels on the old-time Coney Island boats. Patrolman Arthur Matthews of the traffic squad in Long Island City had his guitar and Patrolman Joe Spielman his banjo.

Patrolman Matthews became an impresario. He set up a little theatre near the stern and induced the children to sing and dance to his accompaniment. After that his progress about the ship was marked by a swirling train of children. When he sat down anywhere they promptly swarmed about him and demanded a song or a story. Such pictures were duplicated in all parts of the Onteora. The children, when there was a new sight to be explained, ran up to the nearest policeman.

Fourteen-year-old Mamie Zackotinsky of 112 East Second Street said the same thing in a different way. She was along with her "best friend," Mary Gregulich from across the street.

"Jerry, the cop, told us about the trip and brought us the tickets," she said. "He's a good friend of ours. We got to know him first when he came up to see us when my mother was sick. I'm going to write a letter to the cops of the East Fifth Street station when I get home to thank them and tell them how much we enjoyed it."

At Hook Mountain, above Nyack, where the Onteora landed at 12:45 P. M., no attempt was made at organized play. The children were allowed to "run wild" over the recreation park there. Before they landed all were provided with box lunches. The boat left Hook Mountain at 4 o'clock and returned to the East River pier at 6:30 P. M.

Mrs. Andrew Marmo of 56 Mulberry Street brought the largest family. It comprised Pat, 16 years old; Tom, 14; Mary, 12; Rosie, 10; Annie, 7; Andrew, 4; Rita, 2, and Theresa, aged 5 months. Mr. Marmo works in a mussel cannery.

The next outing, for west side children, will be held tomorrow, starting from Fifty-first Street and the Hudson River.

A police surgeon who is also a specialist in children's diseases, Dr. Samuel Gross, made the trip on the Onteora. He said that the outings were not only invaluable for crime prevention, but also were health builders for the children, many of whom would otherwise be on the city's sidewalks all Summer.

INQUIRY ON JOBLESS SHELVED IN JERSEY

$75,000 FOR FIRE FIGHTERS

Appropriation Passed to Aid Men Who Worked to Save Forests—Trolley Inquiry Favored.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 8.—A resolution by Senator Arthur Quinn, Democrat, of Middlesex County, calling for investigation of business conditions and the unemployment situation in New Jersey was shelved tonight by the Senate in special session shortly before it adjourned until Nov. 18. It was passed to the Judiciary Committee, where it is expected to remain.

In the resolution Mr. Quinn quoted Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania to the effect that poor business conditions and unemployment might be traced to deliberate plans of the J. P. Morgan company, of which Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow once was a member. It is understood that the resolution was suggested by Alexander Simpson, former minority leader, from Hudson County, who is opposing Mr. Morrow for the United States Senatorship in New Jersey.

The Senate tonight passed a bill providing for an appropriation of $75,000 to pay the men who fought forest fires that swept over wide territories in New Jersey last Spring. Funds for paying the fire-fighters were not available at the time they were called into service.

Another item in the appropriation bill passed tonight would provide $20,000 for an investigation of the public service rate case by the State Board of Public Utilities Commissioners. Trolley and bus lines in New Jersey are experimenting with a fare system under which casual riders pay 10 cents for a ride, while steady patrons use five-cent tokens.

The Senate also passed an amendment to the measure fixing the financial responsibility of motorists. This bill, as originally passed, would compel the motorist to furnish proof of his financial responsibility in the event that he is brought up for a trivial infraction of the motor vehicle laws. The amendment would limit the requirement of proof of financial responsibility to cases where motorists are convicted for reckless driving, drunken driving, manslaughter or in hit-and-run cases.

Two municipal bonding bills are slated for passage. They correct a 1930 act said to impose bonding restrictions which more than thirty municipalities say are too stringent.

Another bill scheduled for passage would give to the State Highway engineer full supervision of county roads, which are financed temporarily by the State.

HIGHWAY COSTS ASSAILED

Inquirers Hear Its Expenses Are $30,000,000 Yearly—State House Annex Under Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 8.—Indications were seen at today's meeting of the Abell Audit and Survey Commission that recommendations would be made to the Legislature to place all expenditures of the State under rigid legislative control. The commission which has been engaged in an extensive inquiry into State business affairs held a round table discussion with budget officers and other State officers over New Jersey's method of financing its government.

Senator Frank D. Abell of Morris County, chairman of the commission and Senator Emerson L. Richards of Atlantic, vice chairman, both commented that in the present financial system the Legislature actually passes upon less than one-half the annual expenses of the State.

Until a few weeks ago, the commission was hearing sworn testimony as to the administration of State departments. At present, however, informal discussions are being held attended by various State officials on merits of a report submitted by the National Institute of Public Administration recommending a drastic revamping of the whole organization of State activities.

Of the things condemned by the commission at this session was the practice of seeking a comparatively insignificant initial appropriation for some State project and then finding that, year after year, the Legislature is importuned for additional appropriations to finish the project.

Under this scheme no estimate of the final cost is submitted to the Legislature.

Senator Richards pointed out that if the Legislature were to exercise absolute control over all State expenditures, it would avoid situations such as attended the building of the new State House annex, now under construction. Starting as a $500,000 home for the State Highway Commission, the annex plans have grown so that the final estimated cost is $4,000,000 and the structure is an office building housing many other State departments.

John A. Reddant, budget officer for Governor Larson, defended the present budget system and said it was all right as far as it went. But he said that it was not as complete as it could be.

As an instance of unchecked spending of money, the State Highway Commission was cited. Members of the commission asserted the highway group is spending more than $30,000,000 a year.

Another critic of the proposed central financing plan was William J. Ellis, State Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies. He said he was doubtful if a single finance officer would be capable of carrying out the different duties which would devolve upon him.

SURFACE LINES LOSE 7-CENT FARE PLEA

thirty days' notice to the commission * * * and all * * * and all proposed changes shall be shown by printing, filing and publishing new schedules, &c."

The street railroad companies have complied with all the provisions of this section of the law. They maintain that these provisions were intended by the Legislature to create the machinery by which a street railroad company may in proper case obtain an increase in the rate of fare it may charge, even though such rate of fare is more than it is allowed to charge under the terms of the statute or contract which granted the railroad franchise.

Commission Can Raise Rate.

We have said in People ex rel. City of New York vs. Nixon, 229 N. Y. 346, that "the Public Service Commission was empowered by statute to increase the maximum rates, fares or charges chargeable by any street railroad corporation" when found to be inadequate to yield a fair return (Section 49, Public Service Commissions law; Consol. Laws, Chapter 48). That power came to the commission through the amendment of the Public Service Commissions law in June, 1911 L. 1911, Chapter 546, ex rel. Ulster & Del R. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 171 A. D. 607, 218 N. Y. 643), if it did not already exist under the law as first enacted in 1907, Chapter 429, Section 49)."

In construing the language of the Public Service Commissions law and determining the limits of its scope, we have, at times, held that the Legislature did not intend that the Public Service Commission should have power to increase the maximum rates chargeable under certain forms of franchises (matter of Quimby v. Public Service Commission, 223 N. Y. 244; matter of City of Niagara Falls v. Public Service Commission, 229 N. Y. 333; People ex rel. Garrison v. Nixon, 229 N. Y. 575).

In the case now under review the Transit Commission did not decide that it does not possess the power where its exercise is properly invoked. It rejected the schedules for increased rates solely on the ground that increase of rates beyond the maximum rates chargeable by a street railroad may not be initiated by the voluntary act of the street railroad in filing a new tariff schedule, but, under the express language of Section 49 of the Public Service law, must be preceded by a determination and order of the commission, made after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint that the maximum rates chargeable "are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the service rendered and are unjust and unreasonable."

The correctness of that ruling depends solely upon the proper construction and scope of Section 29, of the public service law. We pass in this case upon no other question.

That section does not in express terms confer upon a common carrier any express power to increase its rates beyond the maximum rates otherwise chargeable by it. On the contrary, its language is restrictive. At common law, a carrier might in the absence of statutory regulation or contract limitation raise its rates at will provided that in each particular case it charged a reasonable compensation for the carriage or service rendered and no more. (Murphy vs. New York Central R. R. Co. 225 N. Y. 548).

Under the public service law that right was limited. Section 26 provides that "All charge made or demanded by any such * * * common carrier for the transportation of passengers or property or for any service rendered or to be rendered in connection therewith * * * shall be just and reasonable and not more than allowed by law or by order of the commission having jurisdiction."

We have said that "Such provision is (a) merely declaratory of the common law, and (b) mandatory that a rate or charge fixed by a law or an order of the commission should not be exceeded." (Murphy vs. N. Y. C. R. R. C., 225 N. Y. 548). Both sections 29 and 49 of the public service law must be read in the light of that provision. Together they formulate a new public policy in regard to the rates which a common carrier may charge, and provide machinery for giving effect to that policy.

"A new public policy had been initiated. A new right had been declared. Rates were thereafter to be just and reasonable alike for carriers on the one side and for shippers on the other. Neither class would be permitted for its own benefit to set the rule at nought. The State through its delegate, the commission, would lower the charges if too high. It would raise them if too low (citing cases). Rate-making was to be no longer an affair of predominantly private interest, in which the State would interfere without system and with spasmodic and intermittent action. A superintending agency of government had taken the matter in hand" (People ex rel. City of New York vs. Nixon, 229 N. Y. 356).

Where the rate chargeable by the carrier was fixed by law, change could be effected by the State through the exercise of its power of rate regulation. By Section 49 of the law, machinery was created by which rates which previously could be changed only by the action of the Legislature might thereafter be changed by order of the commission as superintending agency of the State. To that agency the Legislature delegated the function of exercising the regulatory powers of the State systematically and in accordance with prescribed rules, and imposed the duty upon it of changing rates fixed by law when these rates are shown to be unjust and unreasonable.

By Section 29 the Legislature restricted the power of the carrier to fix its own rates in the field where previously the State had not chosen to exercise its regulatory power. Provision was made in that section intended to afford the agency of the State opportunity to interdict any change before it became effective if it appeared that the new rate was unreasonable.

Designed to Cover Separate Fields.

The two sections are intended to cover separate fields. In the field where change in rates can lawfully be effected only by affirmative action of the State, Section 49 makes provision for such action by its agency. In the field where change in rates may be effected unless the State interposes its veto, Section 29 provides opportunity, before the change becomes effective, for determination whether such a veto would be reasonable. No other construction of the statute accords with either the letter or the spirit of the statute.

Section 29 does not in express language confer upon common carriers any power to change the rates or fares which they may charge, but in terms merely restricts such power as they may have in that field. Statutes restricting in terms the exercise of a power are meaningless if in fact no power exists. Therefore, from a statutory restriction upon the exercise of a power, legislative intent to confer the power subject to the defined restrictions may at times be inferred.

In such cases a reasonable construction of the statute may require the conclusion that the Legislature has used "a bungling and backhanded method of authorizing" the things enumerated. (Schieffelin vs. Hylan, 236 N. Y. 254.) Here there is no room for any inference that the Legislature intended to broaden an existing power by the provision that the power may not be exercised except by a certain method. Indeed, even in a case where we held that a corporation might, by filing new schedules in accordance with the provision of an analogous section of the Public Service Commission law, increase the rate it might charge private consumers above the maximum rate stated in the consent of the town, we pointed out that "this method of increasing rates without first obtaining an adjudication as to their reasonableness may appear defective and illogical." (Town of North Hempstead vs. Public Service Corporation 447).

Certainly we may strive by forced construction of the language of the statute to find a legislative intent to authorize a method which "may appear defective and illogical." Under Section 49 of the Public Service Commissions law the Legislature has delegated to the agency created by it the power, which the Legislature always possessed, to change maximum rates contained in earlier statutes when it appears that these rates are unjust and unreasonable, and the same section provides the method by which the agency may be called upon to do it.

Until the commission has by its order made in accordance with that method fixed a higher rate the earlier statutes remain in full force and effect, and schedules filed containing rates beyond the maximum fixed by the statute are unlawful and may be rejected by the commission. Section 29 merely gives the commission power to suspend a proposed increase and after a hearing to make its own order regulating the rate to be charged where, except for such suspension or new order, the proposed increase would be lawful.

It is said that this construction of the scope and purpose of Section 29 is in conflict with our decisions in Town of North Hempstead vs. Public Service Corporation, supra, and Public Sevrice Commission vs. Pavilion National Gas Company, 232 N. 146.

In those cases we held that a gas company might by filing its schedules under an analogous section of the Public Service Commission law, increase the rates it might charge to consumers beyond the rates fixed in the consents of the town or village where the gas mains were laid. The right to annex terms to the consent to use the public streets was derived from Article VII, Section 61, Subdivision 1 of the Transportation law, which gave the company power to lay its mains through streets of a city, town or village, "with the consent of the municipal authorities thereof and under such reasonable regulations as they may prescribe." This court in the case of People ex re Village of South Glens Falls vs. Public Service Commission, 225 N. Y. 217, stated that even if under that statute a municipality might annex as a condition to its consent regulations regarding rates which the gas company might charge, such regulations might at any time be modified by the Legislature.

In that case the court reached the conclusion that the Public Service Commission law by implication modified the contracts of the municipalities and superseded the attempted regulation of rates, and "since no statute has fixed the price for this community" the company might thereafter charge rates fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Public Service law, regardless of the maximum rates stated in the consent.

Since the superseded contractual regulation of rate no longer constituted an obstacle to increase of rates, it followed that an increase initiated by filing new schedules was lawful. So this court held in the latter cases upon which the appellant relies.

Those cases involved only a construction of the legislative intent as embodied in the Public Service Commission law. The court decided that it was the intent of the Legislature that the Public Service law embodying a new policy of the State must be construed as superseding all regulations imposed by municipal corporations under a power derived solely by delegation from the Legislature. The question whether regulations imposed by municipalities in franchise grants to street railway companies under authority derived not from the Legislature but from the Constitution was in like manner superseded by the provisions of the Public Service law might present different considerations. (See matter of city of Niagara Falls vs. Public Service Commission, 229 N. Y. 333.)

That question was not presented to the court or considered by it in the cases involving the rates of gas companies, and it is unnecessary for us to pass upon it now. It is sufficient to point out that in the case now under review a statute has fixed the price for the community, while in the earlier cases, as the court there pointed out, "no statute has fixed the price for the community."

In the earlier cases regulation was the result of contract subject to alteration by the State. In the present case the regulation is the result of a command of the Sovereign. Nothing in the Public Service Commission law could justify a construction that by implication the Sovereign has revoked or altered its command. By that law the Sovereign has merely created a new agency which after a hearing may modify the command. Until the new agency has acted the command remains in full force, and increase of rate beyond the commanded maximum cannot lawfully be initiated by filing schedules under Section 29 of the law.

The Per Curiam Opinion.

The per curiam opinion follows:

The original franchises covering some of the lines operated by the appellants, as receivers, were granted by the Legislature prior to 1875. They fix the minimum fares which might be charged for the carriage of passengers. As new lines were built thereafter, additional franchises were granted by the municipal authorities.

We do not analyse or construe the clauses contained in such franchises, which purport to limit or regulate rates of fare. Regulation of rates by the Legislature cannot be superseded or modified by any agreement or franchise contract between a municipality and a carrier. Such cases as matter of Evens vs. Public Service Commission, 246 N. Y. 224, have no application to such a situation.

Schedules showing increase of fares on the lines for which the Legislature granted franchises beyond the maximum fares fixed by the Legislature is unlawful regardless of the language or intent of later contract franchises. Matter of Dry Dock Railroad Company, decided herewith. We pass on no other question.

Transit Commissioners Say It Foreshadows Interborough Decision.

The Court of Appeals' decision denying the right of street railway lines, whose fares were originally fixed by statute, to obtain increases merely by filing new schedules, was hailed by the Transit Commission yesterday as a victory of far-reaching importance.

The decision was seen as a forerunner of dismissal of the Interborough's pending seven-cent fare litigation, which will reach the Appellate Division in the Fall. It was also viewed, not only as a definite check to a possible flood of higher fare schedules from street car lines in this city, but also as a factor that would make the surface car companies more willing to exchange their franchises for bus grants upon terms favorable to the city.

William G. Fullen, chairman of the Transit Commission, and George H. Stover, general counsel, who argued the Drydock, Third Avenue and New York and Queens Railways cases before the Appellate Division and the Court of Appeals, voiced satisfaction with the decision. It was also hailed as a distinct victory by Edgar H. Kohler, former Assistant Corporation Counsel, who represented the city. Mr. Fullen declared that the credit for the victory belonged mainly to Mr. Stover, who insisted from the very beginning that the street car companies had adopted an illegal procedure in filing their higher fare schedules.

Although the decision passed expressly only upon cases where a rate fixed by statute was sought to be changed by posting new schedules, it is the belief of the Transit Commission that the ruling applies also to the contract rate now in force on the Interborough's combined elevated and subway system. The company has taken a contrary view, however. The point will be raised when the Interborough case comes before the Appellate Division.

The surface car lines whose cases were involved in the decision still have the right to seek a fare rise by formal application and hearing under Section 49 of the Public Service Commission law. Whether they will do so was not indicated by officials of the companies, who declined to comment on the decision until after it had been studied. No comment was made by officials of the Eighth and Ninth Avenue Railways, whose seven-cent fare tariffs were also rejected by the Transit Commission, but whose proceedings for review have not yet come before the Appellate Division.

In transit circles it was felt that the decision would tend to accelerate the pending plan of the New York Railways Corporation to motorize its entire Manhattan system. Mayor Walker said yesterday that the forthcoming report of the Board of Transportation on pending bus franchise applications would undoubtedly be considered at special meetings of the Board of Estimate this Summer and that the company's plan, if embodied in the report or added to it while the deliberations were in progress, would receive careful consideration.

ASSOCIATE DENIES VAUSE WAS MISLED

Rayman, on Cross-Examination, Insists He Did Not Overstate His Power to Aid Finance Company.

ADMITS HE GOT STOCK FREE

Realty Man Tells of Lending $5,000 on Mortgage Vause Is Accused of Buying With Widow's Funds.

The trial of former County Judge W. Bernard Vause of Brooklyn and five other defendants on mail fraud and conspiracy charges growing out of the $400,000 failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation entered its fourth week before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe and a jury yesterday morning with Morris Levin, a Brooklyn real estate operator, telling of a $5,500 personal loan he advanced to former Judge Vause.

Vause has been accused of pledging a mortgage bought with funds from the estate of a woman client as security for the loan.

Mr. Levin testified he advanced the loan on April 1, 1930, and that Judge Vause gave him four promissory notes totaling $5,803, including $303 interest, and gave Vause two checks totaling $4,802.50, the difference between the amount of the checks and the amount of the loan representing commissions. Mr. Levin also testified that Vause assigned to him a first mortgage on five lots at Foster Avenue and Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, near Kings Highway, as security for the loan.

Mrs. Caroline Timm, 82 years old, a widow, formerly of Brooklyn, now living in Florida, had previously testified that Vause used money from the estate of her husband of which he is an executor to get the mortgage and denied that she benefited by the loan.

Mr. Levin's testimony was complicated because the mortgage was made out in the name of George Vause while the notes were made payable to his brother, former Judge Vause, by whom they were endorsed. One note was for $382.50 and was payable within three months, another was for $378 and ran for six months, while a third for $373.50 was for nine months and a fourth for $4,669 was payable at the end of a year.

Vause Counsel Seeks Mistrial.

Nathan D. Perlman, counsel for former Judge Vause, moved for a mistrial on the ground that the testimony had to do with matters outside the allegations in the indictment. Judge Coxe denied the motion after United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle asserted that he would show that Mr. Vause did not obtain the mortgage for Mrs. Timm but that "he obtained it for himself, has got it for himself and borrowed money on it."

Mr. Perlman declined to cross-examine Mr. Levin and Abraham Rayman, former secretary and director of the Columbia Finance Corporation, who was the last witness examined before adjournment over the Fourth of July, was recalled for cross-examination. Rayman and Solomon Cruso have already pleaded guilty in the same case and turned State's evidence.

Throughout the day Judge Vause rested his left elbow on a table and leaned with his head upon his hand, frequently with his eyes closed.

When Mr. Perlman became impatient at what he characterized as Mr. Rayman's "convenient memory" and asked if it were not true that the witness and Solomon Cruso, president of the Columbia Finance Corporation, made it a practice to remember only those things that would convict former Judge Vause and save themselves, the witness replied emphatically:

"No, sir."

Telling of the organization of the Columbia Finance Corporation, Mr. Rayman said he obtained his interest in the concern on his "promise to interest friends and sell stock."

"How much did your friends lose in the Columbia Finance Corporation?" asked Mr. Perlman.

"I don't know," Rayman insisted.

"I sold certificates to Harry Rayman."

"Did you tell your brother that the Columbia Finance Corporation was insolvent at the time you sold him the $1,000 worth of certificates?" asked Mr. Perlman.

"I didn't have to."

The witness vigorously denied having made any misrepresentations to Judge Vause concerning the magnitude of his business and his own business ability.

He was sure that it was Judge Vause who first suggested a voting trust for the finance corporation, at the end of December, 1927, at a conference at which the witness was present.

He testified that he had hired Samuel Cruso and other relatives of Solomon Cruso on the recommendation of Solomon Cruso. He told of having recommended his own nephew, who was hired by Solomon Cruso as an employe of the Columbia Finance Corporation.

Tells of Razor Blade Deal.

Mr. Rayman further testified that the Metropolitan Razor Blade Corporation of Brooklyn, in which the Columbia Finance Corporation had invested $21,000 for machinery, was allowed to go at a sheriff's sale to satisfy a $500 judgment. The witness could not give the name of the man who obtained the judgment, but explained that he had offices on the same floor with the razor blade concern.

Later in the afternoon when the witness was asked by Max Schlivek, counsel for Samuel Schuchman, one of the other defendants, if a total of $54,090 had not been invested in the Metropolitan Safety Razor Corporation, Mr. Rayman insisted that that the total was only $21,000.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Perlman Mr. Rayman testified that the Columbia Finance Corporation's resources had got down to about $60,000 at the time Vause advised him not to complain to the district attorney of a $12,000 withdrawal from the corporation.

Mr. Perlman obtained from the witness an admission that he had pawned for $700 a diamond pendant given by former Judge Vause together with his promissory note as a pledge for a $2,500 loan from the Columbia Finance Corporation. A pawn ticket of the Provident Loan Society, dated Aug. 12, 1929, was submitted in evidence.

Cross-examined by Mr. Schlivek, Mr. Rayman said he did not know the volume of business done by the Columbia Finance Corporation. He said it was possible that he and Solomon Cruso had signed blank checks to the total of $1,000,000. He denied that he had ever taken a cent for himself.

The trial will be continued this morning at 10 o'clock.

DEBATE RHINELANDER CASE

Counsel Still Negotiating—Decision In Ten Days Predicted.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 8.—Events in the next ten days will decide whether the marital differences of Leonard Kip Rhinelander and Alice Jones Rhinelander will end with a substantial cash settlement or whether negotiations of several months' duration will fall through, Frank M. Gagliardi of this city, counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander, said today.

Asked about reports that his client would receive $1,000,000 he replied:

"All I can say at this time is that negotiations have been under way for three weeks and that if they go through a substantial sum will be involved. If the settlement is reached two suits instituted by Mrs. Alice Jones Rhinelander will be wiped out. One is her separation suit now pending in Westchester. The other is the alienation of affections suit bronght against Commodore Philip Rhinelander last Winter.

PICKS 16 TO INQUIRE INTO WALSH BOARD

public investigation that would be punitive as well as corrective was indicated even as the Mayor made his announcement. Before the Board of Aldermen Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d, the minority leader, said that if the city legislature would not undertake its own investigation there would be no alternative to an investigation by the State Legislature.

"It seems to me that the Legislature or the city can ill afford to sit idly by while private citizens do their work," he said. "We are the paid legislators of the city. Can we afford to let citizens get no pay for doing something while we get paid something for doing nothing?

"There is only one excuse for an investigation by the State Legislature, and that is a refusal by the city legislature to do its own investigating. That the Board of Standards and Appeals needs some sort of legislative investigation is so obvious and has been so repeatedly pointed out by myself and others, that further inaction on our part will force action on the part of the State Legislature, if not in special session at least in the next regular session. Home rule was granted to this city by a Republican Legislature, and I believe in it. But when home rule becomes misrule it is not only the right but the duty of the State Legislature to take the situation in hand."

When Mr. Baldwin, however, attempted to call from the committee on local laws his resolution for a joint committee of the Municipal Assembly to conduct an inquiry, his motion was lost in a one-sided viva voce vote.

Walsh Inquiry Renewed.

At the instigation of District Attorney Crain the grand jury investigation of William E. Walsh, former chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, was revived during the day with the possibility that another indictment may be added to those already filed against Mr. Walsh. He has been indicted by the Federal grand jury for failure to file an income tax for the year 1929 and by the New York County grand jury for accepting a gratuity while holding a public office.

Testimony which was started yesterday before the county grand jury and will be completed today deals with the same subject matter that led to the Federal indictment. This is the acceptance by Mr. Walsh of $30,000 from John A. McCarthy, a Bronx building materials dealer, in 1929. After this transaction the Board of Standards and Appeals, according to United States Attorney Tuttle, granted to McCarthy's concern an eighteen months' extension in erecting a building on the Grand Concourse, although it had previously granted the company three other applications.

Officials of the McCarthy company have explained the transaction as a loan, for which Mr. Walsh gave promissory notes, but no record of the notes has been shown. At the time of the first county indictment it was believed that the McCarthy matter was within the province of the Bronx authorities, but, according to the District Attorney's office here, it is now alleged that $5,000 was turned over to Mr. Walsh in this county and found its way to Mr. Walsh's brokers, Logan & Bryan, at 42 Broadway.

Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings called Edward V. Barton, chief clerk of the Board of Standards and Appeals, to testify yesterday on the board's records in the McCarthy case. Employes of Logan & Bryan and assistants in Mr. Tuttle's office are expected to be called today. Should there be any indictment it would be similar to the previous county indictment, an allegation of the acceptance of a gratuity by a public officer.

Brower Investigates Permit.

In Brooklyn District Attorney Brower started the presentation of evidence before the grand jury there on the granting of a permit for a gasoline station at Sixty-fifth Street and Thirteenth Avenue, Brooklyn. The permit was recently revoked by the courts. A dozen witnesses will be called today, among them Mr. Walsh. The case revolves about alleged perjury in connection with the date when tanks were first installed on the property.

A demand by the Bronx Chamber of Commerce yesterday that the four remaining members of the Board of Standards and Appeals resign their posts produced no effect. Mayor Walker said that he would do nothing until his committee had finished its inquiry. Henry L. Connell, acting chairman of the board, refused to comment. Asked if he would resign he said only, "I haven't resigned yet."

The Bronx chamber through its special committee which has been investigating certain acts of the board for many months, commended United States Attorney Tuttle and District Attorney Crain and urged a legislative investigation.

BAR COMMITTEES PICKED FOR YEAR

OLD CHAIRMEN TO REMAIN

Spence, Ordway and Byrd to Continue as Heads of Association's Most Important Bodies.

The personnel of three of the most important committees of the Bar Association for 1930-1931 has been completed by President Charles C. Burlingham, it was learned yesterday. They are the Judiciary Committee, Grievance Committee and the Committee on Criminal Courts, Law and Procedure.

All three groups were very active during the past year in investigating the records and activities of lawyers and members of the judiciary. The names of members of these committees for the new year are to be published with those of the other standing committees in the year book to be released soon.

Spence Retains Old Post.

The committee on criminal courts, law and procedure, which undertook the investigation of Magistrate Vitale at the request of the Appellate Division, is to be headed once more by Kenneth M. Spence. The other members will be George W. Alger, Earl B. Barnes, Felix C. Benvenga, W. Bruce Cobb, Morris L. Ernst, Harold Harper, Oliver B. James, John E. Joyce, John D. Lindsay, Robert E. Manley, Benjamin A. Mathews, John McKim Minton Jr., John Caldwell Myers and Raymond L. Wise.

Mr. Alger, Mr. Ernst and Mr. James replace Emory R. Buckner, Newman Levy and George Z. Medalie on the committee.

The committee on judiciary is charged by the Bar Association with obtaining the appointment or election of competent and qualified men to the bench and "to prevent political considerations from outweighing fitness in the selection of candidates for judicial office."

The offer of the Bar Association to submit to Mayor Walker names of men it considered qualified to fill vacancies on the magistrates' or Special Sessions bench was ignored by the Mayor in filling those vacancies, but since then an agreement has been reached whereby the Mayor will submit to the Bar Association the names of the men he is thinking of appointing, to have their qualifications investigated and reported on by the judiciary committee of the Bar Association.

Ordway to Remain at Head.

Samuel H. Ordway is to remain as chairman of the judiciary committee. The other members are to be Grenville Clark, John W. Davis, George Z. Medalie, Chase Mellen, Kenneth O'Brien, Charles W. Pierson, John Godfrey Saxe, Samuel Seabury, Solomon M. Stroock and Robert F. Wagner.

Five are new members; they are Mr. Medalie, Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Saxe, Judge Seabury and Mr. Stroock, replacing William N. Cohen, Martin Conboy, William Church Osborn, Walter H. Pollak and Chester O. Swain.

The committee of grievances remains unchanged, with the following lawyers: William Byrd, chairman; Carrington G. Arnold, Gordon M. Buck, Thomas M. Debevoise, William Dean Embree, William Greenough, James Cowden Meyers, Robert McC. Marsh, Harold Nathan, William Mason Smith and Albert Stickney. Mr. Greenough and Mr. Meyers are the only new members, and no members were dropped.

The chairmen of the various committees have been notified of President Burlingham's choices, it was said yesterday.

STEINBRINK BACKS CITY INQUIRY MOVE

Other Local Republicans Feel Demand for Special Session Has Weakened Roosevelt.

HOPE TO WIN STATE GROWS

Republican leaders, State and local, expressed satisfaction yesterday with the situation brought about by the request of Senate Leader John Knight and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies for a special session of the Legislature to authorize an investigation of the New York City Administration. They expressed confidence that they had the Governor "in a hole" and that his decision, whatever way it is made, will work to the advantage of the Republican party in the November election.

Should Governor Roosevelt call a special session and an investigation be started, the investigation will be at its height during the State campaign, one influential Republican said, and any revelation of wrongdoing on the part of Tammany officials will be bound to be helpful to the Republican State ticket. Should the Governor refuse to call a special session he will have to bear the onus of protecting corrupt officials, this leader added.

Meier Steinbrink, Brooklyn Republican leader, approved the request of the legislative leaders for a special session. "We approve the proposal to investigate the epidemic of wrongdoing and graft which saturates almost every department of the City Government," Mr. Steinbrink said. "When the investigation was proposed during the last regular session of the Legislature we approved it because we knew what was going on.

"The disclosures which have occurred since only bring home to the people proof of what was strongly suspected. Governor Roosevelt continues to sit on the Tammany lid while flirting with the Democratic Presidential nomination. He must first show himself to be interested in decent government before he can be taken seriously as a Governor or as anything else."

The disclosures to date, which have been made almost entirely by United States Attorney Tuttle, are regarded by Republicans as increasing materially Mr. Tuttle's chance for the nomination for Governor, and some of the party leaders now begin to believe that there is a fair chance of his defeating Governor Roosevelt at the election on the graft issue, which they hope will become paramount in the campaign instead of prohibition.

ASKS RABBIS TO DELAY SYNAGOGUE BUILDING

The second annual convention of the Rabbinical Association of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary opened yesterday with the arrival of 110 delegates at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The rabbis, who came from many parts of the country and from Canada, are Orthodox Jewish graduates of Yeshiva College, of which the seminary is a part.

Rabbi Nachman H. Ebin of the Sons of Israel Synagogue, Benson and Twenty-first Avenues, Brooklyn, president of the association, addressing the convention, said that "while we regard the Union of Orthodox Rabbis as a supreme authority in the interpretation of Jewish law, there are problems of vital import which cannot always be discussed at their conventions."

"These affect the younger rabbis particularly," he added. "Under their influence are tens of thousands of children."

Dr. Ebin specified the problem as follows: "We strenuously oppose late Friday evening services. They should take place at sunset when the Sabbath is ushered in. As orthodox rabbis, we uphold the time-honored tradition that women be segregated from men during worship. We are against family pews. There should be a women's gallery, or partitioning should be made.

"Since the financial crash communities have been overtaxed by the building of new, large synagogues. We have forgotten that the Jewish name was not made by towers and pyramids. We therefore call upon American Jewish communities to refrain from building enterprises for a period of five years. Let us turn to building Jewish consciousness here and a homeland in Palestine."

Rabbi S. Reichman of the Bronx Y. M. H. A., association secretary, seconded Dr. Ebin in the move against modernism and reform. Other speakers were Rabbi Eliezer Silver, president of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of America; Dr. Bernard Revel, president of Yeshiva College; Rabbi Joseph H. Lookstein, convention chairman, and Rabbi M. Hirschsprung of Canton, Ohio, convention secretary.

Last night a dinner was held at the Trotzky Dining Room, 153 West Thirty-fifth Street. Officers will be elected and resolutions adopted at morning and afternoon sessions today.

35 PADLOCKS SOUGHT.

Rosebud Inn Is Among Resorts Cited in Hudson County.

Applications for thirty-five additional padlocks for alleged speakeasies in Hudson County were filed yesterday by Prosecutor Drewen in the United States District Court at Trenton.

Of the places cited, nineteen are in Bayonne, ten in Jersey City and the remaining six in other municipalities. One of the Jersey City establishments named, according to the filed papers, has its entrance next to the Y. M. C. A. Building on Storms Avenue.

The Rosebud Inn of Bayonne, a night club, is also included in the list. The applications are based on evidence gathered by private detectives during the past few months.

The new group of applications makes a total of 525 filed by Prosecutor Drewen since he took office more than a year ago.

Representative Lampert Injured.

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP).—Representative Florian Lampert of Wisconsin suffered a broken collarbone and other injuries today when the automobile in which he was returning from Washington to his home in Oshkosh, Wis., struck a coal truck in Chicago Heights.

Mermoz Takes Off From Brazil for Africa; First Eastward Flight Over South Atlantic

RIO DE JANEIRO, Wednesday, July 9 (AP).—Jean Mermoz passed St. Paul Rocks at 1:45 A. M., Greenwich Mean Time (9:45 P. M. Tuesday, New York Daylight Time).

The Rocks are located 340 miles northeast of Fernando da Noronha, or about 465 miles from Recife, or Pernambuco.

NATAL, Brazil, July 8 (AP).—Roaring down the length of Lake Bomfin in the seaplane with which he made the first westward South Atlantic mail flight, Jean Mermoz, crack French air mail pilot, took off today for a non-stop flight back to Africa.

Eighteen hundred miles of ocean separated him from his objective, Dakar, in French Equatorial Africa. The South Atlantic has never been successfully crossed from west to east, and Mermoz, if successful, will win the laurels of a pioneer pilot on this flight. The attempt is primarily intended to show the feasibility of regular air mail service across the South Atlantic between the Old World and the New.

Mermoz, who got away at 4:32 P. M. local time (3:32 P. M. New York Daylight Time), hoped to better the time of his first flight. On May 12-13 he crossed from St. Louis, Senegal, in twenty hours and sixteen minutes, making the first air mail trip under bad weather conditions.

At 9:35 P. M. [8:35 in New York], Mermoz reported by radio that he was passing close to Fernando Noronha Island, but beyond sighting distance. He was flying at an altitude of 200 feet through a fine rain, and all was going well, he said.

For hours he and his comrades today sat in their seaplane on Lake Bomfim and waited for a wind, which they had to have to get the big seaplane and its 600 pounds of air mail off the water.

Late this afternoon a light wind suddenly sprang up, stirring up wavelets over a course of two and a half miles. As it grew in intensity, M. Mermoz warmed up his engine and made everything shipshape for the flight.

M. Mermoz then taxied to the end of the lake downwind, turned and came speeding back, rising from the water. The plane and its load weighed nearly six tons.

Three dispatch boats of the Aero-Postal Company were stationed along his route from Natal to Dakar to assist the fliers if any trouble develops.

An eastward flight across the South Atlantic compares in difficulties with a westward crossing of the North Atlantic. The prevailing winds in the South are westward, whereas in the North Atlantic they are from west to east.

in order to get votes," Mr. Ottinger said, in referring to the Governor's failure to make progress in the development of the State's water power. "He has expressed his wetness solely through water and waterpower. Undoubtedly upon both these subjects he is all wet."

Sees a "Glaring Failure."

In opening his address, Mr. Ottinger accused Governor Roosevelt of trying to "discover Republican malfeasance while sedulously avoiding the exposure of Democratic crime." Never in the history of New York State, he said, has there been "so glaring an example of the failure of the Executive as under the administration of Governor Roosevelt."

He recalled the "ghastly outbreaks of carnage and murder that occurred at Dannemora and twice at the Auburn prison." The fact that this occurred once at Auburn, he said, would have put a "capable executive" on his guard to prevent it occurring a second time, yet, he declares, when it did occur, Governor Roosevelt said it was due to overcrowding because of lack of appropriations.

Mr. Ottinger asserted that in February, 1928, $900,000 was available for the erection of a new cell block at Auburn, but "because of the inefficiency of Roosevelt's Administration the contract for its construction was not entered into until August, 1929."

Cites the Warder Case.

Mr. Ottinger also declared that the record of failure in the Department of Correction is duplicated "in practically every department of the State Government under the control of the Governor." He mentioned the "failure" of the Banking Department and the conviction of Frank H. Warder, Superintendent of Banks, "because of corruption that occurred in Governor Roosevelt's Administration" and the attempt of "political friends" to cover up this "shocking financial disaster." He also mentioned "the entire failure of the State building program," saying that the State Office Building is being erected on a quicksand foundation in Albany. Touching on the Public Works Department, he said the Hudson bridge at Poughkeepsie has already cost more than $6,000,000 and the net results appeared to be that it was now out of line and still the object of great concern to the engineers. He added that the bridge across South Bay, near Whitehall, on the highway from Albany to Montreal had "slid into the lake" causing thousands of dollars' worth of damage.

Mr. Ottinger charged that "while Mr. Roosevelt is loud in his protestations to relieve unemployment in this State, he continues to play politics with the development of the water powers of the St. Lawrence," an undertaking that would bring one billion dollars of industry into the State and result in the employment of thousands of laboring men.

Attacks Power Policy.

"The truth of the matter," Mr. Ottinger continued, "is that Mr. Roosevelt is trying to get into Washington by way of Niagara Falls, but he forgets that Niagara Falls is not a navigable stream. Water power is a political and not an economic issue. He permits water power to be developed privately everywhere, except in the St. Lawrence.

"What is needed today, in these parlous times, is a conscientious, fearless leadership, rather than the cringing politician who would subject himself to every catchpenny phrase in order to get votes. He has expressed his wetness solely through water and water power. Undoubtedly upon both these subjects he is all wet."

Mr. Ottinger then turned to the crime situation and various inquiries into graft, reviewing in particular the Westchester County land deals of last year, and the inquiry into the Board of Standards and Appeals in New York. He remarked that Governor Roosevelt had never had the slightest hesitation in initiating investigations in Republican communities in the State.

After accusing Governor Roosevelt of failure to act in the cases of the Board of Standards and Appeals, Arnold Rothstein, the shooting of William d'Olier, when he was scheduled to appear in the Queens sewer investigation, the charges involving the sale of bad meat to the New York City Hospital Department, the sale of New York City pier leases, the complaints on conditions in the magistrates' courts in New York, Mr. Ottinger concluded as follows:

"I do not make this indictment against individual members of Tammany Hall or even Tammany Hall per se. I would be willing to walk into Tammany Hall and reveal these facts to estimable members of that organization themselves, because I know many of them who have sufficient pride in their State and in their city to revolt against conditions which exist under the administration of a so-called reformer who in times past was intolerantly anti-Tammany."

E. G. Schulz Made Prosecutor's Aide

Eugene G. Schulz, son of the late Surrogate George M. S. Schulz of the Bronx, was appointed yesterday an Assistant District Attorney on the staff of District Attorney McLaughlin of the Bronx. Mr. Schulz is 28 years old, is married and lives at 2,518 Webb Avenue, the Bronx. He is a graduate of Lafayette College and the Fordham University Law School.

LAUNDRY RACKETEERS RUMORED ACTIVE AGAIN

Mrs. Whitney Says Trouble Was Expected on Dissolution of Brooklyn Owners.

Reports that the gunmen, gangsters and "racketeers" who for years levied tribute on Brooklyn laundry owners are again becoming active with the dissolution of the Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association, of which Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney was named dictator in May in an attempt to clean up the industry, caused Mrs. Whitney no surprise, she said last night.

"It has been the general expectation of the police and of every one else familiar with the situation that the dissolution of the association would result in a revival of the conditions which formerly existed," she said. She added, however, that she had not heard the reports.

Suit to compel the dissolution of the association on the ground that it was the vehicle for many abuses prior to the assumption of its control by Mrs. Whitney was begun by Deputy Attorney General William M. Brouillard last month. Mr. Brouillard developed much testimony about "racketeering" in the industry in a series of hearings through the Winter and early Spring.

A call for the "respectable" members of the association to meet tomorrow to discuss the formation of a new organization, also under the leadership of Mrs. Whitney, has gone out and it is expected that some such action will be taken at that time.

DETROIT WILL VOTE ON RECALL JULY 22

APPEAL IS NOT EXPECTED

Present Incumbent, if Defeated, Could Seek Re-election by Special Ballot in August.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 8.—The people of Detroit will vote Tuesday, July 22, on the question of whether or not Mayor Bowles should be recalled.

The date was set this afternoon by Richard W. Reading, following the dissolution by Judge Robert M. Toms in Circuit Court of the temporary restraining order he had issued Monday.

Judge Toms took this action after Stewart Hanley, attorney for Walter B. Cary, leader of the recall forces, had moved for dissolution of the restraining order on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction to issue such a writ. Judge Toms agreed with him.

If Mayor Bowles is recalled, Mr. Reading said, he has thirty days to call another special election to name his successor. This election would be held about Aug. 26, two weeks before the regular September primary, he said.

Mayor Bowles will continue to serve as Mayor if recalled, and will automatically become a candidate for re-election thirty days later.

Recall Forces Move Swiftly.

The recall forces, victorious in the Michigan Supreme Court Monday, moved swiftly today to overcome the new barrier erected by Mayor Bowles in filing suit for a writ of mandamus Monday morning.

This morning Mr. Hanley, accompanied by Fred R. Schmalzbiedt and Waldo C. Granse, attorneys for Cary, obtained an order from Judge Toms permitting Cary to be a party defendant with Mr. Reading and John W. Eisman, deputy clerk, to the Mayor's suit. Then he moved that the temporary restraining order be dissolved, and argument on the motion began at noon. At 1:30 P. M. adjournment was taken to 2 P. M. to permit Frank H. Dohany, Street Railway Commissioner, who, with Fred L. Vandeveer, represented the Mayor in court, to cite legal authority for his claim that Judge Toms had jurisdiction in the matter.

Judge Shuts Off Argument.

When court reconvened at 2 P. M., however, Judge Toms refused to hear further argument, saying:

"I can't see two sides to this question. It is fundamental and elementary that a writ of injunction is a chancery writ, and a court of law has no right to issue it. A restraining order is merely a species of injunction.

"This court has no jurisdiction to issue a chancery writ in a law proceeding."

Mr. Hanley then had Judge Toms sign the order and served it immediately on Mr. Reading, who was in court. The Mayor's attorneys indicated no appeal would be taken.

Mayor Bowles, when informed the election had been called, declined to comment.

MRS. HOOVER PLANS RETURN TO RAPIDAN

President's Wife, After Two Days at White House, Arranges to Go Back to Camp.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, home again in the White House after a month's rest in the mountains, will make her sojourn here only temporary. Already, after two days in the city, she is planning to return to the restful seclusion of the President's camp on the Rapidan.

She probably will spend the greater part of her time there until she goes West with the President. The bracing, pine-scented air and the complete relaxation have proved an ideal antidote for months of strenuous activity as first lady of the land.

In the last month she has placed flower boxes in the windows of the President's cabin. She is having the banks of the stream near by beautified with flowers and rustic steps. For long, luxurious days she has rested on the wide porch watching the clouds encircle the distant peaks or passing the time with knitting and reading. Most of her meals have been eaten on the porch and she virtually has slept under the stars, too. Her cabin largely is made of glass and screens to admit all the air and sunshine possible.

When Mrs. Hoover wants company she has Christine Vest, teacher of the President's school, a short distance from the camp. The President left the question of keeping school going through the Summer to Miss Vest's judgment, and it is still running.

Though Mrs. Hoover took along her wheel chair when she went to the mountains early in June, following the advice of the White House physician, Captain Joel T. Boone, she discarded it soon after reaching the cabin and now she is apparently restored to health. Though she may not be able to resume horseback riding for some time, she is once more driving her own car.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 8.—Two skittish young breezes played some sort of a game today over the America's Cup course and when their antics ceased, Whirlwind, which had been the trailing boat of the four potential cup defenders, had beaten Yankee by 7 minutes and 25 seconds in the second official tests of the yachts and Weetamoe had gasped past Enterprise, turning seeming defeat into a 26-second victory.

Tonight the cup defense committee, carrying on its shoulders the selection of a defender to meet Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V is about in the position of the man tempted to call for a new deck. The cards of the craft have to be shuffled all over again.

Enterprise had the best record in the preliminary races, which are not to count in the selection of the defender but are recalled, nevertheless, and she has the worst in the official ones so far sailed. Weetamoe, with two victories in as many races, heads the list while Yankee and Whirlwind are next, each with a victory and a defeat.

Much of the two events today, with the four boats paired, was what a turf classic might be were the thoroughbreds held to a walk. What might have been a run was a walk. During the latter part of the contests the sails of the craft, unwrinkled and immaculate in a breeze, hung as limp as a wet wash. They looked as though there was not enough left in them for a rummage sale.

Heel Over in Puff of Air.

Once there was a puff of air of sixteen-miles-an-hour strength, just a gentle breeze, and it laid the racers over on their ears. Enterprise's duralumin mast bent like a whip from the head down to the upper spreaders. That stray bit of wind provided one thrilling moment, but there was no curtain to the whole scene. The finish was just a fade-away, with not enough breath for miles around, that if concentrated, would have sounded a note on a flute.

Whirlwind's humiliation of Yankee, which again was sailed by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, peerless skipper of the old defender Resolute, was the result of the two winds.

On the windward leg of a fifteen-mile thrash from the starting line nine miles southeast of Brenton Reef lightship, to a point half way between Point Judith and Block Island, Yankee had established a clear lead on the six-mile westerly air. Whirlwind had taken a long tack inshore toward Narragansett, where favoring slants often are found.

Suddenly the west wind came to an end and a northwest one appeared. Instead of being the leeward, trailing boat to Yankee, Whirlwind found herself the windward and leading one. She was blown to victory, as a yacht should be, but in an unusual way.

Weetamoe, beaten to windward by Enterprise, caught and passed the latter in a luffing match off the wind, instead of on it. Nearing the finish, with only half a mile of the thirty left to go, Weetamoe had her nose ahead.

Vanderbilt Makes Last Effort.

In a desperate last chance, Harold S. Vanderbilt, sailing Enterprise, attempted to blanket Weetamoe. There was nothing left to the fast dying breeze, however, and it was too late. When he had almost covered Weetamoe, the latter's spinnaker was taken in hurriedly and she headed up to the line.

Enterprise's ballooner fouled on her headstay as she turned the finish mark. The big sail bulging out top and bottom, caught on the wire half way up. Enterprise's big ballooner did not carry her along as well as Weetamoe's smaller one. Its bulge was not as far aloft to lift her head.

On the wind, Enterprise made the fastest time of all four boats, beating Whirlwind, despite the latter's favoring wind, by 45 seconds.

Off the wind, which was the beat and a run with the wavering air, Yankee made the best time. She picked up 1 minute and 10 seconds on Whirlwind, which had led her to the windward mark by 8 minutes and 35 seconds.

Enterprise beat Weetamoe to the outer mark by 1 minute and 5 seconds, but Weetamoe led her by 1 minute and 31 seconds with run out sails.

Sea Roll Falls Away.

Most of the sea roll had fallen away when the racers went out for the start. There were plenty of wind clouds and there was much promise, though little result. Off to the westward was green and blue patched water, but it proved but the shadows of the fruitless clouds.

Fringes of spray on a tide chop also gave the appearance of wind-made white caps. Two members of the defense committee elected to sail on the boats. W. Butler Duncan went on Whirlwind and W. A. W. Stewart on Yankee.

Those two craft started first. They jockeyed about over the starting line, and had to go up to it and cross. Secretary Adams whirled Yankee away one minute and fifteen seconds after the whistle, leaving Whirlwind forty seconds astern.

Weetamoe and Enterprise made next to a perfect start. They went to the line on the buoy end across from the committee boat. Weetamoe was leading and Enterprise nosing to weather of her. They were up too soon to turn at the buoy and had to go along to the middle of the line, but just at the whistle they both crossed, Enterprise first and Weetamoe under her.

Enterprise went about and Weetamoe also turned. Their sails just about filled away in the soft breeze.

Find Breeze Offshore.

It was then that Whirlwind and Yankee, making in toward Point Judith, suddenly found the breeze there offshore from the northwest. Whirlwind, further in, felt it first. She bore off under it to keep her trimmed sails full instead of heading about.

Yankee saw the situation of her opponent and quickly tacked. Whirlwind then turned, but went back again on a hitch. Finally she headed to the westward, the change of wind direction having put her far in the lead.

Weetamoe and Enterprise were having it out in a close tussle, with Enterprise gradually getting a little the better of it. They made a tack to keep in the westerly wind. Enterprise made the first move then, but later, when George Nichols suddenly swung Weetamoe around to go away from Enterprise, Mr. Vanderbilt wheeled Enterprise, too. He had the lead and did not mean to lose it as he had on a split tack with Yankee yesterday.

Yankee then came out from inshore ahead of Enterprise and Weetamoe, while Whirlwind chose the Narragansett way. Then Yankee ran into a soft spot. Her mainsail was not filled and there was a wrinkle down the leech for a time.

Yankee moved out of it, and a little later Enterprise stumbled into it. Weetamoe escaped it and just afterward got a slant of breeze. She heeled over and crept up some. Then the others felt a new life and all scudded along under the breeze while it lasted.

Whirlwind Rounds Mark.

Whirlwind then was making for the turning mark. The time was faster than it was yesterday, but the flood tide was helping them on the windward leg. Just after Whirlwind rounded the mark, the puff at sixteen miles hit the others still close hauled. They heeled far over. The Yankee's jib topsail was taken in. Enterprise and Weetamoe held to it rail down.

After they all had turned back Whirlwind made for the finish, with Yankee following her. Weetamoe began picking up on Enterprise, and the latter gradually headed up in an endeavor to prevent being caught. The luffing match under ballooners resulted, and the two stood up to the north.

Fifty minutes after the turn Weetamoe had worked up to weather of Enterprise into a boat-for-boat position. Enterprise bore off for the finish, and her spinnaker was set. Weetamoe also bore off and set her light wing, the two having held high enough to carry spinnakers. Soon after the breeze up ahead hauled so that Whirlwind could carry her spinnaker, and a few minutes later Yankee could, but the big kites were of little use in the fading air.

The Whirlwind-Yankee race was a procession home. The finish of Weetamoe and Enterprise, contrastingly, was close, though all but lifeless, with their speed ebbing steadily.

The arrangements made tonight were to send the yachts away tomorrow on a third windward and leeward race, with Weetamoe paired with Yankee and Enterprise with Whirlwind. After that the pairings will start over again, the boats sailing triangular courses of ten miles to a leg.

NORSEMAN SCORES TWICE.

Three Trial Races Held to Pick Canada's Cup Challenger.

TORONTO, July 8 (Canadian Press).—Norseman scored two victories and was third once, Vision was second in all three races, and Quest had one victory and two thirds in today's official trials staged by the Royal Canadian Yacht Club to produce a challenger for the Canada's Cup.

Today's trial was over a two and one-half mile course to windward and return with a light sea and wind. Norseman found the conditions to her liking, coming from behind to take the lead from Vision on the leeward beat in the first race.

Skippers were changed in each race. T. K. Wade was in charge of Norseman when she won the first race, E. K. M. Wedd second with Vision and Norman Gooderham bringing up the rear in the Quest.

In the second race Gooderham sailed the Norseman to another victory, with Wade second in the Vision and Wedd trailing in Quest.

Wade brought Quest to the front in the last race, Gooderham following in Vision and Wedd bringing up the rear with Norseman. The three races were keenly contested, the winning margin never being over a minute. The trials will continue tomorrow.

INTERLACHEN MARK CUT BY 2 GOLFERS

147 TEE OFF TOMORROW

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP).—Golf which Interlachen had never seen before was pulled out of its narrow fairways and lively greens today, when two 69s were shot in practice rounds preliminary to the national open, which begins Thursday.

Two players who previously have been held to 75s or higher walked off the eighteenth green this afternoon sharing ownership of the new course record. The first was Henry Ciuci, young pro from Stratford, Conn., and following him was Whiffy Cox, Brooklyn pro and a product of the public links.

They bested by a single stroke the record set yesterday by Bobby Jones, defending champion, and Leo Diegel. Par is 72, thirty-six strokes for each nine, but Ciuci shot the first half in 34, two under par, coming home in one under. His result was obtained with only four birdies, as he shot par on every hole excepting one, one of the most consistent rounds recorded in the practices.

Cox Goes Out in 33.

Cox opened with a pair of spectacular birdies after par on the first, with another birdie on the sixth for a 33 on the outgoing nine. That score for the distance has been beaten only once—by Walter Hagen, twice open champion, who turned in a 32 late Monday.

Cox, in common with Hagen and most of the entries, ran into great difficulties on the second nine, but turned in par 36, to earn his 69 for the round.

Jones, still the top-heavy favorite, teamed up with a foursome, which included Harrison Johnston of St. Paul, national amateur king, and spent most of the round experimenting.

His game appeared slightly off, however, and no accurate count was possible because of second and third shots from identical lies.

Johnston played Minikhada, a neighborhood course, in the morning and was content with a 70 captured there. On Interlachen, along with Bobby, he appeared far off his game, shanking his irons and pulling slightly now and then off the tee.

Hagen, Von Elm, Armour, Sarazen, Diegel, Farrell, Mehlhorn, Dudley and Tolley, regarded as the "threatening nine" to Bobby's crown, refused to combat the sun today and practiced much as the champion did. All seemed satisfied with their games and none seemed much awed by the difficulties of the championship course.

Gibson Dunlap Has a 70.

Gibson Dunlap, Pacific Coast star, indicated that the old-timers will have to consider him in championship play when he turned in a 70, two under par, after two hours of play under a broiling sun. He was one under par on each nine.

Clear skies and an intense sun for a week have had their effect on the course. Gene Sarazen, former champion, banged out a 38 on the first nine today and hurried back to the clubhouse to get away from the sun, reporting that the course was at least four strokes easier this week than last.

The rough has dried out and the fairways have become harder, giving low but hard-driven balls ten to fifty yards additional distance through long rolls. The greens, however, continue to give plenty of trouble, bounding even high looped balls off into traps.

Perkins One Over Par.

T. P. Perkins, former British champion and a veteran of tournaments, turned in a 73, one over par, late today. Ray Mangum, Dallas, went around in par, sharing honors with Tom Creavy, New York. Chick Evans, Chicago, who won the open in 1916 with the record of 286 for the four rounds at Minnehada, is the only one of the former champions entered and he was not on the links today.

Three ranking amateurs, all members of this year's Walker Cup team, today formally withdrew from the entry roll. They are Dr. O. F. Willing of Portdand, Ore.; Francis Ouimet, Boston, and Roland Mackenzie of Wilmington, Del.

Pressure of other activities was given as the reason for the withdrawals of the trio. The field now has been reduced to 147.

New Hurdle Approved by Track Coaches; Designed to Lessen Peril of Bad Falls

A new hurdle designed to reduce the danger of bad falls and injuries in hurdle racing was announced yesterday by Harry Hillman, Dartmouth College track coach, through The Associated Press.

The improvement is the result of a year's experimentation by Earl Thomson, Naval Academy coach; Harold Barron, Georgia Tech mentor, and Hillman, all star hurdlers in their day. The design presented by this committee has been accepted by the Association of Track Coaches of America and also by the International Athletic Federation, which means that the hurdle undoubtedly will be used in future Olympic competition.

As explained by Hillman, the difference is that the hurdle now in use has the upright in the centre of the base so that in falling the top of the hurdle rises more than two inches. The new design, which places the upright one-third the distance from the front of the base, will reduce this rise to less than one-half inch.

"If the hurdler struck the present hurdle with his knee," Hillman pointed out, "by the time his rear foot came over the height would be over two inches higher and naturally the runner would either hit the hurdle very hard or trip and fall.

"Many hurdlers have been injured on account of this and others have been eliminated in important races. Nichols, the Stanford hurdler, undoubtedly would have made the last Olympic team but he hit one of the hurdles and it threw him while in the lead. Baskin, the Southern hurdler, met the same fate.

"Monte Wells of Dartmouth received a bad injury at the indoor New York A. C. games during the Winter previous to the Olympic tryouts and could not compete for six months."

MISS ORCUTT WINS MEDAL WITH A 75

MISS HICKS IS SECOND

Inwood Star Trails Leader by Six Strokes—Miss Collett, Off Form, Takes 88.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 8.—Miss Maureen Orcutt, representing the Lido Club of Long Island, set a blistering pace around the east course of the Oak Hill Country Club today to become medalist in the qualifying round of the first woman's New York State golf championship. Miss Orcutt scored a sensational 75, three over men's par, to lead Miss Helen Hicks of Inwood by six strokes.

Miss Louise Fordyce, playing from the Owasco Club of Auburn, and Mrs. Arthur Harrison of the Buffalo Country Club, with respective counts of 82 and 83, interrupted the hold of metropolitan representatives on the top positions.

Miss Glenna Collett, national champion, followed this quartet of stars with an 88 to tie with Mrs. L. G. Federman of Fresh Meadow and Miss Marion Morgan of Wanakah, Buffalo.

Miss Martha Parker Has 89.

The new metropolitan champion, Miss Martha Parker of Westchester Hills, was safely within the qualifying limits. Miss Parker went around in 89 shots for an eighth-place tie, while her sister, Miss Ellen Parker, had 108 to qualify.

Miss Orcutt's play was spectacular at times and steady in all cases but two, on the fourth where she three-putted for a 6 on the par 5 hole, and on the thirteenth, where she needed seven shots.

Miss Orcutt used a brassie for a close lie on this long uphill hole, which requires crossing a creek on the second shot, and she flubbed it. She came back with a fine third, was short in four and took three more to get down.

Miss Orcutt Out in 36.

Miss Orcutt started with a birdie 3 and finished the first nine with a spectacular 36, with three 3s on her card and a finish of three 4s.

She was even par for the first three on the second nine, slipped on the thirteenth, then came home with a 39 for her 75.

Miss Orcutt's card:

Out	3	5	3	6	4	3	4	4	4	36
In	4	3	4	7	4	3	4	5	5	39	75

Miss Hicks, after a six on the first hole, scored equally as well as Miss Orcutt through the ninth and even picked up a stroke with a birdie 2 on the short sixth to finish in 38. After the turn Miss Hicks faltered and had 43 for an 81.

Miss Collett, favored to win the tourney, was out in 47. Her play lacked dash and she appeared to be over-golfed. She rallied for a 41 on the incoming nine.

Mrs. Federman was out in 41, fourth best outgoing score, and coasted into a qualifying position with a 47.

The field today numbered 99 and every player turned in a card, from the 75 of Miss Orcutt to the 175 of Mrs. R. Weil of Irondequoit. Match play starts tomorrow.

GUARANTY TRUST WINS GOLF TOURNEY

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., July 8.—The Guaranty Trust Company cornered the honors in the one-day golf tournament of the Bankers Athletic League held at the Winged Foot Golf Club today, when both team and individual prizes went to representatives of that institution.

Watts Gunn, former intercollegiate golf titleholder and runner-up in the national amateur championship several years ago, scored a 77 for the eighteen holes to lead the field. P. T. Reilly of the New York Trust and H. Webster of the Guaranty Trust tied for second place with 83 each, while Neal Fulkerson of the Bankers Trust Company came fourth with 84.

John Fennelly of the City Bank almost made a hole in one when his tee shot hit the green and rolled within a foot of the cup on the 188-yard tenth hole. He made it in 2. Z. Brown of the Irving Trust team also found the tenth hole to his liking and scored a birdie 2 when he sank a twenty-foot putt.

The Guaranty Trust team took the Sabin Cup, the team trophy, when every man scored a 92 or better. In the point scoring system used by the Bankers League the Guaranty team chalked up 321 points, while its closest rival, the New York Trust, got only 227. Chase National's 167 put that team in third place.

Jimmy Abbott of the 14th Infantry took the feature ten-round bout at the 22d Engineers Armory boxing show last night by winning the verdict over Joe Caruso of the 14th Infantry. The contestants both weighed 148 pounds.

In the eight-round semi-final Charley Gallo, 135, of the 156th Infantry, won on a foul from John Lawson, 134, of the home outfit, after 1 minute and 43 seconds of the third round. Gallo substituted for Maxie Leiner. Frank Sinque, 127, of the 22d Engineers, outpointed Augie Vaglica, 125, of the 14th Infantry in an eight-round contest.

Billy Fanos, 143, of the 69th Regiment, defeated Don Orsi, 143½, of the 27th Special Troop, in a six-round bout, while the other scheduled six-rounder ended in the second session when Jerry Porzio, 136½, of the 14th Infantry, knocked out Bill Blaikie, 134½, United States Navy.

NEBO BEATS TERRIS IN QUEENSBORO BOUT

6,000 WITNESS THE CARD

Sireci Defeats Gotch in Semi-Final—Fox Sets Back Ficucello, Who Is Floored Five Times.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Pete Nebo now is two up on Sid Terris and their ring series should end. For, last night in the ring at the Queensboro Stadium before a crowd of 6,000 Florida's Seminole Indian lightweight gave the east side lad one of the most severe beatings Terris ever has been forced to absorb.

For seven of the ten rounds Nebo chased and pounded Terris in a systematic fire which just fell short of the knockout climax. In only three rounds did Terris flash what remnant of boxing finesse he still retains, the sixth, seventh and eighth sessions.

Floored Thrice in First.

Three times in the first session Terris went down and repeatedly in succeeding rounds Nebo shook or staggered his foe with rights to the jaw.

Laying off the pace for the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds Nebo came on savagely through the ninth and tenth against a desperate Terris who fought furiously in an effort to upset impending defeat. And with his final punch of the bout, a right-hand drive to the jaw just as the bell sounded, the end of the encounter Nebo sent his foe to the ring floor, where the final bell found Terris.

It was the third meeting of these ring rivals and Nebo's second conquest of the series, their first match having resulted in a draw. Terris weighed 132¼ pounds and Nebo 130½.

Sireci Scores in Semi-Final.

Vincent Sireci, Yorkville middleweight, scored a hollow victory over Steve Gotch, sturdy Chicagoan, in their eight-round semi-final battle. The Yorkville youngster for the most part treated Gotch as a master would treat a pupil, but Gotch, with remarkable powers for assimilating punishment, stood up under the best Sireci had to offer and fought back with determination to the finish. Each weighed 152 pounds.

Marty Fox, east side heavyweight, scored an impressive victory over Ralph Ficucello of Brooklyn, Italian, in a stirring eight-round battle which held the thrill of five knockdowns. Ficucello was the victim of these knockdowns, but he profited by the inexperience of his foe and escaped a threatened knockout.

Three times Ficucello went down in the first round for nine counts and twice the Italian hit the ring floor in the second round, the propelling blow of each knockdown being a right to the jaw.

In the sixth session and again in the seventh Ficucello staggered under the impact of Fox's right-hand punches, but the Italian held his feet after the third round visits to the canvas and fought back willingly to the final bell. Fox weighed 182 pounds and Ficucello 185½.

Vigna's Aggressiveness Wins.

His aggressiveness gained Rocco Vigna the decision over Joe Leone in a six-round battle of west side lightweights which furnished plenty of action. Vigna was staggered in the first round under a right to the jaw and was on his knees at the bell ending the third chapter under a similar blow, but he persisted in his attack and won a merited award. Vigna weighed 131½ pounds and Leone 130¼.

Jack Schwartz, Bronx middleweight, knocked out Al Penecost of Harlem in 35 seconds of the first round in their scheduled four-round bout. Schwartz weighed 158 pounds and Penecost 157.

Sammy Fertel, east side, scored his second victory in as many nights when he won the decision over Jackie Kress, Indianapolis, in the opening battle of four rounds. Fertel weighed 124½ pounds and Kress 127¾.

PIPGRAS CAPTURES SECOND

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Surrounded by 50,000 non-combatants who suffered intensely one moment and cheered lustily the next, the Yankees and Athletics set about the task of deciding a momentous issue at the Stadium yesterday, but failed rather dismally in the undertaking. Instead, they merely annihilated each other to no good purpose, for while they spent the long afternoon splitting a double-header the Senators contrived to put the day to far greater profit by polishing off the Red Sox, thereby gaining a half game on the warring Yanks and Mackmen.

Behind a brilliantly pitched three-hit game by the left-handed Rube Walberg the world's champions shut out the Ruppert legions in the first engagement, 4 to 0, all four of the Athletics' tallies pouring over the plate in the first few minutes of play, with three of them riding in on the crest of a homer by Bing Miller.

But somehow this failed to have the subduing effect upon the Yanks for which the Philadelphians had hoped. In the second encounter Commander Bob Shawkey's men broke out with considerable violence, walloped four of Connie Mack's pitchers for thirteen hits and romped off with the honors, 9 to 4.

Ruth Is Ejected From Park.

Babe Ruth, still nursing a severely bruised left thumb, took no part in either event save in the sixth inning of the first game, when he rushed out of the Yankee dugout in a transport of rage to tell Umpire Owens exactly what he thought of the latter's decisions on balls and strikes. Umpire Owens took a strange dislike to this and chased the great man not only away from the plate but out of the park as well.

The Yanks in this nightcap started pummeling Rommel for four runs in the first three innings, the high light of this early attack being a homer by Cooke. Then in the sixth they thumped Perkins and his immediate successor, Shores, for four more, with Chapman accounting for half of these with a homer and Rice the other half by clouting a fine single with the bases full.

Pipgras Keeps Opponents at Bay.

Behind this substantial clubbing George Pipgras pitched well enough to keep the Yanks on an even keel.

It took the Mackmen scarcely ten minutes to settle the issue in the first game, the matter being accomplished by simply crowning Henry Johnson for four runs before Henry could do more than retire two men. This done, Charlie Ruffing came on the scene to supplant Johnson and turn in a masterful job. He fanned nine men and allowed only two hits during his eight and one-third rounds on the mound, a single by Miller in the seventh and a double by Simmons in the eighth.

COLLINS OF PHILS SUBDUES GIANTS

VICTORS HIT WALKER HARD

He Lasts Only Four Innings, but Breaks Go Against Him—O'Doul Connects for Homer.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—The upward curve in the Giants' campaigning turned backward today in unwilling tribute to a rising pitching star, Phil Collins of the Phillies. The Giants were beaten in Baker Bowl, 8 to 1, and until the ninth inning they had no runs at all.

Against the explosive delivery of Collins, winner of fourteen out of his last sixteen engagements while wearing Philadelphia livery, the Giants needed shut-out pitching to pull them through the fray victorious.

However, the Giants' ace, Bill Walker, left after the fourth inning, and their winning streak of four straight crashed to the tune of harsh hits by Philadelphia bats. Gyrations of joy by the 3,000 eyewitnesses could be pardoned because the lowly local legion had lost its last six games, making victory therefore thrice as sweet.

Phillies Hit Ball Hard.

Lefty O'Doul's second homer in two days and thirteen other Philadelphia hits built a noble pile of tallies to fortify the ace of the tail-enders in his Giant-quelling performance. But Collins needed no huge endowment of runs. Until the ninth only four Giants reached second and only two got to third.

But in the ninth four singles put over the solitary Giant tally, saving the McGravian banners from a shut-out. Lindstrom and Terry punched singles to the outfield. Ott beat out an infield rap, filling the bases with none out.

Then Collins fired three strikes over on Hogan. Jackson's single to right drove Lindstrom home. Then the explosion delivery fanned Roettger for the second out. The game's last play was a grounder by Leach and his limping rush to first base too late to beat Thompson's throw.

Walker had two bad breaks in the second inning, when the Phils scored three runs, but he failed to rally from the blow and two savage hits in the third cleanly earned the fourth local run.

In the second Jackson's fumble put Thompson on base. Singles by Davis and Collins scored Thompson, then Sothern's high fly to right became a two-bagger when it scraped the fence coming down. In any other major league park that double would have been an easy out. Here it was a hit that scored two runs.

Joe Heving began work in the fifth and the first batter, O'Doul, hammered the game's only homer. After driving home their first six runs with hits the Phils scored one on a double steal in the sixth and their last on a wild throw by Lindstrom in the seventh.

Collins closed the 1929 season with a winning streak of seven straight. This year he has won seven and lost two, not an easy record to make when you're pitching for a last-place team.

ZACHARY OF BRAVES CHECKS THE ROBINS

BERGER HITS 24TH HOMER

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

The veteran Tom Zachary's left arm and the youthful Walter Berger's bat yesterday formed a combination that the league-leading Robins were unable to combat successfully, and the Braves took the third game of the series at Ebbets Field by 4 to 1, cutting Brooklyn's lead over the Cubs to 13 points. About 8,000 saw the contest.

Berger thumped his twenty-fourth home run of the season into the left-field seats in the first inning off William Watson Clark with Rabbit Maranville on the paths as a result of his fourth straight single in two games. Zachary then pitched cannily to hold his lead to the end.

Johnny Frederick saved his mates from a shut-out by opening the sixth with a long home run over the right-field wall, but, although the Flatbush athletes had several scoring chances before and after that, Zachary always was able to restrain them in the pinches.

Employ Old-Fashioned Tactics.

The Braves gathered their other two tallies in the fourth, during which considerable old-fashioned baseball was employed. Sisler opened the frame with a pop-fly double that escaped the clutches of the ponderous Ike Boone, and then the Braves began harassing the Robins with bunts and infield bounders. Chatham, the fleet young third baseman of the Bostonians, bunted, and both he and Sisler were safe when Clark tossed vainly to Gilbert.

Spohrer bounced one to Gilbert, who threw swiftly to the plate to catch Sisler, but the throw was a bit wild and the run counted. Clark forced Chatham at third, but Maguire lashed a single to left. Spohrer was held at third, however, by a fine throw by Boone.

Then Zachary himself took a hand in the scoring business by sending a long fly to Frederick that brought Spohrer home with the fourth and final tally.

Phelps Replaces Clark.

This marked the end of Clark's services, and Babe Phelps came in for one inning, and then was removed for a pinch hitter. Señor Adolfo Luque followed Phelps and stopped the Braves for three innings, helped by two double plays. Hollis Thurston pitched the ninth, and also was helped out of trouble by a double play.

Double plays also were fatal to the Robins, the Braves' infield turning in four of them from the fourth inning on to put down incipient Brooklyn uprisings.

Phelps and Luque had been Robinson's selections for the double-header with the Braves this afternoon, but his choice now is a bigger problem, although Phelps probably will be sent in again.

Murphy, Ward and Shields Advance in N. Y. State Tennis Play

SHIELDS, WARD GAIN IN SYRACUSE TENNIS

MURPHY DEFEATS EASTON

Scores at 6-4, 6-2 Over Stanford Ace—Plymire and Lockwood Win 3-Set Matches.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 8.—The sun that shone brightly on the courts of the Sedgwick Farm Club today and enabled the tournament committee to run off a large number of matches lighted the way to the quarter-finals for five of the net stars gathered in quest of the New York State tennis championship.

One of the five was Vanderbilt Ward of Syracuse, veteran of many campaigns and city champion, whose superior all-court game enabled him to eliminate Leonard Dworkin of the University of California in three brilliant sets, 8—6, 2—6, 6—3.

Frank Shields and Dick Murphy of New York City and Utica, respectively, who are seeded first and second, had little trouble in defeating their opponents to sweep into the quarter-finals. Shields conquered Jack McDiarmid of the University of Texas in the third round in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3, while Murphy disposed of Ted Easton of Stanford University, 6—4, 6—2.

Meets Strong Opposition.

Harry Plymire of Stanford ran into strong opposition from Harold McGuffin of Philadelphia and their match went three long sets before the Westerner was able to turn back the challenge of the Easterner, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3.

The West was victorious over the South when Sherman Lockwood of the University of Oregon drove and volleyed his way to victory over Jake Hess of Rice Institute, Texas, in three sets, 7—5, 3—6, 7—5, to enter the quarter-finals.

Shields and Murphy had little trouble in disposing of their opposition. Shields was stroking his forehand drive in a manner that brooked no return, and McDiarmid played sound tennis to get seven games in the two sets. Murphy, a Harvard sophomore, was at the top of his game as he swept through Easton. Murphy and Shields are favored to come through to the final.

Russell Phillips of New York City provided somewhat of a surprise when he triumphed over Stanley Almquist of the University of California in two hard-fought sets, 12—10, 7—5.

HOPE THAT TILDEN WILL PLAY FADES

Star Refuses to Join Davis Cup Team Unless He Is Permitted to Report Matches.

NO CONCESSION, SAYS WEAR

Declares Amateurism Will Not Be Sacrificed and Player-Writer Rule Will Not Be Waived.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

The hope that William Tilden would be a member of the United States Davis Cup team this year faded considerably yesterday with the disclosure that the American champion has refused to play unless he can wield his pen along with his racquet during the international matches.

Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the Davis Cup committee, informed THE NEW YORK TIMES by telephone from Philadelphia last night that Tilden has issued the ultimatum to Captain Fitz-Eugene Dixon in Paris that the United States Lawn Tennis Association would have to grant him the right to write or his services would not be available. Mr. Wear was in communication with Captain Dixon both by cable and telephone.

Tilden Imposes Condition.

This condition, Mr. Wear said, was made by Tilden after he had learned of the offer of the syndicate to which he is contracted to release him from his obligations during the Davis Cup matches. The champion, he stated, declines to accept the release and demands that the U. S. L. T. A. shall waive the restriction of its amateur rule to qualify him to write reports of the matches.

The so-called player-writer provision of the association's amateur code, which Tilden himself helped to frame, expressly forbids any amateur affiliated with the U. S. L. T. A. to write current reports of matches in which he is a competitor.

Mr. Wear expressed himself emphatically in declaring that no such concession will be made by the national governing body to secure the services of Tilden. Louis B. Dailey, president of the U. S. L. T. A., who is in Paris, has already turned down the request of the champion that an exception to the rule be made in this case.

Now Up to Captain Dixon.

"We will not sacrifice amateurism," said the Davis Cup chairman, "for the sake of victory or Tilden or any one else. The syndicate, without any solicitation on our part, very generously agreed to suspend its contract with Tilden to permit him to play for the United States. If he refuses to accept this offer there is nothing else that we can do. I have done everything possible on this side to prepare the way for him to play. It is up to Captain Dixon now to outtalk Tilden."

In spite of the disappointment he experienced in hearing of Tilden's stand, Mr. Wear stated that "it isn't final with me. I haven't given up hope. It is my own personal feeling that everything will be cleared up by Saturday and that Tilden will play."

In view of the stand taken by President Dailey and Mr. Wear, Tilden's loss to the team may be accepted as definite should he continue to stand by his demand. Even if Messrs. Wear and Dailey were in sympathy with his demand, only the United States Lawn Tennis Association, in executive session, would have the power to change the rule.

Tilden Reluctant to Talk.

NOORDWIJK-AAN-ZEE, Holland, July 8 (AP).—Big Bill Tilden, who has just finished winning the men's singles championship at Wimbledon, was very reluctant today about discussing whether he would, or would not, play on the American Davis Cup team.

Tilden assumed an entirely noncommittal attitude when asked if he would consider playing on the team in the event he were released from newspaper contracts.

"I have nothing to say on the subject," he said and made it clear this was final.

MRS. MOODY STARTS HOME WITH MEDALS

CUP TEAM OFF TO PARIS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—With the Wimbledon season over the American tennis players today started for their various destinations. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody left for America, and the American Davis Cup players departed for Paris and the international final.

Before leaving the Waterloo station to board the Majestic Mrs. Moody received the Wimbledon singles and doubles championship medals from R. J. McNair, vice president of the English Lawn Tennis Association.

"I never make tennis plans far ahead," she said, "but I want to come over again next year and I probably shall. I always enjoy Wimbledon more than any other tournament in the world.

"I am sorry to leave England. The country looks marvelous just now, but I shall be glad to get back to my husband and home. When I get back I am going to work hard on my sketches, which are a fascinating occupation. This has been my shortest stay in England, but I love the country and should like to live in London."

Mrs. Moody said that Queen Mary, who visited Wimbledon three times during the championships, was immensely interested in lawn tennis and understood every shot in the game.

The people traveling to the Continent on the Golden Arrow had an unexpected surprise when they reached Victoria station today and found the American Davis Cup players—Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, John Doeg and George Lott—taking that train.

"We have a lot of practice to get in before the Davis Cup final at the end of the month," explained Fitz-Eugene Dixon, non-playing captain of the American Davis Cup forces, adding that they had no time for anything but tennis.

PRINCETON-CORNELL ARRIVE IN ENGLAND

LIVERPOOL, July 8 (AP).—The thirty-one Princeton and Cornell athletes en route to meet the Oxford and Cambridge boys at Stamford Bridge Saturday arrived here today on the steamship Baltic. They landed in a typical Scotch mist and lost no time boarding the boat train for London.

Coaches Fitzpatrick and Moakley expressed themselves as generally satisfied with the condition of the athletes, with one or two minor exceptions of a temporary nature.

Instead of making their way directly to London the members decided to alight at Oxford to see the famous university and take a workout on the Iffley Road track.

ARMY POLOISTS BOW TO AIKEN KNIGHTS

GAME WON IN 10TH PERIOD

Dunbar Bostwick's Goal Decides With 12 Seconds to Play in Second Overtime Session.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., July 8.—With only twelve seconds left in the tenth period of a sensational match on International Field this afternoon, Dunbar Bostwick, riding at No. 2 for the Aiken Knights, drove in a goal from ten yards out after a desperate scrimmage in front of the posts. That goal enabled the Knights to defeat the United States Army four and capture the Meadow Brook Club Cups final, 9 to 8. The goal, coming so near the end of the second overtime period, brought to an end one of the most fiercely fought matches played on Long Island this season and by all odds the longest.

To triumph, the Aiken Knights had to stage an uphill battle and against a team of veteran players who had won their spurs, whereas the Knights four is one of the youngest taking part in tournament play in the country.

Army Concedes Three Goals

The Knights were in receipt of three goals by handicap, taking the field as a seventeen-goal team against a rating of twenty for Army. Considering the experience and the fact that Army had faster mounts, the handicap of three goals was considered equitable.

The Knights drew even with the Army riders at 7—7 in the fifth period, only to have Army again dash to the front in the sixth, but, fighting on desperately, the Knights tied again in the seventh period and then, despite some obvious nervousness, held Army safe through the eighth and ninth and three times drove them back in the tenth.

Then Army, suddenly becoming spread out in its swift riding defense, let the Knights attack for their final stab that brought victory.

Army Aggressor Most of Way.

But there was never a time during the ten periods during which either team could relax. Army's smashing attack was led by Captain C. A. Wilkinson, with Lieutenant McD. Jones and Captain Peter P. Rodes furnishing him his support. With fleeter ponies, Army outrode the Knights until almost the end, but in the final analysis it wasn't fleetness or horseflesh, but quickness of eye, steadiness of nerve and daring that decided the match.

In point of individual brilliance Stewart Iglehart shone as brightly as Captain Wilkinson. In the final stages of the game his riding on the ball and his defensive skill in laying back and intercepting Army smashes kept the Knights from being outrushed by the hard riding of the Army. Yet it was team play in the final three periods that forced the Knights to the front.

Bostwick, riding less spectacularly than Stewart Iglehart, and Philip Iglehart and Billy Post, playing waiting rôles for the most part, nevertheless played major parts in the struggle. It was Post's pass-up, a smashing long shot, that put the ball in position for Bostwick to send it home in the opening period and thus give the Knights an earned goal to add to their handicap.

Post Makes Great Save.

It was Post who made a brilliant save at the goal in the second, and Bostwick and Philip Iglehart who, out-manoeuvring Army by wheeling around the yellow-jacketed Army riders in the fifth, drove the ball with long, smashing strokes to a point twenty yards out, where Stewart Iglehart drove the ball between the posts to bring about the first tie at 7 to 7.

In the seventh period, when the Knights overcame Army once more and tied the score at 8 to 8, it was Post who came dashing from the field, skirting the Army flank and getting on to the ball to drive it far along the turf, where Stewart Iglehart caught it and stroked it in with a deft smash.

In the eighth and ninth the Knights combined all of their speed, power and strategy to stave off the rushing Army. The tenth opened with the flying Wilkinson, mounted on a lightning-fast gray, rushing into the attack and forcing the play inside the Knights' territory, with Jones taking his passes.

Jones drove out of bounds twice, but the Knights finally got the ball, and Stewart Iglehart slashed the ball down the field and the Knights rushed the Army. Iglehart missed a drive at the goal and sent the ball out of bounds. The period was nearly over, but Aiken resumed its attack, went through the Army, staged a scrimmage in front of the goal, and then Bostwick put in the winning goal to end the game.

The line-up:

SIR WALTER WINS IN STRAIGHT HEATS

Steps Mile in 2:01 3-5 and 2:01 2-5 to Take Feature on Grand Circuit Program.

STAR ETAWAH ALSO VICTOR

Paces Two Fastest Heats of North Randall Meeting to Capture the 2:18 Event.

CLEVELAND, July 8 (P).—Sir Walter, owned jointly by W. N. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Henry Knight of Columbus, won the $3,000 Edward Stake, feature of today's Grand Circuit program at the North Randall track.

He won the first heat handily in 2:01 3-5 and came back strongly in the second heat clipping a fifth of a second off that mark. He was driven by the Toledo reinsman, Harry Stokes.

Sir Walter stepped the halves in both miles in 1:01 flat, the first quarter of the first mile being in 0:29 3-5.

Sep Palin, the Indianapolis trainer, won the first event, a 2:18 pace, in straight heats, with Star Etawah, owned by E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill. Star Etawah paced the two fastest heats of the meet in the first and third miles, each being negotiated in 2:03 3-5. The only contention came from Betty Symbol, the Tarboro (N. C.) owned mare, driven by Doc Parshall.

General Walker was installed the heavy favorite in the 2:17 trot but made costly breaks and was defeated. Bob Galloway, a field horse, won the event in straight heats, trotting the second mile in 2:03 4-5, and he paid $243 in the $10 result machines.

The fourth event was a straight-heat victory for the favorite, Senator Crawford, from the Peninsular Farm stable of Fremont, Ohio, driven by Jake Mahoney.

In the second heat Stout Heart, driven by Trainer Will Dickerson of Goshen, N. Y., collided with Worthy Mack, driven by Ray Moore. Dickerson was thrown out and trampled upon, but not seriously hurt.

The Beasel Wins When Flying Heels Is Put Under Restraint —Held at 2-7.

VANDER POOL, 1-5, VICTOR

By BRYAN FIELD.

Jockey Bill Kelsay, whose integrity never has been questioned, had one of his hardest rides at Empire City yesterday, and the large amount of work arose because he was pulling his mount to prevent him from winning. Kelsay stopped his horse with the full approval of the stewards of the meeting, and this unusual situation arose in the Fleetwing Handicap when Gifford A. Cochran had The Beasel and Flying Heels entered. They finished one, two, in the order named.

Mr. Cochran had declared to win with The Beasel, and as a result Kelsay on Flying Heels had to do his best to restrain his mount and make the declaration of his owner good. The two Cochran horses were so much the best of anything else that ran in the Fleetwing that there was no danger of the race being lost even when Kelsay took Flying Heels under a strangle hold in the stretch, stood up in the saddle and threw his weight back on the reins. With Flying Heels handled in that manner, The Beasel was able to win by a head, which gives some indication of how good Flying Heels is. Moreover, he carried 122 pounds, as against 113 for the filly.

Fresh From Carter Victory.

Flying Heels was fresh from his victory in the Carter Handicap, and it evidently is the intention of Trainer Henry McDaniel to keep weight off the colt so that he will go into some of the stiffer tests up ahead with a lighter burden than would be his lot if he kept on winning races and collecting weight penalties.

The Beasel earned $3,470 by scampering the short six-furlong course in 1:09 1-5, creditable enough time considering the circumstances. The third horse was Bud Broom, two lengths back of Flying Heels and a length ahead of Okaybee. Grattan and Sandy finished in the order named, the latter being an added starter on which there was a big plunge. He was backed down from 12 to 1 to 5 to 1, but ran sluggishly and apparently is not the horse of a year ago.

The race was easy for the Cochran pair, as they got off smartly and were in front within a few strides. L. Trimble, the apprentice boy, rode The Beasel, as it was deemed a harder task to keep Flying Heels from winning than to make The Beasel win.

The Beasel took the lead at first and came into the stretch still on top. There Flying Heels was so full of run that he galloped into the lead and Kelsay had to go to work in earnest to permit The Beasel to regain the lead.

Vander Pool Sets Pace.

The entry was the very short price of 2 to 7, but impossible prices were the order of the day. In the Amaranth Purse Mrs. M. P. Allen's Vander Pool was held at 1 to 5. Vander Pool won, but it is safe to say that he had comparatively few backers at the odds. He beat Harry Payne Whitney's Smear by three-quarters of a length at the end of five and a half furlongs. The time was 1:06 2-5.

Vander Pool led all the way and never was threatened until just at the end, when Smear came on under the whip to force Vander Pool to his best pace. But he won handily, nevertheless.

Vander Pool still is undefeated and has to his credit such good 2-year-old stakes as the Miami Juvenile, the Bowie Kindergarten, the Aberdeen at Havre De Grace and the Youthful at Jamaica. He is unquestionably one of the best of the season's youngsters. He carried 120 pounds and was giving Smear ten pounds.

There were three odds-on choices yesterday and all won. The first was F. E. Brown's Wu, 7 to 10 favorite in the Briarcliff Purse, a mile and a sixteenth affair that was second on the program. He started off very slowly but went past the others surely and steadily, and at the end was four lengths in front. Golden Anger finished second and Violence third.

DUSTEMALL VICTOR AT ARLINGTON PARK

WINS IN NEAR-RECORD TIME

Runs Mile in 1:36 4-5, One-fifth of a Second Under Track Mark —Lady Broadcast Second.

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP).—Dustemall, a 3-year-old brown filly by Chicle—Miss Whisk, carried the colors of Harry Payne Whitney to victory in the Smart Set Purse at Arlington Park today. Lady Broadcast was second and Miss Bess third.

The race was an allowance affair over the mile route out of the chute and Dustemall was clocked in 1:36 4-5, just one-fifth of a second under the track record established four days ago by Breezing Thru. She paid $4.24 for a $2 ticket.

Dustemall moved up rapidly from a slow start and taking the lead at the half-way mark never was seriously threatened thereafter, finally winning by two and a half lengths. Lady Broadcast, away quickly, showed a burst of early speed and held on well, after being headed, to take the place by five lengths from Miss Bess.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

RESPLENDENT in a tropical suit of white linen, Mickey Cochrane was about to sally out to the "orchard" to play his part in the double-header between the Athletics and the Yankees.

"Better call the taxi right into the lobby," advised Jimmy Dykes. "If you go into the street wearing that suit, somebody will hand you a broom."

Cochrane grinned and hinted that Jimmy was envious. What did Mickey think of the Yankees!

"I refuse to answer, by advice of counsel," said Mickey cautiously. It seems that he answered that question once before and he is still hearing about it from the Yankee dugout whenever the Mackmen and the Yanks are on the same playing field.

Then what did he think of the Senators?

"I don't think they have the punch that we have."

Perhaps so, but you couldn't tell it by scanning the averages that show the Senators hitting ten points higher in team batting than the Athletics when the last measurements were taken.

Looking to the Future.

"Sure, but our fellows get longer hits," said Mickey in partial rebuttal, "anyhow, there's half a season to go yet. Some of our boys are only just getting into their real stride. It's the same team we had last year and we had plenty of hitting then. I guess we'll have it this year, too. We're not worrying."

But the Senators have a good team, haven't they?

"Sure it's a good team and the players are hustling. The pitching is fine. But I think we hurt them when we knocked them off for six straight. That didn't do them any good. Of course, they had tagged us for seven straight in the first two series. But I don't think that was so important. It was early in the season, when anything could happen. But you see, we went into Washington when they were leading by three games and we knocked 'em right off the perch. I guess that shook them some."

What about the trades the Senators made?

"Helped them a lot. Manush has been hitting better than Goslin and think of getting Crowder thrown in! Say, he's one of the best right-handers in the league. I'm glad, in a way, to see Sam Jones doing so well. Great fellow, Sam. We went moose hunting up North together last year. Both got a moose on the same day. Of course, I'm up there to cause Sam all the trouble I can when he's pitching against us. But he doesn't pitch against us. We have his number. The club he plasters is the Yankees. He sure has them eating out of his hand. I'm for that."

Comment From Columbia Eddie.

Eddie Collins came along at that point and was asked if he still thought the Yankees would finish second.

"Well, I'm not picking them to finish first," said Eddie briskly.

But second?

"I'll tell you more about it when this series is over," said Eddie. "They still have Ruth and Gehrig and Lazzeri, you know."

"And Combs," added Cochrane. "Say, I notice they are taking him out against left-handers. What's the idea of that? He could play on my ball club if a pitcher was throwing from both sides at once. Yes, sir, he's a ball player, that boy. Great spirit. In there all the time, what?"

Jimmy Dykes chipped in with Cochrane and Collins nodded assent. Then Collins turned to Tom Zachary of the Braves, who was sitting near by and puffing solemnly on a long cigar.

"Tom, how do you find it in that league?" asked Eddie. "Any different?"

"Haven't noticed it," said Zachary.

One Difference.

There is one slight difference that Tom should have noticed. The National League hitters sent him down to defeat late in June. American League hitters banged away at his left-handed twisters through all of last season and failed to tag him with a defeat. It may be remembered that, as a member of the Yankee pitching staff, Zachary led the league in pitching with twelve victories and no defeats at all.

He won three games for the Braves this season before he was chased by one of the Western clubs in the last intersectional campaign. That cut a run of victories that had extended to fifteen straight, stretched over a season and a half. It sounds like a record. Just why Zachary was allowed to escape from the Yankee enclosure is still one of the mild mysteries of baseball.

"Why are they saying they have no pitching?" queried Tom. "They've got good pitchers. Sherid's a good pitcher. Pipgras is a good pitcher. Pennock's been going fine. Henry Johnson's got a lot o' stuff. Of course, they've got to lose some ball games once in a while, but I think they've got good pitchers. If they don't win, it'll be on account of something else."

None but the Braves.

How about the Braves?

"We've got a good club," said Tom, still puffing steadily on his cigar. "Yes, sir, it wouldn't take much to put this team right up there. Pitching's good. Fielding's all right. I'll tell you what we could use, though. We could use one more bird like this big fellow Berger. You've got to have somebody these days who can scare them when he's at the plate. See, the Yanks have Ruth and Gehrig. The Athletics have Simmons and Cochrane and Foxx. The Cubs have Hack Wilson, and so on. We've got Berger. He may miss it, or foul out, but the pitcher never knows when he is going to whale the ball over the fence. Yes, sir, a little more punch, another fellow like this Berger and we'd step along with any of 'em."

That sounds reasonable, but Tom might have added that the Braves could also use a catcher like Cochrane or Gabby Hartnett. He never got around to it. He was still musing on hard-hitting outfielders and puffing out clouds of smoke when Manager Bill McKechnie came along and suggested that all his hands head for Brooklyn to keep a pressing engagement.

JACK HOWE WINS LATONIA FEATURE

Ellis Entry Gains Early Lead to Capture Dry Ridge Purse —Pays $7.56 for $2.

MARTINIQUE RUNS SECOND

LATONIA, Ky., July 8 (AP).—The Dry Ridge Purse, featured on the racing card here today, was won by J. C. Ellis's Jack Howe. Martinique was second and All Upset third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:14 and the winner paid $7.56 for $2.

Jack Howe, off to a good start, increased his advantage and at the turn for home was four lengths in front of the field. Martinique was slow to get started, but closed with a rush to beat the tiring All Upset for the place.

Carroll, on Jack Howe, almost threw the race away. The jockey apparently did not notice the speeding Martinique, and Jack Howe just managed to win by the narrowest of margins.

ENGLISH POLITICAL MANOEUVRES.

In offering a resolution in the House of Commons for what is virtually a vote of censure against the Government, Mr. STANLEY BALDWIN is apparently thinking less of defeating Prime Minister MACDONALD than of strengthening his own position as leader of the Conservative party. In it there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction and confusion of counsels. For a time Lord BEAVERBROOK seemed to threaten it seriously by proposing to found a new party with "Empire free trade" on its banners. Then Mr. BALDWIN himself accepted the idea of a protective tariff wall around the British Empire, though he stipulated that he would not agree to a tax on food unless it had been approved by a referendum. Lord BEAVERBROOK accepted this olive branch, and for a time all looked harmonious. But latterly he has been impatiently demanding adoption of his program without any ifs or buts, and Mr. BALDWIN seemingly has been pushed on to do it. His resolution in the House of Commons said nothing about a referendum on food duties. Doubtless BEAVERBROOK will claim him as a complete convert.

Personally, Mr. BALDWIN did not need to be converted to the theory of protection. He avowed it seven years ago, and went to the country with it in a general election, only to be soundly defeated. Since then he has treated the question of English protection not as a settled principle or doctrine but as a mere matter of political expediency. His present object is probably further to sound out the three parties and to develop his political strategy. Not all of his own party will be hearty in his support. Mr. WINSTON CHURCHILL, for example, is an old free trader, but reluctantly agreed to accept the new Beaverbrook dogma, provided he could do so with the crutch of a referendum on food taxes. But that is now kicked out from under his arm. Other Conservatives will hesitate to follow a hesitating leader. Nor can Mr. BALDWIN hope to win open support from Mr. LLOYD GEORGE and the Liberals. But he is said to be confident that he can drive a wedge into the Labor party. Its Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. SNOWDEN, is an uncompromising free trader, but not a few Labor members, among them said to be Mr. THOMAS, now Minister for the Dominions, have shown a hankering for the fleshpots of protective duties. These are now dangled before them as a possible cure for that unemployment which, unrelieved, and even increasing, is sapping the political strength of the Labor party.

Even without these troubles the MacDonald Government is not making marked progress or winning added popular support. Perplexities in foreign affairs, involving India and Egypt and Malta, are thick upon it. In the sphere of domestic legislation it has suffered many rebuffs and mortifications. The education bill, upon which high hopes had been pinned, is to be dropped. In addition to throwing that overboard, Mr. MACDONALD announced the other day that another much-praised measure, the consumers' bill, would have to be jettisoned before this session of Parliament could make port. Even the coal bill, on which so much has been staked, has not yet emerged from its deadlock between Lords and Commons. Thus it is against a visibly weary and disappointed Government that the leader of the Conservatives is to move his vote of censure.

THE CITY SCANDALS.

Indictment of another local judicial officer will add to the public belief that the morale of the Walker Administration is sinking lower. The Mayor and his political advisers should see that conditions call loudly for the tonic of plain speech. Till now nothing has come from the City Hall to indicate that Mr. WALKER is aware of the discredit brought by his associates and subordinates upon his own record, or to serve as a sharp warning to all the members of his official family. When so many cracks show in a structure, there is lowered resistance to stress. The hour has come for the Mayor to summon both the demolition and reconstruction crews. The only call which will put them actively to work must come from him. If he does not utter it publicly and forcibly, the community will be inclined to condemn the whole edifice of City Government as unsound.

In other days when some great, conjoined system of graft linked an entire set of politicians in office, there has come a series of charges and indictments and forced retirements. But in those instances the misfeasance has been done with either the guilty knowledge or the cynical permission of the man at the top. Lack of severe standards, however, due to the negligence or other bad example set by the chief, can equally undermine public service. When they are revealed, without open and stern reprimand by the official under whose eye they are committed, the public inevitably has a feeling of suspicion and distrust. Cities, States and even nations long safely held by a political party break away from it, and chiefs who are easily imposed upon find themselves standing at the bar of outraged public opinion. It is not too late for Mr. WALKER, who has in no personal way been even slightly connected with any of these scandals, to voice the indignation of the community which has twice elected him to its highest office.

He can act as well as speak. In one instance he has acted, and that was in the appointment of Chief Magistrate CORRIGAN. His presence in office is one of the most reassuring elements in the whole situation. Recently the Mayor has shown for the first time willingness to consult the Bar Association on future appointments of city magistrates. That is another way to cure a thoroughly diseased condition. A Republican investigation is both inevitable and desirable, however the Governor may deal with the proposal for an extra session, and however his own chances of re-election are shown to be affected by what is happening here. But the Mayor has in his own power to give the city and all its officials a lead in the right direction. He should not delay it.

MUSSOLINI TO BRIAND.

ARISTIDE BRIAND may not have every reason to be pleased with the nature of Italy's reply to his United States of Europe invitation, but he may be happy that it was a qualified acceptance. Foreign Minister GRANDI'S able memorandum is at pains to point out that BRIAND is in the wrong pew, but concedes that he is in the right church. Italy announces her "willing collaboration" in the work of establishing a union of European States, even if most of her ideas on the subject differ from M. BRIAND'S. This means that in September there will be a meeting at Geneva and that its business will concern ways and means of bringing into existence a Federated Europe. Merely to have this "dream" brought out from the pages of the social philosophers into the arena of political discussion would be an achievement.

What has happened is more than that. The "United States of Europe" has been brought down from the theatre of discussion to the theatre of negotiation. It is a step forward in history when a conference seized of such a mighty project assembles. That it will produce divergences of program and opinion, that it may reveal a clash of interests so sharp as to force a postponement, are not unlikely. But what we know of the world's hopes and fears engendered by the war makes it certain that such a break-down will not be accepted as definitive. The very difficulties revealed will be proof of the necessity of a solution. The idea of a cooperative union to supplant rampant nationalism will remain on the agenda of Europe.

When it has once been said that Premier MUSSOLINI'S consent to go to Geneva is a pleasant surprise after recent Franco-Italian interchanges, it must be admitted that the spirit of these recent interchanges is reflected in Signor GRANDI'S statement. He challenges the thesis developed in the Briand memorandum of May 17 that the successive steps toward a Federated Europe must be political agreements establishing national security followed by agreements for economic cooperation. Italy would deal first with disarmament as the essential condition of security in Europe. Thereafter economic adjustments would come without great difficulty. It is obvious that this emphasis will be cordially received in Germany, which has never, since its entry into the League of Nations, ceased to press the question upon the attention of other governments. The challenge to France on disarmament, coupled with an equally unpopular topic in France, the inclusion of Soviet Russia and Turkey in a European union, makes it plain that Italy is not thinking exclusively as a good European. She is thinking of the competition in prestige with France which has recently taken on a hotter tempo. But mixed motives will be found in the proceedings of every group of Founding Fathers in history. In a perfect world the nations of Europe would turn to the idea of federation without afterthought. In a real world they turn to the idea with a very lively sense of their own interests. But it is progress that nations have come to see their individual advantage tied up with a program of cooperation and federation.

THE TRANSIT DECISION.

The denial by the Transit Commission of the right to establish a seven-cent fare for surface car lines was confirmed yesterday by the Court of Appeals at Albany. This does not close the door to future adjustment of rates. It is based on a question of procedure, denying that street railway companies may of themselves increase their rates by the mere act of filing new schedules. Increases may be authorized only by the Public Service Commission after a hearing or upon complaint that the rates charged are "insufficient "to yield reasonable compensation "for the service rendered and are "unjust and unreasonable."

In effect, the decision tends further to strengthen the power of the Public Service Commission. Emphasis is placed on the fact that it is empowered to lower the rates when too high or raise them when too low. The clear purpose of the law is that this body, acting as agent for the State, shall be able to carry out a consistent policy of rate regulation.

The immediate effect of this decision is to end, at least for the time being, the latest efforts of the street railway companies to obtain an increase of fares through their mistaken procedure. The proper step would be for them to try to show that the rates now prevailing are unjust and unreasonable. But it is for the commission to exercise its judgment and decide whether or not to authorize the requested increase. In the present instance, the Transit Commission denied the claim for an increase, because it was made under Section 49 of the public service law instead of under Section 29.

The fact that the commission was opposed to the increased fare should not be taken to mean that it is opposed to all increases under all circumstances. The law specifically provides for a flexible policy. But in the meantime, existing franchises are binding. The carrier is denied the right to fix its rates at will, as it might be permitted to do if there were not special statutory regulations or contractual obligations to the contrary.

To speculate on the influence of this decision on other requests for rate increases would be premature. The points at issue were technical and the cases of a special nature. But now the legal battle over rates is likely to become even more hard fought.

COLONEL LINDBERGH'S COUNSEL.

Colonel LINDBERGH'S views about commercial aviation, transmitted by request to the Transit Section of the League of Nations, were solicited not only because he is one of the greatest of the world's aviators, but because his standing as an authority on air transportation has an international character. There is wisdom in this look into the future:

> Aviation does not concern one nation. Its ultimate value lies in the bringing of the various countries of the earth into closer contact. It is not possible to develop air transport and communication in its broadest aspect without the cooperation of the entire world.

What form is cooperation to take? There must be agreement upon fundamental principles. All the nations must work together to facilitate the intercourse that will level barriers of prejudice and distrust, improve trade relations, bring about a better understanding and contribute to the cause of peace. Both the dirigible airship and the airplane will play a part in the new transportation. To displace the airship, which is proving its worth as an ocean carrier, the airplane would have to offer greater accommodations and triumph over adverse weather conditions. The airplane for land, the airship for the seas, is an apparent division of service, but the distinction may not last long.

Colonel LINDBERGH urges standardization of airways, uniform markings and signals, meteorological research to make flying safer and better radio communication. He has been much concerned about the diversity of regulations governing commercial aviation; in some States liberality is shown toward pilots, in others they are handicapped and even kept out by restrictions. He would have an international agreement providing for equal treatment. He is critical of the delays imposed upon aviators by difficulties of clearance both as to charges and permission to proceed. Some of the requirements he thinks are unnecessary. They should be modified. Colonel LINDBERGH'S lucid and compact statement will be helpful in the deliberations at Geneva.

EDUCATIONAL EXCHANGE.

The Prince of WALES, in his admirable address in behalf of the National Union of Students, lent his influence to a movement that is already well advanced in America, chiefly through the generous initiative of Mr. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER Jr. No one could have spoken more helpfully to Britain than the Prince; for

> Princes are there the glass, the school, the book,

The purpose of the organization of British students is first of all to provide a centre to which students from other parts of the world may come and find helpful and hospitable guidance through the ritual of admission among a people who are "apt to hide the light of kindness under a bushel of reserve." The welcome and entertainment extended are to be more than perfunctory suggestions offered by sightseeing agencies. They are to be the expression of an effort to make the visit a "veritable social experience." This is such an activity as has its centre in International House on Riverside Drive, New York. Various other American organizations, notably among them the Institute of International Education, help foreign students to become acquainted with the social, political and industrial life of America, as well as with the particular subjects of their study.

The second function of the National Union is to assist British students who wish to make special researches in other countries. Several foundations in the United States are doing this for American students, but England has not as yet undertaken this sort of subvention of scholarly adventure abroad on a considerable scale. This is not because she looks with condescension upon the intellectual institutions and cultural or material achievements of other peoples. The reasons are in part economic. But beyond this the British are not habituated to private giving on such a vast scale for educational purposes. The Prince pays a tribute to Mr. ROCKEFELLER in wishing for his "British prototype."

With the Summer season there springs up within the greater city of New York such unions, little university cities in which mature men and women from every State, chiefly teachers, and from many foreign lands are gathered, as once they came from all the nations of Europe to the medieval universities. At this time opportunities are open to thousands for the enlargement of their professional or cultural fields and for coming into the intellectual association with other peoples, even as the Prince of WALES seeks them for his own people.

CENTRAL PARK FOR ALL.

We must again express regret that The Daily News, which has, as it thoughtfully points out, "1,051,-"130 daily buyers in the five bor-"oughs," does not get the point of the appeal of the Park Association of New York City and others to keep Central Park what it was intended to be. It is not a question of rich or poor. What THE TIMES thinks and what The Daily News may argue are of little consequence compared with the lasting needs of this community. A fine park system is not only an ornament to any city which has it, but is a source of recreation and health to its inhabitants. The Chicago owners of The Daily News have been foremost in extending and protecting the beautiful parks and boulevards of that city. They might well be the envy of New York, as also an example to us.

Central Park is a great beauty spot and breathing space in the midst of Manhattan which should be jealously guarded in all its essential and original features. Playgrounds, whether on a small scale or a large one, are another matter. The Park Association is as anxious to secure new ones and improve old ones as anybody can be. Just at present it is studying plans for the great "fill" on Riverside Drive between Seventy-second and 129th Streets, where there will be a boating centre, a large swimming pool, six big playing fields and more than forty tennis courts—all to be had without sacrificing a foot of park space. In this kind of provision for the children of this city we are confident that The Daily News, on second thought, will be anxious to cooperate.

DEAD LETTERS.

If one had to work in Washington this Summer, one might prefer a post in the Division of Dead Letters and Dead Parcel Post, in the office of the First Assistant Postmaster General. Its superintendent, Mr. FRANK C. STALEY, tells us in The United States Daily that his divisionists are still up to their ears in undeliverable Christmas mail, most of it Christmas cards. What labor could be cooler or more innocent? A lot of pictures must have snow and ice in them. The verses jingle like sleigh-bells, but the veteran employes may be deaf to the music and bored by all that gracious association and suggestion.

Last year some 3,250,000 undeliverable letters with Christmas cards in their insides turned up within three weeks of Christmas. "There seems to be an almost uni-"versal prejudice against the use of "a return address on an envelope "containing a greeting card." Shall we say that business is forgotten in "the Christmas spirit"? Mr. STALEY has no word about love letters. A writer of one to an addressee in a small town might well be shy of furnishing too much detail for local consumption. Has the Valentine habit faded? If not, Mr. STALEY'S returners and throwers-away, when their Christmas is over, will have to deal with the scraps of the festival which, if antiquarians guess right, is "the feast of Lupercal."

Let us be exact and improving, even if the Dog Days are soon to bark. "We air a careless people, sir":

> Of the 23,000,000 letters sent to the dead letter office last year, it was possible to return only 3,800,000, or about 16 per cent, the other 19,200,000 being destroyed.

We ought to be more careful, though we shan't. Let us keep in mind the Postoffice Department's injunction: "Put your return address on everything you mail." The money in one form or another loosely and vaguely entrusted to the mails amounted to millions years ago. The negligence of the parcel-posters helps a little to support the Government. Last year only 23 per cent of the undelivered parcels could be returned. The remainder brought something over $80,000 at auction. From this source, from the postage on parcels returned, from the 3-cent fee on each restored letter, from the money found in letters undeliverable, the office got nearly $250,000—within $20,000 of the cost of operation. A small fine on a large amount of haste, laziness or ignorance.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Neglected American Perils. Sometimes one would wish to see Americanization defined so as to throw a little emphasis on other things than motor cars and ice-cream soda. The inhabitants of the republic of Panama, it would appear, are being rapidly Americanized. First comes the consumption of three million packages of chewing gum in the last fiscal year. Then appears the American automobile, after that American clothes, then American drinks, and only later the American language and such American habits as the unsupervised companionship of young people as opposed to the duenna system.

What a news dispatch says about Panama is always being said by serious tomes dealing with the Americanization of Europe. It turns out to be overwhelmingly Americanization by jazz, motor cars, American bars, telephones, bathrooms, dentistry, "mechanization" in general. These things are American enough and superficially the most characteristic features of Americanization abroad. But there are other things.

The wider horizons and opportunities that are opening up for the common man in Europe and elsewhere are part of the American idea. When Great Britain, for instance, embarks on an extension of educational facilities for the children of the working class, she is practicing a kind of Americanization older and more significant than chewing gum or motor cars.

Not a "Good Idea." The Army and Navy Journal asks whether it would not be a good idea, "now that we have so many Generals, to do something special for the Commander-in-Chief of the A. E. F.," and answers its own question by proposing that the rank of Field Marshal be created for General PERSHING. One of the reasons given is that the rank "would indubitably place him in the popular mind above the men who served under him or, during the war, at home." He already, and deservedly, has that distinction in the popular mind.

Neither the American people nor Congress would take kindly to the notion of bestowing upon General PERSHING a higher rank than GRANT, SHERMAN and SHERIDAN had. It was intended by Congress that WASHINGTON should be so distinguished, in March, 1799, but when he died, nine months later, the commission had not been issued.

In a message to Congress on July 18, 1919, President WILSON recommended that "the permanent rank of General" be given to JOHN J. PERSHING and PEYTON C. MARCH, "expressing the law in such a way as to give precedence to General PERSHING." Bills were introduced to carry out that purpose, but Congress not only declined to give MARCH equal rank with General PERSHING, but revived the wording of the law under which WASHINGTON was to be honored, making the Commander-in-Chief of the A. E. F. "General of the Armies of the United States." To create him a Field Marshal would not accord with the traditions of the United States Army nor add to his fame.

Mathematics vs. Chance. The odds are 53,644,737,765,488,792,839,237,440,000 to 1, say the contract bridge mathematicians, against any one holding a suit of thirteen cards. Yet three times recently players have found the miracle realized. Once the unfortunate holder, a lady, bid a grand slam in no trumps and went down thirteen tricks. If there were any courts to punish people for bidding as she did, she should have been put under a peace bond never to play bridge again. Another time the holder of thirteen hearts bid and made a grand slam, doubled and redoubled, and that won him a high place in the councils of the game. Now comes a New York woman who held thirteen spades, and what did she do with them?

According to one version she started off with a bid of two spades and was gradually forced up, apparently with reluctance, to six. Another account is that she bid six spades immediately and, having been doubled by her husband, naturally made seven tricks above. Either tale brings heartache to contract bridge players and a mixture of sympathy and envy for her husband.

Heartache, because she didn't bid a grand slam. Sympathy, because some day she might be his partner and would not bid a grand slam on a perfect suit. Envy, because when he doubled her six she did not then go to seven and—in his apparent mood—get another double for a redouble. That saved him and his partner a lot of points.

A Call to Homes. Mrs. EDISON'S radio talk was ostensibly addressed to all the women of America, but its substance could have appealed to a rather limited group. Wives who work in factories because their husbands do not make enough money to keep the home going comfortably could not have been interested in hearing that our civilization must be safeguarded by their staying at home. Department store clerks working part time and taking care of a child or two and a home are not impressed by a lecture on home management as "the biggest business we have." Stenographers and their husbands, "living in two or three rooms and leading a hustle-bustle kind of existence," will not agree that this sort of life is "unfair" to the men.

Some working wives, better fitted temperamentally to work outside the home than to keep house, would certainly go on working even if their husbands suddenly began earning enough for all their needs and some luxuries besides. But many of them work only because they need the extra money. These and the wives who are already in the admired home-making class do not need to be exhorted. The first group would be home bodies if finances permitted. The second complacently accepts the address as praise.

In advising families to send girls rather than boys to college, if a choice must be made, Mrs. EDISON struck a more generally responsive note. The boy finds a substitute for an important part of a college education in the contacts and experience he has in business. If the girl is to settle down in a home and bring up children, she needs all she can get of outside impressions and instruction in the development of her talents at home.

The Ways of Fascism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed THE TIMES article on the surveillance to which Dr. Julius Curtius, the German Foreign Minister, was subjected by the Italian Secret Service in Locarno. While traveling alone in Southern Italy and Sicily last Spring, particularly around strategic watering places, at railway stations, hotels, on trains and boats, I was constantly buttonholed and drawn into presumably friendly conversation by Italian Secret Service men as to my movements and purposes. After they had found out everything, down to the square root of my father's telephone number, they vanished. Two Germans whom I met were particularly annoyed at this treatment.

To those of us who love Italy, it is a matter of regret that Fascism, which has done so many good things, seems on the way to exact too heavy a toll in human blood by its dream of imperialistic conquest. Inscribed on the Italian twenty-lire piece is the motto "Better to live a hundred years as a lion than one day as a sheep." A boat which carried me to Africa had a speech of Mussolini cast on a bronze tablet bearing the caption "Live dangerously."

ARTHUR M. YOUNG.

Charlotte, the "Hornets' Nest."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Charlotte, N. C., was never known, as Miss Anne O'Hare McCormick says in an article in THE TIMES of July 6, as "The Hornets' Nest of religious controversy."

The name "Hornets' Nest" was applied by the British Major General, Lord Cornwallis, and it refers to his reception by the citizens defending the town against his invasion during the American Revolution.

GARDEN MAGIC.

Incredible as dream before the eyes
This startled garden is. Who could have known
This Gothic arch of elms could so disguise
The Celtic glamour of this magic zone?
Into enchantment we have walked, perchance—
And shall we shudder now and point a moral?
Nay, let us play the pipes and sigh and dance
Where roses break in ramps of towering coral.

And here, with phlox for perfumed counterpane,
A couch for Aucassin and Nicollette.
All lovers' ghosts to gardens come again,
Seeking remembered Edens with an art
Indelible as music in the heart.

INDUSTRIAL ECONOMICS.

Distribution of Profits Would Provide Work and Help Business.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Bernard Baruch recently attributed our business stagnation to overproduction, and he asks that Federal control be relaxed to permit industry to regulate production. Miss Perkins would help the situation by having industrialists spend last year's profits on plant expansion. THE NEW YORK TIMES of March 9 says editorially that "we have extended our productive capacity in almost every field beyond the consuming power of our own population. The need of lifting up our eyes toward foreign markets and doing everything possible to foster trade across the seas so as to keep our own people at work is certain to be brought home to business men with uncommon intensity during the next few months."

Dealing first with the question of selling our excess production in foreign markets, "export trade" means an exchange of something for something else, and Congress is making it difficult for us to exchange our products for goods which we keep out by a tariff wall, or for services we keep out by immigration restriction. We certainly cannot continue indefinitely selling goods abroad and immediately lending the money to pay for them. An immediate expansion of exports seems doubtful.

Regulation of production, as Mr. Baruch recommends, seems a logical policy in this emergency, but it suggests the thought that it is necessary only because we are burdened with too much plant capacity—in which case should we build more, as Miss Perkins recommends?

One wonders if modern industry, in its pursuit of mass production, has ignored the fact that business is measured not by plant capacity but by the wants of the consumers and their ability to satisfy these wants—in other words, by their purchasing power.

Industry, through its earnings, supports a large percentage of our population. It has been the profits of industry, withheld from shareholders and employes, that have created the excess factory capacity which has led to overproduction. Had these profits—beyond a reasonable reserve to insure plant efficiency and provide against ordinary risks—been paid out, there would have been no large idle reserves and consequently no temptation to build unnecessary plants. Without such plants we would not have overproduction. Without overproduction we would have had steady employment and uninterrupted profits instead of factory shut-downs and losses. This would mean increased wages and higher dividends—or increased purchasing power. Increased purchasing power means increased consumption of factory products, which in turn creates a real demand for increased plant capacity.

The figures in this connection are interesting. In 1927 our domestic corporations earned, less taxes, $7,851,000,000, of which they paid out in dividends $6,424,000,000, holding in reserve $1,427,000,000. Had this been paid out it would have given the stockholders and wage earners additional purchasing power equivalent to more than one-quarter of our total export trade, which was $4,865,000,000.

In 1926 the figures are even more striking. In that year corporations withheld $2,500,000,000—considerably more than half our export trade of $4,809,000,000.

Leaving this purchasing power with industry has resulted in heavy capital losses and business stagnation. Might not the experiment of turning it over to the consumers in the form of increased wages and dividends be worth while? Have we not right at hand a great potential purchasing power which might be realized by virtually a stroke of the pen?

No business which can show adequate earnings need worry about fresh capital, and those which cannot should not be entrusted with fresh capital.

Holds We May Alienate Territory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your report of the conference on the Philippines held in Iowa City Tuesday, July 1, is the following:

"Professor F. A. Middlebush of the University of Missouri opened a new angle when he declared that it would be unconstitutional for the United States to alienate any of its territory."

The reporter evidently misunderstood my statement. During the course of the discussion of the general question of the Philippines, I took occasion to mention the outstanding arguments which have been given for and against Philippine independence. In the list of the arguments against Philippine independence I stated that there were some who took the position that under the terms of the United States Constitution the United States Government could not alienate territory. Personally I disagree with this position. It seems to me that there can be no question whatsoever that if we assume that Congress has the implied power to acquire territory, it also has the right to alienate territory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In Topics of the Times you referred to "Motion Pictures and Racial Susceptibility."

In that article you referred to the credit which should be given the theatre screen for contributing to human brotherhood by eliminating the traditional "greaser" villain and the traditional Irish, Jewish and German comic characters "whom the universality of the movie has doomed."

Your article, however, does not include the traditional Negro type which is still thrown upon the theatre screen. This particular traditional character also deserves to be relegated to the limbo of forgotten characterizations.

RELIEF FUND MEETS SCHOOL NEEDS HERE

Requests of Ten Summer High School Principals Cared For to End Overcrowding.

26 TEACHERS ASSIGNED

Final Action on Transfer of $12,000 to Be Taken Today by Board of Education.

The relief fund of $12,000 made available by President William J. Ryan enabled the Board of Education yesterday to meet all requests from the ten Summer high school principals for extra teachers to handle the overflow of 5,000 applicants who originally were denied admittance because of inadequate facilities.

Twenty-six teachers were assigned to places yesterday morning by Robert J. Hubbard, in charge of Summer high schools, who announced that the congestion had been relieved. More teachers will be supplied if necessary, he said, but the likelihood is that there will be no further requests.

Pupils who have not registered by today will be refused admittance because the State Board of Regents requires thirty-four days of study. Registration in the elementary schools, where twenty-seven days are required, will be continued until tomorrow.

Dr. Ryan announced that approval of the transfer of funds will come before the Board of Education for formal action today, subject to sanction by the Board of Estimate.

As a result of the relief measure, all high school applicants will be accepted, regardless of whether they are taking courses for extra credit or making up deficiencies, Mr. Hubbard said. The weeding-out examinations on Friday will eliminate pupils who cannot keep up with their classes, he said.

Mr. Hubbard assigned as the chief cause of the unexpected congestion the desire of parents to push their children through school as quickly as possible. Families in financial straits first sent the children to find jobs, but in the face of general unemployment decided on the Summer schools as the next best solution, he said.

George H. Chatfield, director of attendance, corroborated this opinion in giving out figures for vacation work permits and regular employment certificates. These showed a decrease of 1,482 over the same period last year. During June of this year 6,516 vacation permits were issued, against 8,146 for the same month last year. Employment papers were issued to 4,244, compared with 5,096 last year.

The unprecedented rush for seats this year is expected to count heavily in favor of requests for additional teachers in the 1931 budget to be made tomorrow by Eugene C. Gibney, director of Summer schools, when he appears before the committee conducting preliminary hearings. The number of teachers this year in the Summer high schools has been increased to 430, as compared with 404 last year.

It is expected that Mr. Gibney will request that at least 445 teachers be provided for the high schools next Summer. Fourteen extra teachers were added to the junior high school staff for this Summer, bringing the total to ninety-eight. This number was absorbed when the schools opened last week.

FIND LONG LIFE HEREDITARY

Experts Say Longevity of Parents Adds Two Years to Children's Span

Persons whose parents lived to a ripe old age will, on the average, live two or three years longer than persons whose parents died comparatively young, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Studies covering a large group of individuals, just completed by the company, indicate that the death rate for the former is 20 per cent lower than for the latter, at all age periods.

The results of the two studies are published in the current issue of the company's statistical bulletin. One covers 70,000 white male persons insured in the company between 1899 and 1902, the other covers 300,000 insured in various companies.

"The results of these studies," the bulletin says, "confirm the common belief that the duration of life depends in part on heredity. Early studies have yielded results in line with those of the present one, but criticism of the methods or the data used has cast some doubt on conclusions drawn from previous investigations. For the first time the present study makes it possible to express the results in a form that is simple and easily understood. In both studies, the mortality of applicants with long-lived parents was distinctly lower than those with short-lived parents, at all attained ages under observation."

TWO CITED FOR GALLANTRY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A citation for gallantry in action was awarded by the War Department posthumously today to Howard Ames Von Dohlen of Ozone Park, L. I., formerly a sergeant in Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion, Twenty-seventh Division, for bravery at L'Empire Post, France, on Sept. 27, 1918.

"On three separate occasions," the citation said, "Sergeant Von Dohlen volunteered and carried wounded men to the dressing station, having to pass through a heavy counter-barrage of enemy artillery and machine-gun fire."

His father, Martin J. Von Dohlen, resides at 89-07 Eighty-seventh Street, Woodhaven, L. I.

A citation for gallantry in action was also awarded to Francis E. P. Phelan of Lincoln, Ill., formerly pharmacist's mate, second class, in the navy, who was attached to the Second Battalion, Sixth Regiment of Marines, Second Division, for bravery near Imecourt, France, on Nov. 1, 1918, when he administered first aid to wounded under fire.

GEN. NEVILLE DEAD; LEADER OF MARINES

SAW SERVICE FOR 44 YEARS

Most Colorful Figure in Corps Was Under Fire in Four Wars in Widely Separated Parts of Globe.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Major Gen. Wendell C. Neville, commandant of the Marine Corps, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor for bravery at Vera Cruz and one of the outstanding soldiers of the A. E. F., in which he commanded the Fifth Regiment and then the Fourth Brigade of Marines in the Second Division in France, died this afternoon at Edgewater Beach, near Annapolis, Md., where he was visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Lieutenant John P. W. Vest of the navy and Mrs. Vest, his only child.

General Neville suffered a stroke on March 26, being partly paralyzed, but he had been convalescing. Early last month he returned to marine headquarters for a short time, but did not attempt to take over the command from Brig. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, who has been acting commandant. General Fuller will continue as acting commandant until a successor to General Neville is appointed by President Hoover.

Major Gen. Smedley D. Butler, now in command of the marine base at Quantico, Va., is senior on the list in line for the post. Major Gen. Logan Feland, who is in command of the Pacific Department at San Francisco, is second on the list.

Secretary Pays Tribute.

The death of General Neville was announced to the service by Ernest Lee Jahncke, acting Secretary of the Navy, who recalled "that he served with honor and distinction in the Spanish War, the Boxer Rebellion, at Vera Cruz, and in the World War, in which he commanded the Fifth Marines and later the Fourth Brigade of Marines in all of the engagements in which those famous organizations participated."

When General Neville was in command of the Fourth Brigade of marines of the famous Second Division in action along the Western front during the World War he was dubbed by his men "Follow Me" Neville, as a tribute to his leadership. Others called him "Whispering Buck" because of his powerful voice, which they said they could hear above the roar of shell fire. In Annapolis, which he entered in 1886 when he was 16 years old, he was known as "the Kid" because of his slight build, but, before he fought in the Boxer rebellion in 1900, his men had changed the nickname to "Buck."

General Neville, who was the highest ranking officer in the Marine Corps, was a man of many nicknames and about his colorful personality were woven scores of stories indicative of the thought and attention he gave to his men. His record of achievements in all corners of the world is part and parcel of the history of the Marine Corps in the last half-century.

Served for Forty-four Years.

For forty-four of the sixty years of his life General Neville wore the khaki of the service, for more than six years he was at sea, and between the opening of the Spanish-American War and the close of the World War he spent nearly fourteen years on military duty outside the limits of the United States.

MAJOR GEN. W. C. NEVILLE.

In this time he participated in twelve military campaigns and expeditions and fought in fourteen engagements catalogued as battles. He never fought in a battle in which his headquarters were not under fire and in all his engagements the marines under his command never failed to achieve complete victory. He served in four major wars and was never wounded.

General Neville wore nearly every decoration that it is in the power of the United States to give. He was the possessor of the coveted Medal of Honor, and the rare bit of ribbon denoting brevet promotion for valor on the field of battle, and both the Army and Navy Distinguished Service Medals. To these he added, in France, the Officer's Cross of the Legion of Honor and five Croix de Guerre with three stars and two palms.

He was born in Portsmouth, Va., on May 12, 1870. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1890 and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps two years later.

Valor Is Commended.

During the war with Spain, General Neville, then a First Lieutenant, participated in the battles of Guantanamo and Cuzco, and during a month of savage warfare in the jungles the young officer so distinguished himself that he received official commendation for personal valor and was promoted to Captain by brevet.

It was in one of these engagements that he was reported missing, and his wife, the former Miss Frances Adelphie Howell of Washington, whom he married in 1898 and who was then temporarily living at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, was prostrated when she was informed of the report. Mrs. Neville was a daughter of Commodore Howell, commander of the North Atlantic patrol fleet.

After the Spanish-American War Captain Neville saw service in the Orient, fighting in the Boxer Rebellion and later going to the Philippines. He took part in the capture of Peking and then acquired an absorbing interest in China, which continued until his death. In 1906 as a Major he served with the First Expeditionary Brigade of Marines as a part of the army of Cuban pacification.

Medal of Honor Awarded.

He was again under fire in the capture of Vera Cruz in 1914 and for gallantry in action received the Congressional Medal of Honor. During this engagement he was in command of the Second Regiment with the rank of a Lieutenant Colonel.

Throughout the battles in which the marines participated in the World War, General Neville served with great distinction. He commanded the Fifth Regiment in the Verdun and Chateau Thierry sectors and the Fourth Brigade of Marines in the operations near Soissons, the Marback sector, St. Mihiel, the Champagne, the Meuse-Argonne, and after the war in the occupation of the bridgehead at Coblenz, Germany. In these actions Neville's marines saw some of the hardest fighting of the war. Through it all the commander was out among his men, carrying his brusque encouragement to them and inspiring them with loyalty and devotion to him.

After the war, General Neville was detailed to headquarters of the Marine Corps in Washington as assistant to the commandant. In 1923, he took command of the Department of the Pacific, with headquarters at San Francisco, and in 1927 became commanding officer of the marine barracks at Quantico, Va. He was appointed Major General Commandant on March 5, 1929, succeeding Major Gen. John A. Lejeune.

The General was an ex officio member of the Navy General Board and as such helped to decide the policies and program of the navy. He was much interested in the foreign policy of the United States but he liked best to be known simply as a marine.

He belonged to the Army and Navy Club and the Congressional Country Club of Washington.

DEAN OF CARDINALS BELIEVED NEAR END

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VATICAN CITY, July 8.—After a few days' illness, in which rallies have alternated with lapses, Vincenzo Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred College, lies tonight in a critical condition. This morning the sacrament of extreme unction was administered, while shortly afterward the Cardinal received the Pope's special blessing. His physicians today held out small hope for his recovery, owing to the weakened condition of his heart.

Cardinal Vannutelli, who was 93 last December, has been in poor health for some time, so much so that he was unable to participate in the recent canonizations. At the end of June, however, he insisted on taking part in a long religious ceremony at Ostia, of which he is Bishop, which weakened him to such an extent that he was obliged to take to his bed.

He recovered, however, in a surprisingly short time and at the last consistory, though still unable to participate in the actual ceremony, was sufficiently well to receive the new Cardinals in his home. The general impression was that he was on the way to complete recovery.

Shortly afterward he suffered a severe attack of nephritis. Despite his age, his strong constitution appeared able to resist also this attack, but his illness assumed a more dangerous turn, with symptoms that his heart was weakening.

The Cardinal is putting up a brave fight for his life. Yesterday he appeared somewhat better, but he passed a very bad night and his condition was alarming this morning. This afternoon he was again somewhat better, but there is little hope of his permanent recovery.

Cardinal Vannutelli throughout his illness has retained perfect lucidity of mind. He is calm and tranquil and speaks freely with the doctors and nurses at his bedside. This afternoon he talked for several minutes with Mgr. Ottaviani, who had called to administer the Pope's personal blessing. He asked Mgr. Ottaviani to convey to the Pontiff assurance of his deep filial devotion.

NATHAN BIJUR DIES; A NOTED JURIST

WAS SUCCESSFUL LAWYER

Supreme Court Justice Nathan Bijur, an outstanding member of the State judiciary for many years, died yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's Hospital of empyema, after an illness of nearly eight weeks of pleurisy. His death came as a shock to the bench and bar of the city, for he was believed to be recovering when, on July 3, he was sent to the hospital on the advice of his physician, Dr. Albert C. Herring of 14 East Seventy-fifth Street.

At his bedside were his son, Harry Bijur, a lawyer; his brother, Joseph, and the wives of his brother and son. His home was at 160 West Seventy-sixth Street.

The jurist, the son of Asher and Pauline Sondheim Bijur, was a native of this city. He was born at 212 Thompson Street on June 1, 1862, and accordingly would have been retired in two years because of the age limit of 70 years. He attended Dr. Chapin's School, and later Dr. Sach's, and entered Columbia in 1877, taking courses in law and political science and receiving the degrees of LL. B. and Ph. D. He was admitted to the bar in 1884 and began practice at once. He married in 1886 Lilly Pronich of Galveston, Texas.

Reorganized Big Corporations.

In the course of his practice Justice Bijur specialized in corporation law, participating in important litigation, which included the reorganization of the Richmond Terminal Company and the formation of the Southern Railway. He also took part in the reorganization of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway after its receivership, also of the Distillers Corporation and many other important companies.

Justice Bijur represented nearly all the Eastern seaboard chambers of commerce and merchants' associations in 1909 before the Interstate Commerce Commission in what was known as the Spokane rate case, involving hearings in all the important Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast cities. He was engaged in this work in the West when he was notified that his nomination for Supreme Court justice by the Republican party that year, with Independence League endorsement, had resulted in his election. When his fourteen-year term expired, he was re-elected without opposition.

His career on the bench involved the determination of important litigation and was characterized by a remarkable percentage of affirmances of his rulings by the higher courts. His ability in this respect caused him to be chosen by the Appellate Division to sit most frequently as one of the three members of the Appellate Term, which hears appeals from the municipal and city courts.

Often Upheld by Higher Courts.

As a member of this court Justice Bijur wrote opinions later upheld by the Appellate Division and Court of Appeals on questions of constitutional law and in cases involving the extension of legal doctrines to meet modern social and economic conditions. His last decision of importance was as a member of the Appellate Term in holding that the law permitting service of papers on foreign automobilists because of automobile accidents to be made through the Secretary of State required that such actions be brought in the Supreme Court and not in the city or municipal courts, where hundreds of such actions for sums up to $3,000 had been filed.

Justice Bijur also wrote the decision in the Appellate Term holding the 1929 Municipal Assembly emergency rent law void, and decided as a trial justice the suits brought by apartment hotel owners to restrain the city authorities from prosecuting them for making cooking possible in apartments on the ground that it was a violation of the tenement house law. Justice Bijur dismissed the suits, but before the case could be appealed the present multiple dwellings law was enacted and the litigation was dropped.

His Outside Interests.

During most of his career Justice Bijur was a director of many philanthropic organizations, and in 1905 he was elected president of the New York Conference of Charities. He first proposed the organization of an ambulance service in the larger cities of the country, as a result of which Mayor McClellan named him a member of the commission which established the service in New York. He was a trustee of the Baron de Hirsch Fund and of the Hebrew Free Trade School and a member of the Congregation B'Nai Jeshurun. Among other organizations in which he had membership were the American Jewish Committee, the Academy of Political Science, Legal Aid Society, Civil Service Reform Association, Ethical Culture Society, State Charities Aid Association, American Society of International Law, Educational Alliance and the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

His clubs included the Bar Association, New York County Lawyers' Association, National Republican, City, Harmonie, Lawyers', Hollywood Golf, North Shore Country and Columbia Alumni Federation. He was also a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and the American Bar Association.

Among his philanthropies were the New York Child Labor Committee, National Farm School, National Jewish Hospital, United Hospital Fund, Atlanta University, Tuskegee Institute, American Jewish Historical Society, National Conference of Jewish Social Service, Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, Charity Organization Society, Young Men's Hebrew Association and Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

Funeral Tomorrow.

The funeral services will be held 10:30 A. M. tomorrow in Temple B'Nai Jeshurun, 257 West Eighty-eighth Street, by Rabbi Israel Goldstein and Rabbi Jacob Schwartz. Burial will be in Betholom Field, Cypress Hills, Queens.

Chief Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo of the Court of Appeals and Supreme Court Justice George V. Mullan were among the callers at the house late yesterday afternoon. United States Senator Robert F. Wagner sent a message of condolence.

HENRY H. COLLINS DIES; PROMINENT CLUBMAN

Father of African Explorer Was Active in Civic Work and Charity in Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—Henry Hill Collins, retired paper manufacturer, prominent clubman and an active figure in civic and charitable organizations, died today at his home, Arnecliffe, Bryn Mawr, at the age of 86.

Mr. Collins was the father of Alfred M. Collins, African explorer and hunter of big game. He left another son, Henry Hill Collins Jr., president of the A. M. Collins Manufacturing Company, and a daughter, Mrs. Henry Hillman Perry of Bryn Mawr.

Mr. Collins founded the manufacturing company with his father, the late Alfred M. Collins, in 1857. He was president for many years, and later chairman of the board. For eighteen years he was a member of the board of managers of the Pennsylvania Hospital and for a longer period a member of the board of the Philadelphia Society for Organizing Charity, now the Family Society. The trustees received $13,709 and collected $9,434,636 in dividends and interest, making a total of $9,448,345. The securities include 4,852 shares of stock in the Press Publishing Company, publisher of The World and The Evening World in New York City, and 8,606 shares of stock in the Pulitzer Publishing Company, publisher of The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The trustees state that the value of these securities was the same on April 7 last as it was on Dec. 22, 1919. The value of the Press Publishing Company stock is given as $3,176,749, and that of the Pulitzer Publishing Company stock as $2,514,242.

Received by Beneficiaries.

Continuing with the report on income, the trustees credit themselves with payments to beneficiaries aggregating $9,412,890, and of payments for taxes and miscellaneous expenses bringing the total to $9,448,345. The beneficiaries' payments included $5,659,337 to Herbert Pulitzer, $1,886,445 to Ralph Pulitzer and $943,222 to Joseph Pulitzer Jr. The editors and managers of The St. Louis Post-Dispatch received $763,362 and $160,522 went to the editors and managers of The New York World. The trustees have on hand a balance of $14,307 in income.

Of the $604 expended during the period covered by the report $550 went for legal service and $54 for a printing bill.

The accounting shows that the Press Publishing Company has paid no dividends on its stock since Jan. 21, 1928, when it paid $97,040. The stock of the Pulitzer Publishing Company, however, has paid regular quarterly dividends since 1928. On Jan. 25, May 17 and Nov. 17, 1929, the trustees received $258,180 from this stock and on April 12, 1929, they received $215,150. The last dividend, $258,180, was received on Jan. 15, 1930.

The Press Publishing stock paid $339,640 on Jan. 20, 1926, and the Pulitzer stock paid $215,150 on Jan. 14 of the same year.

Joseph Pulitzer died on Oct. 29, 1911, leaving a net estate appraised at $18,637,545. The total value of the Press Publishing Company was appraised in 1914 at $3,314,316, and the value of one share at $662. The present accounting gives the value of each share at $654. The total value of the Pulitzer Company was placed at $2,921,527 in the appraisal, and that of each share at $292. The accounting gives the same figure.

J. J. BANNAN WILL AIDS 15 CATHOLIC GROUPS

Fifteen Roman Catholic institutions inherit most of the large estate of John J. Bannan under his will, filed yesterday for probate. The Academy of the Sacred Heart, St. Louis, Mo., gets $10,000 and jewelry and the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, 415 West Fifty-ninth Street, gets three-fourteenths of the residue.

The St. Vincent de Paul Society, 233 East Sixtieth Street, receives one-fourteenth and the following five organizations get two-fourteenths each: House of Calvary, Featherbed Lane, the Bronx; Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer, 71 Jackson Street; Associated Catholic Charities of Archdiocese of New York; Catholic Church Extension Society, Chicago, and Home for the Aged of Little Sisters of the Poor, 135 West 106th Street.

Sisters of the Divine Compassion, White Plains.
Society for Propagation of the Faith, 462 Madison Avenue.
Catholic Foreign Missionary Society, Ossining, N. Y.
Church of St. Francis of Assisi, 141 West Thirty-first Street.

Mr. Bannan, who died on Feb. 19, bequeathed $5,000 each to five cousins and two friends, $500 to each of thirty-six other relatives and friends and legacies ranging from $750 to $1,500 to five other persons.

The Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company and John M. Phelan, 92 Morningside Avenue, are named executors. The value of the estate is undetermined.

Will Aid Homeless Cats.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 8.—A lifelong love for stray cats which led her to deprive herself of necessities that her feline friends might not go hungry was reflected in the will of Justiana L. Lemon of North Broadway, Yonkers, which was filed for probate here today. She died at Grasslands Hospital on June 25.

The will makes County Treasurer Charles M. Miller of Mount Vernon administrator of the estate since, in her will, Miss Lemon made no provision for executors.

After bequeathing her household effects to the Salvation Army of Yonkers, Miss Lemon provided that the residue should go "for the benefit of homeless cats" to the "Spear Hospital, Bond and Lafayette Streets, New York City." It is presumed that she had reference to the Ellin Prince Speyer Hospital for animals at 350 Lafayette Street, New York. The value of the estate was estimated by H. D. Furman, attorney, at $1,500. The only surviving relative is a sister, Anna M. Harris of Washington, D. C.

Miss Lemon was widely known in Yonkers for her fondness for stray cats, said Mr. Furman. At the time of her death she possessed several and since her death, in settling the estate, the attorney has received requests from the sister in Washington asking that care be taken of two cats, Tom and Pete, left by the Yonkers woman with friends in Hastings when she went to Grasslands Hospital.

WILL TEST RED FLAG LAWS.

Civil Liberties Union to Carry Stromberg Case to Highest Court.

The case of Yetta Stromberg of Los Angeles, convicted under the California anti-red flag law, passed in 1919, for displaying a red flag at a children's Summer camp, will be carried to the California Supreme Court, and, if necessary, to the United States Supreme Court, it was announced yesterday by the Civil Liberties Union, which defended Miss Stromberg.

The Union asserts that it is the first case to be prosecuted anywhere in the United States under the anti-red flag laws, which were enacted in twenty-eight States, and says it will provide the first opportunity for a test of the constitutionality of all the laws. The California Court of Appeals has confirmed Miss Stromberg's conviction, holding that the State possessed the power to outlaw the displaying of an emblem symbolizing "anarchism and sedition."

Wanamaker Half-Yearly Sale of Domestic Rugs

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

Tourists Were Riding in an Irish Jaunting Car One Day

when the rain suddenly came down. Everybody tried to cover up, and a little girl, five years old, had a hood placed over her head. The man sitting next to her heard her say: "There is such a pretty view." "Why, how is that, when you are all covered up?" "Oh," she replied, "I see my knees, my shawl and my pretty little feet." How very like this it is when we are muffled up that we see very little but our pretty little selves? We have narrow views of things and wonder why life has so little in it for us.

PLAN WAR ON LIQUOR BY TEACHING YOUTH

'WHOLE CHURCH AROUSED'

Education Toward Temperance to Be Revived, Declares the Rev. Dr. Howlett.

NEW CLASSES ARE OPENED

Metropolitan Federation Reports Twenty-two Denominations Are Cooperating.

Declaring that "the whole Church is aroused to the generally unsatisfactory conditions with regard to the drinking of liquor," the Rev. Dr. Walter M. Howlett, executive secretary of the Metropolitan Federation of Daily Vacation Bible Schools, revealed yesterday that an educational campaign against the evils of liquor will be introduced into the work of the schools maintained by his group this Summer.

More than 25,000 pupils are enrolled in the 274 schools maintained in and near the city by the federation. Twenty-two denominations are cooperating in the work, which has for its principal object the keeping of the children from the streets and furnishing them with wholesome recreation and religious training through the Summer months.

Asserting that "possibly the churches gave up their educational work for temperance after the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment," Dr. Howlett said that they are now aroused by the prevalence of liquor drinking and "lawlessness" throughout the country.

To Stress Physical Damage.

"I think that the whole Church is aroused to the belief that conditions are unsatisfactory and that it sees more hope through educational work among the young than in any other way," Dr. Howlett declared. He said that this belief was the motive for the innovation in the work of the Bible schools this year. The work will be conducted along the same lines as it was in the public schools before prohibition, he said.

"The children will be taught that they will not be as strong physically and will not have as good a chance to be up to the average in other ways if they indulge in liquor," said Dr. Howlett. "Most scientists agree that liquor is injurious to the human body, and we will stress the physiological damage that it does."

J. H. Carpenter, secretary of the Brooklyn division of the Bible schools, announced the opening of three new schools and satisfactory reports from the seventy-seven already in operation throughout the borough at a conference of officials of the division at the Central Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, at 30 Third Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday.

Opportunities for Recreation.

Mr. Carpenter reported that through the cooperation of the Department of Parks swings, slides and other recreational apparatus have been installed in the playground of the Buffalo Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Bergen Street and Buffalo Avenue, Brooklyn. This permits the children to attend classes in the morning and enjoy the playground in the afternoon.

A delegation of nine children from the New Utrecht Reformed Church, Eighteenth Avenue, near Eighty-third Street, Brooklyn, gave a demonstration of a class session under the direction of Mrs. J. Leslie Dunston for the benefit of teachers at the conference. Mr. Carpenter announced that weekly conferences for the Brooklyn teachers will be held every Tuesday afternoon. The Queens division will hold a conference tomorrow afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church, Jamaica.

BLIND WOMEN ENJOY CONEY.

On Lighthouse Outing at Luna Park 100 Prefer Fast Rides.

More than 100 women from the Lighthouse, 111 East Fifty-ninth Street, Manhattan, the headquarters of the New York Association for the Blind, took part yesterday in the organization's annual outing at Luna Park, Coney Island. The party left the Lighthouse early in the morning, traveling in buses. Luncheon was served in the park's restaurant, and the blind women passed the afternoon enjoying the various concessions.

Most of the women preferred the scenic railways to the other amusements. The surprises of the "Scrambler" and "Caterpillar" pleased them greatly, but the slow-motion amusements did not attract them. The rougher the motion, the more violent the speed, the better the blind women seemed to enjoy it, according to Miss Edna Smith, who was in charge of the party.

SLAYER OF TWO SENTENCED

Del Firro, Who Killed a Father and Son, Gets Long Prison Term.

A sentence of from twenty-five to thirty-five years in State's prison was imposed by Judge Bertini in General Sessions yesterday on Umberto Del Firro, 28 years old, for shooting and killing a father and son in a feud between families last April 13. Del Firro, who lived at 19 Mangin Street, killed John Serraco, 55, and the latter's son, Alfred, 28, in the doorway of their home at 25 Goerck Street. A stray bullet struck and slightly wounded 15-year-old Beatrice Gallo, who lived at the same address.

Del Firro was indicted on two charges of first-degree murder. In a confession he made to the police he admitted the killings, but insisted that another son of the slain father had put his hand to his pocket as if to draw a pistol, and that he had shot in self-defense.

Mother Jones, 100, Wires Greeting to Rockefeller

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Mother Jones, centenarian labor leader who once was the bitterest foe of the Rockefellers, wired birthday congratulations today to John D. Rockefeller Sr. in reciprocation for the greeting sent her by John D. Rockefeller Jr. on her 100th birthday anniversary May 1. She dictated the following message:

"Congratulations on the arrival of your ninety-first birthday. Thank God we have some men in the world yet as good as you. We never needed them more than we do today. Most sincere wishes that you may be blessed with many more."

Mother Jones is bed-ridden in a private home at Hyattsville, Md., near here. Long past are the days when she led revolts among the Rockefeller employes. But she has not lost her individuality. After dictating her message, she added:

"I wouldn't trade what I've done for what he's done. I've done the best I could to make the world a better place for poor, hard-working people."

DR. THOMAS TO QUIT AS RUTGERS HEAD

TO RESIGN IN OCTOBER

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 8.—Dr. John M. Thomas, president of Rutgers University for four years, will resign after the opening of the colleges at the October meeting of the board of trustees. This information was received in a telegram from him today announcing his election and acceptance of the office of first vice president of the National Life Insurance Company of Montpelier, Vt.

Dr. Thomas, who has been a director of the insurance company for ten years, left here a week ago to spend the Summer at his farm at Rutland, Vt.

"I have lost none of my faith in Rutgers University," he said in the telegram. "I believe it has a great future as the State university of New Jersey. Trustees, alumni, faculty and students have given me hearty support and relations have never been more pleasant than they are at present.

"After twenty-two years of college administration, it will be a great adventure for me to undertake the responsibilities of a business executive.

"I shall, of course, expect to attend to my usual duties at the opening of college and at least until the October meeting of the board of trustees, when I shall present my resignation."

Announcement of his election to the vice presidency of the insurance company and of his contemplated retirement came as a surprise to other administrative officers and to members of the board of trustees.

Dr. Thomas's administration at Rutgers has been marked by a period of growth and expansion, of sound business policies and progressive educational movements. In 1924-25, the year before he came to Rutgers, the enrolment in the colleges for men and the colleges for women was 1,343 and during the past academic year the enrolment was 2,662. The total enrolment in 1924-25 including the Summer school and extension courses was 2,396 as compared with a total of 16,861 students during the past year.

The income of the men's colleges in 1924-25 was $762,000 and in 1928-29 it was $1,501,000; in 1924-25 the endowment totaled $1,700,000 and in 1928-29 it was $2,282,000. The value of the university plant in five years has increased from $2,586,000 to $3,720,000.

During his administration, material increase has been made in the scale of salaries of members of the faculty.

BOARD OF HEALTH LIFTS SKIMMED MILK BAN

Amendment Eases Stringent Regulation Permitting It to Be Transported by Manufacturers.

Skimmed milk for manufacturing purposes only now may be sold in New York City, according to an announcement yesterday by Health Commissioner Wynne, who said that on July 1 the Board of Health had adopted an amendment easing the regulation that had prohibited the transportation of skimmed milk within the city limits. Prior to this amendment the only skimmed milk allowed to enter the city had to be in hermetically sealed cans of not more than eight fluid ounces capacity.

Under the amendment skimmed milk may be transported and sold in the city for the manufacture of food products, subject to strict supervision of the health authorities. It may be sold only after an application, telling the source of supply and proposed use of the milk, has been approved by the Health Department. Then the purchaser must use his own cans and transport the milk in his own trucks, to avoid the possibility of the milk being used for retail purposes.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Miss Cano Morris, show girl, has accepted a settlement out of court in preference to pushing her $200,000 breach of promise suit against Charles T. Davis, New York business man. The suit was dismissed "with prejudice," meaning that Miss Morris can not sue again.

ROCKEFELLER, 91, WORKS AND PLAYS

SEVEN HOLES OF GOLF, TOO

Congratulations Pour In From All Parts of Country—Dimes and Cake Are Lacking.

John D. Rockefeller, America's "grand old man" of finance, celebrated his ninety-first birthday yesterday surrounded by members of his family at his estate at Pocantico Hills. Although it was said to be his quietest birthday celebration since he came to Pocantico Hills thirty-five years ago, the day was replete with interesting and happy events.

Two outstanding incidents of the day proved that, despite his age, Mr. Rockefeller can play a good game of golf and outwit a curious public.

During the middle of the morning, his head protected by an African sun hat, he played seven holes of golf and made drives of 150 to 175 yards. In the afternoon he stole a march on reporters and photographers watching at the two main entrances to the estate, one at Pocantico Hills and the other on the Sleepy Hollow road, and passed out of the infrequently used Bedford Road gate for a two-hour motor drive. He returned to the estate the same way, while the newspaper men and camera men waited in vain to wish him a happy birthday and, incidentally, get pictures and a story.

Children Also Wait in Vain.

The children of the vicinity, who had gathered at the two main entrances, some with wild flowers picked fresh from the woods and fields, seemed greatly disappointed. Some of them treasured nickels Mr. Rockefeller had given them. One little boy, who was looked up to by the others, had the bottom of a goldfish bowl covered with dimes which the benevolent old gentleman had given to him.

The motor trip was made in a 16-year-old open car, which is Mr. Rockefeller's favorite. He occupied a rear seat and wore goggles, an overcoat and muffler. Members of his household rode with him. In spite of its age, the car rolled speedily through the Pleasantville, Briarcliff and Sleepy Hollow region.

Mr. Rockefeller spent the morning as scheduled. In fact, throughout the day he pursued the program of work, play and rest which has become proverbial. Outside of the great Georgian house, overlooking the broad acres and flower gardens surrounding it, there was little to indicate that Mr. Rockefeller was approaching a hundred years of life.

After breakfast at 8:30 o'clock Mr. Rockefeller spent until 10 o'clock dictating and having his secretary read a digest of the world news to him. Incidentally, Mr. Rockefeller hears what his secretary believes he should hear. The important news items in all New York newspapers are condensed and read to him. When an article strikes his fancy, he calls for it and his secretary reads it to him in its entirety.

Obviously, the news of the day made way for the reading of the scores of telegrams which he received from all over the United States. One came from the directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, wishing supreme happiness and hoping he might live to be at least 1,000 years old.

While interviewers and photographers were barred from the estate, residents of Pocantico Hills were permitted to enter and congratulate Mr. Rockefeller. He did not give away any dimes, however, so far as it could be learned.

Dinner Is of Simple Foods.

For his companions at golf Mr. Rockefeller had his granddaughter, Mrs. David M. Milton, formerly Miss Abby Rockefeller; the Rev. Dr. Lester H. Bent, pastor of the Union Church at Pocantico Hills, where Mr. Rockefeller attends services, and one or two others whose names were not learned.

After golf he returned home for luncheon and then came a brief nap, followed by the motor drive.

The birthday dinner was in keeping with the simplicity of the day's observance. Mr. Rockefeller's advanced age precludes any elaborate formality, and his taste is for simple foods. There was no birthday cake, it was learned, although he was entitled to one with ninety-one candles. But he just doesn't care for cake, it was explained.

John D. Rockefeller Jr., his son, is in the West. Mrs. Rockefeller Jr. and several of their sons and Mr. and Mrs. David M. Milton, with young Abby Rockefeller Milton, Mr. Rockefeller's great-grandchild, attended, also several of his neighbors, including Barron G. Collier.

The gates leading to the estate were closely guarded all day, a New York State trooper, a Mount Pleasant policeman and a squad of Mr. Rockefeller's private guards being on duty.

Messengers who brought flowers from New York for Mr. Rockefeller left them at the two main gates. Norman Parnell, 7-year-old son of Henry Parnell, Mr. Rockefeller's painter, who lives on the estate, waited at the Pocantico Hills gate with a bouquet of black-eyed susans he had gathered. Another admirer of Mr. Rockefeller who waited at this gate was Billy Mulk, 12 years old, who owns five nickels Mr. Rockefeller gave him.

ASK ROCKEFELLER TO CAMP.

Cayuga County Boy Scouts Recall Financier's Boyhood Days.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—John D. Rockefeller on his ninety-first birthday today had an invitation to re-live the days of his boyhood in the old haunts. Forty-two Boy Scouts of Cayuga County in camp on Owasco Lake, in almost the exact spot where Mr. Rockefeller lived as a boy, penned and signed the invitation about their camp fire, asking him to return and fish with them, where he learned to angle with a bent pin as a lad.

The letter said in part:

"In our hikes we've been over every foot of the ground where you lived from the age of 4 to 10. We have fished in the lake where you and your brother William caught your first fish with a bent pin, and we've drunk on a hot day from the brook that ran past your door yard. One troop today located the spot where once stood the first school you ever went to, a little frame house your daddy built.

"We think we've found what is left of the woods where you once found a wild turkey's nest. If you let us know when you're coming, we will have Scouts along the main road to show you the drive down to our camp."

OLD-AGE PENSIONS FOR 15,000 EXPECTED

Yearly Budget of $5,000,000 Is Estimate of Commissioner as City's Cost.

ALL OVER 70 ARE ELIGIBLE

Expenditure of State Is Computed to Be $12,500,000 Annually—Census Totals Awaited.

A total of $5,000,000 yearly is expected to be spent on destitute recipients of old-age pensions in New York City, it was estimated yesterday by Commissioner of Public Welfare Frank J. Taylor, who based his calculations on a series of conferences which he had held recently with representatives of the State Department of Social Welfare. He said that his department would probably receive 15,000 applications for these pensions.

Estimating that about 3 per cent of the population was 70 years of age or over, the age required for eligibility for the pension, Mr. Taylor said that there were about 350,000 of this advanced age in the State, with about 150,000 of these in New York City. About 15 per cent of these persons are presumed to be destitute and in need of governmental assistance. This would mean that about 51,000 persons throughout the State and 20,000 or 21,000 in New York City would be qualified to receive the annuities.

The entire cost of these pensions to the State is expected to be about $12,500,000 a year, New York City's share being $5,000,000. By the time that the city Department of Public Welfare begins to receive applications for the pension, Mr. Taylor said, it will have moved from the Municipal Building to 50 Lafayette Street, where Mr. Taylor's office now is located.

Commissioner Taylor said that he would soon hold more conferences with the State Department of Social Welfare to devise proper forms for applications and to study the financial phases of the plan. Figures for the 1930 census were not yet available to corroborate preliminary estimates of the number of persons who would probably ask for the pensions, he added.

Many of New York's aged now living in almshouses and poor farms will probably use their pensions to support them in living independently, Mr. Taylor said, the only ones remaining being those in need of institutional care.

The free municipal employment agency for which the Board of Estimate set aside $35,000 a few weeks ago will probably open in about three weeks, Mr. Taylor said. He remarked that it would be "at some convenient centre" and probably would be the only one in the city unless acute unemployment problems showed a need for similar agencies in the other boroughs.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, July 8 (Canadian Press).—Major C. S. Wynne-Eyton, veteran Royal Air Force aviator, whose hopes of making a transatlantic flight this year were ended on Sunday when his plane crashed at the start of a trial flight, intends to leave for England on July 15. He will return here next year to make another attempt with the same type of plane, a De Haviland Puss Moth.

GASOLINE YIELDED $25,126,771 IN TAX

AUGUST BANNER MONTH

Sales in That Period Brought a Revenue of $4,231,785 and Then Decreased Until April.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 8.—The State gasoline tax receipts exceeded the estimates by more than $1,750,000, according to a statement issued today by Thomas M. Lynch, Commissioner of Taxation and Finance. In the first year of the tax the State collected $25,690,567.02. The net collections after credits had been deducted amounted to $25,126,771.71. Of this amount $18,807,578.79 has been turned into the State's coffers to be used in the construction and maintenance of highways, and $6,269,192.92 was distributed to New York and other counties of the State.

The figures on file with the Department of Taxation and Finance indicate that 1,409,414,457 gallons of motor fuel were reported sold during the first year of the gasoline tax. The difference in the money actually collected and any total calculated on the gallonage figures is explained by the fact that payments by distributers sometimes reached the department after the first of the month and are included in the next month's totals.

Statistics on monthly consumption of motor fuel show that in April 124,442,550 gallons were sold, and of this amount tax was paid on 121,712,920 gallons. Refunds were allowed on 1,748,866 gallons. The Federal Government purchased 451,432 gallons, while 1,930,044 gallons were sold to the State and municipal governments, and the remainder was used by distributers for non-taxable purposes. The total reported in April is an increase of approximately 20,200,000 gallons above the amount used in March.

Collections for the first month the tax was in operation amounted to $1,442,766.83. This was collected in June, payments being made during the month following the sale or manufacture of the fuel.

August was the banner month for sales, $4,231,783.73 being turned over to the State by distributers in September. For the next seven months the collections gradually decreased until in April $1,040,704.19 was placed in the State Treasury, this being the lowest amount collected in any one month. Collections took a spurt in May, when $2,128,481.99 was taken in.

SHOT TAKING GUN FROM BOY

Man Trying to Prevent Lad From Hurting Himself Is Wounded.

John Julian, 22 years old, of 24 Park Hill Avenue, Yonkers, in his anxiety to prevent a young boy from injuring himself with a toy pistol, took the weapon away from him and accidentally shot himself today.

Julian told the police he had thought that the cartridge was a blank. When he tried to extract it the hammer suddenly hit the cartridge and he was wounded in the right hand. The leaden slug also entered his chest and lodged somewhere in his abdomen. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Boys who had witnessed the mishap substantiated Julian's story. The lad who owned the pistol fled when the gun went off.

120 ESCAPE INJURY AS PIER COLLAPSES

THREE ARE SLIGHTLY HURT

Hurled Into Water, They Are Picked Up by Boat—Searchlights Used in Hunt for Bodies.

Special to The New York Times.

PENNS GROVE, N. J., July 8.—Five minutes after the City of Wilmington, Delaware River steamer, had discharged about sixty passengers and taken on about as many at 6:20 o'clock tonight, 200 feet of the Wilson Line pier gave a crackling warning and then plunged into the water. Two waiting rooms, two refreshment stands, a freight office and a ticket office were carried down.

Fortunately, the passengers who had debarked from the City of Wilmington had reached shore before the collapse. Only three perons were injured. They were Mr. and Mrs. Naylor Holmes, freight superintendent, and his wife, and William Scott of Penns Grove. The Holmeses were thrown into the river as the freight shed split open all around them.

Holmes came to the surface first, clinging to a large plank. For a moment he feared his wife had drowned because he could not see her, but she suddenly came up beside him, unconscious. He caught her dress and held on until rescuers rowed out from shore. Scott was thrown clear of the wreckage and was floundering about when the boat reached him.

Mrs. Holmes and Scott were severely bruised by falling timbers when they were thrown into the water. They were rushed by ambulance to the Salem Hospital in Salem. Physicians there soon learned, however, that while their injuries were painful they were not serious. Captain Holmes suffered slightly from submersion and shock, but was quickly revived.

George Gannas, a waiter in the refreshment room, was behind his counter when the pier went down. He was thrown clear of the falling beams and swam ashore without assistance. He told the police that he thought he had seen two Negroes and four or five other persons on the end of the pier at the time of the collapse, but was not certain.

Police and Firemen Called.

Some one on shore telephoned to the Police Department and the fire siren was sounded, bringing out the fifty-two volunteer firemen and the patrolmen under Chief Joseph Harbeson. The first reports were that between fifteen and twenty persons had been pinned under water by the wreckage and that scores had been injured, but as the hours passed this was found to be false.

Within an hour after the pier-end went down approximately 200 rowboats, motor launches and other small craft were swarming about the spot searching for bodies. Some men in bathing suits dived repeatedly at places where they thought persons might have been trapped, but on coming up they reported they had found no one. The search was continued after dark with the aid of searchlights.

Miss Nellie Sullivan, 55 years old, employed at the du Pont laboratories in Deep Water Point, was in one of the waiting rooms when the warning crackling was heard. She rushed out and, assisted by some men who were scrambling shoreward, got to safety. In all, about twenty persons were on the pier at the time. There is a parking space for cars on the wharf, but this was empty at the time.

Pier Said to Have Been Rammed.

The pier at Penns Grove is shaped like a tuning fork, with the handle end reaching out from shore. The northern fork is used by the Wilson Line and the other by the Wilmington-Penns Grove ferryboats. According to reports here, the Wilson Line extension was weakened a fortnight ago when it was rammed by one of the ferryboats.

The entire pier is approximately 400 feet long because the water off Penns Grove is shallow. At its outer end it stands in about twenty-four feet of water. The part that collapsed is covered with a board shed. This was scattered all over the little harbor after the collapse, the only part of the structure not covered by water being the roofs of some of the pier buildings.

Chief Harbeson kept the volunteer searching parties at work long after it seemed definitely established that no bodies were pinned under the wreckage. There were vague rumors that two unidentified Negroes had gone down with the pier. He ordered his men to continue the search for them.

VOORHIS BACK AT WORK.

Centenarian, Recently Ill, Presides at Elections Board Meeting.

John R. Voorhis, who in two weeks will celebrate his 101st birthday, reappeared at his office at the Municipal Building yesterday and presided at the weekly meeting of the Board of Elections with his usual vigor. The centenarian expressed amusement that many of his friends had expressed concern because he was detained at his home by illness from the Independence Day exercises of Tammany Hall.

"This year there were plenty of others willing to carry out their patriotic duties by taking part in the celebration," Mr. Voorhis said. "I thought the most patriotic thing for me to do was to rest at home on the day of the observance so as to be fit to preside at the meeting of the board today, a job I am paid to perform by the citizenry."

At the meeting of the board the ballot for use in the coming primary elections was approved, the names of the Borough Presidents being shifted back among the county officers. Last year they were at the top of the ballot with names of candidates for city-wide offices.

Wallace Won't Fight Wife's Suit.

Dana Wallace, former District Attorney of Queens County, will not contest the separation action which his wife has started against him, he announced yesterday. "As to the question of alimony, my wife's assets are a matter of record and my own poverty is widely known," Mr. Wallace said.

Mr. Rogers Clears Up a Secret That Is Worrying the Senate

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 3.—The Senate is trying to get all the communications that passed between Ambassador Dawes and President Hoover before the disarmament conference met. When they open 'em all up they will be found to contain nothing but Dawes asking for more smoking tobacco.

Every city kicked on its census returns, claiming they didn't count the suburbs. Well, the whole United States just published theirs—122 million.

Now I guess we will claim America was short counted. We should have taken in Mexico and Canada.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

600 FARMERS FIGHT MARKET FEE RISE

GET ORDER AGAINST DWYER

Long Island Growers Ask Court to Enjoin Increase, Which They Say Triples Expense.

A threat to call upon State Attorney General Ward to investigate alleged corruption of city employes at Wallabout Market, Brooklyn, was made yesterday by an association of 600 Long Island farmers, organized to protest against a recent order of Market Commissioner Thomas F. Dwyer increasing the cost of stands in the market.

The farmers also took their first legal step to prevent the enforcement of the order. Former Municipal Court Justice Edgar F. Hazleton, the farmers' attorney, obtained from Supreme Court Justice Burt Jay Humphrey, in Special Term Court at Jamaica, an order calling upon Commissioner Dwyer and Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly to show cause why collection of the new rates should not be enjoined. The order is returnable tomorrow before Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong in Brooklyn.

Anthony Coppola of Hempstead, L. I., the petitioner for the farmers, said: "Our association may call upon State Attorney General Hamilton F. Ward to investigate Wallabout Market, and will do so if Commissioner Dwyer's order is not revoked. The farmers know that it is useless to look to the city authorities for relief. The Attorney General is empowered to proceed whenever the price of foodstuffs and commodities is involved."

The new scale of charges to farmers selling their truck in Wallabout Market was efective July 1. The old rental rates were $1 a night for corner stands and 58 cents a night for others. The new rates are $263.50 a year for corners and $101.25 for inside places along the curb, payable in advance.

Mr. Coppola pointed out that the new rates were in many cases triple and in no instance less than double the previous rates. He said 400 farmers had signed petitions protesting against the rates.

At a protest meeting in Jamaica Saturday night, at which George Weicks, wealthy farmer of Wantagh, L. I., was elected temporary president, many farmers declared they woud be unable to pay the new rates in advance without borrowing money. Farmers said they used the stands about three times a week for six months of the year.

Commissioner Dwyer's defense of the plan was that it would stop racketeering. He contended that when the whistle sounded at 6 P. M. to announce opening of the market certain men would haul abandoned wagons to places at the curb and would charge farmers an advanced rate for the place.

Anthony Hoeffner, a truck farmer of Rosedale, Queens, declared that this was untrue and that the wagons were left by the farmers, who pay men to save places for them in this manner.

Commissioner Dwyer said that Hoeffner's statement proved that the men who received from $4 to $6 for the use of old wagons to hold spaces were causing the farmers more expense than the new fees would.

"No favorites are played in our present system," he said. "The city will get all the money instead of only part." He estimated that the revenues would increase from $24,000, the 1929 figure, to $50,000, all collected at once. He added that his powers were fixed by law and that he had nothing to fear from the proposed court action.

DEATH RATE AT YEAR'S LOW

9.89 Per 1,000 Last Week Compares With 11.76 in Preceding Period.

The city's mortality rate for the week ended July 5 was the lowest for any week this year, according to figures just published by the Department of Health. The number of deaths for the week was 1,159, a rate of 9.89 per 1,000 population, against 11.76 for the preceding week. The lowest death rate was in Queens, where it was 6.95. The highest was in Manhattan, with 14.39. The rates for the Bronx, Brooklyn and Richmond were 7.90, 8.67 and 12.16, respectively.

The number of births was 2,015, against 2,450 the week before. The largest decline was in Brooklyn, where 716 infants were born, against 1,010 a week earlier.

Among the causes of death were: Scarlet fever and measles, one; measles, five; epidemic corebrospinal meningitis, six; typhoid fever, one; pneumonia, seventy-two; influenza, four. The number of persons who received diphtheria immunization treatments was 6,169.

Automobiles were responsible for twenty-one deaths, according to the report.

HE FEARS CREATING A 'CZAR'

Says All Boroughs Should Be Represented in Body—Scores His Brooklyn Colleagues.

BALDWIN EXPLAINS STAND

By a sweeping vote of 57 to 1, the Board of Aldermen branch of the Municipal Assembly passed Mayor Walker's bill to create a one-man department of city planning yesterday, with the only opposition coming from Alderman Peter J. McGuinness, Democratic leader of the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn.

Alderman McGuinness assailed his twenty-three colleagues from Brooklyn in his speech against the bill. Basing his opposition on the contention that establishing the new department would constitute an invasion of borough autonomy, he argued for a city planning body that would give each borough more representation. Addressing his fellow-members from Brooklyn after the vote, he said:

"You should be ashamed of yourselves, and when you go back to Brooklyn tonight I don't know how you will look your constituents in the face. The proper kind of a city planning commission is one that would give the boroughs representation, and such a commission should be made up of the chief engineer of each Borough President's office and the chief engineer of the Board of Estimate. That would give proper borough representation. You Aldermen who voted for this this afternoon should be ashamed of yourselves because by your vote you have thrown power into one man's lap that will make him a czar.

"Why did Borough President Hesterberg of Brooklyn and the Borough Presidents of the Bronx, Manhattan and Queens vote against this bill? They opposed it because it was stripping them of their power."

Republican Stand Explained.

Alderman McGuinness, usually a stanch Democrat, surprised many persons at the meeting by his opposition. The Republican minority of four members voted for the bill with the Democrats after Minority Leader Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d had explained their position.

"No one questions the need of a city planning commission," Alderman Baldwin said. "The Mayor promised it years ago and my party had been agitating for it even longer. I am going to vote for this measure as a first step in the right direction, although I cannot see that in its present form it contains anything other than the creation of a new job, probably a fat salary, and heaven knows how many smaller jobs.

"The commissioner will have no real power. His capacity will be advisory and the administration is under no obligation to take his advice. The department may serve chiefly as another place to pass the buck. Why not have a referendum to get the people's permission for a sound and powerful planning commission which will protect the public welfare? Surely it would be better to take time and provide something sincere and worth while than to make this empty gesture here today.

"At best this bill is nothing but a pious hope. The city needs a real planning commission—a commission that will plan for the future and take into consideration not only the desirability of major improvement projects but also the means of financing them. If the Mayor is in earnest let him have drafted amendments which will give this department real authority and let him submit them to the people next November. Taking him at his word that this is only the first step, I am voting aye."

In reply to demands for a three-man and five-man commission recently, the Mayor said he believed one head was sufficient to organize the department and put it in operation. If a larger commission seems desirable as the work of the new department expanded, he said, he has no objection to adding other members.

Mahon Defends Bill.

Dennis J. Mahon, majority leader of the Board of Aldermen, read a long memorandum defending the bill, emphasizing that its chief advantage would be to coordinate the work of the city's construction departments.

"The city planning commissioner will have a much broader jurisdiction than the chief engineer of the Board of Estimate," he said, "because he will coordinate the work not only projected by the Borough Presidents but also by the great construction department of the city, such as the Board of Transportation, the Park Department, the Dock Department, the Department of Plant and Structures and the Board of Water Supply.

"Under the present organization of city government there is no one agency, department or commission that is charged with the duty of considering or coordinating the vast projects originated by the departments."

Mr. Mahon explained that the new commission would be under the jurisdiction of the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen. Mayor Walker is required to hold a statutory public hearing on the bill within thirty days after he receives it from the Board of Aldermen before signing it. It becomes effective with his signature. It is understood that the new position will go to his engineering adviser, Major John F. Sullivan, probably at a salary of $17,500 a year.

George B. Ford, general director of the Regional Plan Association, hailed the passage of the measure yesterday as a means of coordinating the work of various city departments. He estimated that the creation of a master plan of the city would take two or three years. Mr. Ford said the Regional Plan Association joined most of the city's leading civic organizations in the conviction that effective results could be obtained only by a board of three members with direct control over the city map and with a certain veto power over proposed public improvements. He pledged the support and assistance of the Regional Plan to the new department. The Women's City Club of New York also favored passage of the bill.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ASKS ELKS TO FIGHT INTOLERANCE WAVE

L. H. Rupp, New Head of Order, Says Americans Are Losing Their Liberties.

OFFICERS NAMED FOR YEAR

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—In a speech in which he declared that while Americans lived in a democratic land they were losing their liberties, Lawrence H. Rupp of Allentown, Pa., newly elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, told the annual reunion of the Grand Lodge of that order in the Municipal Auditorium today that what the world needed was not kings and dictators, but kindness.

MARTIN J. CUNNINGHAM, Danbury, Conn., Grand Esteemed Leading Knight.
LEONARD R. ELLIS, Hot Springs, Ark., Grand Esteemed Loyal Knight.
JOSEPH T. FARRAR, Provo, Utah, Grand Esteemed Lecturing Knight.
J. EDGAR MASTERS, Charleroi, Pa., Grand Secretary.
LLOYD MAXWELL, Marshalltown, Iowa., Grand Treasurer.
L. P. McCREADY of Miami, Fla., Grand Tiler.
JOHN F. HOLLIDAY, Washington, Ind., Grand Inner Guard.
JAMES S. RICHARDSON, Cincinnati, Ohio, Member of the Board of Trustees.

"In our haste to pursue the material things of life," said Mr. Rupp, "we are neglecting the things that are more important. Anomalous as it may seem, in a democratic land we are losing our liberties. We are hedged about with laws and limitations. We write our intolerances into our Constitution and into our statutes. What we need is to rebuild the cleansing fires of fraternity on the hearthstone of every lodge in the order, so that the warmth of these fires may be felt throughout the land. To stress these things will be my program.

"The world doesn't need dictators. It has them. It doesn't need kings. It still has some of them. It doesn't need great capitalists and captains of industry. It has them. It needs kind hearts."

Mr. Rupp dwelt at length on the ideals of the Elks and pointed to some of their achievements. Continuing, he said:

Asks Order to Hold Ideals High.

"We can accomplish much in America in translating the principle of brotherhood into terms of a larger liberty, ridding our land of intolerances, of bitterness, of prejudice, so that of our order it may continue to be said that it represents the highest ideals of American life.

"I shall not be a taskmaster. Go back to your lodges and tell them for me that I hope for their continued prosperity."

The newly elected Grand Exalted Ruler is a practicing lawyer in Allentown and in 1922 served as District Attorney of Lehigh County. He was president of the Pennsylvania State Elks Association in 1919, and was made an honorary life member in 1922. He has been a member of Allentown lodge and of the order since 1908; was Esquire in 1910-11, and was elected Exalted Ruler in 1912. In the following year he was the lodge's representative in the Grand Lodge and then became chairman of important committees of the Grand Lodge. He was chairman of the judiciary committee in 1922-23 and again from 1926 to 1929, inclusive.

Will Take Up Boston Lodge Case.

Past Grand Exalted Ruler Joseph T. Fanning of New York, editor and executive director of The Elks Magazine, said today that the case of the Boston Lodge would be discussed from the floor at the Grand Lodge session tomorrow morning. He added, however, that it had not been considered by the board of trustees. The national body recently suspended the charter of the Boston Lodge, because rooms in the Elks building there had been padlocked by Federal prohibition authorities following a raid.

Tomorrow will be largely devoted to the reception of reports.

J. R. Thompson Holds Golf Trophy.

J. Russell Thompson of the Oakmont Country Club, Glendale, Cal., retained the $2,000 John J. Doyle trophy of the Elks' national golf championship in the annual tournament, which was completed today on the Country Club of Atlantic City at Northfield. He had a total of 208 for the 54-hole medal play, or twelve strokes better than his nearest competitor, J. G. Gaines, a team-mate from the coast. Thompson, with the 72 for the first 18, 35 for the extra 9 of the opening day, 34 for the extra nine yesterday and a 73 for the eighteen set a dizzy pace from start to finish.

Gaines was the runner-up for low gross with a total of 220. Harold Thompson, brother of J. Russell, finished third with 230 for the 54 holes. Roland E. Oakley, the fourth member of the Glendale team, went off form yesterday and his score for the three rounds was 247. As a result the Glendale linksmen totaled 905, by far the lowest team score.

Vying with the Glendale golfers for the spotlight was E. F. Buckley of the North Jersey quartet, who made a hole in one. He shot his ace on the fourth, a par 3 hole.

ADVOCATE WORKING WIVES.

Business and Professional Women Say They Would Reduce Divorces.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—America's divorce problem would become less acute and the number of divorces would drop off by 50 per cent if professional and business women would keep on working after marriage, members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Womens' Clubs, in annual session here, believe and pointed to the following example:

Mrs. Helen Curtis Smith of Rochester, N. Y., is a vocal teacher, a concert singer and soloist in the fashionable Presbyterian Church of her city. She is the mother of a 20-month-old baby, but for three months of the year she is absent from her home on a concert tour. Her husband is a certified public accountant.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, with their combined income, have purchased a new home. They maintain a joint bank account and invest their surplus earnings in securities.

COLLEGE GIRLS HEAR TUBERCULOSIS TALK

The twelve young women college juniors who are taking "Junior Month" under the auspices of the Charity Organization Society yesterday morning heard a lecture by Dr. H. A. Pattison, director of the Potts Memorial Hospital at Livingston, N. Y., and supervisor of medical social service for the National Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. Pattison urged them to have courage in their work in tenement houses and other centres where tuberculosis might be found, since the disease, he said, is communicable only to subjects who are in a weakened physical condition and cannot be acquired merely by contact. He identified the symptons so that the students might recognize the disease in its early stages. These were the loss of weight and appetite, afternoon fever and the inability to sleep. One of the outstanding fallacies with regard to tuberculosis, he said, was the idea that the victim must be rushed immediately West to Colorado or California. This notion often causes poor families to leave their homes and means of livelihood here and settle in strange places where they cannot find work, and where, he declared, the malady is intensified rather than aided.

The most important factor in battling tuberculosis is mental peace," the physician said. "Climate is only about 10 per cent of it."

Much of the society's money is spent on families in which the breadwinner has been incapacitated through tuberculosis, Miss Clare M. Tousley, who is conducting Junior Month, said. She pointed out to the students those sections of the city in which it is most prevalent and the industries in which tubercular workers are to be found.

Lawson Purdy, executive secretary of the society and president of the City Planning Association, addressed the visiting girls at a luncheon at the Men's City Club on housing. They then went to the 168th Street Medical Centre to observe medical social service workers at their tasks in a city hospital.

BARS CREW CHANGE IN ENDURANCE TEST

CONSIDERS IT DANGEROUS

Donaldson and Oleson Fly to Capital, but Fail to Get Their Plan Officially Approved.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Declaring that the proposed refueling endurance flight at Roosevelt Field which contemplated the changing of crews of two endurance planes in the air would be unnecessarily hazardous and of no practical benefit to aviation, Gilbert G. Budwig, director of the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce, refused today the request of John O. Donaldson, World War flier, to sanction the double flight.

Donaldson and Ole Oleson, two of the pilots designated for the proposed test, flew to the capital this morning from Roosevelt Field in one of the Stinson planes equipped for the endurance flight, and were in conference with Mr. Budwig for nearly two hours.

Following the conference Mr. Budwig said that the proposal to change pilots in flight and to continue the flight until the planes refused to function any longer would serve aviation no better than flagpole sitting for the same length of time.

"It is a stunt, and an exceedingly dangerous stunt at that," he said. "It is the duty of the Aeronautics Branch to foster sound aviation progress and to promote safety in civil aeronautics. I cannot see how this proposed flight can promote aeronautics, and the plan involves too much risk of human life to make any conceivable benefits which might be derived worth while."

If Pilot Donaldson and his associates will give up the idea of changing crews in the air and confine the flight to a straight refueling endurance attempt, Mr. Budwig said, the Department of Commerce will waive the regulation requiring that civil aircraft stay at least 300 feet apart in the air and will sanction the attempt.

Mr. Budwig was told that it was planned to change crews by lowering a rope ladder from the endurance plane, manoeuvring the refueling plane into position beneath the ladder and trusting to the agility of the pilots to make the climb from plane to plane. The pilots upon being relieved would drop to the earth in parachutes.

Mr. Budwig held that there was danger of the ladder being swept into the propeller of the refueling plane, possibly with a pilot on it, while the transfer was being made. Such an accident, he said, would reflect discredit on the aviation industry and on the Department of Commerce.

Donaldson would not accept a flat refusal and Mr. Budwig promised to consider the plan further, but, he said, "I can't see any possible chance of changing our ruling."

Donaldson and Oleson returned to New York in the afternoon.

HELD AS BRONX ICE RING.

Three Association Officers Are Accused of Coercing Retailers.

Accused of forcing Harlem ice dealers into buying their product by threats of violence and underselling, three officers of the Independent Ice and Coal Dealers' Association were held in $2,500 bail each yesterday in Harlem Court by Magistrate Silbermann for hearing Monday on charges of coercion. The complainants are members of the Colonial Ice and Coal Dealers' Association.

The defendants are Frank Russo, 38 years old, of 1,468 Eighty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, a florist; Anthony Palmiotto, 30, of 172 Hester Street, laborer, and Ralph Pasqua, 38, of 1,837 Pilgrim Avenue, the Bronx, an undertaker.

Woman Jumps From Boston Boat.

BANGOR, Me., July 8 (AP).—The log of the steamer Belfast bore the record today of a woman's suicide by leaping into the ocean on a trip from Boston. A note, signed Mrs. Edith H. Lawrence, Medway, Mass., telling of her plan to jump overboard at 2 A. M. Monday, was found yesterday in a stateroom on the ship's arrival. The note said the name of May Holden, signed on the sailing list, was fictitious. The woman was missing. Officials were asked in the note to notify her husband of her death.

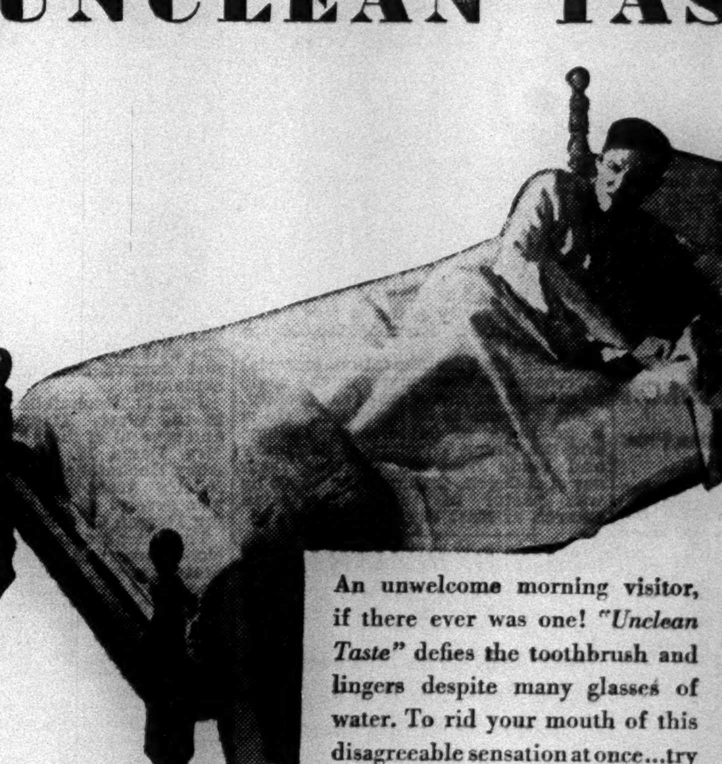
Does your alarm clock announce
"UNCLEAN TASTE"?



An unwelcome morning visitor, if there ever was one! "Unclean Taste" defies the toothbrush and lingers despite many glasses of water. To rid your mouth of this disagreeable sensation at once...try a quick mouth-rinse with GLYCO-Thymoline. It's the certain, pleasant way to refresh and awaken your mouth and restore clean taste.

GLYCO-Thymoline is different. It is effective without sting or harshness. Do not confuse it with highly flavored mouth washes that merely replace one taste with another. Too, GLYCO-Thymoline deodorizes, not merely disguises, your breath. As a gargle it relieves irritated throats and clears husky voices. It's a morning necessity.

Physicians and Dentists have prescribed GLYCO-Thymoline for over 30 years. They will tell you your mouth wash should be ALKALINE! Use it daily when you brush your teeth—and any time "Unclean Taste" assails. At all druggists. Kress & Owen Co., N. Y.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Lambs' Club Revue.

PRINCIPALS—Florenz Ames, George Sweet, Sibylla Bowhan, Percy Helton, Frank Allworth, Don Lanning, Robert Pitkin, Grant Gl..n, Peggy O'Neill, Olive Olsen, Ann Cochran, Alice Cochran, Leonard Lord, Margaret Dale, William Holbrook and James and Mercer Templeton.

In choosing such a title as "Who Cares," the fabricators of the new revue, which opened at Chanin's Forty-sixth Street Theatre last evening, rather invite the retort discourteous. Excepting a few scattering sketches, this midsummer entertainment is no gem of unalloyed delight. Among those who certainly do care are the Lambs' Club actors who have assembled some of these turns from former Lambs' Gambols and others from among their friends. Every now and then it is urged upon dramatic commentators that the actors are the major force in the theatre, and that every one should do lip-service to their histrionic genius. But when actors offer entertainment out of their personal bag of tricks you begin to appreciate how much the stage author normally helps them. There is a plentiful lack of wit about "Who Cares."

It has its moments. An early sketch entitled "What's Wrong With the Theatre" chronicles amusingly the joy with which a visiting yeoman is received into the motion-picture palaces of this great metropolis, and the contrasting rudeness of his reception in a legitimate theatre. At the cinema he is rapturously welcomed at the box office, entertained with tea, cake and cigarettes while he is awaiting an empty seat, and finally ushered by four smart functionaries into the auditorium, while two others deferentially stand on their heads. At the legitimate theatre he is robbed, insulted and hornswoggled. Good sketch authorship would doubtless transpose the scenes, keeping the merriest one for the last. He who laughs last laughs loudest in the theatre. But "What's Wrong With the Theatre" has the light touch of good revue material.

Among the other neat sketches are "A Quiet Night in Chicago," which introduces artillery with the social touch of high society; "Thisishota," a rough-and-tumble travesty on the rough-and-tumble of the current "Lysistrata," and "So This Is Television," showing the Dumbell Department Store hour on the future radio, and concluding with the Shakespearean bird. For minor diversions there are Sibylla Bowhan, who can mugg enjoyably, and Peggy O'Neill, who performs with style. When William Holbrook lets his feet speak for him, he has something to say.

But how came the rest of this vaudeville fiddle-faddle into a production sponsored by members of an actors' club? There are the regulation hotel-bedroom anecdotes, a maudlin war scene, bits of undistinguished hoofing, dismal rhapsodies badly sung. The bespangled young lady who begins as a harpist concludes as a contortionist, confirming the old suspicion that all harpists are contortionists at heart. In these lean days many actors are on the cuff at the Lambs, and "Who Cares" is a device for employing a few. But it is not permanent employment, although most of the materials it offers have been permanently employed in mediocre entertainments all over the vaudeville-speaking world.

CONCERT AT PHILADELPHIA.

New Stadium Opens Eight-Week Series of Outdoor Programs.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 8.—In its new stadium in Fairmount Park tonight the Philadelphia Orchestra began its eight-week series of outdoor Summer concerts.

The audience in the natural amphitheatre in Robin Hood Dell filled the seats and about 2,000 additional chairs. Nine thousand persons were officially admitted on tickets.

Mayor Mackey and Dr. Herbert J. Tily, president of the Summer Concerts Association, spoke preceding the concert and the orchestra played "The Star-Spangled Banner" as a preliminary to the program.

Alexander Smallens, the assistant conductor, led the orchestra in a program which included "Die Meistersinger," Mendelssohn's Nocturne and scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Strauss's "Death and Transfiguration" and the Seventh Symphony of Beethoven.

A message from Leopold Stokowski, the orchestra conductor, who had intended to be here for the opening concert, said his wife's illness at New Milford, Conn., would prevent it.

Mr. Smallens during a rehearsal in the shell, which was constructed according to ideas that Mr. Stokowski had brought back from Europe, expressed pleasure at its resonance. Members of the orchestra, in order to cooperate with the Philadelphia Summer Concerts Association, sponsor of the concerts, have agreed to rely upon the gate receipts for their salaries, without demanding a definite guarantee.

QUARTET TO PLAY IN ITALY.

Musical Art Group, Sponsored by Ambassador Garrett, to Tour.

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP).—Following the lead of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, the Musical Art Quartet, fostered for the last three years by Ambassador and Mrs. John W. Garrett, is to sail on Aug. 1 for Italy, where a series of concerts will be given.

For three years the quartet has been presenting concerts at the home here of Mr. Garrett, the United States envoy to Italy. The first of the Italian concerts will be held when Mr. and Mrs. Garrett arrive in Italy after spending a vacation in Baltimore. Dr. Axle Munthe has loaned his home at Capri to the Garrets. The concerts will be conducted, as they have been in Baltimore, for guests of the Ambassador. The quartet will also play in Naples.

LAURA KEENE'S KIN JAILED.

Great Grandson of Actress Held for Theft at Road Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 8.—Albert W. Rawson, 20 years old, of Hillsdale, N. J., great grandson of Laura Keene, the actress, who was on the stage in Ford's Theatre, Washington, when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, was lodged in jail here today on a charge of breaking into a road stand and taking cigars, cigarettes and candy. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

Young Rawson's father was one of the Rawson twins, who attained note as athletes, marksmen and detectives. The Rawson twins settled in Hillsdale and later became Bergen County Deputy Sheriffs. Their father, the son of Laura Keene, was a Bible illustrator.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., July 8 (AP).—Dismissal of a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Mildred Hill against Walter Hill, son of James J. Hill, railroad builder, was sought in an action filed in District Court here today by counsel for the couple.

The petition asked cancellation of cross complaints filed by Mrs. Hill. It contained no details of any agreement reached, but it was learned the Hills will establish a new home home at Seattle.

This is the second time marital rifts between the Hills have been smoothed. An earlier suit for separation, filed in Butte by Mrs. Hill, was dropped.

POLICE CENSORS SEE CARROLL "VANITIES"

Mulrooney to Get Report on Propriety of Revue Today—Its Nature Withheld.

A report on the propriety of the Earl Carroll "Vanities" will be submitted today to Police Commissioner Mulrooney by Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner James P. Sinnott and Captain James J. Coy, who attended the show in the New Amsterdam Theatre on Monday night as police censors, it was learned yesterday.

Neither Mr. Sinnott nor Captain Coy would reveal the nature of their report. It was learned from other sources, however, that the report would be on Commissioner Mulrooney's desk today.

On Saturday, when Commissioner Mulrooney was asked if he contemplated taking any action against the production, he said there would be none unless complaints were made against the show, and that up to that time no complaints had been received. The commissioner was not reached yesterday for information as to whether any complaints had caused the official inspection of the show.

Captain Coy, acting as police censor, led the raid on Mae West's production of "Pleasure Man" in October, 1928, which resulted in the arrest of Miss West and fifty-six members of the cast. Miss West and her co-defendants were subsequently freed when the jury, on April 3 of this year, failed to reach an agreement.

The New Amsterdam Theatre is owned by the Erlanger estate, of which former Supreme Court Justice Mitchell Erlanger is in charge.

Mr. Sinnott also attended last night's performance and admitted that the show is under surveillance. He said he had heard "some talk" about it and had discussed it with Commissioner Mulrooney, but he declined to go into details. He said he was there with "a friend," but would not say whether or not stenographic notes of the lines were being taken.

"The fact that no arrests have been made," Mr. Sinnott added, "indicates that there is nothing wrong. There will be no trouble tonight."

E. B. SCHOEDSACK RETURNS.

Ernest B. Schoedsack, co-producer of the moving picture "Chang," and "Four Feathers," returned on the Dollar steamship President Adams yesterday after a year in Sumatra where he completed sound pictures for a new show to be brought out by Paramount. Mr. Schoedsack said he was in Achin, the wildest territory of the Dutch East Indies, but denied reports that his life had been endangered and that the movie company operated under continual menace from the natives.

When the company set out on the filming expedition to the northwestern section of Sumatra, the Dutch colonial authorities granted Mr. Shoedsack permission to enter the country but absolved itself of responsibility for his safety.

He said yesterday that he would begin cutting on the scenes immediately and when asked who would be featured in the picture replied that it would be an entirely native production. The title has not yet been selected.

Mr. Schoedsack is living at 823 Madison Avenue.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

George Nash has been engaged for "Luana," the musical version of "The Bird of Paradise," which Arthur Hammerstein will produce.

The Adler & Gerton Productions, Inc., has been formed, with Hyman Adler, who has been interested in several Broadway presentations, as managing director. The group's first play is announced as "Special Privileges," by Ruth Welty. Rehearsals will start early next month.

Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby have written a musical comedy called "Just a Second," which probably will be shown here next season as one of the theatrical productions of a motion picture company. They were represented last Winter by "Top Speed," a musical show offered by the Warner Brothers.

"HERE'S TO THE NEXT MAN TO DIE"

Will it be the smiling kid with a sweetie in Blighty, or the baby-faced air "veteran" of a few hours? Fearlessly they take off into the dawn, with a smile, a prayer and a toast to their buddies at the end of the trail. Fate wrote the story with the dew of Flanders' poppies. Dick Barthelmess brings it to glowing life and aims it at the heart of the world.

TAX LIST $43,554,385 AT HUNTINGTON, L. I.

Marshall Field, Assessed at $1,307,000, Pays Quarter of Village Taxes—Kahn Next.

TOWN DEBT $2,917,700

Next Tuesday Set as "Grievance Day"—Unpaid Taxes Larger This Year Than Last.

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., July 8.—The assessors of the town of Huntington have completed their assessment roll for the current year, it was announced today by Benjamin Blydenburgh, chairman of the Board of Assessors.

The annual "grievance day" will be held next Tuesday at 2 P. M., when the board will meet in the Town Hall to hear and examine all complaints in relation to assessments.

Figures given out at the Town Hall indicate that the total assessed valuation of the real estate and special franchises in the town of Huntington is $43,554,385, with actual estimated valuation in excess of $100,000,000. The policy of the town is to assess real property at less than one-half its actual value.

The total indebtedness of the town, as given by Supervisor Richard W. Hawkins, is $2,917,700, which includes more than $1,000,000 for road improvement bonds, $770,000 water district debt, $226,000 sewer district bonds and $85,000 town incinerator indebtedness.

Payment of current taxes this year has not been up to the standard of previous years, according to Tax Receiver Clifford Sammis, who says there is at present in unpaid taxes for 1930 a larger amount than was on the books last year at this time. Tax books have been closed and unpaid taxes are now payable only through the office of the county treasurer at Riverhead, Mr. Sammis said.

Taxes for the current year amounted to $1,511,000, distributed in more than 30,000 individual tax bills.

Huntington's largest individual taxpayer is Marshall Field, whose Lloyd Neck country estate of 1,500 acres is assessed at $1,307,000. Mr. Field's school tax alone is said to be more than $21,000, while his taxes for special districts, town, county and State purposes are still larger. The Field estate being located in the village of Lloyd Harbor, he is taxed also for village purposes, and it is said that he paid more than 25 per cent of the $65,407.15 town tax raised this year in Lloyd Harbor.

The second largest individual taxpayer is Otto H. Kahn, whose Jericho Turnpike estate, listed on the assessment roll as the Oheka Corporation, is assessed at $1,179,900. A portion of the Kahn estate is taxed in Nassau County and his property extends across the dividing line between the two counties.

Fort Hill, the Lloyd Neck estate of the late Dr. William J. Matheson, adjoining the Marshall Field estate, comes third on the Huntington assessment roll, being listed at $533,000.

Other high assessments include:

ALBERT G. MILBANK, $343,400.
WILLIAM K. VANDERBILT Jr., $312,400.
MARY C. DE BRABANT, Centreport, $218,000.
Mrs. TIMOTHY S. WILLIAMS, $155,000.
GERALD M. LIVINGSTON, $149,700.
CELESTINE JOHNSTON, $175,000.
MARY E. JONES, estate, $126,900.
ROMAN CATHOLIC DIOCESE OF BROOKLYN, $111,000.
GRACE I. CONNORS, $186,000.
CHARLES A. PEABODY, $100,850.

GUARD CHIEF REVIEWS CAMP SMITH BRIGADE

2,200 Men in Training Parade Before Maj. Gen. Haskell—Take Up Rifle Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., July 8.—A review of the 2,200 National Guardsmen of the Fifty-third Infantry Brigade, made up of the 105th Regiment of Troy and up-State cities and the 106th Regiment of Brooklyn, was the chief feature of today's schedule of exercises at Camp Smith in Peekskill. Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commanding general of the guard, was the reviewing officer.

The brigade was commanded by Brig. Gen. Ransom Gillett. Colonel Walter Robinson led the 105th and Colonel Thomas Fairservis the 106th.

Instruction in use of rifles in target shooting was given to members of nine rifle companies of the 106th Regiment, and they will begin rifle firing tomorrow. The weapons fired today were howitzers and mortar guns.

The 105th Regiment spent the day manoeuvring by companies and battalions in the wooded outskirts of Camp Smith.

Colonel Joseph A. S. Mundy of Brooklyn, the division adjutant, after inspecting the 121st Cavalry of Rochester and up-State cities under Colonel Kenneth Townson, proceeded to Fort Ontario to inspect the 212th Anti-Aircraft Artillery of Manhattan, under Colonel William Ottman.

Other division staff officers now in Camp Smith will inspect the same camps and regiments this week.

ASK $370,000 FOR HURTS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 8.—Two actions for damages totaling $370,000 have been started in the Supreme Court in Hudson County against the Utility Construction Company of New Brunswick. Papers were served upon the defendant here today.

Those seeking damages for injuries said to be due to the company's negligence are James F. Waters and his wife, Mittie, who ask $160,000 on six counts, and Chadwick Leonard and his wife, Elizabeth, asking $210,000 on six counts. All are from Jersey City.

The plaintiffs say that on Sept. 30, 1929, they were riding in a car driven by Mrs. Waters when it struck tools and other débris left in the roadway by the defendant, who was then engaged in the construction of the Brunswick Turnpike. It is charged that no lights had been placed on the obstruction. All four allege that they suffered injuries about the head and body.

CAMPAIGN STARTED AGAINST ROAD SIGNS

SEEK FULL VIEW OF HUDSON

Will Ask Owners to Remove Obscuring Posters Between Scarborough and County Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 8.—Many of the huge advertising signs which partly obscure the view of the Hudson River from the road between Scarborough and the Westchester County line should be removed, according to representatives of the Outdoor Advertisers' Association of America and of the Westchester County Conservation Association. This decision was reached here today after two representatives of each organization had toured the road by automobile. Others will be removed because of the widening of the road, County Engineer Charles MacDonald, who accompanied them, announced.

The tour of inspection was made by the group of five at the suggestion of the Westchester association, which is attempting to have many of the unnecessary signs removed. All were unanimous in voting the removal of some of the signs and further discussion will be had with regard to the others, according to Colvin Farley, secretary of the association, who also accompanied the party. Efforts will be made to obtain the consent of the property owners affected. No difficulty is anticipated in this respect, Mr. Farley declared.

The members started from Scarborough and passed through Croton, Harmon, Montrose and Peekskill. They were not interested in the advertising displays near the towns, they said, but confined their suggestions to the country signs.

In some instances, where the widening plans had already been approved, signs were still standing in the newly acquired thoroughfare property. In these cases, the inspection car was stopped and County Engineer MacDonald instructed the owner of the sign to have it removed immediately.

The decisions of the group will not affect the signs displayed by private owners, Mr. Farley declared, but an attempt will be made later to secure their consent to remove billboards considered objectionable. The Outdoor Advertisers' Association of America as well as independent advertising concerns have already signified their intention of accepting the decision of the four representatives and county engineer as final.

Representing the advertising body were A. T. Schell and Daniel O'Connell. Mrs. F. A. Vanderlip and Cornelius R. Agnew represented the Westchester County Conservation Association. Others in the party were Mrs. Harry Lilly, chairman of the public relations committee of the advertising organization; Miss Ruth Weisenberger, executive secretary of the Westchester association, and Mr. Farley.

PAYS $1,937 MORE DUTY.

Myron C. Taylor Explains to Authorities—No Penalty Levied.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation, who arrived from Europe on Monday night with Mrs. Taylor on the White Star liner Olympic, called at the Custom House yesterday afternoon and paid $1,937 for additional wearing apparel included in his baggage which had not been declared.

Mr. Taylor explained that his wife's maid and his valet were both ill. The list of articles purchased by Mrs. Taylor abroad had been made out by them. He found out later that it had been written on both sides of the paper. He had read only one side and then thrown the paper away.

Mr. Taylor had an expedite order from the Treasury Department at Washington, issued by Assistant Secretary Lowman. He paid $1,200 duty on listed dutiable goods in his twenty pieces of baggage before leaving the pier. The additional amount paid yesterday was duty without fine, or penalty, Collector Elting declaring himself satisfied with Mr. Taylor's explanation.

Stocks Rally After Early Decline —Cotton Breaks on Acreage Report.

After early declines had carried many issues to new low prices on the current movement the stock market turned upward yesterday to finish at levels slightly higher than the previous day's close. There was nothing in the day's news to stiffen resistance to the decline. Wheat was slightly higher, after Monday's break, but cotton broke a dollar a bale upon the publication of the acreage report showing only 2.7 per cent reduction from last year's figures.

The upturn in security prices during the last two hours, like other recent movements, appeared to owe its occurrence more to conditions inside the market than outside. In a number of directions there had been severe selling going on and when traders for the decline set about taking profits a rally ensued. Although common stock holders can expect but little comfort from the publication of second-quarter reports, and certainly developments in business and the commodity markets offer no field for enthusiasm, there is a widespread feeling that the recent liquidation has left little more to be desired. Investors can feel little incentive to throw their holdings overboard at this stage of the game. If professional bears do not succeed in bringing out such holdings their accomplishments will be, at most, temporary triumphs.

There is a disposition in many quarters to await a signal from the bond market before expecting much improvement in stocks. The traditional course of recovery from depression periods has been by way of a good bond market, followed by rising stock prices. Thus far the bond market has failed to respond to the spur of easy money as readily as had been hoped. Recent sessions have shown firmness, but the dull pace of trading indicates that there is still no great enthusiasm for senior obligations.

The estimate of the Department of Agriculture published at noon yesterday placed the cotton acreage under cultivation on July 1 at 45,815,000 acres, or 97.3 per cent of the 47,067,000 acres in cultivation on July 1, 1929. The figures, while not far from the majority of the private estimates previously published, cast a discouraging light upon the success of the Farm Board's efforts to secure a reduction in acreage. The board in its campaign appealed to farmers to cut down their plantings of cotton by 10 per cent. The response of the farmers has been a curtailment of 2.7 per cent.

Immediately after the publication of the report cotton prices broke $1 a bale, all deliveries except March and May falling below 13 cents, many of them to record lows for the year to date. Short covering subsequently lifted quotations, but left July cotton at 13.04 cents, a loss of 14 points. Local spot closed at 13.15, a decline of 15 points.

With a carryover of 6,000,000 bales from last year and another 1,000,000 bales in the hands of the Farm Board the prospects are none too rosy. If the current crop yield should be up to the average of the past five years, a return of about 15,000,000 bales would be indicated by yesterday's acreage report.

Wheat prices dipped to new lows during the early trading yesterday but rallied subsequently on news of damage to the growing crop in the Northwest and West. July wheat fell to 86 cents a bushel at one time during the day, compared with a previous low for the season of 87⅝ cents, reached on Monday. The recovery carried the July contract up to a close of 89⅛ cents, a gain of 1¼ cents on the day.

In the foreign exchange market the franc continued to advance, reaching a new high on the movement at 3.93⅞ cents. A reflection of the recent strength in the franc was seen in the earmarking of $3,000,000 gold for foreign account, announced by the Federal Reserve Bank.

VOTE INSURANCE MERGER.

American Phenix Stockholders Back Deal With American Reserve.

Stockholders of the American Phenix Corporation approved yesterday the proposal of their directors that the Reinsurance Corporation of America, a wholly owned subsidiary and other partly owned subsidiaries be merged and that these merged subsidiaries in turn be consolidated with the American Reserve Insurance Company.

The plan is subject to approval of American Reserve stockholders, who will meet on July 29 to consider it, and also is subject to the approval of the State Superintendent of Insurance. If the merger is effected, the American Reserve Insurance Company will be one of the largest companies doing a strictly reinsurance business in this country. Its assets will be approximately $8,000,000.

Portland Terminal Plans Issue.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—Application was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Portland Terminal Company for permission to issue $1,000,000 in 5 per cent one-year notes, payment of interest and principal of which will be guaranteed by the Maine Central Railroad. Funds derived from the issue, which is tentatively sold to Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston, will be used to enable the terminal company to meet the cost of expenditures now being made in the construction of its storage warehouse and facilities on Wharf 1 at Portland, Me.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Wall Street was impressed yesterday by the manner in which leading issues on the Stock Exchange resisted further selling pressure. A few market leaders, notably United States Steel, American Can, General Motors and J. I. Case, showed moderate gains, but the general list made no headway, taking the day as a whole. Declines ranging from a fraction to 6 points were recorded, mainly in stocks in which the trading was light. It seemed to Wall Street that the market was exhibiting a firmer undertone, suggesting that stocks have been oversold. There is a growing impression in the financial district that a more "constructive attitude" toward the market is in order, as was emphasized in much of the brokerage house comment yesterday. This, it was felt, contributed to the more optimistic feeling in Wall Street.

A Convention of Bulls.

Wall Street's sluggish pulse quickened a little yesterday at an unconfirmed report that the "big bulls were organizing" and that a demonstration was being planned which would receive the support of important interests. In their present despondent mood, speculators are quick to seize upon any rumors favoring the constructive side, and the story caused a flutter of excitement among the tape-watchers. The only defect in the story, it was pointed out, was that pools about to start market operations are not accustomed to broadcasting their intentions prematurely.

New Treasury Bills.

The United States Treasury is expected to obtain its funds at about the cheapest rate on record through its current offering of $50,000,000 of two-month bills. Estimates as to the probable discount at which the bills will be sold vary from 1½ per cent to 2 per cent. In the present market the new method of treasury financing has a chance to function at its best. The demand for short-term obligations is so great that competitive bidding for the issue should produce some very good prices, from the government's point of view.

Transactions on the New York Stock Exchange thus far in 1930 crossed the 500,000,000-share mark yesterday. A total of 501,187,400 shares was recorded up to the close of business, which compares with 564,340,560 shares up to the same date last year. The showing is not so unfavorable as brokers' complaints of slow business might have suggested.

Gold for French Account.

The increase of $3,000,000 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account by the Federal Reserve Bank that was shown in yesterday's statement was interpreted generally as meaning that France has been adding to her gold holdings in this market. The franc is the only unit of currency that recently has been selling at levels which would make the purchase of gold profitable. Yesterday Paris cables were quoted as high as 3.93⅞ cents, a price at which, foreign exchange dealers calculate, gold could be moved to France with only the loss of interest on the money. To ship the metal at a profit a price of 3.94 cents would be necessary. By earmarking the metal at the Federal Reserve Bank here the Bank of France can count the gold as part of its reserves, even though the metal is not shipped abroad.

Good News for Railroads.

Railroad securities have been among the chief sufferers in recent markets, and for this reason the announcement of increased rates in the West and a new system of class rates in the East came yesterday as welcome news for followers of the carriers. It was said the increases would be particularly welcome in the West, where complaints about the rate structure have been heard frequently. Another favorable development for the railroads this year in the matter of rates was the United States Supreme Court's ruling in the Hoch-Smith case, which serves as a warranty against reductions of earnings on agricultural products.

Railroad Partnership.

Association of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroads in a Baltimore steamship company recalled the coup last year of the Pennsylvania interests in buying the Canton Company of Baltimore. The ships of the line will dock at the terminal of the Canton Company and the Pennsylvania's acquisition should therefore prove to be a profitable one. While the B. & O. was left in the cold in respect to the Canton deal, it is nevertheless possible for the two trunk lines to go into partnership in the ship line deal.

Commercial Paper Market.

Dealers in commercial paper remarked yesterday that there had appeared more paper from New England in the market than had been seen for some time. The suggestion was advanced that possibly the increase might presage a pick-up in industry in that part of the country. The recent ease in commercial paper rates has been a promising development, indicating as it does that business will be able to finance itself through this important branch of the money market at reasonable rates.

Among Those Pleased.

An executive who has had occasion to add to his company's investment holdings in the last five weeks commented yesterday on the relative facility with which he had been able to buy blocks of his particular favorites without forcing up the price or drying up the supply. He was particularly satisfied with the prices at which such stocks have been available, and, although his averages in general lie above current quotations, he feels that, measured against prospects of the next year or so, he has been fortunate in being able to conduct buying in so leisurely a manner.

MONEY.

Tuesday, July 8, 1930.

Absence of the heavy withdrawals of the previous day, while the supply still continued good, made for a drop in rate for Stock Exchange call loans to 2½ per cent from 3 on Monday. Street trades were made at 2. Time money remained sluggish so far as volume business was concerned, rates likewise holding at prevailing levels. There was a fairly active market for choice name commercial paper, which went at 3, but supply was not overly great, dealers reporting scarcity of prime paper. Acceptances also enjoyed a lively market, bills coming out in good volume, although there was a let down in demand.

NOW.... When both bond prices and commodity prices are low is a favorable time for Bond Investment

FOLLOWING each of the great wars over a long period of history, commodity prices have run into a prolonged decline. During such periods, the usual advantages of fixed income bearing securities are further emphasized.

When commodity prices are on the decline, bond income is progressively worth more in buying power. When the principal matures, it may be worth more than when it was invested.

Bond buyers now benefit doubly—from the increased buying power of bond income and from the current low level of bond prices. The latter have not advanced substantially above the general level of 1929—the year of lowest average prices since 1925.

The attractive outlets for surplus funds have narrowed perceptibly to bonds under present conditions... Speculation has waned... building and real estate activity is reduced... less money is employed in general business. Banks have substantially increased their bond holdings in recent months. The market has absorbed a heavy volume of 1930 bond offerings.

We regard the present as a most favorable time to put surplus funds into sound, fixed income bearing bonds, notes and debentures—not only for those who consistently follow that policy, but also for those who may have been attracted in the recent past to more speculative securities.

May we suggest issues to fit your requirements from our well-diversified list of current offerings?

EARMARKED GOLD UP AS FRANC ADVANCES

Coincident with an advance in the franc to the best price attained on the current movement, an increase of $3,000,000 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account was announced by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. In foreign exchange circles the two circumstances were linked and it was concluded that the Bank of France had added to its already substantial holdings of gold, earmarked in the vaults of the local bank of issue.

The exchange on Paris has been showing increasing strength against the dollar recently and has now approached to within close range of the levels at which gold could profitably be shipped from this market to France. Yesterday's closing quotation for franc cables was 3.93 7-16, a gain of one-sixteenth point on the day. Foreign exchange experts calculate that gold could be shipped to France at a profit if the franc advanced to 3.94 cents. At yesterday's price, it is estimated, the metal could be shipped, providing a loss of interest on the money involved were accepted.

Since the Bank of France considers its holdings of gold under earmark at the Reserve Bank here as part of its gold reserves, the increase in its ownership of earmarked gold will bring a further rise in the already heavy stocks of the French bank of issue. So far as this market is concerned, the increase in earmarked gold is equivalent to an exportation of the metal since it is completely withdrawn from use as a basis for credit here.

Although reports from Paris have said that French bankers consider a movement of gold from the United States to France as unlikely, such a development is regarded as probable in this market. In London there is an earnest hope that the insatiable demand of the Paris market for gold may be directed toward the United States for a while so that the pressure against the Bank of England may be lifted.

France has for some time been drawing gold away from London. Recently the movement was slowed down by the exhaustion of the Bank of England's supplies of gold of 995 fineness, the quality demanded by the Bank of France. With the continued appreciation of the franc, however, there have been fresh takings of gold from the Bank of England, and refiners in London and Paris have been kept busy bringing the standard gold of 916 fineness, paid out by the Bank of England, up to 995 fineness.

Yesterday France again took the bulk of the gold which went onto the London market, about $5,000,000 being purchased for French account and the remaining $500,000 going to India and the trade. The exhaustion of the Bank of England's supplies of gold of 995 fineness is believed to be a factor in the present strength of the franc here.

CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, CHICAGO, CORPORATE TRUSTEE

The following is summarized by Mr. J. T. Osler, President, from his letter dated July 3, 1930, describing this issue and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES—Continental Roll & Steel Foundry Company was recently organized to acquire assets and business of the following companies all of which had been in successful operation over a long period of years:

HUBBARD STEEL FOUNDRY COMPANY,
East Chicago, Indiana,

DUQUESNE STEEL FOUNDRY COMPANY,

WHEELING MOLD & FOUNDRY COMPANY,
Wheeling, West Virginia.

The plants are strategically located in relation to the Chicago and Pittsburgh zone markets for steel and iron rolls and steel castings. The Company is the only concern in the United States producing and selling rolls in both of these major steel centers. Among the users of the Company's rolls and castings are United States Steel Corporation, New York Central Railroad Company, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Pennsylvania Railroad Company and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

The Company is the largest producer of steel, steel alloy and iron rolls as well as the largest producer of miscellaneous steel castings in the United States.

SECURITY—These Bonds, constituting the Company's only funded debt, are secured, in the opinion of Counsel, by a first mortgage on all the fixed assets of the Company. The Balance Sheet as of December 31, 1929, after giving effect to this financing, shows net tangible assets available for these Bonds of $11,108,620 or more than $2,700 for each $1,000 Bond. Fixed assets amount to more than $2,200 per $1,000 Bond. Current assets of $3,409,436 were more than 3½ times current liabilities of $969,554.

The Mortgage securing this issue contains, among other protective provisions, appropriate restrictions as to the issuance of additional bonds up to the total authorized amount of $10,000,000.

EARNINGS—Combined net earnings of the three predecessor Companies, after depreciation as established by independent engineers, and adjusted to eliminate non-recurring charges averaging $153,476 annually, but before Federal Taxes, were as follows:

1927	752,468	3.1
Annual Average	1,089,294	4.5

It is the opinion of the management that earnings for the first six months of 1930 will compare favorably with earnings for the same period of 1929.

After all prior charges, net earnings for the above five year period averaged $2.49 per share on 216,000 shares of Common Stock now outstanding; for the last three calendar years such average earnings were $3.21 per share and for 1929 such earnings were $5.24 per share.

PURPOSE—These Series A Bonds, together with $3,000,000 of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and 216,000 shares of no par value Common Stock, were issued in connection with the acquisition of assets and business of the three predecessor Companies, for working capital and for other corporate purposes.

SINKING FUND—The Mortgage provides for a Sinking Fund, beginning April 1, 1931, sufficient to retire 60% of this Series prior to maturity, the minimum annual retirement being $200,000 principal amount.

MANAGEMENT—The management is in the hands of the principal executives who have been responsible for the success of the predecessor Companies and who are considered leaders in this industry. They own a substantial majority of the Common Stock of the Company.

WOULD CALL WILBUR IN OIL MERGER CASE

SIX TELL OF COMPETITION

Pennsylvania and New York Dealers Say They Buy From Both Firms —Hearing to Go On Monday.

Six witnesses testified yesterday in the suit brought by the government to prevent the proposed merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company that the two companies are strong competitors in this State and in Pennsylvania.

The testimony of these witnesses practically completed the government's case in the hearing, which has been under way for more than two weeks before Special Master Fred L. Williams in the Federal Building. The hearing was adjourned to next Monday morning, when documentary evidence will be offered by the government, supplemented, if necessary, by verbal testimony to explain the exhibits.

John Marshal Amen, special United States Assistant Attorney General, and Goldwaithe B. Dorr, counsel for the defendants, agreed that if the government concludes its case Monday the defendants will be ready to begin on the following day. Between now and Monday counsel for both sides will agree on stipulations to be offered in order to shorten the proceedings.

T. William Dodds, local representative of The National Petroleum News and The Oilgram, testified as to the manner in which oil quotations were obtained and published in the two journals. On cross-examination he was shown a bulletin of the American Petroleum Institute in which was incorporated the report of the Federal Oil Conservation Board of March 4, 1930.

The report contained the information that during 1929 stocks of crude oil had accumulated in storage to an aggregate of about 7,000,000 barrels, a supply held sufficient for eight months. The report issued by the government included an appeal to the Governors of the three most important oil-producing States to use their influence to curtail the production of refined oil.

Mr. Dodds said he recalled the report had been issued about the time the Standard Oil Company reduced the price of gasoline. Mr. Amen objected to the admission of the report as evidence from government sources, contending it was a publication of the American Petroleum Institute. Mr. Dorr remarked that he would call, if necessary, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur as a witness to prove the report was issued by the Federal Oil Conservation Board.

Questioned by Mr. Dorr, the witness said refiners at times accumulated an overstock of oil, known as "distress gasoline," and that this was sold in any available local market. The result, he said, was that the price in the local market was at times below that in the general market.

Thomas F. Sharkey of the Southwick Oil Company of Rochester, N. Y., testified that the Standard Oil Company and the Vacuum Oil Company competed for business in his territory. He said that he purchased oils from both companies.

Charles E. Shone, another witness from Rochester, N. Y., also testified that he purchased oil from the two companies and that there was keen competition in the oil business in his section.

Mark F. Condon of the Pennsylvania Oil Products Refining Company of Warren, Pa., testified his company competed with the Standard and the Vacuum companies. He added that his company followed the Standard Oil Company's price lead on gasoline.

Robert J. Higgins of Albany, N. Y., testified that he dealt mostly in lubricating oils and that there was considerable competition among the various companies operating in and around Albany.

Mr. Dorr said he would not know if the defendants would submit any oral testimony until he knew the results of the government's check-up on the records it had subpoenaed. This checking will be completed before Monday.

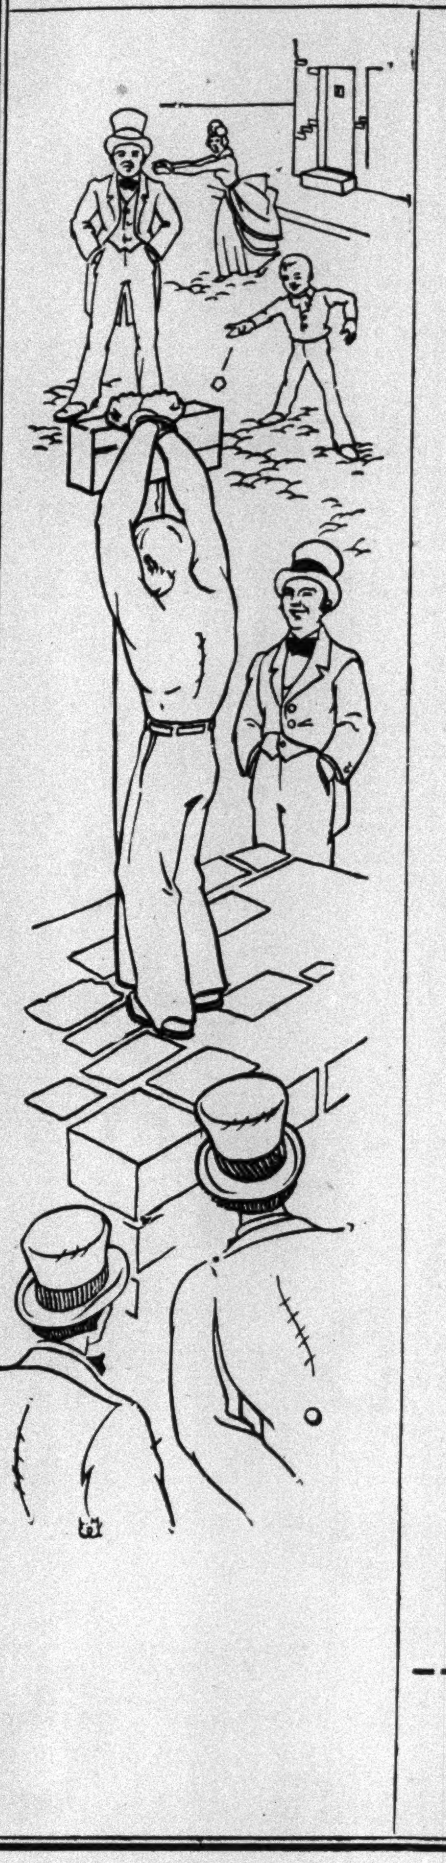
Number Five of a Series

The whipping post was still in the public square

—when Ætna was authorized to write life insurance!



IN the year 1820, in Connecticut, you could still be imprisoned for a debt as low as four dollars. Women of all work drudged for fifty cents a week. Farm hands got three dollars a week—but collected in provisions. A prominent, successful attorney, rumor had it, enjoyed the comfortable income of forty dollars a week. Travel was infrequent but most of the travelers used the stage-coach when journeying to New York or Boston. The Sabbath began on Saturday at sundown and ended Sunday on sundown, when such amusements as existed might open, though they were frowned upon in principle.

Life in Hartford in 1820 was a slow-going affair for its seven thousand inhabitants. Still, there were stirrings of great ambition in the sturdy and intelligent men who were the leaders of the community. In the previous year they had founded the Ætna Insurance Company. Now they sought to broaden their field, and obtained an amendment to their charter authorizing them to write life insurance. In 1853 the charter was again amended and the shareholders of the Ætna's annuity fund were made a separate corporation under the title "Ætna Life Insurance Company," the present corporation. The Company's rapid and consistent growth is shown in the following figures:

The Ætna Life issues policies whose forms are liberal and cover a wide range. Its actuarial methods are sound and the Company is most economically managed. One of the country's outstanding insurance executives is at its head and the outlook for continued growth is very bright.

Because there are but a few of the more prominent life insurance companies whose capital stock can be purchased; because this stock represents, in our opinion, an outstanding opportunity; because the Company's investment policy is sound, conservative and constructive; and because we have confidence in its management and future, we recommend the purchase of the capital stock of the Ætna Life Insurance Company.

Last Week's Output.

Due to curtailment in operations because of the holidays last week steel ingot production took a sharp drop from the previous week, according to the weekly statistics announced yesterday. The independent mills reached the point which was generally expected but the curtailment of the United States Steel Corporation was not as great as had been generally forecast.

The average for the entire industry for the week was placed at about 48 per cent of theoretical capacity, compared with 64 per cent in the previous week and slightly better than 66 per cent two weeks ago. During the July 4 holiday week a year ago the average for the industry was around 78½ per cent.

Last week the United States Steel Corporation operated at about 55 per cent, compared with better than 69 per cent a week ago, about 71 per cent two weeks ago and 84 per cent in the holiday week a year ago.

The independents averaged about 42 per cent last week, compared with 59 per cent the previous week and slightly better than 61 per cent two weeks previously. Last year the average for the independents in the corresponding week was 74 per cent.

STEEL MERGER FOES HINT HIDDEN ITEM

Ask Campbell if He Knew That Bethlehem Included $5,000,000 as Good Will.

HE DEFENDS COMBINATION

Tells Court He Acted to Protect Sheet and Tube Stockholders and Workers.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 8 (AP).—Counsel for stockholders opposed to the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation intimated today that the latter concern concealed an item of $5,000,000 in its 1929 property report for "good-will."

The intimation was made while James A. Campbell, 76-year-old chairman of the board for the Youngstown Company, testified in the injunction suit in Mahoning County Common Pleas Court as a witness favoring the merger.

In defense of the merger, Mr. Campbell testified the Youngstown Company had to do something to keep out of serious financial trouble.

Harry Crawford, one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, handed to Mr. Campbell the Bethlehem balance sheet for 1929 and asked if he knew the good-will item was there.

Mr. Campbell replied he did not, but if it was, there was "probably some good purpose." Mr. Crawford then reminded him he had previously testified that the Youngstown company listed no such item because he did not believe in it.

Mr. Campbell told the court he was responsible for the negotiations which led to the merger, taking the steps "to protect the interests of stockholders and employes."

It had been charged by attorneys representing Myron C. Wick Jr. and the International Shares Corporation, stockholder plaintiffs, that Mr. Campbell and Harry G. Dalton, the latter a director of the Youngstown company and a partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., dominated the Youngstown directors and forced the merger because of other interests.

Mr. Campbell was the first witness to take the stand as the trial was resumed today after an eight-day adjournment caused by the suicide on June 27 of Leroy A. Manchester, general counsel for the Youngstown company.

Although Mr. Campbell had made a deposition to the effect that a position of dignity with the Bethlehem corporation had been promised to him, the veteran steel man reversed his testimony on the stand and said he had merely assumed from a remark made by President Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem that he would have been a member of the board after the merger.

Approximately 75% of the assets in each unit will consist of the Common Stocks of 30 leading American corporations, and approximately 25% will consist of stock of a general investment company of conservative type, namely Seasoned Securities, Inc.

SEASONED SECURITIES TRUST SHARES, SERIES A

Under the terms of a Trust Agreement, dated July 1, 1930, between Bank of America, N.A., Trustee, and Seasoned Securities, Inc., Depositor, 2000 non-voting Trust Shares will be issued against each unit of property, deposited with the Trustee.

DISTRIBUTIONS: Cash dividends and the net proceeds from the sale of ordinary stock dividends, subscription rights and other non-cash distributions which are to be sold by the Trustee under the direction of the depositor, less Trustee charges and expenses, a reserve for taxes and certain payments to the Reserve Fund, will be distributed to holders of Trust Shares semi-annually. Shares of stock received on stock split-ups or as stock dividends are to be retained in certain cases, as provided in the Trust Agreement.

RESERVE FUND: The Trust Agreement provides for a Reserve Fund to equalize semi-annual distributions at 3% of the market price (as defined in the Agreement) of the outstanding Trust Shares on the December 31st or June 30th next preceding each distribution date. 25% of the excess of funds distributable over 3% of such market price will be retained in the Reserve Fund until it aggregates 5% of such market price. Once accumulated, this Reserve Fund is maintained at 5% of such market price, but only out of 25% of such excess distributable funds.

NON-SUBSTITUTION: Substitutions in the Trust Portfolio cannot be made except in the case of consolidations, mergers, reorganizations or sale of all the property. If in the best interests of the Trust, certain of the stocks are directed to be sold as provided in the Agreement, the proceeds received will be added to distributable funds.

CONVERTIBILITY: 500 Trust Shares or multiples thereof may be exchanged for a proportionate part of the deposited property and less than 500 Trust Shares may be converted into the cash value of the deposited property represented thereby through the Trustee, all on the terms and conditions provided in the Trust Agreement.

RIGHTS TO REINVEST: Distributions received may be reinvested in additional Trust Shares at 5% below the then offering price or in Common Stock of Seasoned Securities, Inc. at $100 per share or at 10% below market price, whichever is highest.

MARKETABILITY: In addition to the cash conversion feature it is contemplated that a market for Trust Shares will be maintained by Seasoned Securities, Inc.

During the past 9 years the stocks to be included in the initial unit would have shown for each Trust Share approximately as follows:

By reinvestment of distributions, the stocks to be included in the initial unit on original cost, would have shown:

*Annual Average Distribution	*Annual Average Yield	*Annual Average Appreciation
$2.19 per share	15.12%	57%

The above statistics include allowance for a regular $6.00 per share per annum dividend on Seasoned Securities, Inc. Common Stock, to be included in the units, but do not include extra dividends which might have been declared on said Common Stock from time to time.

* While the Trust Agreement provides for the retention in certain cases of shares of stock received through stock split-ups and as stock dividends, in computing the annual average distribution, yield and appreciation by reinvestment of distributions set forth above, it was assumed that all non-cash distributions on the deposited stocks were sold and that all semi-annual distributions were reinvested in a unit similar to the initial unit for Seasoned Securities Trust Shares, Series A, so that during and at the end of the nine-year period the portfolio of the unit would be as initially constituted. If the above computations had allowed for the retention of shares of stock received through stock split-ups and as stock dividends as provided in the Trust Agreement, the Trust Shares would, of course, have shown less annual average distribution and annual average yield.

SEASONED SECURITIES, INC.

Seasoned Securities, Inc. will operate Seasoned Securities Trust and in addition will make short and long term investments in sound securities, originate, underwrite, syndicate and distribute sound security offerings and perform such other functions as are usual in the investment banking business.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL: 150,000 shares Common (non-voting) no par; 25,000 shares Founders (voting) no par.

Present authorized capital at $100 a share, if fully issued, would provide the corporation with funds of approximately $15,000,000. Approximately one-quarter of the net proceeds received from sale of each Trust Unit will be applied to purchase of Seasoned Securities, Inc. Common Stock without underwriting or distribution profit on such Common Stock.

COMMON STOCK PROVISIONS: Entitled in preference to Founders' Stock to dividends at rate of $6 per share out of net profits of each fiscal year; such dividends to be cumulative to the extent of the net profits of such fiscal year, all as more fully set forth in Certificate of Incorporation; after all such accumulated dividends on the Common Stock have been paid, dividends may be paid out of any net assets of the Company in excess of its capital then remaining on both Common Stock and Founders' Stock, each class being entitled as a class to receive one-half of any such further dividends.

Common Stock entitled to $100 per share and accumulated dividends in preference to Founders' Stock in the event of dissolution; the remaining assets of the Company to be divided into two equal parts, one part to be distributed to the Common Stock and the other part to be distributed to the Founders' Stock.

EARNINGS: Profit through sale of Trust Shares, profit from purchase and sale of securities, investment income, and underwriting and distributing profits, allowing for only an average 3% return on investments, should considerably exceed $6 per share per annum on the Common Stock.

INVESTMENTS: In addition to investments in the seasoned stocks in the Trust portfolio, the management of Seasoned Securities, Inc. will make other short and/or long term investment of its capital funds.

UNUSUAL FEATURES OF SEASONED SECURITIES TRUST SHARES, SERIES A

1. Unusual safety and income by reason of the combined fixed and general investments, permitting extraordinary diversification.
2. Participation by holders of Trust Shares in distribution and management profits.
3. Income from principal also invested until distributed and thus compounded.
4. Valuable rights to reinvest in Trust Shares or in the Common Stock of Seasoned Securities, Inc., at below the then offering price.

New Issue

Exempt from all Federal Income Taxes
Tax Free in the State of Washington

CITY OF SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

SERIES "LT-1" OF 1930

Total authorized issue, $10,000,000. To be presently outstanding, $2,500,000. Principal and semi-annual interest (February 1 and August 1) payable in gold coin at the fiscal agency of the State of Washington in New York City or at the office of the City Treasurer, Seattle. Coupon bonds in the denomination of $1,000 each.

CITY OF SEATTLE, the largest city in the State of Washington, and county seat of King County, is strategically located as a railroad and steamship terminal. Approximately sixty steamship lines operate out of the Port of Seattle to Alaska, the Orient, and domestic ports. Four transcontinental railroads have Seattle as a terminus. The City is the principal landing port of the Northern Pacific fisheries. The vast natural resources of the Northwest and abundant water power should assure the continued growth of Seattle.

Seattle owns and operates its own water and electric light and power plants, the combined fixed assets of which, excluding right of way, total $69,346,852 before depreciation reserves and $55,812,552 after depreciation reserves. As of December 31, 1929 the total bonded debt of the City amounted to $64,752,400 of which sinking fund and self-supporting water bonds, electric light and power bonds and street railway bonds amounted to $50,353,385. This compares with an assessed property valuation of $303,290,794.

SECURITY: These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be valid and legally binding obligations of the City of Seattle and will be payable both principal and interest solely out of a special fund known as "Municipal Light Extension Bond Fund, 1930." This fund is to be established out of the gross revenues of the municipal light and power system and shall constitute a charge upon such revenues subject only to the prior claim of other similar funds established in connection with previously issued revenue bonds of which $29,602,000 principal amount were outstanding December 31, 1929.

The City covenants to establish and maintain from time to time rates or charges for electric energy so that the amount of the revenue therefrom after payment of all costs of operation and maintenance and all prior charges shall be not less than the amount necessary to pay the principal and interest on these Bonds.

The City of Seattle irrevocably binds itself not to sell, lease, or in any manner dispose of its light and power system, including any additions thereto, until all of the Bonds with interest thereon have been paid in full, or in case the City should sell or otherwise dispose of the said plant and system before such payment, the City agrees that the proceeds of any such sale after the payment of prior charges shall be placed in the above mentioned special fund to be used for no other purpose than the discharge of the principal and interest of all Bonds issued under the Ordinance authorizing this issue and then remaining unpaid and that in any event it will not sell said system for a sum less than enough to pay all of such outstanding obligations with the interest accrued thereon.

EARNINGS AND PLANT VALUE: The total valuation, after depreciation, of the properties owned by the Seattle Department of Lighting as shown on the Department's balance sheet, dated December 31, 1929, was $35,276,981 which does not give effect to the use of the proceeds of this issue. The total amount of light and power revenue bonds outstanding as of December 31, 1929 was $29,602,000.

The Income and Profit and Loss Statement, as officially reported, for the last five fiscal years ended December 31, follows:

	Revenues	Expenses	Interest	Depreciation	Surplus

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of this issue will be used for the construction and acquisition of certain sub-stations and of a steam generating station; and for extensions to and betterments of the existing system. These additions, extensions and betterments will be owned, operated and controlled by the City of Seattle.

RAILS IN DEMAND IN LISTED BONDS

FOREIGN LOANS WEAKER

A good demand for high-grade railroad issues featured otherwise dull trading in bonds on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The demand for rails has widened to include savings and commercial banks as well as insurance companies and private investors. United States Government bonds were firmer than they have been for several days. Two issues, the First and Fourth Liberty 4¼s, closed at new highs for the year at 102 10-32 and 103 respectively. The net advances for the group ranged from 2-32 point to 8-32, with the Treasury 3⅜s of 1943 holding unchanged at the previous high of 102.

Foreign loans, on the average, did not do quite as well as on the previous day. The German International 5½s sold off ¼ of a point on heavy trading. French Government bonds were firm. Colombia Agricultural Bank 6s of 1948 fell 8 points in quiet trading. South American issues as a group closed irregular.

Some of the widest swings in prices for the day were shown in the domestic industrial list. Walworth 6s of 1945 dropped 6¾ points to a new low for the year at 83. Eastern Cuba Sugar 7½s sold off 2 points to a new low at 58, and Schulco 6½s, series B, yielded 1½ points. Adams Express 4s sold off 2½ points on a single transaction.

New York State Railways 6½s moved a step nearer the vanishing point, dropping 7 points to a new low at 6. New York City traction issues finished generally higher. Aside from the communications issues, most of the public utility bonds were quietly traded.

DOLLAR IS GAINING IN BUYING POWER

Month's Groceries Costing $50 a Year Ago Now $47—Other Living Costs Also Ebb.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—The clouds of the business depression have a silver lining for the wage earner sure of his job with no reduction of pay, and for the person with a fixed income.

The consumer's dollar now goes much further than it did in 1920 and may go even further before the end of 1930, Ethelbert Stewart, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, points out, noting that the purchasing power of the retail or "home" dollar applied to foodstuffs last May was $1.056 compared with $1 in July, 1929. For a family whose monthly outlay for food is about $50, the saving is from $2.50 to $3 a month.

Government economists say that while a decline in retail prices is virtually never commensurate with the drop in wholesale prices, the current slump in the latter should add some power to the home dollar.

Getting down to the "meat and potatoes" of the situation, the retail prices of twenty-two articles of food decreased from April 15 to May 15, the latest period on which prices are available. The prices of seven articles increased while thirteen showed no change. Since May, however, the general trend has been downward, the reduction in meat prices being a notable feature.

The wholesale price level of all commodities in May was the lowest it has been since September, 1916. The wholesale purchasing power of the 1926 dollar for all commodities was $1.12 in May. It is greater today. Farm products, foods, cotton and woolen goods, silk, rayon, fuel, drugs and furniture have dropped in wholesale prices.

While up-to-the-minute figures on the general cost of living are not available, the comparatively recent survey of December, 1929, shows a big drop from the peak of June, 1920. In thirty-two representative cities the average cost of living decreased 20.8 per cent.

In nearly all of these cities the decrease in the cost of clothing since the silk-shirt era has been tremendous. Rents have decreased steadily since 1923 and house furnishing goods have had a similar decline.

On March 7 the State did its last financing hitherto, consisting of an issue of $9,000,000 of notes, due Dec. 7, 1930, after it had tried unsuccessfully to market an issue of $18,000,000 long-term bonds on Feb. 12 as 4¼s or 4½s. A BUFFER TODAY... A STIMULANT TOMORROW

The widening field for Commercial Credit's service is well illustrated by the fact that during May 1930 the Company's purchases of other than automobile paper exceeded those of May 1929 by a substantial margin.

This trend toward greater diversification has been steadily maintained throughout the first five months—a helpful factor in a period of depression and a factor of great promise for the normal years to come.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

FRENCH STOCKS SLUGGISH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—The stock market was irregular today, with British Government securities improving, owing to continued strength in sterling exchange at $4.86 5-6. The 5 per cent war loan was steady at £103 5-16 and the funding loan at £90⅞.

Internationals were lower, following renewed weakness in Wall Street. Columbia Graphophone fell 3-32 to £3 9-32 and Radio Corporation ⅜ to $34⅝, but His Master's Voice Gramophone advanced 3-32 to £3 9-32. General Electric was 6d lower at 50s, Hydroelectric 1 point down at $37¾, while International Nickel declined ½ to $23⅝ and Brazilian Traction ⅝ to $39½.

Cable and Wireless preference again was weak at £77, while the A and B ordinary each was ½ lower at £24½ and £12, respectively. Rayons, textiles and tobaccos were steady. Rhodesian coppers sagged, Bwana M'Kubwa falling to 12s 3d and Nchanga to £2⅝. Rubbers and oils remained dull. De Beers dropped ⅛ to £7⅛.

Money was tight in Lombard Street and the overnight loan rate went as high as 3½ per cent. Discount rates also were firmer at 2 11-32 per cent for three-month bills. The Bank of England received £6,137 in sovereigns from abroad, while £201,130 of bar gold was sold. Practically the whole of £1,080,000 of Cape gold in the open market was sold to France at the high price of 85s ¾d per fine ounce.

Quiet Session in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 8.—After the improved tone at yesterday's session the Bourse relapsed today into almost complete stagnation. There was marked falling off in attendance and the steps and corridors of the building were almost deserted. Only a few of the leading stocks changed hands, but the losses registered were slight because of the scarcity of offers as well as demands. Toward the close there was some tendency toward improvement.

Rentes were inactive and virtually unchanged, closing as follows. The 3 per cents, 86.85; 1918 4s, 100.80; 1920 amortizable 5s, 133.25; 1928 5s, 103.25; 1920 6s, 102; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.75.

Berlin Rallies After Weakness.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 8.—The Boerse opened weaker today and prices declined generally 2 to 3 points before a gradual recovery which nearly equalized the day's losses. The reduction in the private discount rate and the failure of expected foreign selling orders to appear contributed to the recovery, which was felt all along the line.

COUNTER TRADING DULL WITH PRICES UNEVEN

Early Weakness Is Followed by Moderate Rally—Banks Centre of Interest.

Price movements were irregular in slow and uneventful trading in the over-the-counter market yesterday. As was the case on the Stock Exchange and the Curb, stocks were weak in the early dealings, but rallied moderately in the afternoon.

Interest was concentrated largely in the bank group, as trading elsewhere was extremely light. Weakness in the bank stocks was pronounced in the morning, but a partial recovery followed and closing prices in most instances were up from their lows of the day. Guaranty Trust and Chatham-Phenix not only wiped out their earlier losses, but ended the day with net gains.

The industrial list was dull, as was the communications group. Some activity developed among the insurance shares, but price movements were mixed. National Liberty, Home Fire Securities, Aetna Life, Baltimore American, Missouri State Life, National Fire, Peoples National, American Surety, Westchester Fire, United States Casualty and Maryland Casualty were among the trading favorites.

TO ELECTRIFY HUNGARY.

Volpi Group and European Electric Plan Utility Holding Concern.

The European Electric Corporation, Ltd., and the Compaignie Italo-Belge d'Entreprises Electriques, headed by Count Volpi di Misurati, are planning jointly the formation of a public utility holding company in Central Europe which is to undertake the electrification of Hungary and is expected to serve the capital, Budapest.

The Volpi group is negotiating also with the Rumanian Government for the electrification of railroads as well as the general production and distribution of electricity within that country, it was reported in financial circles yesterday. It is expected that the Hungarian and Rumanian power systems will be connected, at least in the Rumanian province of Transylvania acquired from the former Austria-Hungary at the close of the World War.

The investment banking firms of Bonbright & Co. and Field, Glore & Co. are the sponsors of the Volpi utility group in this country.

2.7% DROP IN YEAR IN COTTON ACREAGE

45,815,000 in Cultivation on July 1, Department of Agriculture Estimates.

6% BELOW 1926 RECORD

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A million and a quarter less acres of cotton were in cultivation in the United States on July 1 than on the corresponding date a year ago, according to the cotton acreage estimate issued today by the Crop Reporting Board of the Department of Agriculture.

The acreage of cotton in cultivation in the United States on July 1 is estimated by the Crop Reporting Board to be 45,815,000 acres, or 2.7 per cent less than the acreage on July 1, 1929; 2.4 per cent less than in 1928 and 6 per cent below the record acreage of 48,730,000 planted in 1926. Last year the first estimate was 48,457,000 acres, but this was revised later to 47,067,000 acres.

The estimate relates to acreage standing on July 1, allowance having been made for any acreage which was abandoned prior to that date and for any acreage replanted and in cultivation on that date.

The acreage in Texas is estimated at 96 per cent of last year's acreage, and in Oklahoma acreage is estimated at 92 per cent of that of 1929. North Carolina shows the largest percentage of decrease of any State in the Cotton Belt proper. The estimated acreage in that State is 90 per cent of last year. Other major cotton producing States which show smaller acreages than in 1929 are South Carolina and Louisiana, 97 per cent each, and Alabama, 98 per cent. The acreage in Georgia is estimated to be the same as last year. In Mississippi and Arkansas the acreage is given at 102 per cent of 1929; Tennessee, 107 per cent, and Missouri, 110 per cent.

No report on probable cotton production will be made by the board until August. At that time the production forecast will be based on the forecast yield per harvested acre applied to the acreage in cultivation on July 1, less average abandonment in each State after that date.

CUTS OPERATING EXPENSES

At the annual meeting yesterday of stockholders of Remington Rand, Inc., William F. Merrill, president, said the company's foreign business was showing the effects of world-wide depression.

"During the last six or eight months," Mr. Merrill said, "the company has made further considerable economics in operating, manufacturing and administrative expenses, and when business picks up, the organization will be much improved."

Mr. Merrill said the company was acquiring its second preferred shares, having bought 750 shares since March 31. It also had purchased more than $500,000 of its debentures, bringing the total of these debentures held in its treasury to $2,400,000.

James H. Rand Jr., chairman of the company, said he expected an improvement in business next Fall or in the early Spring of 1931.

The stockholders voted to increase the board of directors to twenty-three from twenty-two members. Charles P. Franchot was elected a director in place of John W. McConnell, while Hugh J. Pritchard was added to the board.

ACT ON TRIBOROUGH BRIDGE

Aldermen Approve $5,000,000 Bond Issue for the Project.

The Board of Aldermen adopted a resolution yesterday concurrent with one already approved by the Board of Estimate sanctioning a corporate stock issue of $5,000,000 to acquire land and construct the Triborough Bridge that is to connect Manhattan with the Bronx and Queens.

The board also approved an appropriation of $100,000 to be used by the Department of Health in removing mosquitoes from the city, particularly in Brooklyn and Queens. The city has appropriated funds for the last few years for this purpose at the request of civic leaders.

TREASURY RELEASES RUSSIAN LUMBER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Release of two shiploads of Russian lumber which had been detained by customs officials in American ports pending a determination of whether the cargoes were manufactured by convict labor was ordered by the Treasury Department today, following a hearing yesterday in the office of Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

The vessels, containing cargoes imported by A. C. Dutton of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., have been lying at Poughkeepsie and Providence, R. I., since they docked last Thursday. Four more ships on the high seas, carrying cargoes of the same kind to this country, also are released from possible detention by the order.

The order issued today averted the possibility of diplomatic intervention by the British, German and Danish Governments, representatives of which protested informally yesterday at the holding up of vessels owned by natives of those countries in enforcement of the order. It was specified, however, that this act represents only a temporary ruling, pending more definite information as to the status of the shipments of spruce from Soviet Russia.

In the ruling the Treasury stated: "Section 307 of the tariff act of 1930 provides in part that all articles mined, produced or manufactured wholly or in part in any foreign country by convict labor shall not be entitled to entry at any of the ports of the United States and the importation thereof is prohibited.

"In the absence of evidence that the particular shipments so detained were produced or manufactured wholly or in part by convict labor, and as the evidence at hand that lumber generally is so produced or manufactured in Soviet Russia is conflicting and inconclusive, the Treasury Department has instructed the collectors of customs that the detained shipments may be released."

A hearing on the case yesterday attracted a number of prominent witnesses in addition to Mr. Dutton himself. These included representatives of the International Paper Company, of the Amtorg Trading Corporation and of the governments protesting the delays in the business of their nationals.

The commercial representatives all filed affidavits that the lumber in the cargoes under question had been made by free labor, such as is said to be employed by private lumber interests in Russia. It was indicated that convict labor is used mainly, if not entirely, on State-owned lands.

This compares with $7,000,000, or $1.72 a share, on 4,060,000 shares in the first half of 1929.

The net income for the quarter ended on June 30 is estimated at $2,550,000 after charges and reserves, equal to 59 cents a share on the outstanding stock, compared with $2,600,000, or 61 cents a share, on 4,264,067 shares in the preceding quarter and $4,400,000, or $1.08 a share, on 4,060,000 shares in the second quarter of last year.

Sales in the first six months of this year totaled $44,500,000, compared with $43,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year. The quantity sold was about 19,200,000 barrels, against 18,900,000 barrels in the first half of 1929. Capital outlay approximated $9,000,000, being mainly for marketing facilities, additional refinery equipment, field development and acquisition of prospective oil territory at Playa del Rey, Cal.

MORRILL LOSES APPEAL.

High Court Denies Refund for Site Near Morgan Property.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 8.—The suit of the Morrill Realty Company to recover the purchase price of sites bought from the Rayon Construction Company on Madison Avenue, between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh Streets, Manhattan, near J. P. Morgan property, was dismissed today by the Court of Appeals.

The Morrill company sought to have the purchase price returned when it found that under the zoning ordinance the property could not be used for business purposes.

The allegation was that the realty company bought the property under an agreement that it was to be used partially for business.

COTTON PRICES DIP ON ACREAGE REPORT

July Off 14 Points, but Other Months Recover Practically All of Early Loss.

BUYING FOR TRADE APPEARS

Short Covering and Upturn in Stocks and Grains Also Factors in Rally.

Prices on the Cotton Exchange broke $1 a bale yesterday following the issuance of the government's report showing a reduction of only 2.7 per cent in the cotton acreage. Several months made new low records for the year, while July lost all its premium and sold even with October. A short covering movement started in the afternoon as a result of an upturn in stocks and grain and extremely high temperatures in Central and Eastern States, and all months closed at the best prices of the session, with new-crop positions virtually unchanged on the day, the July delivery showing a loss of 14 points.

Though the government's acreage figures were about what the trade had expected, operators who had covered before the report appeared resold, and it was not until all months but March and May had broken below the 13-cent level that the market developed resistance. Scale buying orders for trade account increased as new October approached 12½ cents, and at the same time selling pressure lightened at the lower level.

According to the Cotton Exchange Service, an area 3 per cent less than last season would produce 14,950,000 bales if the outturn to the acre should average that of the last five years, and 14,213,000 bales in the event of the yield being the average of the last ten years. Should the yield be as low as the poorest season, the crop would be 11,461,000 bales, but if it equalled the heaviest outturn of the last ten years, it would be 16,809,000 bales.

COTTON DIFFERENTIAL DOWN

Prices of American and Indian Products Now 2.05 Cents Apart.

Based on six comparisons of competing varieties of American and Indian cotton, the New York Cotton Exchange Service announced yesterday that the price competition between the two staples is becoming less intense. The statistics compiled by the service shows that since last August the differential between the American and Indian products has declined from 3.03 cents a pound to an average of about 2.05 cents at the end of June.

The data gathered by the service substantiated reports that Indian prices were not declining in the same degree as has been true of the American. While the premium on the American product is still higher than usual, the service states, it has been narrowing steadily for the past year, and if the decline continues it will undoubtedly tend toward a more normal use of the two cottons by foreign spinners.

LONDON WOOL SALES.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—At the opening of the fourth wool auction sales today 9,056 bales were offered, of which 7,500 were sold. The attendance was large and a good assortment was offered, which caused fair competition. Frequent withdrawals of greasy merinos were made due to low bids.

All grades were lower than offered at the closing of the previous sale in May. Merinos were 5 to 7½ per cent lower, fine greasy crossbreds 10 per cent, medium coarse 7½ per cent, fine slipes 10 per cent, others 7½ per cent. Capes 5 to 10 per cent and South American, which met with a fair demand, were 5 to 10 per cent lower.

AFFILIATION OF BANKS ASSURED IN WORCESTER

Bank and Trust Stockholders Ratify Purchase of the County National Group.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 8 (AP).—Affiliation of the Worcester Bank and Trust Company and the Worcester County National Bank and its group of Worcester County banks was assured today when the stockholders of the Worcester Bank and Trust Company voted to accept the plan recommended by the board of directors.

The Bank and Trust Company will purchase through an exchange of shares the capital stock of the Worcester County National, which will carry with it the ownership of the Second National Bank of Barre, Clinton Trust Company, North Brookfield National Bank, Spencer National Bank and First National Bank of Webster. The group will have deposits of $70,000,000 and resources of upward of $83,000,000.

The Worcester Bank and Trust Company will split its shares on the basis of five new shares of $20 par value for each one share of $100 par value and will issue new shares to the amount of $1,800,000 with which to finance the purchase. This will bring the capital stock of the bank to $3,800,000.

All seven banks will retain their corporate existences, names and organizations, but they will be under a common ownership and management. John E. White, president of the Worcester Bank and Trust Company, will be the executive head as chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of both banks. Walter Tufts, president of the Worcester County National, will be president of both banks. It is expected that the affiliation will be accomplished early in the Fall.

EXPERIENCE

Experience must be lived. Possessing a profound degree, no one ever graduated from a university an experienced specialist.

Experience is the skill and practical wisdom gained by actually living through the joys, the sorrows and the mistakes and successes of events.

Back in 1914 Hoit, Rose & Troster combined their collective experience as specialists in unlisted securities and elected the Over-the-Counter Market as their specialized field.

Throughout those years more experience has been lived. That experience and judgment plus courtesy, speed and accuracy are available to you on all unlisted securities whether your request is for information or an order to buy or sell.

WHEAT REBOUNDS ON BULLISH REPORTS

OTHER GRAINS ALSO GAIN

Corn Heavily Bought After Early Depression—Oats Rally on Short Covering.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—New low levels for wheat, December corn and all futures of oats were reached soon after the opening of business today on the Chicago Board of Trade, but the drop was short-lived. The weakness was due to disappointing Liverpool cables, heavy hedging sales by the Southwest as well as those Northwestern millers who are said to have bought cash wheat in the Southwest and were seeking protection against their holdings.

A ready absorption of the offerings of wheat and all grains developed on the break, which cleaned out weak holdings and increased the short interest. Prices reached a level where traders began to think more about conditions and, with a large short interest as the result of the decline from the heavy movement in the Southwest, the market was considered as in a position to respond to bull news, which came in the way of a severe hailstorm in Western Canada which is said to have greatly damaged the crop.

At the same time there were temperatures of far above 100 degrees in South Dakota and around 100 in Montana, with a drought scare in Montana and threatening in parts of the Dakotas.

Reports of Black Rust.

On top of these reports were numerous advices of black rust in South Dakota. This black rust situation has been pointed out by crop experts for several weeks, but it only needed reference to the situation with intimations of possible damage to the Spring wheat crop to start a liberal covering movement, which competed with increased absorption by operators who believe wheat worth the money.

No. 1 hard wheat in Kansas City is said to have sold for relatively less than the No. 2 white and yellow corn in that market on Monday. A Kansas City report said the way cash wheat is in demand is attracting the attention of millers, elevator interests and Gulf exporters, who are competing for the Southwestern movement. It also intimated that the peak of the run of wheat in the Hutchinson-Wichita district was passed. Early prices were around 1 cent lower than the previous day's close, with an advance of around 3 cents and an easy close at nearly the top, with net gains of ⅞ to 1⅛ cent.

At the low point July wheat touched 86 cents, September 89⅝ cents and December 95½ cents, the lowest in recent years. The close on July was 89⅛ to 89¼ cents, September 92⅛ to 92¼ cents and December 97⅞ to 98 cents. Broomhall's advices were a little more bullish.

Primary receipts today 1,810,000 bushels, a week ago 1,395,000 bushels, a year ago 2,487,000 bushels. Shipments were 1,121,000 bushels, a week ago 786,000 bushels, a year ago 1,396,000 bushels.

Fluctuations in Other Grains.

Selling of an unusually large line of December corn at the start for a house with eastern and foreign connections depressed prices on the month to 66¼ cents, a new low. The corn was so well taken that it started general buying and a recovery of 2 cents to 68¼ cents, with a recession to 67¾ to 67⅞ cents at the close, a net gain of 1 cent. Near-by deliveries were all lower, July selling at 74 cents and September at 72½ cents. At the finish July was 75⅝ cents and September 74⅜ to 74½ cents. Cash premiums were higher early but lower later owing to the advance in futures.

Primary receipts today 449,000 bushels, a week ago 564,000 bushels, a year ago 627,000 bushels. Shipments were 641,000 bushels, a week ago 570,000 bushels, a year ago 621,000 bushels.

Oats dropped to 32¾ cents for July, 34⅞ cents for September and 38⅛ for December. All were new lows, with a rally on short covering, with the close at gains of ⅛ to ¼ cent as compared with a year ago.

Trading in rye was largely professional and closed ⅝ to 1⅛ cents higher, September being 51⅝ cents and December 57⅛.

CURB STOCKS CONTINUE DOWNWARD MOVEMENT

Late Support Brings Most Prices Above Day's Lows—Changes Small, Trading Light.

Stocks again moved lower on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, but closed in general above the day's lows as the result of late support. The volume was small and only a few shares showed noteworthy movements. Electric Bond and Shares gained in heavy transactions, and St. Regis Paper and Anglo-Chilean Nitrates were stronger. Fractional gains took place in American Gas and Electric, Cities Service, International Utilities and American and Foreign Power warrants.

Declines were shown in Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line, Gulf Oil, American Superpower, Associated Gas and Electric A, Aluminum, Ohio Oil, Niagara Hudson Power, Transamerica and other stocks, but were fractional for the most part.

CURB ADMITS SECURITIES.

Depositary Receipts for Two More Foreign Corporations.

The New York Curb Exchange yesterday announced that there had been admitted to unlisted trading privileges two more companies of foreign origin, as follows:

FINDS CHAIN STORES HIGHER IN COSTS

PROFIT MARGIN VARIES

Net Sales for 768 Places in 1929, One-quarter of Total, Set at $1,500,000,000.

CAMBRIDGE, July 8.—Department stores in 1929 operated on a gross margin ranging from 28.7 per cent of net sales to 34.4 per cent, according to the size of the store, and women's specialty apparel stores on a gross margin ranging from 32.2 per cent to 35.8 per cent of net sales. Total expense commonly ranged from 29.8 per cent to 32.8 per cent of net sales for department stores and from 32.2 per cent to 33.8 per cent for specialty stores. Net profit over and above interest on investment ranged from a loss of 1.1 per cent of sales to a profit of 1.6 per cent for department stores of various sizes from zero up to 2.1 per cent for specialty stores.

These facts are disclosed in a report just published by the Harvard Bureau of Business Research on its annual study of operations in the department store field, undertaken with the cooperation and financial assistance of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. The study was based on 612 detailed profit and loss statements and balance sheets representing the operations of 768 stores located in forty-five States, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Canada. The aggregate net sales of these stores for the year were in excess of $1,500,000,000, a figure equivalent to approximately 25 per cent of the estimated department store sales volume of the United States.

The report this year carries somewhat further the tentative analysis made last year of the operations of department store chains. From this analysis it appears that the independent stores are still operating with slightly lower expense than the centrally owned stores of corresponding size.

The comparison for 1929 utilizes the figures of 335 independent stores and 109 stores in ownership groups. The higher expenses of ownership groups in general were incurred for advertising, service purchased and professional services, including central office expense. As regards payroll and interest, on the other hand, the centrally owned stores had some advantage over the independents. In view of the prevailing discussion of the merchandising advantages of chains, the report says, it is interesting to note that the centrally owned stores consistently achieved lower rates of stock-turn than the independent stores of corresponding size.

The relation between central ownership and operating results was not so clear with respect to gross margin. The chains operating small and medium-sized stores had lower gross margins than the independent stores of corresponding size, whereas the larger centrally owned stores enjoyed higher margins.

Among the stores with sales under $2,000,000, since both the margins and the expenses compared unfavorably with the figures for independents, the chain stores sustained relatively high net losses and reported only slight net gains. The centrally owned stores with sales above $2,000,000 earned a common net profit of 0.7 per cent of sales, as compared with 1.2 per cent for independent stores of similar size doing no group buying.

CHILEAN COMPANY TO EXPLOIT FRUITS

10,000,000 PESOS CAPITAL

Former Minister of Public Works Heads Marketing Group to Meet Growing Demand.

A cable message received yesterday at the Consulate General of Chile here announces that the Chilean Government has given legal sanction to the formation of an exporting and importing fruit company, to be known as La Compania Frutera Sud Americana, with a capital of 10,000,000 pesos. D. Adolfo Ibañez, former Minister of Public Works, has been appointed president of the new concern, it was announced.

A. F. di Valvasone, director of the Chilean Information Bureau of the Consulate General, said yesterday that the increased demand for Chilean fruit both in the United States and in European countries has necessitated the formation of a centralized concern, adding that big warehouses already have been established at Valpairaso and Santiago and that agents have been selected for overseas posts.

The new company, Mr. di Valvasone said, will concentrate on the selection and supervision of apples, melons, grapes, plums, peaches, pears and other Chilean fruits for export. In addition to this, however, the company will concern itself with the importation of tropical fruits.

Discussing recent imports of fruit to New York from Chile, Mr. di Valvasone said yesterday that during the off-season in this country the fruits from Chile are filling the demands here. The first shipment of apples from the orchards of the provinces of Cautin, Valdivia and Chiloe—100 cases—arrived here recently on the steamships Aconcagua and Teno. These apples, he said, are used largely for steamer baskets and window displays, and are specimens of the finest products of Central Chile.

Early last January 5,000 crates of Chilean honeydew melons were unloaded in New York, and during the winter months several thousand crates of peaches arrived here from the South American republic.

Mr. di Valvasone predicted a substantial increase in fruit shipments this year. During 1929, he added, the United States imported 9,000 cubic feet of grapes, 3,690,000 pounds of melons, 32,000 pounds of plums, 5,000 pounds of peaches and 4,000 pounds of pears.

In recent years Germany, which has bought huge quantities of Australian fruit, imported Chilean apples, and the demand, according to Mr. di Valvasone, is increasing steadily.

LIGHTERAGE COUNSEL DIFFER ON RATE CASE

Both Sides See Their Cause Strengthened by Eastern Group Decision.

While New Jersey continued to offer testimony of a technical nature yesterday before Earl M. Steer, Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner in Newark, to build up its contention that free railroad lighterage across New York harbor is discriminatory against New Jersey, representatives of both sides contended that the commission's decision in the Eastern class rate case would strengthen their cause.

Counsel for both New York and New Jersey were reluctant to comment on the early reports of the decision and emphasized the fact that their remarks were based entirely on brief dispatches from Washington.

Parker McCollester, counsel for the New York State Chamber of Commerce, said he was informed the commission had affirmed a report finding that the New York rate group should be maintained, and that this confirmed New York's contention that it was a natural rate group. Charles E. Cotterill, attorney for the New York Dock Company, also said the commission had reiterated that the metropolitan area, including part of New Jersey, should be maintained as a single-rate unit.

John J. Hickey, Special Deputy Attorney General for New Jersey, declined to be quoted before reading the report, but indicated it was his belief that the decision was injurious to New Jersey and would strengthen the force of its protest in the lighterage case.

DEBRIS TAKEN FROM RIVER.

A scowload of heavy timbers, pilings and flotsam, weighing more than ten tons, was removed from the East River yesterday by the motor lighter C. S. Schofield, which has been chartered by the Yacht Owners' Association to scour the river during the remainder of the yatching season in an effort to keep it clear of floating débris. Frederick G. Moe, secretary of the association, said the lighter would pick up all material floating in the upper East River which menaces the hulls of yachts and cruisers coming down from Long Island Sound to anchorage off Manhattan.

The Schofield worked yesterday between the dock of the New York Yacht Club, at the foot of East Twenty-sixth Street, and Throgs Neck. Among the dangerous pieces of flotsam removed from the river was a large section of wharfing, consisting of eight heavy 12 by 12 inch beams, bolted together. It was picked up in the yacht club basin and was awash, so that it could barely be seen from the deck of a cruiser. Two heavy spars, about twenty feet long and several inches thick, were also among the débris removed.

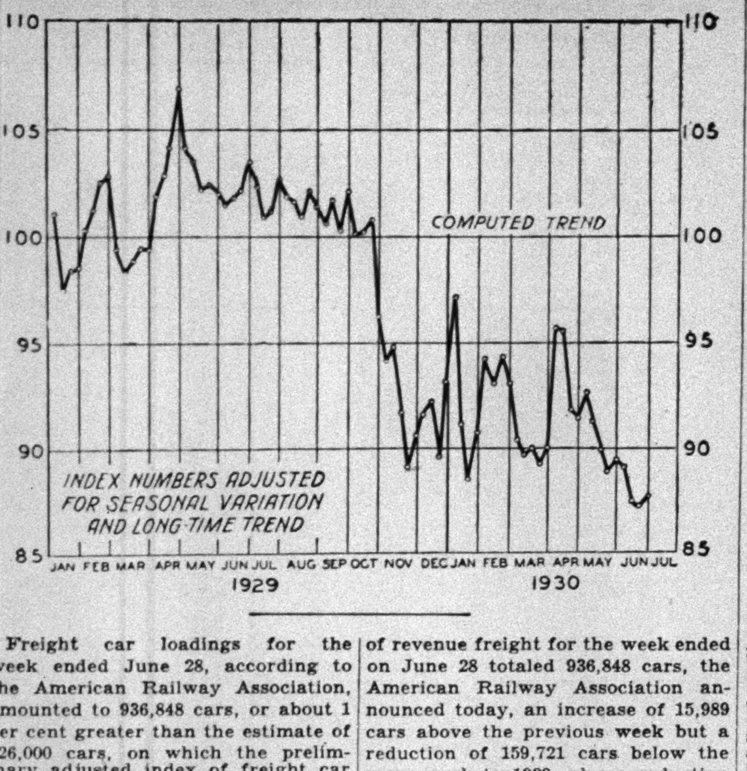
CITY RENEWS PIER LEASES.

Extends Contracts on Two North River Properties.

The lease of Pier 42, North River, at the foot of Morton Street, made by the city of New York to the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, David Inglis Conradi, secretary, has been renewed for a term of ten years from Aug. 7, 1930, the annual rental being $75,422.72, as shown by papers filed yesterday in the Register's office.

The city has renewed the lease of Pier 65, North River, to the Panama Railroad Company, T. H. Rossbottom, vice president, for five years from May 13, 1930, the annual rental being $64,460.

Car Loadings Up 15,989 in Week Ended June 28; Total of 936,848 Brings Small Gain in Index



Freight car loadings for the week ended June 28, according to the American Railway Association, amounted to 936,848 cars, or about 1 per cent greater than the estimate of 926,000 cars, on which the preliminary adjusted index of freight car loadings was based. The revised index is 87.7, as compared with 87.2 for the week ended June 21 and 103.5 for the week ended June 29, 1929.

The revision of the car loadings index, although it changes a slight decline from the index for the previous week into a moderate increase, does not change the direction of the combined index of business activity, which, on the basis of the sevision, now stands at 89.8 as compared with 90.1 for the week ended June 21 and 106.7 for the week ended June 29, 1929.

In view of the sharp curtailment now being made in automobile production, which will undoubtedly bring about a further decline in loadings of miscellaneous freight, the indications are that the upturn in the freight car loadings index does not represent the beginning of definite improvement in the volume of freight traffic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended on June 28 totaled 936,848 cars, the American Railway Association announced today, an increase of 15,989 cars above the previous week but a reduction of 159,721 cars below the same week in 1929, also a reduction of 66,851 cars under the same week in 1928. Increases were reported in all commodities except merchandise in less than carload lots, forest products, ore and livestock.

MACHINERY TRADE QUIET.

Last Week's Business Smallest So Far This Year.

A short week occasioned by Independence Day and general business quietude, combined with the usual Summer slackness, contributed to making last week the smallest so far this year as far as demand in the nation's machinery and machine-tool markets was concerned, according to the weekly review of American Machinist. The review says in part:

"Inquries are slow and the used-tool market shares the quiet of that for new tools. Prices, however, are being maintained and deliveries are better than they have been for many months.

"New York reports no additional lists and little business during the week. New England sales of road-building and construction machinery are good, but most other lines are very slow. Buffalo orders are scattered, but a few inquiries are beginning to come in and optimism is not lacking.

"Sales in the Cincinnati area continue sluggish. Four lathes were sold to Holland and a fair-sized list of inquiries were received from the War Department for Wright Field. Chicago dealers place June behind May in point of sales volume, and present inquiries received there are only for single tools.

"Indianapolis reports the bulk of a small volume of sales during the week went to industrials, but orders for construction machinery have been the season's high spot in that territory. Southern district orders were satisfactory, according to report, but comparative quiet ruled throughout the district."

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Light lights sold at $9.50 to $9.85, lightweights $9.60 to $9.85, heavies $9 to $9.50, with the bulk of sales at $8.70 to $9.60.

A dull lower market featured heavy cattle, with receipts 5,000 and 8,000 expected tomorrow. Light yearlings were in better demand at stronger prices, with a top of $11.50, against $12.25 yesterday, with the bulk of steers at $9 to $10.25.

Fat lambs declined 15 to 25 cents, the top being $11.10, and the average $10.25, the same as a week ago. Western sorted lambs sold at $11 and natives at $10.50 to $10.75. Sheep were scarce at a range of $2.25 to $3.50. Receipts were 10,000, with estimates of 12,000 for tomorrow.

LULL IN HARDWARE TRADE.

Unfavorable Basic Conditions Intensify Seasonal Dullness.

All the leading hardware market centres of the country appear to have entered the customary Summer lull, according to the weekly review of Hardware Age. It is stated that to the seasonal dullness are added rather unfavorable basic conditions.

"Wholesalers in most market centres report that sales totals for the first half of this year compare fairly favorably with the same period of 1929, although the average is somewhat below last year's level," says the Age.

"Seasonable merchandise constitutes the larger bulk of the business at the present time. Staple merchandise is moving in a steady flow, but the volume is somewhat limited. Trade in builders' hardware and tools is rather dull. Future orders for Fall and Winter lines are being booked by wholesalers in some territories and a fair amount of business has been taken.

"Prices show very little change and few major revisions are deemed likely, as present prices are considered to have reached the approximate bottom. Reductions which have been made since this time last year in many important hardware lines have made present prices about 10 or 12 per cent below those prevailing a year ago. Collections are reported slow in some sections and fair in others. Dealers, in scattered instances, assert that outstanding accounts are proving a burden."

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Practically all New York refiners entered the raw sugar market yesterday for small supplies. One lot of Philippine Island sugar due July 21 was sold at 3.30, a second due on the same date was sold at 3.28 and a third due at the end of July was also sold at 3.28. Cuba ex-stores sold at 3.28 for two lots and at 3.27 for one lot.

Refined sugar was unchanged, the refiners quoting 4.70 cents. The futures market was extremely weak, all positions except July, 1930, which is in the process of liquidation, reaching new lows. Three notices were issued on No. 2 contracts, but were taken up before the close. Total of sales, all on No. 1 contract, reached 44,300 tons.

Slight Gain in Buyers Here.

A slight gain in the number of buyers in the market during the past week was shown in comparison with the figures of the preceding week. The total, however, fell behind the number registered for the same period last year, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. For the week just ended 556 buyers were listed, as against 523 in the preceding week and 654 in the corresponding week a year ago. Yesterday's registration of buyers showed a large increase over a week ago, 361 being listed, as compared with 169 reported last Tuesday.

Cut China Prices Despite Tariff.

Enactment of the new and higher rates on china and earthenware has resulted in lower rather than higher prices in the cheaper lines of domestic made china, according to sales agents yesterday. The eagerness of domestic plants to book business, it was said, prompted them to establish new low prices on their cheapest lines immediately after the new law became effective. Some of the producers are selling thirty-two-piece dinner sets at $1.75, enabling the stores to retail them at $2.95. The average wholesale price at present is between $2 and $4 for low-end goods. Few orders have been booked so far.

Council Acts on "Market Week."

Approval of the plan of the entire membership of the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., in mass attendance at the "market week" discussion to be held on the evening of July 17 at the Hotel Astor, was given yesterday by the ways and means committee of the organization. Samuel Greenberg of Louis Greenberg & Brother, acting president of the council, will make an address at the meeting on the relationship of style creation to the present economic situation. The ways and means committee, together with representatives of the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers and the Garment Retailers of America, will serve as a reception committee to Senator Copeland, who will be a featured speaker.

Markdowns Spur Clearances.

Reports here yesterday indicate that retailers have been making headway in their clearances of Summer merchandise. Strong pressure is being put forth to clean out stocks, particularly slow-moving types, and accordingly much of the turnover is being obtained at the expense of quite heavy markdowns. The saving element in the situation, however, it was pointed out, is the comparative lightness of the supplies on retailers' shelves. With the completion of inventories, buying budgets for the coming season are being prepared by the controllers and merchandise executives for operations during the period directly ahead.

Braided Belts Feature Furnishings.

The large response being accorded the braided leather belt seems to be the outstanding feature of the men's furnishing trade at the present time. One manufacturer reports that he is eight to ten days behind on deliveries. His model is an 8-strand one, in black and white and brown and white, in fast colors, with ends of genuine leather. Pigskin belts are also attracting considerable interest. Another model which is extremely popular is the two-toned belt, in either black or brown, with an inlay and a double-pronged buckle.

Popular Price Coats Nearly Ready.

Lines of popular and medium price coats for Fall are being completed and representative offerings will be ready for buyers here next week, it was stated yesterday. Both in fabric and trimmings used, the new lines represent improved values, according to manufacturers. The silhouette in general will follow that featured in the higher-price models, with emphasis on the semi-fitted and slightly flared types. Diversification of styles will be afforded by the showing of some bolero, cape and blouse effects. But few buyers of medium-price coats have operated as yet, and the trade anticipates the next two weeks will see considerable business placed for August sales.

Lower Prices on Novelty Pillows.

Fall lines of novelty pillows and cushions will be marketed at lower-price levels than obtained during the Spring, according to reports in the trade yesterday. Manufacturers are now completing their lines for the inspection of buyers due in the market next month. The popular wholesale price in the season just closed was around $24 per dozen. In the new lines similar goods will be available at $22.50 or $22.75 per dozen. Producers are still uncertain as to the colors which will prove most acceptable.

Black Leads in Women's Fall Shoes.

Black continues to be strongly emphasized in the business placed in women's shoes for Fall. Estimates made yesterday indicate that retailers will place from 55 to 60 per cent of their orders for black shoes, with particular emphasis on kid and dull kid styles. Orders are well distributed over strap, pump and oxford models. At the moment only a "fair" quantity of business is being placed in reptile shoes, although this percentage may be larger with the advance of the season. The trade is watching with interest the trend to lower heels and also the increasing popularity of the modified last.

Drapery and Curtain Buyers Active.

Orders for Fall drapery fabrics for later delivery were booked by a number of local selling agents yesterday from group buyers and representatives of individual stores. Manufacturers and converters in the curtain trade also experienced an increase in business, although they admit that orders received have been for limited quantities. Buyers, they say, are sampling a large number of different patterns and will not purchase their regular Fall allotments until late next month.

Gray Goods Market Quiet.

Trading was very quiet in the gray goods market yesterday. Buyers refused to show any interest in goods and purchased only on a small basis for quick delivery. Prices were reported to be slightly uncertain, but, on the whole, maintained the previous day's level. In standard print-cloths a few orders were forthcoming for 38½-inch 60-48s at 4¾ cents. Trading in 38½-inch 64-60s was dull at 5⅛ cents. Some interest was manifested in 39-inch 68-72s, which ranged between 6¼ and 6⅜ cents. Sheetings and drills were reported quiet.

PLAN BIG BUILDING ON WEST 12TH ST.

DEAL IN WEST 15TH STREET

Flat House Is Purchased and Immediately Resold—Other Sales in Manhattan.

Properties in the Fourteenth Street area and in the sections just to the south were in demand yesterday. Among the buyers were Bing & Bing, operators and builders, who purchased 59-69 West Twelfth Street, consisting of three residences and the five-story Governor Apartments. The property is 108 by 103 feet and is between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, directly opposite the structure being erected by the New School for Social Research.

The Bing interests have bought the site for a large apartment house development. Spear & Co. were the brokers in the deal.

John P. Finneran, operator, purchased from the Hagrand Realty Corporation the six-story apartment house at 360 West Fifteenth Street. The house is a new-law building on a plot 50 by 100 feet and faces the site of the proposed Port Authority freight terminal. It rents for $25,000 a year and was sold through Potter, Hamilton & Co., brokers. Mr. Finneran immediately resold the property through the same brokers to Malvina Hogue.

The property at 629-631 East Twelfth Street was sold by William O'Hagan to Albert Harris. The sale was made subject to a first mortgage of $14,125 through Harris Brown, associated with Henry Merritt and the Charles F. Noyes Company.

On the lower east side, J. Hoffman & Son, as brokers, sold for Minnette Klingenstein the six-story apartment house at 139 Second Avenue. The buyer is the Wiesner Realty Company, Inc., which owns the adjoining corner building at 141 Second Avenue and now controls a plot 70 by 120 feet at the southwest corner of Ninth Street and Second Avenue. This was the first sale of 139 Second Avenue in twenty-six years.

Joseph Rabinowitz and Sadie Schiller sold the four-story double tenement house at 335 West Fifty-fourth Street, 19 by 100 feet, to the Fentris Realty Company, which owns the adjoining properties on the west, at 329, 331 and 333 East Fifty-fourth Street, completing a plot 82 by 100 feet. Andresen & Bremer acted as brokers.

COL. DEEDS INSTALLS AIRPLANE ON YACHT

New Million-Dollar Lotosland Has an Amphibian Stowed on Fore Deck.

WILL BE COMMUTING AID

206-Foot Private Craft Also Has Machine Gun and Trap-Shooting Gear in Equipment.

The new $1,000,000 Diesel yacht Lotosland, recently built for Colonel Edward A. Deeds, vice president of the National City Bank, is scheduled to introduce a combined yacht-airplane service to private boat owners. The yacht was taken to Bridgeport, Conn., Monday afternoon to have a Sikorsky amphibian plane added to her equipment. Completed at Wilmington, Del., a few days ago, the vessel stopped at the Shewan plant of the United Dry Docks, Inc., in Brooklyn, en route to Connecticut.

The overall length of the new yacht is 206 feet and the beam 28 feet. The plane which was installed yesterday has a wing spread of 38 feet, and will extend ten feet beyond the foredeck, where it will be carried. It will be loaded on and off the Lotosland by a special boom attached to the foremast, as there is not sufficient room for a catapult like those used by passenger liners which furnish an air service. Colonel Deeds plans to use the plane in commuting between yacht and shore and for short trips from the yacht. The amphibian is described as a four-seater with a 400-mile flying radius.

Officials of the Shewan plant who visited the yacht spoke highly of it. Among its features is an electric cooling unit which maintains any desired temperature in the cabins. The gymnasium includes an electric horse and an electric vibrator and other apparatus. On the stern is a trap box from which clay pigeons may be sprung by the crew for guests interested in trap-shooting, and on the bow are two guns, a one-pounder and a machine gun, for the entertainment of guests whose interests are military.

The yacht has two 500-horsepower Winton Diesels which permit a speed of twelve knots. Captain F. L. Iverson of Brooklyn, in command of the Lotosland, has had considerable sea experience with the United American Line as well as on yachts.

Colonel Deeds is chairman of the United Aircraft and Transport Company, whose interests cover every detail of flying, from the construction of motors and planes to the operation of commercial lines.

Muenchen to Be Renamed Steuben.

BREMEN, July 8 (AP).—The North German Lloyd Line, with the approval of the municipality of Munich, decided to change the name of the liner Muenchen, which is now being rebuilt after having burned and sunk at her New York pier. She had been named for the city. In commemoration of the forthcoming centenary of General von Steuben the Meunchen will be known as the Steuben.

1,500 PAY TO SEE BRITANNIC.

Despite the admission fee of $1 charged to visitors to the new White Star liner Britannic, it was estimated that about 1,500 persons called yesterday and inspected the sleeping quarters and public rooms. In addition, several hundred persons visited the ship as guests of the line.

The visitors were taken through the ship by stewards and those who used the lounge and smoking rooms were entertained by the ship's orchestra. Among the visitors was Pierre de Malglaive, vice president of the French Line, who will return to France in September to become second in command of the French Line's world-wide organization. Mr. Malglaive was outspoken in his praise of the new ship.

The freight department of the International Mercantile Marine Company, agents of the White Star Line, will take command of the ship today and will have as guests shippers from various parts of the country. The liner will sail Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock on her return trip to England.

LINER'S PLANE DELAYED.

Craft With Mail Will Not Leave Ile de France at Sea Till Today.

Plans to catapult an airplane from the decks of the French liner Ile de France yesterday afternoon were changed and officials announced that the plane, carrying mail, would leave the ship early this morning bound for New York. The Ile de France is due at Quarantine about 9 A. M. and the plane will deposit mail here about four hours ahead of the ship, it was said.

The original announcement, made when the Ile de France left Havre last week, said that the plane would carry passengers from the liner while at sea. This arrangement would have cut a day from the Atlantic journey, if successful. Reasons for abandoning the plan for carrying passengers were not announced.

FIRM HERE GETS SHIP WORK

Federal Company Will Rebuild 5 Baltimore Line Vessels.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 8.—The Federal Shipbuilding Company of New York has received contracts for rebuilding the five vessels with which the Baltimore Mail Steamship Company will begin weekly transatlantic passenger and freight service next Spring, it was announced today by John M. Franklin, executive vice president of the new line.

The bid of the Federal Shipbuilding Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, was the lowest. The reconditioning will require about ten months and entail an expenditure of about $7,000,000.

New Beacon for Virgin Islands.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A new light is being established at Southwest Cape, in the Virgin Islands, the Lighthouse Service of the Department of Commerce announced today, and will be of benefit to the recently established American flag steamship service between New York and the lower Windward Islands. St. Croix is the southernmost of the Virgin Islands and on the route of vessels passing to the eastward of Porto Rico bound for ports on the north coast of South America. The new light is three miles from Frederiksted, the principal port of the island, at which all steamers stop.

MERCHANTS' BOOKLET EXPLAINS TARIFF RULES

Association Here Compiles Data on Administration of New Customs Law.

An analysis of the customs administrative provisions of the new tariff act has been made by Benjamin A. Levett, chairman of the committee on customs service and administration of the Merchants' Association of New York, and has been placed at the disposal of the association for distribution. The analysis covers practically every section in which a change has been made, though no attention is paid to the rate schedules or the free list with the exception of two paragraphs on exemption of passengers' baggage and on antiques.

Mr. Levett discusses these details as follows:

"This paragraph is 1,789, which permits the free entry of personal effects of persons arriving in the United States. The exemption of $100 permitted returning residents of the United States is still retained, but a proviso is added 'that a resident of the United States shall not take advantage of the exemption herein granted within a period of thirty days from the last exemption claimed.' It should also be noted that foreign residents who bring in more than $300 worth of jewelry and similar articles of personal adornment shall be liable for the regular duty on such articles if they are sold within three years after the date of arrival."

"In this section appears a provision in regard to antiques. Paragraph 1,811 provides for the free entry of works of art and artistic antiquities produced prior to the year 1830. The section under discussion provides that furniture described in Paragraph 1,811 must enter the United States at ports designated by the Secretary of the Treasury for this purpose. The section also provides that if any article described in Paragraph 1,811, and imported for sale, is rejected as to authenticity in respect to the antiquity claimed as a basis for free entry, a duty of 25 per cent of the value of such article in addition to any other duty imposed upon the article must be paid, unless the article is exported under customs supervision. It should be observed that this applies only to articles which are imported 'for sale.'"

SECOND CABIN TRAVEL UP.

Gain Over Last Year, Especially in June, Hailed by Cunard Line.

The demand for second cabin accommodations has been a feature of the transatlantic travel this season, especially in June, according to D. F. White of the Cunard Line.

"For the month of June last year," he said, "we carried 1,608 passengers in second class aboard the Berengaria, Mauretania and Aquitania from New York to European ports, compared with 1,669 passengers carried in June, 1930. This represents a gain of sixty-one passengers for the month. The last four sailings of the month showed the even more notable gain of 183 passengers. The same ships made the same number of sailings on practically equivalent dates during June in 1929 and 1930.

"We have been very interested to notice the gain in the second cabin figures. We believe that it portends a definite come-back for this class, which had suffered a slight eclipse during the past few years."

TRAVELERS—AHOY!

WORLD'S LARGEST CABIN LINER

THE NEW BRITANNIC

MAIDEN VOYAGE TO EUROPE JULY 12

Look her over, please. What a ship! Brand new and glad of it. Big and capable—and knows it. Lots of swank—and shows it. Largest Cabin liner afloat. Already a success on the Atlantic. Hugely popular with those who crossed on her maiden trip from Europe. In terms that glow, they speak of the Britannic. You should hear them. Broad decks? "You should see the Britannic's." Cuisine? "Let's all troop down to dinner." Service? "Home never was like this." Staterooms? "Just like a metropolitan hotel." Speed? "Silk could be no smoother." Low rates? "How do they do it, anyway?" And so they talk, the folk who know their ships. Are you going this Summer? Take their advice—cross on the new Britannic, alternating with the Adriatic, Baltic and Cedric in weekly service to Cobh (Queenstown) and Liverpool.

SOME OTHER BRITANNIC FACTS—Tile swimming pool, deck tennis courts, children's playrooms, gymnasium, veranda cafes, etc. ▼ ▼ Magnificent public apartments . . . unusually spacious staterooms . . . Capacity for 1550 passengers in Cabin, Tourist Third Cabin and Third Class. ▼ ▼ Will make two 46-day Mediterranean Cruises, sailing January 8 and February 26, 1931.

All this Thrill -- with Safety

THE voyageurs in birch canoes once shot these rapids at risk to life and limb. Indians headed for the trading post at Montreal would brave a roaring torrent in the gathering dusk rather than sleep with the fear of facing it at dawn. But today everybody shoots the rapids in safety.

Black rocks, like tusks in the foaming mouth of a mad dog, still threaten as of old, but a deep channel—known only to experienced pilots—carries your ship through without the slightest danger.

You board the S.S. "Rapids King" or "Rapids Prince" at Prescott, Ontario, and in a nine-hour sail shoot a series of eight rapids to the still waters of Montreal Harbour. This is but one feature of your trip from Niagara to the famous Saguenay River.

IMPORTANT—Our ships sail from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon, nearly 2000 miles of beauty and grandeur. The river varies from roaring rapids to a vast expanse of blue water 18 miles wide. Steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

July 11th and every Tuesday and Friday during July, August and September

Next—on your way by De Luxe motor bus to cool mountain breezes and breath-taking views surrounding Hollywood Hills.

Arrive Old Forge, New York, next afternoon.

Our offices will be open for personal visits or telephone reservations every evening until 9 P.M.

"Friendship Tour to Hollywood Hills exceeded expectations. Wonderful Hudson River Boat and Bus Ride. Hollywood Hills itself gem of trip. Wooded mountains, lakes make this one of America's beauty spots; cool and invigorating breezes have put new life into us all. Every one had the time of their lives. Hate to leave. Tour worth many times small cost—management, service and meals excellent." W. C. Haefli
Hollywood Hills in the Adirondacks, June 29, 1930.

So wires the spokesman for the first party of 22 to make this Tour, and this is what we offer:

You board a commodious steamer of the famous Hudson River Night Line . . . steam north under the magic spell of moonlight . . . see the scenic wonders of the Hudson from a cushioned deck chair and restful sleep after 10.00 p. m. in the berth of a fine steamer . . . disembark at Albany . . . slip deep into leather cushions in a luxurious bus more palatial than a Pullman . . . speed on a ribbon of concrete through some of the finest scenery in all New York . . . then draw up to a setting of superb natural beauty, where Hollywood Hills, the coming Riviera of the North Woods, is rapidly assuming form under the guiding hand of a master builder.

For a care-free day you revel in the coolness and stillness of pine-clad mountains . . . rest and relax in the idyllic calm of peaceful seclusion . . . cruise leisurely in a motor boat past cozy cottages and velvety lawns, with a rugged expanse of forested hills for a background. You may wish to be alone or you may like to join with the party on sightseeing trips on land or by motor boat on the lakes. There is something to do provided for every hour of the Tour and we believe you will be just as satisfied as the members of our first and second Tours. However, our Tours are limited as to number, we therefore suggest that you make your booking for July and August Tours now.

Sponsored by the founders of Hollywood Hills, this Friendship Tour . . . or series of them . . . has no strings attached. There is no obligation to invest intended or implied. They are gala outings for folk worn weary by the heat. The publicity value of your visit compensates us for our share of the cost.

The price effective July 15 will be $24.75, but to those who actually book and pay for their Tour on or before July 15, for any of our Tours during July, August or September we will allow the initial price of $21.00. You can save $3.75 per person by booking in advance—now.

ABUSE OF WORKERS IN CLINICS CHARGED

GROUP TO COMBAT EVILS

Vincent Astor Heads Committee on Compensation Cases, Which Will Seek $100,000 for Work.

Serious neglect of workers injured in accidents in this city, often leading to unnecessary amputations, was charged yesterday at a meeting of city hospital representatives held under the auspices of the City Club of New York, 55 West Forty-fourth Street.

Unscrupulous lawyers, incompetent doctors and insurance companies more eager to save money than treat the injured person fairly were held the three chief factors responsible for this "shameful condition" by hospital presidents, physicians and representatives of industrial commissions at the meeting.

It was urged that responsible, disinterested and efficient care by leading hospitals be given instead of "dumping" many hospital cases into commercial or insurance company clinics.

Workers injured in New York City are allowed to stay in a disinterested hospital only so long as it is utterly impossible to remove them to cheaper places, generally an insurance company clinic, it was charged.

Hospital Heads Cite Cases.

Several hospital heads, who wished their names withheld, explained that they had been frequently criticized by insurance companies because they refused to permit the removal of a patient from a hospital sickbed to an insurance clinic, deeming such removal harmful to the patient. In other cases, where such removals were made, it was later discovered by the hospital authorities, they said, that an amputation had been performed "because that was the cheaper than keeping a worker from his job and in a sickbed long enough for a complete medical cure."

The formation of a committee on hospital compensation cases, with Vincent Astor as chairman, was authorized by the meeting. Howard S. Cullman, president of Beekman Street Hospital, who presided at the meeting, appointed the following committee members to assist Mr. Astor:

DEAN SAGE, Presbyterian Hospital.
VICTOR RIDDER, State Board of Social Welfare.
HAROLD LEHMAN, Montefiore Hospital.
PERRY D. SAYLOR, Flower Hospital.
JAMES SPEYER, Mount Sinai Hospital.
WALTER E. FREW, Knickerbocker Hospital.
F. C. TOWNSEND, president Staten Island Hospital.
CHARLES A. LENT, Methodist Episcopal Hospital.
RICHARD CHILDS, City Club of New York.
General GEORGE WINGATE, St. John's Hospital.
STEPHEN BAKER, St. Luke's Hospital.
FRANK MANVILLE, Fifth Avenue Hospital.
Mother MARY DIONYSIA, St. Vincent's Hospital.
STUART CHASE, the Labor Bureau.
Miss JANE HOEY, Welfare Council of New York.
JOHN B. ANDREWS, American Association of Labor Legislation.

A campaign for $100,000 to subsidize a three-year experimental plan will be made. The fund will be used to establish a compensation advisory service for hospitals, which would be a cooperative enterprise by hospitals of New York State which include the treatment of industrial cases. If at the end of the three-year period the bureau proves effective in dealing with the "muddled" workmen's compensation cases, it is to be established on a permanent basis, supported cooperatively by the hospitals of this city.

To Begin at Once.

The committee is to begin organization immediately, with offices at 331 Madison Avenue. The committee grew out of a preliminary study and report made under the auspices of the City Club. It will make a general survey of all the hospitals in this city to ascertain the practicability of establishing a uniform schedule of rates for workmen's compensation cases in private institutions. Five immediate questions to be considered in the committee's survey of New York City hospitals are:

1. The cost to private hospitals of caring for workmen's compensation cases.
2. The average amount outstanding on workmen's compensation cases and the methods and time of payments to the private hospitals by insurance carriers.
3. The transfer of compensation cases from one institution to another and the reasons therefor.
4. The cases that remain under treatment of a physician or surgeon when they become ambulance cases.
5. The reference of ambulance cases to commercial or insurance company clinics, where interested parties are suggesting treatment of the patients and therefore appearing before the Compensation Commission not in a neutral capacity to testify.

Mr. Cullman, F. C. Townsend, head of the Staten Island Hospital; Thomas J. Curtis of the New York State Industrial Commission and other speakers urged the need for concerted action by hospitals in New York State to obtain increased compensation from insurance companies for service to patients protected by the workmen's compensation law. In most private institutions in this city the cost of taking care of an injured patient is about $7 a day, it was pointed out, whereas the return to the hospital is only $4.

Says Hospitals Bear Part of Cost.

"Private hospitals in this city are today taking compensation cases more or less as charity work," Mr. Cullman declared. "They receive from the insurance companies only about 60 per cent of the actual cost of workmen's compensation cases referred to them for bed care. The result is that charity organizations and the public must be called upon each year to make up the difference."

Fire Truck, Hit by Van, Chases It And Driver Gets 16 Days in Jail

Thomas Donovan, 34 years old, of 631 De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn, carelessly drove his moving van into Hook and Ladder 11 of the Fire Department at Stanton and Sheriff Streets yesterday and then drove off at top speed. The fire truck pursued him for nearly a mile before he was overhauled at Montgomery and Madison Streets.

In Traffic Court Magistrate Renaud sentenced Donovan to pay a $100 fine or spend ten days in jail for leaving the scene of an accident, $10 fine or three days for driving without a license, and $10 or three days for failing to give way to fire apparatus. Donovan could not pay the fines, so he went to jail.

NEPHEW FIGHTS WILL OF BERNHARD KUPFER

Milton P. Kupfer, attorney, who received only $5,000 of the estate, valued at $750,000, of his uncle, Bernhard Kupfer, manufacturer, is suing to invalidate the will on charges of fraud and undue influence. This was learned yesterday when he asked Surrogate Foley to appoint a temporary administrator for the property, pending the outcome of the action. Decision was reserved.

Bernard Kupfer, a childless widower of 66 and former head of the Kupfer Brothers Company, 2 Astor Place, died on Feb. 9, leaving most of his estate to his brother, Louis Kupfer of Chicago, and his cousin, Berthold Kaufman of Nuremberg, Bavaria, Germany, whom he named executors. The nephew accuses Louis Kupfer of inducing his uncle to draw the disputed document in this manner.

The brother, in asking for dismissal of the application, denies the charges, declaring that in six earlier wills he was named residuary legatee, while the nephew was never named to receive more than $5,000. He also asserts that the value of the estate is about $230,000 and that the testator gave him about $350,000 in securities shortly before his death.

The nephew told the court that both the executors were non-residents and that this was one reason why an administrator should be named. Another reason, he said, was the alleged transfer of the $350,000 in securities and the fact that he was not cited in the probate proceedings when the will was filed. The uncle replied that the affairs of the Kupfer Brothers Company, of which he is vice president and a director, required him to spend much of his time in this city.

HITS MARRIED TEACHERS.

Philadelphia Petition Asks Their Removal to Place 1,000 Unwed.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8 (AP).—A petition that married women employed in the public schools of Philadelphia as teachers "whose husbands are earning a proper livelihood" be dismissed next Fall to provide positions for the "nearly 1,000 unmarried teachers in this city" was presented to the Board of Education today.

The petition was presented by the Active Workers' Association of the Order of Independent Americans and says it represents 15,000 citizens.

"We earnestly request the removal at the end of the school term of such married teachers," says the petition, "for the reason that it is not fair to the parents who made sacrifices to have their daughters receive teachers' diplomas which really mean nothing on account of present conditions."

MIAMI, Fla., July 8 (AP).—Two new charges of perjury were filed today against Al (Scarface) Capone as the Chicago racketeer's attorneys completed their defense for a trial of two other charges scheduled to open in Criminal Court here tomorrow. The new charges were based on information filed by County Solicitor George McCaskill to substitute for two perjury counts against Capone, quashed yesterday by Criminal Court Judge E. C. Collins.
